The health department said it was the practice of doctors involved to use the shotgun approach—a battery of tests for patients, then to virtually ignore the results except for the particular test in which they had an interest.

One out of eight persons in the free-borough New York City area is receiving some form of public assistance. The government—on the federal, state and local levels—spends $1 billion a month to care for New Yorkers on welfare.

In addition, the cost of their medical care runs to roughly $1.3 billion a year and is rising rapidly.

Berton Declares Canadians 'Gutless'

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (CP) — Author Pierre Berton said Wednesday that United States domination of Canada resulted because Canadians are "gutless."

Mr. Berton was speaking to 2,000 students, educationists, authors and publishers at Canada Day, sponsored by Port Colborne high school to promote Canadian literature and studies.

Mr. Berton said Canada is vastly different from the U.S. and Canadians should try to keep it that way.

"We are trying to keep up to the United States way of life and as it turns out they are bankrupt," he said.

European Customs Given In Traveller's Booklet

By DOR'S CLARK

"Mr. Burke" — He shines the shoes you leave outside your door every night, a custom not followed in North America. He should be tipped according to the length of your stay, figuring the equivalent of 1 cents per day, providing a charge has not already been added to your (European) hotel bill."

— Just one of many travel tips to be found in a handy little booklet Travel Information Bulletin sent to me by my favorite travel man. What's more, he will let me have more of them if my readers want this help.

Things about passports, customs, shopping, weather in far-off places are there. And in separate leaflets, "Packing Tips For Him", "Packing Tips for Her", and "What to Wear on a Cruise."

Send me large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, name which ones of the four you want, and enclose 25 cents to cover handling. And you are as good as on your way!

Dear Doris: Please forward the name of book and author referred to by "In Love With Life".

The appeal of this book to me is in the sentence: "This book is gradually showing me how to make life pleasant for everyone around me."

My husband and I are senior citizens and the above quotation is one of our main aims in our daily living and we have found: "Happiness is like a perfume; you cannot spill it on others without getting some on yourself." We do not practice the spreading of happiness with this benefit in mind, but this is what happens.

We enjoy your column, perhaps because we like people and appreciate the level-headed, sound and wise counseling you extend. — Also In Love — With Life

Dear Also: From the sound of you, you could write your own book about it. But then we all appreciate new inspiration from time to time. The information is on its way.

Dear Doris: I am looking for two old poems — Calvin's Courtship which has the lines: "And That was the end of my courting. You see, I had started wrong!"

And (2) When the Minister Comes to Tea, which has the lines: "Ma has on her best alpaca, and she's asking how it hangs." — Looking.

Dear Looking: Our library services draw a blank. Over to readers!

Dear Doris: I have received from the parents the announcement of their son's wedding. The parents and I are long-time friends — but the son I have met only once, when he was about 18 and now he is 27.

Do I acknowledge this to the parents or to the son By card of congratulations, or a gift. — What's Proper

Dear What's: It is only when you get invited to the wedding, and go, that a gift is the right thing to do.

But a note of congratulations and good wishes to the Bridegroom would make him feel good. He doubtless feels he knows you and also doubtless wants an acknowledgment of his new status by the client friends of his parents.

Pet Resemblances Offend Their Look-alike Owners

Dear Ann Landers: Please wallet after he had passed out. tell me how to get out of this. The other evening my husband and I were with a group of friends of long standing. I have always been comfortable with these people and didn't feel that I needed to weigh my words.

The conversation turned to Ann Landers' column and the "when-to-" said' she was amused at all the furor created by the cat-lovers' letters. Like haters. Then someone mentioned pets and I made the comment that I was amazed at how frequently people resemble their pets.

One of the women said, "Are you suggesting that I look like a Pekinese?" I replied, good naturedly, "As a matter of fact, by the time you do have a cute little pug nose, large, expressive brown eyes and sandy-colored, curly hair." The woman became insulted and I had to defend myself.

Did I say something that could be considered unflattering? I'll leave it to you.—Less Lip in Lubbock

Dear Lip: Funny you should have made that remark. I have often thought the same thing about myself. Anyone who doubts that made pets resemble their owners should stand on Michigan Avenue in Chicago and watch the dog-watchers. (P.S. I don't believe this is something they like to be told, however, so keep it to yourself.)

Dear Ann Landers: Please, please give that woman some help. I refer to the wife who felt guilty because she was "stealing" money from her husband's Al-Anon, because I know they do a remarkable job. I have recommended it in this space dozens of times and I will continue to do so. Thank you for suggesting Al-Anon for the woman who wrote. Your answer was better than mine.

Confidential to Inferiority Complex: A thoroughly competent waiter makes his patrons feel comfortable, not inferior. If the service was as poor as you described you should have left no tip rather than a very small one.

Hamilton To Recycle Metal Cans

HAMILTON (CP) — This city moved a step closer Wednesday to becoming the first Canadian municipality to have a system of recovering and recycling metal cans from household garbage.

Under the plan, the city will get cash from its trash. M and T Products of Canada has offered to buy all steel scrap separated magnetically from Hamilton's new solid waste reduction plant.

It estimates it will be able to reclaim about 6,000 tons of steel a year from municipal waste, including about 80 million used food and beverage cans. The city would get about $25,000 annually for it.

Board of control approved the M and T proposal Wednesday and it now goes before city council Jan. 16 for final approval.

K. M. Bethune of Toronto, a spokesman for the Metal Container Manufacturers' Advisory Council (MCMAC), said the reclamation and recycling of metal containers in Hamilton will be the first practical recovery and re-use of any waste material by a Canadian municipality.

Will Pay More

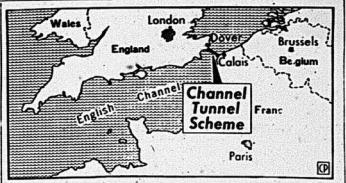
TORONTO (CP) — Shell Canada Ltd. of Toronto said Wednesday it will increase by 20 cents the price of a barrel of Western Canadian crude, in line with a similar increase announced Tuesday by Imperial Oil Ltd. of Toronto.

Off to Hanoi

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Andrew Brewin, chairman of Canada's foreign relations committee, is among an international delegation scheduled to leave Friday for a week in Hanoi to view the situation in North Vietnam, it was announced Wednesday. Brewin is a New Democratic Party member of Parliament for Toronto Greenwood. The delegation is headed by Bertil Zachrisson, Social Democratic member of the Swedish parliament and chairman of the Stockholm Conference for Vietnam.

Little Late

RECIFE, Brail (AP) — Josefa Margarida Maria da Silva, 100, and her consort, Jose Inacio da Silva, 71, got around to marriage Wednesday after 42 years together.



First Drink

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Robert Rutherford had a double scotch and water at Eddie Sargent's Black Knight lounge in the Downtowner Hotel Wednesday, the first legal ever-the-bar sale in the city in 67 years.

The lounge is the first to open in this city of 18,000 since residents voted wet in a plebiscite last May 13.

Pick Chairman

TORONTO (CP) — Judge Walter Little of Parry Sound has been appointed chairman of a tribunal to oversee bargaining rights of Ontario's 70,000 civil servants.

Break Possible

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuter) — Australia might break off diplomatic relations with France if that country continues testing atomic weapons over the Pacific, Australian Attorney-General Lionel Murphy said Wednesday.

A 140-year-old scheme to bore a tunnel under the English Channel, linking London and Paris, may become a reality within the next decade. A recent French-British announcement said the proposed tube would burrow 180 feet deep in the chalk below the channel seabed and run approximately 35 miles from near Dover on the English side to near Calais on the French side. British, French and U.S. financial houses are putting up money for the project, which is expected to cost $986.7 million, informed sources said. Target date for completion is 1980. (CP Newsmap)

Attend Conferences

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Of 156,377 foreign visitors to Peru in 1971, 43,986 were from the United States, the National Tourist Agency said. An increase of 17 per cent in the total number was attributed mainly to international conferences held here.

Water Rates

COVENTRY, England (CP) — Pensioner Audrey Braddock likes to have a clear conscience, especially when it comes to money. So when she started to extract water weekly from a nearby canal to fill her goldfish bowl, she wrote to Warwick water board demanding to pay a levy. Reluctantly, the board sent her a bill — £1 (about $2.40) for four years supply.

Quebec Argues Bell Really Appealing Ruling on Rates

OTTAWA (CP) — The Quebec government has challenged Bell Canada's application for an increase in telephone rates.

Raynold Langlois, lawyer for the Quebec government, suggested at a transport commission hearing Wednesday that, in effect, Bell is appealing a commission decision a year which gave the company a smaller rate increase than it requested.

The company is submitting a "disguised" application for review of rates — not a new application, Mr. Langlois said.

If the Quebec argument is accepted, Bell would have to seek a review at last May's decision in order to get the increased revenues it is requesting. It is seeking rate increases which would yield $26 million if in effect throughout 1973.

A rate review would be heard by a special committee of the transport commission under different rules than the more general rate increase inquiry.

The company would have to justify circumstances for seeking a revision of the rates allowed by the commission last May.

Mr. Langlois said that if the commission rejects his argument it should require Bell to set out clearly its policy on construction, the need for its research efforts, the impact of inflation in recent years on the company and investment in subsidiaries.

He said Bell applications are coming at shorter and shorter intervals.

Nothing new was being introduced by Bell. The company should be required to produce evidence that the situation had changed since the last decision.

It is split into requests for increases in 1972 and 1974. The 1973 application is being heard now with the 1974 request postponed to a later date.

Earlier, W. G. Graham, counsel for the Association of Ontario Municipalities, said the company's rate increase request is an attempt to pass on the cost of additional air-conditioner to the consumer.

The increases Bell wants include a flat five cents a month for all residence and hotel telephones, two cents more for direct-dialled long-distance calls, five cents more for those handled by operators and 10 cents more for person-to-person calls. There also would be a 50-per-cent increase in most service charges.

Punch-Line

SOLIHULL, England (CP) — Comedian Tony Kent didn't reach the punch line to one of his Irish jokes at a club in Warwickshire here hurly, disgruntled member of the audience jumped onto the stage, slapped C$ (about $40) in Kent's hand and warned: "No more jokes about the Irish." Obediently, Kent changed his tune to Scottish jokes. Afterwards he said: "I was dead scared. I'll give the money to charity as I don't want to meet that chap again to give it back to him."

No Alarm in Cockpit Before Plane Crashed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The sole survivor from the flight deck of a jetliner that went down in the Florida Everglades with the loss of 100 lives says he believes the cockpit crew died without knowing a crash was imminent.

"There was never any alarm or concern in the cockpit," Angelo Donadeo said from a hospital bed Wednesday. "I don't think anybody knew the crash was coming, even the captain."

Donadeo, 47, an Eastern Airlines technical specialist, survived along with 75 passengers and stewardesses when the Eastern Lockeed L-1011 Tri-Star crashed shortly before midnight Dec. 29.

Among those killed were pilot Robert Loft, co-pilot Albert Stockstill and flight engineer Donald Repo.

The plane's first approach to Miami International Airport had been aborted because a warning light indicated a landing gear malfunction.

While making a second landing approach, the airliner plunged into the murky waters of the Everglades 17 miles from the field.

Recalling the approach to Miami, Donadeo said: "All of a sudden Capt. Loft was coming into the airport and, reading the check list, found a discrepancy.

"It was the only discrepancy. A light indication that didn't agree with his landing gear. A bad lightbulb, bad circuitry or the gear was not down."

Donadeo said that moments before the crash he volunteered to help and joined Repo in the "hell hole," a compartment behind and below the cockpit.

Oil Inquiry Popular

WASHINGTON (CP) — The chairman of the U.S. Federal Power Commission (FPC) moves into the witness chair today as an unexpectedly popular Senate committee continues its wide-ranging inquiry into oil and gas imports.

Gen. George Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP), told the committee hearing that meetings were held between November, 1971, a n d December, 1972, to discuss President Nixon's proposals to lift import quotas on Canadian crude oil.

Interior Secretary Rogers Morton agreed that "we ought to give much higher priority to relations with Canada as far as our energy problem is concerned."

Tougher Takeover Curb Proposed by Gillespie

OTTAWA (CP) — Industry Minister Alastair Gillespie laid down a somewhat tougher policy Wednesday when he disclosed that the government will bring in a new version of a bill introduced last year to screen foreign takeovers of Canadian businesses.

He told the House of Commons the redrafted legislation will propose a new type of screening agency under a senior official who will report directly to the minister.

The bill, which died at dissolution last fall after being attacked by both Conservatives and New Democrats, would have required investors to file plans with a registrar in the industry department.

Mr. Gillespie said the new bill would be followed by regulations of new foreign investment in cooperation with the provinces, and by imposition of licence restrictions on transfers of technology into Canada.

A further measure, indicated in the throne speech last week, will require that directors in federally-incorporated companies to be Canadians.

Mr. Gillespie said the government considers foreign ownership a key issue and will not be rushed in dealing with it.

He said later it could be several years after establishment of a screening agency before the government starts regulating new investment from outside Canada.

The minister's speech was the major government statement of the day as debate continued on the speech from the throne.

John Diefenbaker, applauded by all members when he rose for his first major address in the new Parliament, appealed to New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis to review his decision to support the minority Liberal government until it has a chance to bring forward its legislative program.

The Commons must vote today on a Conservative motion of no-confidence in the minority Liberal government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the NDP stand was made in a statesmanlike way but the prime minister "threw it overboard" by declaring Monday that the government itself would decide which votes rank as tests of confidence.

The former prime minister, whose humor-spiced address was allowed by members to continue well past the 40-minute limit, closed by proposing wage and price controls to stem inflation.

Aboriginal land claims became a key topic of the day, raised first in question period and later by Wally Firth, a Metis elected as a New Democrat in the Northwest Territories.

Making his first Commons speech, Mr. Firth said the issue, of prime importance to native northerners, must be settled quickly.

Minutes later, he issued a news release saying he will ask the House Friday to set up a special committee to investigate the matter.

Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien, who touched on the subject briefly during question period, later said the aboriginal rights issue deserves a difficult matter to decide.

In dealing with it, the government will respect "the rights of the Crown" but also apply to natives but will also take into account native treaty claims.

Permanent Snowmobile Trails Are Suggested

PORT SYDNEY, Ont. (CP) — Legislature members investigating snowmobiles and all-terrain vehicles heard a suggestion Wednesday that the provincial government create new trail systems for snowmobiles much like the present highway systems.

One of two briefs by area snowmobile clubs in this community about 35 miles north of Orillia suggested the new trails might be used by trail bikes during the summer, doubling their recreational use.

One member of the select committee hears a slightly scraped leg as a memento of his first encounter with a snowmobile and three other MPPs were dumped.

Frank Drea, Progressive Conservative member for Scarborough Centre, received the scrape earlier at Haliburton when his machine flipped, ran over his leg and left him sprawling.

He was one of five committee members who came off second best in their initial drives. The incident convinced him that legislation should be enacted to make a one-hour instruction period mandatory.

"I don't know how we ever could have turned out a report on snowmobiles without having been on them," said committee chairman Alex Carruthers, PC member for Durham, who also rode into the snow.

Bud Germa, NDP member for Sudbury, blew a piston in his snowmobile, and Richard Ruston, Liberal member for Essex-East and George Nixon, PC Toronto Dovercourt, each recovered unscathed from spills.

Despite the mishaps, committee members went on a 15-mile train trip Tuesday and an uneventful 30-mile cross-country run Wednesday. Three of the five Wednesday were Mr. Drea, Mr. Ruston and Mr. Nixon.

Mr. Drea recommended that provincial instruction and testing centres be established for beginners at a nominal fee.

Ten committee members heard briefs from the Snow Drifters Snowmobile Club of Lindsay Carling, the Hill and Gully Riders from here and two motorcycle groups.

The 58-member Snow Drifters suggested that winter navigational lights be put on areas lakes and that land navigational aids be changed to be visible by night as well as by day.

Club spokesman Beverley Jobbins said that water agitators used around docks to prevent damage from ice are a real hazard since they cause open water, sometimes 200 feet in width—a danger to snowmobilers travelling on ice.

Lakeshore Regional Plan Hit

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner said Wednesday he has "grave reservations" about Ontario's Toronto-centred region plan.

"My fear is that it will simply transfer the congestion and sprawl along the lakeshore stretching from Oshawa through to Cobourg using some of our most valuable farmland for industrial and commercial purposes," he said.

This will lead to "forced urbanization of smaller towns while larger and established centres outside the development, like Peterborough and Lindsay, risk stagnation."

Mr. Faulkner who represents Peterborough in the Commons told the Lindsay Chamber of Commerce that loans, grants or tax concessions should be available to industry to locate in any established centre in the eastern Ontario region and not just along the shore of Lake Ontario.

Mr. Faulkner said the recently-announced Oshawa regional plan for Northumberland and Durham counties "does not make a great deal of sense," and would reinforce the errors of the Toronto region plan.

"My own view would be that we should be working toward a regional government arrangement that would bring North umberland and Durham counties in with Peterborough and Victoria (county)," he said.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1973

City Gets Tax Break

An Ontario Municipal Board decision may save Belleville taxpayers' money this year, but is sure to up Trenton taxes.

The OMB has decided to allow Belleville to implement a new equalization factor, awarded to the city in 1972, for 1973 as well.

The decision, received Monday, is the result of an appeal by the city, to the subject of an OMB hearing held here in November, 1972.

It means that Belleville will receive a credit for 1973 taxes this year of $38,000. Trenton, on the other hand, will be charged an extra $54,000 for school taxes.

Other municipalities that will be charged extra in the 1973 tax requisition for schools are Thurlow township (about $4,500), Sidney township (about $4,000), Hungerford (about $2,000) and Tyendinaga (about $1,300).

Charges in other municipalities range from $1 to the $200 to be requisitioned from Tweed.

An equalization factor, said Kenneth Wormald, business administrator for the Hastings county board of education, is a factor applied to the tax assessments to arrive at an equalized assessment across the province. When applied to a municipality, it makes its assessment comparable to others throughout the province. The factors are supplied by the Ontario government.

Belleville appealed the equalization factor assigned it by the province and early last year the factor was increased from 38.5 to 53.3.

"The higher the factor the lower the proportion of taxes the municipality pays," said Mr. Wormald, in telling the inaugural meeting of the board about the decision.

Belleville then decided to appeal to the OMB to have the new higher factor applied in 1971 as well as 1972. To this, the OMB agreed in its decision received here Monday.

"The adjustment (for 1971 taxes) will be included in the 1973 tax requisition," said Mr. Wormald.

Because the new factor will now be applied to 1971, it means, in effect, that Belleville overpaid its school taxes by $38,000 that year. Of this $38,000 coming back to the city in the form of a credit on the 1973 school tax requisition, $30,000 will be collected from the other municipalities in the county and about $20,000 will come from a provincial mill rate subsidy.

Fined $25

TRENTON — Theft of approximately $2.50 in gasoline from a Fox Cartage Truck Nov. 21 has cost a Trenton youth $25.

Steven Lewis Jelley, 18, of 2 George Street, pleaded guilty in provincial court Wednesday to a charge of theft under $200. Court learned Jelley found himself out of gas late that night and committed the theft, in the words of duty lawyer Bruce Karten "as almost a matter of necessity".

Chairman Takes Over

Mac Smith (left) took over as chairman of Hastings county board of education last night at the inaugural meeting of the new board for 1973. Handing him the gavel is director of education Eric Runacres, who presided for the early portion of the meeting. Mr. Smith replaces Donald Williams of Stirling.

Tribute Paid Fairman

Mac Smith Board Chairman

Mac Smith, a Belleville veteran of more than 20 years on school board, was last night elected chairman of the Hastings county board of education for 1973.

Mr. Smith has served on the county board since its inception in 1969 and is a past president of the Ontario Public School Trustees' Association. He has frequently acted as mediator in board - teacher disputes in other parts of the province.

Elected vice - chairman was Ralph Weaver of Trenton, also a county board member for the last four years.

Mr. Smith replaces Donald Williams of Stirling, chairman for the last two years. Mr. Weaver replaces the late Everett Fairman.

The inaugural meeting of the newly - elected board was held in the offices at 208 Bridge St. East last night, with director of education Eric Runacres, in his capacity as secretary to the board, presiding.

The invocation was given by Rev. John May of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling.

Decision on the composition of committees was deferred until the next meeting.

The board's one non - elected member, Carl Brant, was reappointed as a trustee by Chief Earl Hill of the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte, Tyendinaga Reserve.

At the beginning of the meeting, past chairman Donald Williams paid tribute to the late Everett Fairman and called for a minute's silence in his memory.

"All of us were saddened by the loss of a friend who served with us for four years as a fellow trustee," he said of Mr. Fairman. "There has developed a certain comradeship and fellowship among trustees and administrators that is deep, and sincere. Mr. Fairman was a man who was highly thought of by the community and the electorate."

Builder to Be Asked For Quality Guarantee

To allay suspicions of neighboring homeowners and doubts on the part of Belleville's mayor, definite quality restrictions are being placed on a proposed townhouse development for the East Hill.

Maurice Rollins Construction Ltd. has offered plans of using nearly five acres for a townhouse development, fringed on two sides by a residential strip.

The site is bounded on the north by Bridge Street East, to the west by Elizabeth Crescent and to the east by Haig Road.

The strip of 31 homes to be constructed, which members of the Subordinate Planning Advisory Committee termed as a "buffer zone between established residences and the townhouse development," would be of equal or greater value to the homes they would face on Elizabeth Crescent or Bridge Street, claims Maurice Rollins.

Mr. Rollins makes a similar claim that the 80 townhouse units would each sell for no less than $20,000.

Planning Director Mayor Jeffrey and of protesting neighbors, homeowners in the possibility of Mr.. Rollins receiving on his quality or cost basis.

In an earlier meeting, a delegation of homeowners walked out on Mr. Rollins before he had a chance to describe his intentions.

Mayor Jeffrey, asked the committee, "how can we be sure he will build townhouses of a certain value?"

Committee chairman, Alderman E. A. Orr, suggested that this question mark be dealt with in a written agreement with Mr. Rollins.

"If he disregards or reneges on past verbal and written commitments, we would be well within our rights to hold up a building permit," he said.

Additional leverage could possibly be applied by the city which still has not rezoned the area to allow for townhouse construction. Residential zoning is now on the property.

The committee, in a closing statement at last night's meeting in council chambers, scheduled a public meeting to clear up the misunderstandings.

"In fairness to Mr. Rollins and all the people involved, this meeting has to be held," said Alderman Paul Russell.

The meeting is set for 7:30 Jan. 31 in council chambers. All areas residents will be notified by mail of the meeting.

Witnesses Meet

Life can be more meaningful if people have goals and a sense of direction, assembly chairman John Didur said.

He said that belief in life after death was based on man's feeling of frustration at the shortness of life, and that the Bible gives sure hope of resurrection.

Judge Gets Tough in Trenton

TRENTON — As increasing number of break-ins in Trenton prompted provincial court Judge R. C. Jackson to announce a judicial crackdown on criminals appearing before his court.

Assistant Crown attorney Glen Deline told the court Wednesday a Trenton police detective stated there were 41 break - ins during a six-week period in November and December. At that time, town police, working with local RCMP, intensified efforts at cracking down on the crime wave.

There were 34 charges laid, ranging from armed robbery, break, enter and theft, to charges under the Narcotics Control Act. Police Chief David Saunders said the upsurge in crime was one of the worst in recent years and that many were drug-related.

During sentencing Wednesday of one of the youths charged at that time, plus a second youth, Judge Jackson told them: "We'll have to change things around this town a bit. Sixty - four break-ins in a period of half months, in a town of this size, is too much."

Both youths received terms amounting to approximately a year in reformatory.

The judge said he is reluctant in sentencing young offenders to jail terms, but "it's obvious the public needs some protection from this type of activity."

"Trenton is becoming a bad spot for break and enters and in some extent, shocking," he told the court.

According to his defence attorney, Peter Girard of Belleville, Paul Douglas McFarland 19, of 24 Ford Street, "went on a crime spree". McFarland pleaded guilty to 11 charges, including theft over $200 in Trenton, Belleville, and Oshawa, leaving the scene of an accident and possession of a credit card stolen from the scene of an accident on High way 401.

Court learned that McFarland went with up to three juveniles, went for joy rides in cars stolen from cars lots in Trenton, used the credit card to run up bills at a motel and service station in Oshawa, attempted to steal a camper van at Bayside, smelling for valuables bags and other equipment, and damaged a parked car in Oshawa, fleeing the scene after.

Deline said the five charges of break, enter and theft, charges of attempted break-in and one of possession of five grams of marijuana.

The break ins involved motorists — at Spar Gas Station, the China Gardens, and Fetzer Motors, Trenton Cleaners, Bayside Secondary School ($2,000 in stereo goods were stolen at the scene) and an attempt to enter Mac's Esso service station.

Court was told Gillette was convicted of possessing stolen goods and possession of narcotics on Oct. 4 given a two-year suspended sentence and placed on probation. "He must have gone out that night and done two break-ins," Judge Jackson said, referring to entry at the Spar Station and China Gardens, which occurred Oct. 4.

Mr. Deline said the "offences were fairly well planned and almost all were successful to some extent. There was considerable damage done."

Defence attorney Bruce Karten argued that Gillette was not the prime mover in any of them, though second person now awaiting trial organized most of the jobs. Mr. Karten did admit that placing his client on probation was not a sufficient deterrent, that closer guidance is necessary.

Gillette was sentenced to one year definite, six months indeterminate, plus a $103.50 fine for possession of marijuana — or a term of 18 days, to be served consecutively.

Two New Members Learn the Ropes

Two new members on the city Recreation - Arena Committee — Aldermen Jack Meeks and George Zegouras — were welcomed to the first meeting of the year Tuesday by Chairman Alderman Jean Sandow.

Introducing the new members, Chairman Smith outlined the function of the committee and the various programs and facilities offered.

This year's committee vice-chairman is S. B. Hancock. Other members are Chairman Smith, Aldermen Paul Russell, Jon Cox and Stu Meeks, Mrs. Joan Guthrie and George Zegouras.

Next week committe members and staff will be guests of the Belleville YMCA at a luncheon being held in conjunction with Y Week.

Mayor Fears Protests May Alienate Builders

Mayor Robin Jeffrey fears future co-operation between developers and the city will be jeopardized and perhaps absent if protests continue against the erection of a high-rise apartment building on the site of the soon-to-be-razed St. Agnes Manor.

Plans were reported last week of the Manor's owner to demolish the building and to construct in its place a 79-unit apartment complex.

Area residents, upset at the prospect of such a development, quickly banded together and circulated a petition asking for intervention on the part of the Ontario Municipal Board. In their petition they ask for a freeze on highrise building until total effects in the area could be established.

Mayor Jeffrey feels this move will alienate developers.

"They aren't objecting the apartment building . . . but its height . . . and they are asking the OMB to do something it can't," the mayor said.

Petitions ask that the building be restricted to three or four storeys, approximately equal to Bridge Street's tree line.

"If this protest continues the developers may get their backs up, digging any possible co-operation," said Mayor Jeffrey when he met with company representatives recently.

As city bylaws now stand, the developers may proceed with their plans.

"There is no reason I have found to revoke the building permit," the mayor said.

While Mayor Jeffrey believes co-operation is available between all involved parties, the instigators of the petition alleged "any modifications they are likely to make are minor and will not alter the fact this is going to be a-partment."

From her meeting with developers, the mayor said she felt "developers were co-operating as much as they could."

Trustee's Seat Remains Vacant

Hastings county board of education will remain one trustee short of its full 17-member quota until the next board meeting.

Trustees met for five minutes last night at their inaugural meeting, apparently to appoint a new trustee, but no announcement was forthcoming when they reconvened in public session.

Chairman Mac Smith said later that the decision on the appointment of the new trustee will be made at the next board meeting.

Under school board legislation, a trustee's post left vacant by death or resignation is filled by an appointee of the majority of the board. The death of Everett Fairman, who headed the trustee public in Belleville last month, leaves the board with one vacant seat.

The situation occurred once before in the four - year history of the Hastings board, when John O'Flyn resigned. A Belleville representative, he had moved to Prince Edward County and was no longer eligible to represent the city.

At that time, the board chose Norman McKibbon to fill the vacancy. A former member of the high school board, Mr. McKibbon had run for election to the county board and had been defeated. He polled the most votes of the defeated Belleville candidates.

Mr. McKibbon later ran successfully for board office and served during the 1971-72 term. He announced in November that he would not stand again for election. He gave as his reasons his 13 years of service on school boards and his belief that "new blood" should be infused into boards at regular intervals.

Only six candidates ran for the five seats assigned Belleville on the board. Michael Roberts, an Ontario School for the Deaf teacher, was the only newcomer elected. The defeated candidate was Donald Thrush, an accountant with the retail sales tax office in Belleville.

Farewell Fanfare

CFL Makes Rules Change

CHICAGO (CP) — Canadian Football League teams took advantage of a new league rule Wednesday and named two players from their home areas who will be exempt from the CFL draft of college graduates.

Greg Fulton, CFL secretary, announced the list of protected players when he handed it to him by officials of CFL teams who attended meetings here in conjunction with the American Football Coaches Association annual meeting.

Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders each selected only one player to protect from the draft and traded their second choices to other teams.

Winnipeg, after picking Ducarme on the choice of Ottawa, traded its first choice to Edmonton Eskimos who protected Rick McKay, a linebacker from North Dakota. The Blue Bombers' second choice was Simon Fraser tackle Roy Albertson.

The other teams' picks:

Calgary's selection of Forzani could lead to the first three-brother act in the CFL since the Stukus brothers played for Toronto in the early 1930s.

The CFL's regular annual draft of college players is set for Feb. 6 in Toronto.

Fulton confirmed earlier reports of other rule changes drafted at a rules committee meeting here. The changes require ratification by the CFL executive committee which meets Feb. 8 in Toronto.

Highlight of the rules changes was the decision to move the hash marks closer together, following a similar rule change in the National Football League last season.

Previously, the hash marks ran parallel to and 20 yards in from each sideline, leaving a 20-yard-wide zone down the middle of the field within which the ball was spotted for each down.

The new rule calls for the hash marks to be 24 yards from each sideline, creating a 17 yard-wide strip down the middle.

The change means that the ball will be put in play nearer the middle of the field, leaving more running room around the ends.

Fulton said other changes drafted deal chiefly with clarifying the word on some rules. Such is the one dealing with a player landing in bounds on a pass reception. The rule was clarified to read that, if in the judgment of the official, a player who appears to catch a pass and is knocked out of bounds when he would normally have landed in bounds, shall be deemed to have landed in bounds.

"He can run, hit and field," said Combs. "He has a lot of things going for him. I wouldn't be surprised if he makes it now."

If he does, he'll have to earn it. Signed as a shortstop, he'll be battling Larry Bowa, one of the slickest men in the majors at that position.

"Alan understands that," said Phillies farm director Dallas Green, "but he's willing to battle head-to-head."

Pitchers and infielders dominated the draft's opening round. Of the 24 first round selections, 13 were pitchers and seven were infielders including Wayne Benson of Del Rio, Tex., chosen by Chicago Cubs and listed as an infielder-outfielder.

A total of 250 players were selected with 148 picked in the regular phase and 102 in the secondary phase.

The oldest player chosen was pitcher Jim Johnson, a right-hander from Lemoke, Ark., selected by New York Mets. He was 21 last Aug. 23. 12 days before Bannister.

Free Agents Tapped

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's annual winter draft of free-agent prospects was about halfway through its opening round Wednesday when the conference telephone connection linking the 24 major league clubs broke down in Oakland.

When the man from the Athletics rejoined the conversation, he asked for a rundown of the half dozen or so selections he had missed. As Johnny Johnson, administrative assistant to commissioner Bowie Kuhn, reeled off the names, the Oakland man interrupted him with a puled question.

"How come," he asked, "I don't have any of these guys on my list?"

One guy on just about everybody's list was Arizona State shortstop Alan Bannister and Philadelphia Phillies, drafting first, claimed him in a hurry and then signed the youngster for "a substantial bonus."

Was it as substantial as the reported $100,000 the young shortstop turned down from California a few drafts ago?

"You can assume it's close to that," said Bannister.

Super Bowl VII
Teams Take Different Views

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Everybody has to be himself . . . it's nice to be the smoothest operator in the wild once in a while," said George Allen, chief cheerleader as well as head coach of Washington Redskins.

The self that is Don Shula, though, is more subdued.

"I can't see myself leading Larry Csonka in a rousing 'Hail to the Dolphins'," the Miami coach said Wednesday, taking a light poke at Washington's "Hail To the Redskins" fight song.

The quotations illustrate both a subtle and vast difference in the philosophy of these two National Football League coaches preparing their team for Sunday's Super Bowl VII at Memorial Coliseum.

The difference is not to be found on the field. It's in the locker rooms, before and after each game. Allen is an exponent of the rah-rah, fight-'em-fight style, a concept Shula doesn't follow.

"I like things that motivate men," says Allen, who believes that, along with his waves of players acquisitions through trades, his college-style people talks and cheers have enabled him to transform the Redskins from a ragged bunch of losers to National Football Conference champions with an 11-3 record in just two seasons.

"We had cheers in the locker rooms and signs, too; inspirational signs," he says of his collegiate coaching days at Morningside, Whittier, and Whittier, Calif. "And here, most of the players seem to enjoy it."

Shula didn't need Confetti and displays to help his team win the American Football Conference championship and attain the league's first perfect season in 30 years.

"We don't go for that rah-rah stuff," he says, rejecting the idea that cheers and slogans motivate players. Nor does he go in for jetting up newspaper stories quoting opposing players.

"It's a fun part of the game," says Redskins' running back Charley Harraway. "It's sort of built into the atmosphere."

"Yeah, it keeps us kind of loose," adds quarterback Billy Kilmer. "It's not really like college because there's so much more at stake, but it's still enjoyable."

But Larry Csonka, Miami's top running back, doesn't see it quite that way.

"We don't have to jump around and slap backs and all that," insists. "It's phoney enthusiasm.

Jim Kiick, another of Miami's runners, points out that Shula "is too businesslike for that sort of thing."

"We don't have to have individual leaders. We all believe in ourselves and know we can rely on each other.

"The coach is like that, too. He doesn't have to get us 'up' for a game. We can do that on our own."

Kelly Cuts Himself

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Playing coach Chuck Kelly removed himself from the ice and said Wednesday he will remain with Brantford Foresters of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series as a coach only.

By removing himself from the player roster, Foresters now have reached the league limit of 19 players.

Kelly was Brantford's leading scorer until he injured his shoulder six weeks ago. He hasn't played since.

The Foresters, in sixth place, also announced they had released forwards John Hall, John Gignac, Jack Powell and Steve Pettit along with defenceman Paul Chiarot.

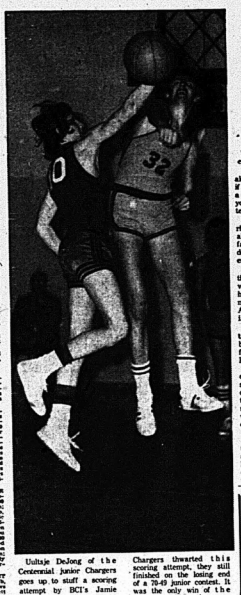
SPIEL EXTENDED FOR TV

EDMONTON (CP) — The influence of television has prompted officials of the Canadian Curling Association to extend the 1973 national championships here by one day. The schedule called for completion March 3 but the CBC obtained permission to televise the final match Saturday, March 10, for maximum exposure.



Ulatje DeJong of the Centennial Junior Chargers goes up to stuff a scoring attempt by BCI's Jamie Mason in Bay of Quinte COSSA basketball action Tuesday night. While the Chargers thwarted this scoring attempt, they still finished on the losing end of a 70-49 junior contest. It was the only win of the night for BCI as the green and gold teams won the midget and senior contests.

Quintes in Danger of Extinction

by

Eric Emerson

Sports Editor

Which came first, the chicken or the egg?

Lionel Body's question was along these lines: "I wonder if a good organization makes a good hockey team or if you start with a good hockey team and build from there?"

The question was strictly a rhetorical one, something along the lines of "do rabid fans create hustling hockey or does hustling hockey generate enthusiastic fans."

It's rhetorical because at this moment the city of Belleville does not have a good hockey organization. It does not have a good hockey team. And it does not have enthusiastic fan support.

A question that is not rhetorical, but one that may well be asked in the very near future is: "Who killed the Belleville Quintes?"

The future of senior hockey in Belleville is bleak," said a dejected Body, Tuesday. "This isn't a threat to try and get people into the rink, that sort of thing doesn't work. It's just a simple fact of life."

The Quinte Sports Foundation, conceived to promote sports, particularly senior hockey in Belleville, met Monday night to ponder the Quintes' future. According to officials the club is "just about at the break even point. Maybe a little bit in the hole."

While the Quintes are financially solvent at the moment, the question is, how long will it remain that way? It is estimated to cost about $100 per week to operate a Senior A hockey team, which figures out to roughly 1000 - 1200 fans per game to finish in the black. Crowds of 1,000 and up have been about as commonplace as buffalo steak in Belleville this season. Who's fault is that?

A major portion of the blame has to be placed at the feet of the players themselves. They are paid $23 per game to play senior hockey and there have been some nights when players could be were stealing that money. To expect a working man to pay $1.75 to witness some of the pitiful spectacles that have been presented at the Memorial Arena this year is absurd.

A case in point is Sunday's game with the Orillia Terriers. The team played very respectable hockey for the first two periods, trailing the league leaders 3-2. In the final 20 minutes, they collapsed as Orillia pulled away to an 8-4 victory. The fans left the arena with the sour third period taste in their mouths, forgetting about the previous 40 minutes of entertaining hockey. It isn't a new taste. The Quintes have frequently been guilty to play dead once victory appears to be out of reach. Any team that has beaten Orillia and Galt, to say nothing of the Montreal Dynamos, cannot be excused for 14-1 and 10-1 losses.

In fairness to these same players, however, it should be pointed out that Belleville hockey fans appear to be the biggest bunch of front - runners north of Philadelphia.

Sunday's game presented a case in point for that argument. Granted that the Quinters have been disappointing, but wouldn't Friday's 2-1 victory over Moncrw seem to indicate that the team is willing to make amends?

"I don't know whether or not the other players felt like I did, because maybe they weren't aware of our financial situation," said Body, "but we played a good hockey game Friday night. People would go out of their way on the street to compliment you. Then when we lined up for "O Canada", Sunday, we were playing to empty seats. It was pretty disheartening."

A total of 202 people paid their way into the rink Sunday to watch the only Canadian team that has beaten the Dynamos. It must be pretty tough to bust a gut playing when your efforts are rewarded in that fashion.

From the organizational standpoint, the biggest need is for people willing to promote hockey. When queried about the number of active participants working towards that goal, Body admitted that, "there are about eight."

The Quinte Sports Foundation has 14 directors and over 200 members. From that number, isn't it possible to have more than eight active participants?

The "promotional" gimmicks provided by the foundation this year have met with almost an equal amount of success as say, the Edsel. A Sportstest was held this fall. It lost money. A television was raffled. It lost money. With promotions like that, who needs debtors' prison?

It is a simple matter of geography that Belleville and Kingston find it difficult to ice powerful hockey teams. Stuck at the eastern fringe of the league, they aren't able to pick up players as easily as Galt, Orillia, Barrie and other teams. When Oakville folded, teams like Brantford and Orillia were able to strengthen themselves even more. But Oaks' players just weren't interested in travelling all the way to Belleville or Kingston. Especially not for $23 per game, lowest pay scale in the league.

Facing facts, we might as well admit that this city isn't going to have an Allan Cup champion. The Quintes will do well to make the playoffs.

But, once again, couldn't 800 or so hockey fans show a bit of faith by showing up to the next home game? And couldn't the players justify that faith with a competitive hockey performance? And if the puck is kept rolling, couldn't the organizers figure out a few schemes to make money, instead of losing it?

If these things can't be accomplished there is a very strong possibility that senior hockey in this city will be dead within three weeks. It will take a concerted effort to save it, and if enough people aren't willing to make that effort, let's bury our dead and all go bowling.

Cross Country Skiers to Meet

Cross country skiing isn't going downhill in the Quinte area. According to Don Leslie of Leslie's Ski Den, "We've had a lot of people buying equipment. There seems to be a great deal of interest in the sport."

To foster interest in the sport, he has arranged a meeting for cross country participants Wednesday, Jan. 17 at the Ski Den. "It's not a promotion. We won't be selling anything. I'd just like to give cross country skiers a chance to get to know one another," emphasizes Leslie, "everyone interested is welcome to attend."

Veteran cross country skier Ossie Manion of Toronto will be attending the meeting to answer questions pertaining to the sport, and there is a possibility that a Scandinavian competitor will also attend.

Maps of cross country routes in the Quinte area will be available as well as tips on ski care and waxing. The meeting is scheduled to get under way at 7.30 p.m.

Chargers Win Two Over Collegians

Centennial midgets had their basketball game against Bay of Quinte BCI opponents well in hand at the end of the first half as they led the Collegians 41-17.

The Centennial Chargers' Brent Babcock dropped 20 points, while Steve Whilly with 12 and Dave Long with 11 led their team to a 61-44 victory over BCI. Rungano Mutswavis and Ken Bailey sunk 19 and eight respectively for the visiting Collegians.

In BCI's only victory over Centennial yesterday, junior Larry Wilson led the Collegians to a 70 - 49 win with a 24 point personal total. Russ Simond took 11 points from the Chargers while Doug Yates was top scorer for Centennial with 15 points.

In Centennial's senior basketball contest, the Chargers moved from a close 26-21 half time score to a 61-46 victory with the aid of high scorers Dave Dent and Brian Morphy, each with 21 points. BCI top point getters in the loss were Peter LeBaron with 19 points and Peter Scott with 19.

Clark Provides Muscle For Bobcat Blueliners

The Belleville Bobcats have added some muscle to their defensive pairings with the signing of six foot three 210 pound Bevin Clark.

Clark, who comes off a season with the Peterborough Panthers junior football team, was signed by the 'Cats last Wednesday night and saw action against St. Michael's Sunday.

The regaly acquired defenseman picked up an assist in his first outing as a Bobcat and according to coach Moe Hunter "is good for the team. He's got a lot of holler and spirit."

Clark, who played alongside Neil Turner against St. Mike's, drew Junior "C" hockey action in Stratford two years ago, but will be seeing Metro Junior "B" play against Toronto Westerds Friday.

"The key to beating Wexford," said coach Hunter, "is containing Ormson and his line." The Steve Majors - Wayne Ormson - Bob France line netted six of Wexford's seven goals in a December 3 7-7 contest with the fourth place Bobcats. Ormson beat Belleville goalie John Burnside four times in the third meeting of the two clubs. Previously, the 'Cats had won a 4-3 home ice victory and a 4-4 tie in Toronto.

Defenseman Wally Dainard and winger Andy Ricketts remain doubtful starters for Friday's match. If Ricketts can play, he will be on the right side of centre Brian Counsins and left winger Mark Coates according to Hunter.

White Scores Three As Sharks Cage Cougars

Years ago Alton White made a pact with himself—to become the first black to play regularly in the National Hockey League.

He never made it. White O'Bee, a native of Fredericton, became the first of his race to make it into the big time with Boston Bruins of 1960-61 but had a chequered career with the NHL, team before failing back to the minors.

White, meanwhile, embarked on a career that took him to Winnipeg Rangers of the Man-i-toba Junior Hockey League, to the International and Eastern Leagues and, eventually, to Providence Reds of the American League in 1966.

He seemed doomed to a life in the minors until the World Hockey Association generated a new life for many players who might not otherwise have enjoyed a major league salary.

White was claimed by New York Raiders, but a dispute with coach Phil Goyette early in the season because he wasn't getting sufficient ice time sent him to Los Angeles Sharks.

Now the 27-year-old Amherst, N.S., native is getting the time he wants and Wednesday night he registered his first three-goal game in the WHA while leading the Sharks over Chicago Cougars 8-5.

In the only other contest, Winnipeg Jets took a seven-point lead in the Western Division by scoring four first-period goals en route to a 5-1 win over Alberta Oilers and New York Raiders trimmed Philadelphia Blazers 4-1.

Tonight's action has Houston Aeros at Chicago, New York in Ottawa with the Nationals and Cleveland Crusaders visiting Minnesota Fighting Saints.

At Chicago, where 3,149 fans were on hand, White's first goal—his 10th of the year—broke a 2-2 tie in the second period and he scored two more in the same session to launch the Sharks into a 7-3 lead.

Rick Morris, with two, and Jan Popiel brought the Cougars from a 3-0 deficit just before White began his assault. Belleville's Larry Mavety and Morris again rounded out the Chicago scoring in the third period.

The game was delayed several minutes in the second period when Chicago's Popiel and Rosaire Paiement, Pete Slater and Steve Sutherland of the Sharks had a shoving match.

Norm Beaudin and Milt Black scored two apiece and the Jets had goals from Jean-Guy Gratton and Chris Bordeleau to stake goaltender Ernie Wakely to a 4-0 lead after two periods.

LARRY MAVETY

Wakely's carelessness led to Alberta's only goal when Bernie Blanchette caught the Winnipeg goalie with his leg guads apart and ripped a shot through the opening midway through the third period.

Jets' playing coach Bobby Hull and Alberta centre Jim Harrison had a feud going from the outset when Hull dropped his gloves and challenged the player to fight.

But the main event was between veteran Wally Boor of the Jets and Doug Barrie of Alberta in which the Oilers' defenceman scored a clear-cut decision in front of 4,811 Winnipeg fans.

The Raiders threw up a tight defence in front of goaltender Gary Kurt to nullify the Philadelphia offence after Danny Lawson had given the hometown Blazers a 1-0 lead through the first period before 2,312 fans.

But two goals from Norm Ferguson, with the thers going to Bob Jones and Brian Perry, pulled the game out for New York and moved them to within one point of second-place Cleveland in the Eastern Division and just three points behind division-leading New England Whalers.

Green Holds Key to Throwing Bulls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nate Archibald got some help from the grand old man of the National Basketball Association, 35-year-old Johnny Green, and the combination proved too much for the Chicago Bulls Wednesday night.

Archibald, the NBA leader in scoring and assists, scored 27 points for Kansas City-Omaha as the Kings nipped Chicago Bulls 103-100.

But it took a key defensive play by Green to preserve the victory.

In other games, Boston Celtics beat Houston Rockets 128-107, Los Angeles Lakers defeated 120-96, Phoenix Suns edged Detroit Pistons 123-121 and Baltimore Bullets downed Seattle SuperSonics 96-86.

Boston raced to a 37-4 first-quarter lead, then coasted home as coach Tom Heinsohn gave his reserves considerable playing time. Centre Dave Cowens led the Celtics with 20 points and hit all nine of his field goal attempts in the first half and finished with 29 points, while John Havlicek led the club with 22.

Charlie Scott scored 27 points, including 20 in the first period, and Phoenix withstood a 37-point fourth quarter by Detroit for their victory.

The Sonics, trailing by 17 going into the final period, drew even at 78-78 with 5:34 to play, but were outscored by the Bullets 14-4 in the next three minutes. Mike Riordan led Bullets with 20 points.

Flames Pluck Hawks For Share of Second

By IAN MacLEAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bernie Geoffrion's year-long program to make believers of his fledgling Atlanta Flames is paying off in deuces.

It appears his efforts are not even getting through to the Flames, but the rest of the National Hockey League is learning.

The surprising Georgians won another unbeaten night, setting Chicago Black Hawks in front of 11,329 screaming fans to climb into a second-place tie with Minnesota North Stars in the West Division—just seven points behind Chicago.

"You wouldn't believe it," Atlanta general manager Cliff Fletcher was saying recently. "These people have never seen hockey before, but they really love it.

"Once they get the feel of r, you couldn't keep them in their seats."

Atlanta fans had reason to cheer against Chicago as the Flames moved into a 4-0 lead on two second-period goals by John Stewart and two by rookie Jacques Richard 59 seconds apart early in the third.

The Flames have won 18, lost 19 and tied seven in 44 starts.

Elsewhere, Montreal Canadiens romped 6-0 over Minnesota North Stars as Henri Richard broke a season-long drought with two goals. Detroit Red Wings edged Pittsburgh Penguins 2-1, Toronto Maple Leafs downed New York Islanders 4-2 and California Golden Seals nipped St. Louis Blues 6-5.

New York Rangers visit Buffalo Sabres tonight in a battle for third in the East while Boston Bruins entertain Minnesota and Los Angeles Kings visit Philadelphia Flyers.

Richard, blanked in 27 games this season, scored at the 38-second mark of the game at Minneapolis and then gave Canadiens a 2-0 lead in the second after a rink-length dash.

Both scores were set up by defenceman Serge Savard with whom the 26-year-old veteran had feuded earlier in the sea-day, celebrated with two goals against Stars' Cesare Maniago as Montreal padded its East-a lead to five points over Boston.

Pou Nanne was given a game misconduct in the first period when he became involved in a minor skirmish between Minnesota team-mate Jude Drouin and Montreal's Bob Murdoch.

Mickey Redmond and Bill Collins, who went to Detroit in the trade that sent Mahovlich to Montreal two years ago, scored in the second period at Pittsburgh to lift the Red Wings to a 2-0 lead.

Redmond set up a penalty shot in the first period when he threw his stick at Penguins' Ron Schock on a breakaway. Schock' man-to-man defender Ray Edwards, was unable to beat the Wings' netminder.

The Maple Leafs saddled the visiting Islanders with their ninth straight loss, paced by Paul Henderson's two goals. Toronto rolled to a 2-0 lead then coasted the relainder of the way, firing 46 shots at New York goalie Gerry Desjardins who spent much of the third period clearing his own rebounds.

Stan Weir and Craig Patrick each had two goals for California, but Hilliard Graves fired the winner at 6:48 of the final period after the Blue Jacket Egers had hit his second of the game to make the score 5-4.

MAYOR WOOS NATIONALS

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Pierre Benoit says he will recommend measures to encourage Ottawa Nationals of the World Hockey Association to remain in Ottawa. Poor attendance has prompted the Nationals' owners to consider a move to another city, but Mayor Benoit said Wednesday night he will recommend letting the Nation-'s take back their $100,000 performance bond if they stay in Ottawa for the balance of the season. He also said the city will consider lower stadium rent.

Lemaire Shares Second

Jacques Lemaire scored one goal in Montreal Canadiens' 6-0 win over Minnesota North Stars Wednesday night in Minneapolis and the point tied him with Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks for second place in' National Hockey League scoring.

Both are two points behind leader Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins, who has 60 points.

Even Sub-par Cousteau Is Good Entertainment

NEW YORK (AP) — The Battle of the Coral Sea took place in May 1942. It was an historic naval clash that began the end of Japanese military expansion in the Pacific during the Second World War.

Jacques Cousteau recently has been exploring the area and looking at a modern-day battlefield, located on the ocean floor and littered with the slowly rusting refuse of strip-mining.

He filmed it for the 22nd of his famed undersea specials for the ABC Television network. The show is called 300 Million Years Beneath the Sea and will be broadcast tonight at 8 p.m. EST.

As usual, the photography is excellent; however, the over-all thrust of the show seems spread too thin and isn't quite up to Cousteau's earlier efforts.

No matter. Sub par for the 62-year-old undersea explorer and ecologist would be considered first-rate for anyone else.

On this outing, Cousteau and his crew go to the waters just off French-held New Caledonia, a tropical island rich in mineral deposits, particularly nickel.

Sections of the island have been strip-mined for years, with the refuse of both mining and refining dumped into the area of a lagoon near the island capital at Noumea.

What effect has this had on the undersea life? Cousteau provides no encompassing answer, but he takes the viewer underwater for a look. And the sight isn't pretty.

There only are a few creatures visible in what Cousteau calls the "undersea desert" created by man's carelessness. What life exists gradually has burrowed beneath the sediment to survive.

At night, there are a few signs that something has survived—among them brown and white creatures Cousteau calls sea mice.

As puts it, they "move across the mud flats like a battalion of tanks, ravaging everything in their path—the dead, the dying and the contaminated."

The program isn't all doom and disaster. The farther he goes from New Caledonia, the more evidence he finds that underseas life will go on if man only gives it a chance.

"The miraculous cradle of life has been demeaned to a disposal system," Cousteau says of the lagoon.

Then he gets to the heart of all his programs about the sea: "... above the surface and under the water, it is one world and it is vulnerable every where."

DETROIT (AP) — Recording artist Gladys Knight received an uncontested divorce from her husband of 11 years in Wayne County Circuit Court Tuesday.

The 28-year-old lead singer of Gladys Knight and the Pips said she wanted a divorce from James G. Newman II, 31, because of irreconcilable differences. She said they had been separated for more than seven years.

Miss Knight was also granted custody of the couple's two children.

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael J. Pollard, the actor who drove the getaway car in the movie Bonnie and Clyde, may soon have to worry about going to jail over a child-support fight if he sets foot in York state.

Judge Thomas C. Chinero of the State Supreme Court found Pollard in contempt of court Wednesday and ordered him to pay $5,000 in overdue child support and another $1,500 in legal expenses.

If he doesn't comply within 20 days Pollard's former wife, actress Beth Howland, can apply for an order committing Pollard to jail.

Felder said that when Pollard and Miss Howland were divorced in Mexico in 1966, she agreed to waive rights to alimony and support for their daughter. But two years later a New York State Supreme Court judge allowed her to set aside that stipulation and ordered Pollard to pay child support, Felder said. He said Pollard complied until last August.

Pollard has remarried, to Anya Talalay.

NEW YORK (AP) — Town Hall decided to "accentuate the positive" and lyricist Johnny Mercer proved he's no "lazy bones" Wednesday at the first of this year's "I-45 interludes."

The interludes are 20 hour-long concerts, most of them jazz, on Wednesdays. They start at 1:45 and are meant for office workers before they go home or out to dinner. Some concerts all feature dramatic readings and dance.

The first one, for which the orchestra section of Town Hall was full and some persons were in the balcony, featured Johnny Mercer singing some of his lesser-known songs. Mercer now is 63 but he once sang with the bands of Benny Goodman and Bob Crosby and he still retains much of that voice and he projects an engaging personality. He was accompanied by California jazz pianist Jimmy Rowles.

Mayor Explains

TRENTON — At a regular session of town council Monday night, Mayor Duncan McDonald defended his position concerning a recent newspaper report that alleged he withheld from council a proposal for development of the building site.

Mayor McDonald said local developer and former councillor Gerald Weaver approache him at his office with plans for the site some time ago. At a second meeting, he was joined by another former councillor, and car dealer, Vagn H. Lange.

The mayor said he informed both men of council's policy regarding construction based on an Ontario Municipal Board-approved plan, that includes a municipal office-parking garage complex now being built on the site.

"At no time was a plan given to me to bring to council," he said. Mayor McDonald did not disclose the content of their discussions.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

FRIDAY, JAN. 12

Aries (March 21-April 19): Workmates are unlikely to be eager to close the week's routine completely. Romantic urges definite pastime pleasantries.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Being serious is not the most popular approach, although what you do is being taken that way.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Put your community's welfare above casual matters of conference. Much is to be gained by courtesy.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Progress is the order of the day. Your energy is up and people are accessible for active co-operation, planning more.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Diverted making effort to concentrate on one-of-a-kind projects. A hobby brings to your attention factors you've never considered.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Now the other fellow comes to you and it's your chance to meet fairly, halfway to work things out.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Aside from a special need for self-direction in the morning, it's a day for fun and games rather than hard work.

Sagittarius (Dec. 23-Dec. 21): You're almost bound to do some expansive, (perhaps extensive) thing just to finish up the weekend with a flourish.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If you cannot intercede an argument, take yourself out of it altogether. You have many things to investigate, organize.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your intuition speaks up—listen and act accordingly, particularly if there is any indication that you would change course.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): An inclination to seek pleasure today is normal. Romantic and sentimental projects draw people in favorite spots.

New Building for Defence

The $27 - million new defence headquarters in downtown Ottawa is scheduled to open in the spring. Easily seen from Parliament Hill critics have already complained about the building's stark, four-square appearance. (CP Photo)

Half-million Outlay for Art Expected to Draw Criticism

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will open two new high-prestige office buildings here in the spring, and the federal public works department is braced for criticism of its half-million-dollar outlay for art works to decorate them.

"We've had to take our raps before," says Herbert Cole, program adviser on fine arts for the works department. "But that's the way of art."

Works commissioned for the two new buildings—for the external affairs and defence departments—are being kept under wraps until official opening ceremonies. But they promise to be radical, provoking criticism from art traditionalists.

When the buildings are opened in March or April, depending on when finishing touches are complete, there will be sculptures, wall-hangings and murals enlivening the new departmental headquarters—a contrast to the bleak old buildings occupied by external and defence staffs now.

Commissions ranging from $7,700 to $74,000 each were allocated to artists across the country and into the Arctic to create works specifically for the new buildings.

The $27-million defence headquarters are in downtown Ottawa, across the Rideau Canal and slightly south of the National Arts Centre, easily seen from Parliament Hill. Critics have complained of the building's stark, four-square appearance.

The $25.7-million headquarters for the external affairs department is located east of Parliament Hill, on Sussex Drive, near Ottawa's city hall and the old home of Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister. It is a rambling, pyramidal, brown-surfaced building of radical design.

The works department has a policy of spending one per cent of the total capital cost of a major new public building on permanent art works to decorate it.

The works are commissioned, in consultation with each building's architects, by a seven-member committee of prominent artists drawn from all regions of the country.

The committee's responsibilities include major Canadian buildings abroad, as well as in Canada. The latest job abroad is the carving and installation of a wood sculpture by Anne Kahanise of Montreal and Winnipeg in the new Canadian Embassy in Islamabad, Pakistan.

Since the committee was set up in 1965, the department has spent up to $500,000 a year on sculptures, murals and "the like. The department now is one of the country's biggest art patrons—a consistent buyer of large pieces of art for permanent installation in its buildings.

The one-per-cent rule applies to each specific building. Money saved on one may not be spent on another. But the department does have difficulty providing suitable art for smaller buildings. It's not worth it for an established artist to spend much time on a $500 or $300 commission for a small post office in the hinterland.

Mr. Cole says the department may have to adopt a plan similar to one recently undertaken by the Ontario Arts Council, giving a few artists substantial commissions to create a pool of art works that can be duplicated economically for smaller buildings.

Among the works going into the external affairs building are a conference room wall hanging by Joyce Lehto of Toronto, and a decorative ceramic wall by Gathie Falk of Vancouver. Robert Murray of Pointe au Baril, Ont., has done a major sculpture for the front of the building, and Arthur Handy of London, Ont., a sculpture for an interior court.

Osestuk, an Eskimo sculptor, has been commissioned to put together an inuksuk for the ground floor elevator lobby. It is a stone cairn, used by Eskimos throughout the Arctic as a bearing marker. It will be built at Cape Dorset, then disassembled and reassembled in Ottawa.

Zero Population Move For Cats Annoys Farmers

SASKATOON (CP) — Even though he is a farmer, if William Kusch wants to get female cats from the Saskatoon Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA), he'll have to settle for sterile ones.

Mr. Kusch, who farms in the Saskatoon district, recently approached the SPCA for female cats to control the rodents on his property. He was told female cats five months or older obtained from the organization must be spayed at a cost of $15.

The policy is a method of population control says Ray Duerr, SPCA manager.

Mr. Kusch objected to this mandatory policy. He wants cats which are sterile because "when they have a litter the mother cat catch lots of gophers and mice."

He understands why it may be necessary to control the cat population in the city, but said on the farm "they get lots to eat and on a farm they're worth their weight in gold."

Mr. Duerr, defending the society's policy, said "we have to destroy about 200 cats a month" most of them strays "that people don't bother to try to find."

The spaying policy also applies to dogs of which about 100 a month must be destroyed, he said.

No exceptions to SPCA policies would be made to farmers, Mr. Kusch has decided to try to obtain cats from a relative.

New Test May Detect MS Early

OTTAWA (CP) — The possibility of a new test to identify multiple sclerosis (MS) in its early stages was announced by researchers at the University of Alberta.

Dr. T. A. McPherson, Annabel Gilson and Dr. T. P. Soland have found that fluid taken from the spinal cord of MS patients contains a higher level of a substance known as a specific protein inhibitor than fluid from patients who have no MS.

Multiple sclerosis is a recurring acute or chronic progressive disease that affects the nervous system. Small patches of scar tissue on the brain and spinal cord cause deadening of the nerves in these areas and lead to weakness or paralysis of certain parts of the body.

So far there is no certain treatment for MS, but doctors hope that, if the disease is diagnosed early, its symptoms can be delayed or slowed by the earlier application of treatment.

Early diagnosis is thus considered an important first step in research.

In an article in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, the three researchers reported on two separate studies.

One involved 60 patients, of whom 17 were known to have or suspected to have MS. The second study involved 3 patients with MS and 5 with other diseases.

Laboratory workers who carried out the tests did not know from which patients the samples were taken.

Results showed "excellent correlation between the higher levels of the specific protein inhibitor and the disease, the authors said.

Later, Dr. McPherson told The Canadian Press that three patients who had not been diagnosed as having MS also were found to have high levels of the protein. On closer examination, it now appears these patients do have some type of neurological disease—and they are being watched for the development of obvious MS.

The authors said they would like to see further research to determine if the test really show when MS patients, who often have temporary improvements or remissions, might be about to have a relapse.

Dr. McPherson stressed that, at present, this test is a research procedure only and that further study is necessary before it becomes available as a test in hospital laboratories.

1972 Proved to Be Bad Year For Newfoundland Shipping

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The 1972 fishing and trading season was a bad one for Newfoundland shipping in more ways than one.

Complications in the Canada Shipping Act, especially regulations establishing certain work hours for crew members, were the main reason a number of freight boats were sold to foreign and other interests.

July, usually the best month of the fishing year, recorded the greatest loss of life.

Two fishermen from the small south coast fishing community of Hermitage were drowned July 15 when their small boat sank on the fishing grounds. It was thought the small vessel was run down by a larger boat in heavy fog.

The 51-ton schooner Del Bar, which was collecting fish in Placentia Bay, caught fire July 27. Fifteen persons tried to escape in a small dory but the boat overturned and nine people, including four women, were lost.

In November, two brothers and their brother-in-law left home at Castor River on the island's northwest coast for a day's fishing. They never returned.

There were other near-tragedies.

A spokesman for the Newfoundland Shipowners' Association said the regulations, regarding the hours of work of crew at sea, were forcing owners out of business.

If the obvious goal of the legislation, which it is set a maximum 48-hour work week with a minimum eight hours of overtime, is allowed to go into force, about the only shipping left in Newfoundland will be Canadian National department of transport ships.

The Canada Labor (Standard) Code, enacted in 1965, governs the working hours of employees under federal jurisdiction which includes those working in the transport industry.

The first phase in the workweek reduction came into effect Jan. 1, 1968, with a maximum of 221 hours in a 15-week period or an average of 44 hours weekly.

The following year the work week was reduced to 60 hours with a further reduction to the present maximum of 630 hours in a 13-week period and overtime for work in excess of 44 hours weekly.

The 60-hour work week became effective Jan. 1, 1974.

But by then, there may not be any local shipping left. The Water Steamships of St. John's, whitespotted ships in local and foreign waters, sold its fleet to foreign interests during 1972.

H. B. Dawe Ltd. of Cupids, in the freight-carrying trade since for a third of a century, has advertised to sell its fleet because, a spokesman said, "the code was making operations uneconomical."

Other privat sales have depleted the lobstick fleet.

The only bright spot is the increase in the off-shore fishing fleet. Five new stern trawlers were added during 1972 and an additional five or six are expected in 1973.

'Funnies' Becoming Serious Flaunting Former Taboos

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) — People are chuckling at some pretty serious things these days. Issues like politics, air bigotry, drug addiction and loneliness are showing up in the "funnies" now, sharply drawn and sophisticated humor strips.

But this "relevance" fad, as some cartoonists call it, is not sweeping the comics page. Although polls indicate that more than half of the comic readers are more than 18 years old, the comics remain a children's page: The most carefully edited part of a newspaper, a haven for the innocent minds of children where characters never go to the bathroom and where, until recently belly buttons, dirty socks and blacks were forbidden.

Comic pages in many newspapers haven't changed in years. They remain a mix of adventure strips, fantasies, dramas and gag strips that readers and editors have grown used to and which stay largely the same as the readers grow up.

Popeye still eats spinach and toots his horn, Blondie still wears her 26-year-old shirt and baby bakes a cake (every day), Dick Tracy catches bad guys, Steve Canyon still flies airplanes, Little Orphan Annie is a 46-year-old girl, but Skeezix grew up in Gasoline Alley from a baby on the doorstep to a father himself.

"The comic strips remain a mirror of prime time TV, a whole bunch of law-and-order strips and situation comedies," says Garry Trudeau, the 24-year-old creator of Doonesbury, a strip that has brought to the family cartoon page topics such as Vietnam, homosexuality, unemployment and racial prejudice.

"My primary obligation is entertainment," says Trudeau. "But that doesn't preclude the reader or me from going on beyond that."

Doonesbury, featuring Michael J. Doonesbury in a college campus setting, is distributed by Universal Press syndicate, one of several new companies selling new comic strips, hoping for a Peanuts success story.

"We're looking for the kind of strips that will attract young readers," says Universal President John McMeel. "for this is the life-and-death struggle in newspapers today."

But the cartoon business has seen a lot of "new" strips come and go in its 75 years. "Gags, by and large, have always been based on basic character traits that people relate to," says Sylvan Byck, comics editor of King Features syndicate. The success of Blondie and her husband Dagwood, his boss, dogs, kids, neighbors is attributed to a formula that strikes a familiar chord in millions of readers. The strip is in 1,600 papers.

In Ernie Bushmiller's never-changing Nancy, Shaggy recently drove nails into a dying tree in his own version of acupuncture. In a Popeye strip, artist Bud Sagendorf created an island of creature-polluters who threw things in the water.

But in keeping up with the times, the new breed cartoonist is doing more than using contemporary gags. Being relevant, they say, is being honest.

"I'm talking about things that are important," says Charles Schulz, "about the worries and the problems and the loneliness."

"Cartoons should mirror," says the Peanuts creator, "but I'm afraid that cartoonists are trite."

"I'm afraid the average newspaper cartoonist has been too much establishment during the last 30 years, and too right wing," says Schulz, the guru of the new cartoonists. "But I think we're breaking away from that little by little."

Walt Kelly's Pogo and Li'l Abner by Al Capp were 1950s leaders in anti-establishment humor.

Mort Walker, creator of Beetle Bailey, likes to tell about the syndicate that distributes Beetle.

Somewhere at King was in charge of scrapping Belly Buttons off bikini-clad or shirtless characters, using a razor blade, Walker claims. The scrappings, he declares somewhat tongue-in-cheek, were put in a container called the Beetle Bailey Belly Button Box.

As the battle continued, he would surreptitiously draw two belly buttons on the same belly, so that both would disappear before the strip appeared in syndication.

Then, in a final volley, Walker drew a strip in which a crate of navel oranges was delivered to Cookie, the cook, prompting King editors with dozens of belly-button-looking oranges.

"That's when they quit."

One major paper, instead of asking Walker to redo a cartoon showing showgirls in fringe bras and panties, pecked in black suits. "It looked like it was drawn with a warm Her shey bar," Walker says.

King features used to have a list of 33 "don'ts," says Bud Sagendorf of Westport, Conn., a former King editor who today draws and writes Popeye. Besides the no-nos on the old list, dirty socks on a chair.

Violence must be limited, cartoonists say, and so must the number of black characters.

"How many there's no blacks in this honkie cutie!" Lieut Flag demanded to know as he burst into Mort Walker's Beetle Bailey in the fall of 1970. The question might have been reflected at the cartoon industry, for although Beetle was not the first integrated strip, Walker's move was seen as courageous by most cartoonists.

When Hank Ketcham introduced a black child in Dennis the Menace, he was forced to withdraw the character because of protests, says Jack Dempsey, president of the National Cartoonists Society.

'DON'T PREACH'

Quincy lives in a city tenement, plays in city streets and cracks jokes about his landlord, about his skin shade and his poverty.

"I think statements can be made on the comic page, but to do it successfully it has to be done in a very subtle manner, like using backgrounds and the over-all flavoring of the strip," says Shearer. "You should see the plight of the individual without saying so. If it starts to preach, you may turn a whole lot of people off."

What, whose Beetle is seen in 1,250 papers compared with 250 for Doonesbury, 100 for Quincy and about 1,200 for Peanuts, says: "I think there are a lot of guys trying too hard to be relevant. There are some strips that forget their job is being funny.

"I think Beetle always has been relevant. The whole thing is a satire on the army, on weapons and the abuse of authority. It wasn't until Trudeau in Flap that people said I was 'relevant.'"

Lunch-Break Operation

MANCHESTER (CP) — Busy businessmen in and around this northern city will soon be able to undergo vasectomy operations in their lunch hours. Surgeons here have opened a special clinic for the operation which will cost £25 (about $60) and take 30 minutes to perform. A spokesman for the Family Planning Association said that "on ill effects would anyone as long as the businessman took things easy during the afternoon. The arrangements are ideal for his busy work schedule."

Pompledale Players Bring Schools Drama

CALGARY (CP) — In the jargon of educational planners, they're "curriculum enrichment."

But when they pull into a school parking lot and spill out of a white van emblazoned with the name Pompledale Players, they're just a bunch of young people in worn blue jeans and floppy hats.

The troupe has been a year ago with little more than an idea—to bring drama to rural school children and prove that anyone is able to stage plays anywhere.

Pompledale Players originated when a group of graduating University of Calgary students agreed to create a play and perform it at a children's party in one of the city's wealthy homes. The party was cancelled, but the play found its way into the gymnasium floors of several separate schools in Calgary.

During the spring, Pompledale evolved into a full-time theatre unit. The group improvised plays around scenarios written by each member in turn.

September marked a crucial transition for the troupe's dale. Sustaining government funding cut off and four of the actors replaced the original players.

Several buisnesses have contributed sustaining grants, and Canadian Breweries of Alberta Ltd. have picked up the rental bill for the van. Pompledale Players are keeping their finger crossed about an application for Local Initiatives Projects help.

Kennedy's Pals Tell Memories

NEW YORK (AP) — John Kennedy barking road criticism in the bathtub, seeking companionship on lonely evenings in the White House, pausing to write a note of encouragement to the mother of a badly burned child on the day his infant son died—these are the images of the late president in a new book written by two close friends.

David F. Powers and Kenneth P. O'Donnell, beer-drinking political buddies of long standing and White House confidants of John F. Kennedy, spent eight months after his assassination recording on tape their memories of Kennedy.

Those tapes now are a book, Johnny, We Hardly Knew Ye, an affectionate, personal remembrance produced with the help of writer Joe McCarthy.

O'Donnell recalls one conversation, occasioned by the doubts he voiced concerning Kennedy's choice of Lyndon B. Johnson as his running mate in 1960.

"He said something to me that I am always going to remember. 'Look, one thing I am, Kenny, I'm 43 years old, and I'm the healthiest candidate for president in the country, and I'm not going to die in office.'"

During the 1960 presidential campaign, the authors report, Kennedy did vocal exercises to preserve his voice. One of those exercises called for him to bark like a dog for 30 minutes every morning. Kennedy took to doing this in the bathtub.

Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion—which he liked to call "the canonical impediment"—occasioned many of the witty one-liners recorded in the book.

Angered by the persistence of religion as an issue in the 1960 presidential primaries, Kennedy quipped: "I'm getting tired of these people who think I want to replace the gold at Fort Knox with a supply of holy water."

What the authors add to the already considerable Kennedy literature is a personal view only hinted at. He nursed occasionally, liked sports, was entranced by celebrities, and remembered others even at moments of personal travail.

When Patrick Bouvier Kennedy was born prematurely in August, 1963, Kennedy stayed at the Boston hospital where the baby was taken.

Awakened early one morning because the baby's condition was worse, Kennedy, while wailing for an elevator, saw a child who had been severely burned. He asked the mother's name, Powers said, then wrote a note of sympathy and encouragement to her.

Two hours later, the Kennedy baby died. Powers was with the President. "He went upstairs to the room where he had been sleeping, sat on the bed and wept."

Policeman Killed

Toronto Siege Ends in Suicides

TORONTO (CP) — Riot police hunting the killer of a Toronto constable shot their way into a third-floor apartment early today and found one man dead and another dying.

Four other persons were hauled out of the tear gas-choked quarters after 75 police men had besieged the midtown rooming house and one of them—Kimberley Barbara Wilson, 18—was charged later with capital murder in the Thursday night shooting of Constable James Lothian.

Police said the two dead men, whom they described as "speed freaks," had shot themselves to death.

One of them, David Brian (Duke) Holmes, 22, was labelled as the gunman who shot the officer when he stopped a car containing two men and a woman after a chase through downtown streets. Constable Lothian was killed as he stepped out of his cruiser.

The other dead man was identified as Walter Eugene McVicar, 25, one of those in the gunman's car.

Police said the girl has been living in Toronto but was formerly of Larder Lake, Ont.

Police also ringed the semi-detached house on Madison Avenue north of Bloor Street said the occupants of the third-floor rooms had fired 16 shots through the door and several others were fired through side windows at sharpshooters waiting outside.

At one point, a voice identified as that of Holmes was heard screaming:

"If you come in, innocent people are going to die."

Later, the same voice shouted that he wanted to "talk to someone" and would surrender in a half-hour.

After that, Sergeant Pat Keere, crouched on a second-floor landing, heard a man crying out that he had to have a (drug) fix but could not find a vein.

"You've made Sambo shoot himself."

Constable Lothian, 28, a native of Scotland who had recently returned from a Christmas visit to his home near Edinburgh with his wife and young son, was the third Metro Toronto policeman killed on duty within a year. Two detectives were shot last February while investigating a drinking-party complaint, and their killer was shot by another officer.

The latest drama began early Thursday evening as Constable Lothian reported by radio he was chasing an automobile which had refused to pull over for a check. On Amelia Street the car crashed into the parked automobile of Martin Klein, a television technician, who had just pulled up in front of his home.

Witnesses said the constable stepped out of the following cruiser and at least one of the men in the pursued automobile jumped out and fired at the policeman. He was shot in the head and died three hours later.

Mr. Klein started up his car and sped off, and the gunmen's car followed him, ramming him once more. This burst their car's radiator and they took off on foot, later picking up a taxi.

Burglary squad officers who had checked the Madison Avenue rhoomers earlier in connection with another case recognized some of the suspects from descriptions given by eyewitnesses.

Pension Boost Pledge Earns PM Vote Edge

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democratic Party, happy at government assurances of a substantial increase in the old-age pension, fulfilled its pledge to support the minority Liberal government Thursday night.

The NDP and Social Credit joined with the Liberals to defeat a Conservative motion of no-confidence in the government by a vote of 148 to 107.

Thus the Liberal regime of Prime Minister Trudeau was given the lease on life promised by the NDP after the speech from the throne was read at the opening of Parliament last week.

It was one of many tests of strength the government will face as the Conservatives attempt to oust it.

Thursday's motion was voted down by 108 Liberals, 28 New Democrats, 11 Social Crediters and one Independent.

One Liberal, three New Democrats and four Social Crediters — including Réal Caouette—were absent. For the first time in some years all Conservative MPs were present for a major vote.

NDP Leader David Lewis later said his group took a "reasonable, sensible and responsible" stand in supporting the Liberals. The party would have supported the government even if Health Minister Marc Lalonde had not promised increases in old-age pensions only hours before.

"Mr. Lalonde had said "a substantial increase in pensions for aged people will be announced soon."

Mr. Lewis and NDP House Leader Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre) said they understand the pension legislation will be one of about four top bills to be introduced shortly after Finance Minister John Turner presents his budget.

That is expected in late January or early February.

Mr. Knowles also said Mr. Lalonde's announcement of the pension increase was the "one sentence that meant anything" in a speech that was largely a review of known government policies.

The minister said the increase will be more than a "symbolic one." In addition, as of April 1, the basic old age pension will be $80.61 a month, an increase of $1.71 from the present payment, because of the increase in the cost of living.

Students' Rights Bill Proposed

TORONTO (C) — Ontario secondary school students asked the provincial government Thursday to draft a "student bill of rights" to protect students from "the arbitrary exercise of power by school administrators."

The Ontario Secondary School Students Union, representing 600,000 students, submitted a brief asking for the abolition of corporal punishment; a greater voice in school administration; the end to dress codes and the right to a fair hearing before being disciplined by a teacher or principal.

Union chairman Don Kurchak, 18, said at a press conference at Queen's Park:

"The idea that teachers and principals are to take the place of parents is obsolete."

The "bill of rights" was prepared by a student task force headed by Mike Lysack, 18, of Ottawa and funded by a $4,000 Opportunities for Youth grant.

Price Control Switch

Nixon Depends On Guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's unexpected lifting of most mandatory wage-price controls already has set off reactions ranging from a stock market surge to dire predictions of a price explosion in U.S. wage-earners.

Nixon Thursday abolished the tight mandatory controls except in the food and health industries, along with most of the government machinery for enforcing them. He set up instead a system of voluntary guidelines and asked Congress to extend the standby control authority, expiring April 30, so that the government could move in quickly to halt excesses in creases.

In a nutshell, Phase 3 of the Nixon economic program provides that prices may be raised, but the increase should not exceed the increase in costs; wages may be increased without government approval, but, for the present, raises are expected to be kept within the 5.5 per-cent guideline in effect since November, 1971.

Peanut Butter and Pork Fans Only Food Lovers to Get Break in Prices

OTTAWA (CP) — Peanut-butter lovers and pork fans got some relief in December from higher prices, but virtually everyone else faced higher costs for their favorite foods, pastimes and consumer goods.

Statistics Canada reported today that the consumer price index rose to 143.3 in December from 142.3 in November and 136.3 a year earlier.

The 12-month increase of seven percentage points means the general cost of living rose 5.1 per cent over the year. The index is based on 1961 prices equalling 100.

Statistics Canada described the November-to-December increase as the same as for the same months of 1971, but higher than for other recent years.

The increase in food prices followed an October-to-November slight drop in food prices and exceeded all November-to-December increases except that of 1971.

In percentage terms, food prices last month were up 1.4 per cent from the previous month and up 8.6 per cent from a year earlier. The latter calculation showed increases for the month and the year.

The food price index, which counts for 27 per cent of the over-all index, was 147.1 in December, up from 145.1 the previous month and 133.5 a year earlier.

That meant it took $14.71 last month to buy what cost $10 in 1961.

The largest increases were for vegetables, fruit, beef and eggs, but all major food expenditure groups registered increases. Vegetable prices, which usually increase in December, were up 8.6 per cent for the month.

Fruit prices rose 1.8 per cent over the month, while beef prices rose 2.1 per cent and egg prices 11.2 per cent.

In contrast, the average price of pork, which has risen almost 27 per cent during the last 12 months, declined 1.1 per cent between November and December.

Price decreases in minor foods included peanut butter, skim milk, ground coffee, peanut butter, sugar, and baby food.

The tobacco and alcohol index recorded the second largest November-to-December rise, moving to 134.7 from 133—an increase of 1.1 percentage points or 1.3 per cent.

Moderate increases in the cost of building, buying, renting and operating a home pushed the housing index to 148.8 from 146.1 in November. Appliance prices were generally unchanged, as decreases for electric stoves vacuum cleaners and sewing machines balanced increases for items like refrigerators.

Croll Says Just Probing Prices Would Help Keep Them Down

OTTAWA (CP) — The proposed Senate-Commons committee on food prices should help keep the family grocery bill down just by its existence, even if it finds no novel cure for the high cost of eating.

That is the view of Senator David Croll (L—Ontario), who was co-chairman of a similar committee that studied food costs in 1966.

"The very fact that a committee like that is active has a deterrent effect" on food prices, says Senator Croll.

The proposal for a special committee to study food prices, contained in last week's throne speech, was formally introduced in a Commons motion Thursday by Government House Leader Allan MacEachen.

Food prices rose steeply to a peak in September, fell in October and levelled off in November, when a shopping list that cost $25 at the end of 1971 was up to $27.85.

By rejecting price controls—at least for the moment—and turning to the committee, the government is resuming a talk-and-study program that has been tried at least twice before in the last seven years.

The 1966 Senate-Commons committee decided no single group—processors, farmers or retailers—was responsible for rising food prices.

It reported that "price control is a fallacious method of attempting to control any general increase in prices," and added that "the federal government does not have the constitutional power to enter this field."

One of the arguments the new committee will face again is whether anybody is gouging excess profits in the food business.

The committee also will have to reconsider the benefits and drawbacks of price controls, to which both Britain and the United States have resorted.

Harbor Committee Proposed

Alderman Paul Russell heads Belleville's harbor board for another year — his fourth as chairman of the city's provincial-municipal group.

Ald. Russell was the unanimous choice of the board for another term at its inaugural meeting last night.

Named vice-chairman was board member R. W. (Bob) Mills.

Ald. Russell said he looked to a "keen interest in completion of new and veteran members who will join to produce new energy and new ideas."

And veteran board member Douglas Barbour praised municipal Stu Meeks came up with a new proposal before the meeting ended: formation of a harbor-area improvement committee.

Mr. Burley's proposal evolved from a query by Ald. Meeks about the possibility of a channel from the Moira River at Victoria Park to dislice out the harbor.

He proposed a bridged channel — perhaps with ship locks to maintain water levels — that could segment the inner harbor where up to 18 inches of silt now lies on the bottom. Summer seen it "a beautiful stinking mess" complained the alderman.

Jurisdictions apparently present a problem: the harbor is administered by the federal government, but water quality is a provincial responsibility.

"Every time somebody tries to get something done he is improve the area. It's something else's responsibility," said Ald. Meeks.

Mr. Burley said a special committee concentration might help solve the problem, organizing local air to achieve senior government attention.

"I think if we attack it from three levels of government, we might get somewhere," he said.

Registration Extended

Any Quinte - area participants in the arts can still register for the Quinte Arts Conference in Toronto Jan 19-21. Registeration deadline for the conference has been extended, co-ordinator Clare Piller announced today.

To date, about 400 actors, writers, craftsmen and others creatively involved in the arts have registered for the event, organized by Direction Ontario, Canadian Conference of the Arts.

The conference, at the O'Keefe Centre and the Royal Edward Hotel, is aimed at giving individual artists a chance to make recommendations on the arts. These in turn will be relayed to levels of government by the Canadian Conference on Ottawa this April.

Any persons wishing to attend the Toronto sessions can write Direction Ontario, 69 Wellington St. East, Toronto, or phone 364-6298 or 363-6104.

Province's Plans Concern of City

Alderman Stu Meeks informed recommending city council seek a provincial feasibility study on a new Bay of Quinte Bridge — to discover how much a major project might affect park development.

The city has ten major park sites on the present Belleville - Prince Edward County traffic bridge, Meek's Park and the still-developing East Zwick's.

The provincial government had indicated official thinking sees no near-future replacement-span for the present bridge-causeway — often criticized as inadequate — although how flow would be kept under review.

But, Ald. Meeks told the inaugural meeting of the city parks board last night, the city "can't possibly" develop East Zwick's without knowing where and when a new bridge might be sited.

"I think we could get somewhere if we asked for a feasibility study and if the province would include it in its five-year capital works program," he said.

Board member Donald Templeman agreed if such a project was being contemplated anywhere in the near future it could interfere with future greenbelt plans for the area.

"If there is any chance of something happening in the near future, before facts we have the better," said Mr. Templeman.

Ald. Meeks said he intends introducing his recommendation to next week's city council meeting — after which, if approved, it may be referred to the parks board for formal comment.

Warden to Be Elected At Inaugural Meeting

The 1973 inaugural session of Hastings county council has been called for Tuesday, January 16.

First business of the session will be the election of a new warden to strive a nominating committee to recommend members on the various boards and committees for the year.

The custom of the wardenship this year is expected to be between Thurlow Reeve Horace Casey and Deseronto Reve George Lyons, who announced their intentions at the January session.

Otherwise, this year's inaugural session of the county body will be marked by the attendance of 13 additional deputy reeves, boosting council membership to 37 from the previous 24.

The additional deputy reeves are the result of the extension of the franchise to 18 - year - olds and to non-resident property owners which boosted the number of electors in municipalities to more than 1,000 which, according to the election act, calls for the election of a deputy reeve.

Marmora Offers Deloro Its Hall

MARMORA (Special) — Village council here has offered use of the town hall to Deloro council which had its municipal offices burned two weeks ago.

The fire also brought reaction in council here.

Reeve Jack Reynolds has suggested that all Marmora municipal buildings be examined by fire officials for areas of potential risk and more say safeguards taken immediately.

Council members also felt that a tgserve fund should be set up this year for future purchase of a new fire pumper.

Councillor Bert Gray, waterworks and fire committee chairman, said a recent Ontario Fire Marshall's report had recommended the volunteer fire department be increased this year. This will be done as soon as possible, said the councillor.

Flier Rescued From Lake Ice

TRENTON — A Peterborough pilot's use of good judgment in a civilian training sortie yesterday saved his life, a spokesman at the Rescue Co-Ordination Centre at Canadian Forces Base Trenton said today.

Stan Palhom of Peterborough, on a civilian training flight between Peterborough and Bancroft, decided to set his light plane down on the ice of a snow-covered lake when he encountered high winds accompanied by heavy snow.

The aircraft, equipped with wheels, was unable to take off once the storm had subsided.

The RCC at Trenton was alerted after a May Day signal sent out by the pilot was picked up by a Canadian Pacific Airliner flying in the Toronto area.

A Twin Otter with para-rescue personnel on board from Trenton was dispatched to the scene after the call for help was received. Meanwhile rescue helicopter based at Petawawa was in the air and heading for the disabled aircraft.

The crew of the helicopter from 427 squadron located the distressed pilot beside his aircraft at a point 48 miles northwest of Bancroft, on Crotled Lake.

Snowshoes were dropped to the downed flier and he was picked up from a nearby lake and flown to the hospital at Peterborough.

A survey at Peterborough reported in the centre here the pilot clad in light clothing was he was picked up, would have perished from exposure had his rescue been delayed any length of time.

Loyalist to Run School of Nursing

A change of heart may be the only lasting effect of a provincial government policy change in killing the Belleville Cawell School of Nursing from the ministry of health to the ministry of colleges and universities.

The announcement which came in a joint letter from Health Minister Richard Potter and minister of Colleges and Universities Jack McNie, leaves much of the decision-making up to local boards but administration of the Belleville Cawell School of Nursing will now be in the hands of Loyalist College.

A spokesman for the health department explained the college would be responsible for renting the existing facilities from the hospital and most likely will keep training students in their present building.

He said this rental situation would prevail for at least a little while, "until they settle down regarding the transfer."

He could not comment on possible changes once things had settled down.

Philip Rickard, administrator of Belleville General Hospital said his morning, "they still couldn't be using it this morning. ... couldn't think." He explained all the educational resources were at the campus.

But the provincial spokesman assumed the present school would be retained as a nursing facility. However, Mr. Rickard could not comment on further use of the building.

"As of now I don't know what it will be used for. The plan will have to be dealt with by the hospital's board of governors. We have a building that could be used for a number of things," he said.

"I'm wondering if they will leave it as a nursing school," said Mr. Rickard. "I don't know."

More details on the transfer will be affected by the policy change and face possible hot trips to Toronto this morning if plans are transferred to Loyalist College.

Suicides End Shootout

Police called upon its emergency task force, set up several years ago to deal with riot situations, and a contingent of officers equipped with bullet-proof shields, helmets and high-powered guns descended on the scene.

A mile-square area was cordoned off and neighbors and some of the buildings' adjacent to the shooting house were moved out as marksmen took over rooms overlooking the building where the group was holed up.

Wearing bullet-proof vests and gas masks and moving behind shields, police made their way into the building and broke in a door with blasts from a shotgun.

A female voice was heard from inside pleading to stop the teargas and shouting: "We don't want to die."

"It was like a battleground when the shooting started," said Mrs. Betty Gibson, a resident across the street.

She said she could hear a woman screaming hysterically and a man yelling: "Come on, Where's Mary?"

The siege lasted about 40 minutes.

Police said they did not return to the fire from the rooming house.

"We thought there might be kids in there," Sergeant Keere said.

At one point, a man came out into a balcony and stood with his hands up in the dark for searchlights.

Later, a group of police went up to the fire from the rooms and there was no firing at this time—blew in the doors with shotguns.

Sergeant William Eric Keere, 37, of 20 Bleecker Ave., died Thursday evening, Jan. 11, 1973, at Belleville General Hospital. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Keere. Born in Belleville, he was a member of the Belleville police force and a son of Belleville Albert Ravenscroft. Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Ann Ravenscroft, two daughters and two brothers. Also survived by his mother.

Mr. Keere, prayer is resting at the Thompson Funeral Home, 205 Bridge St. E., where the funeral will be held on Saturday, Jan. 13 at 2 p.m. Cremation to follow.

Interment Belleville Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

LUTGENDORFF — In loving memory of Mary Lutgendorff, who died January 12, 1971. Sadly missed and remembered every suddenly on January 12, 1971. Sadly missed and remembered every day.

Days when our hopes seemed best,
Years when our faith was tried,
In the eternal rest,
Years when we prayed, always content,
Years when our hearts were bowed in grief,
This beautiful life came a tragic end,
But he died so he lived, everyone's friend.
Behind a smile, there's many a tear,
Unseen by those who never feel, nor hear.
Others are taken, yes we know,
But why dear God, must it be so?

Sadly missed and ever remembered by Mother, Sisters, Brothers, Sisters Amy and Angela.

ETV Not Living Up to Billing

Expensive television equipment is gathering dust in Hastings county classrooms, a new educational study says.

Ethel Schonbrunn, once touted as a revolutionary teaching aid, has failed to live up to its advance billing.

The reasons are complex, involving both the producers of TV programs and the communities and classrooms where they are used.

Film is still a better teaching aid than TV, Frank Tate, a superintendent with the Hastings county board of education of educational television scripts in the early days of ETV.

The basic problem with ETV in getting the programs to the people who want to use them and other training of teachers in the use of the ETV medium.

Mr. Tate agrees that the ETV channel is in province-wide.

"ETV didn't get a good start in the early programs were in 1966 or 1967 and many said the same," said Mr. Tate.

Programs are livelier and more interesting now, he said.

Another difficulty is overcoming teachers' fear of the mechanical equipment needed to replay video tapes.

Big Week Planned at Base

TRENTON — Organizers of CFB Trenton's first winter carnival hope the week-long festivities on and can be established as an annual event.

Called the ASTRA Winter Carnival, a total of 29 events will be held starting Feb. 4 and running until Feb. 10.

The events at the carnival will be centred near the base mess and of activities at Quinte's 18 provincial.

Official ticket for the carnival will be a massive pass, featuring provincial Trois. Starting at 1:30 p.m. on Feb. 3, the parade will form up at the AMDU main gate, move through Middleton Park and end in the south side gate where it will dispense at the South Side Senior Canadian Club. Brigadier General C. Allison will act as parade marshal.

Following the parade, a series of sporting events will get under way, both at the recreation centre and on the frozen surface of the bay surrounding Baker's Island.

"While some legitimate sports are planned, as organizer said Wednesday, "many of the events will be strictly fun."

Events of the 'fun' events: jam pot curling, nail pounding, egg throwing, and potato dunking, a pie eating contest and a moustache-growing contest to be judged on the last day of the carnival. Other events, including officers' wives, signed up yesterday (Wednesday) are:

All of the fun and regular sports will culminate the week of the carnival.

On Monday, Feb. 5 a euchre tournament will be contested at the Officers' Mess, open until 1 p.m. the next day.

A cribbage tourney will be held on Feb. 7 and Feb. 9, at the South Side Senior Non-Commissioned Officers' and Warrant Officers' Club. A darts contest will be held at the South Side Senior Ranks Club.

As long as the weather holds out . . . and carnival chairman Major John Macdougall gave assurance that winter weather statistics show Feb. 3 to 10 as the most favorable . . . ice sculptures will be designed along Highway 1 on the south side of the base. Judging will take place in early next week. Each sculpture based on a preselected theme.

The entire event will be highlighted by a dance Feb. 10 at the South Side Recreation Centre. Admission is $1. Including refreshments at the dance, the fast-gobbling set will have its own dance floor, its own music, and the sportiest of fast-growing moustaches will rule the judge's eye.

A Carnival Queen will be selected and the name of the winning province announced at the dance.

Busing Top Topic At Toronto Meet

School busing and its related responsibilities along with school guard crossing protection, will be one of the main topics of discussion at the 2nd annual spring seminar of the Ontario Traffic Conference to be held in Toronto March 1-2-3.

Belleville Alderman Arthur Keegan, last year's chairman of the city traffic committee, in Toronto last week to assist in agenda arrangement for the seminar, said the county boards of education across the province will be invited to attend the March meeting.

"We hope school boards will send representatives to the seminar to discuss school business problems and associated liabilities," said Ald. Keegan.

The three-day session will be officially opened by Hon. Claude Bennett, minister without portfolio who will talk to the meeting on regional government.

Other matters to be discussed at the seminar are subsidies for mass transportation and the necessity of bicycle paths to help get the two-wheelers off heavily travelled roads and highways.

Alderman Keegan will act as moderator for a two hour opening day panel discussion on the future of urban mass transportation.

Students to Use Outdoor Centre

Officially opened in October of last year, the R. R. Frink Outdoor Education Centre east of O'Brien Bridge, is to see much use during the current winter season.

This was indicated Wednesday by Ken Hall, secretary-treasurer of the board of education, co-ordinator for the Hastings County Centre of Education, who told the Information and Education Advisory Board of the Trenton Power Commission Authority and Quinte Area Board of Education that more than 1,200 students would visit the outdoor day program at the centre.

Students visited part in the program held in front during five to 11.

The R. R. Frink Outdoor Centre is a co-operative effort on the part of the Hastings board of education and the Quinte board with the school board providing the physical setting and the centre also shared on 100 acres of nearby property.

The site was indicated that by the end of the year, education co-ordinator for the Hastings County Centre of Education, who told the Information and Education Advisory Board of the Trenton Power Commission Authority and Quinte Area Board of Education that more than 1,200 students would visit the outdoor day program at the centre.

Week Set Aside For Pensioners

The city and district branch of Pensioners Concerned — a group seeking government recognition of special financial problems faced by elderly Canadians — will have its own week in Belleville.

H. Glynn Jones, branch president, said today city hall officials have declared January 22-27 will be officially declared Pensioners Concerned Week.

Mr. Jones is part of a campaign by the group to focus support on its efforts for a better deal for the elderly — notably through seeking tax and pension improvements from senior governments and local taxation.

A petition citing the problems has been in circulation since the city branch was organized last October and it has drawn 670 signatures, Mr. Jones said.

The group also secured permission from the municipality to have the northend Quinte Mall to have a booth at the shopping centre on Friday when Concerned Week to collect more signatures, said Mr. Jones.

MARMORA (Special) — Council here has formed a liaison committee with village merchants.

Reeve Jack Reynolds said it is hoped the move will improve relations with village businessmen and provide means of working more closely with them and their problems.

All councillors will be members of the committee, under chairmanship of Councillor William MacKenzie.

Dogs Dog Police

PICTON — Town council hired an animal control officer in 1972 but the problem of dogs running at large continues to annoy local residents.

Picton police chief George Pitt this week said he and fellow constables receive "a terrible number of complaints" and observed "all kinds of dogs are running around."

Council hired a Sidney resident Donald Tucker to act as pound-keeper at a salary of $1,500 for a six - month period last year. A bylaw now is before councillors to renew the agreement for a one - year period with a salary of $2,000 paid to the animal control officer.

Council has received one or two monthly reports from Mr. Tucker recording the patrols made in Picton. Only a handful of canine delinquents has been apprehended. The animal control officer receives $15 for each dog impounded.

Chief Pitt said when he receives complaints an investigation is made to find the dog's owner and he can be charged for contravening a bylaw prohibiting dogs at large.

Lynch Named Deloro Reeve

MARMORA (Special) — Douglas Lynch of Deloro was appointed reeve of Deloro village last Monday at a special meeting following the inaugural session of council.

Mrs. Marie Bedore, a candidate in the recent election, was appointed to fill the vacant council seat.

Sworn in as councillors at the inaugural meeting that preceded the special meeting were Alphonse Clemens, Dennis Coleman, Edward Galoway and Douglas Lynch.

Decision Set Aside

The Ontario Municipal Board has set aside the decision of the Hastings County which last April approved the application of a Faraday township resident for a land severance from his property on Highway 28 west of Bancroft.

The decision of the Hastings County land division committee was appealed by the Ministry of Economics and Intergovernmental Affairs.

The application of Faraday township resident William McKenzie to sever a frontage of 266 feet on the south side of Highway 28 from his holdings of 28 acres was approved by the county land committee last April 19.

The provincial department appealed the decision to the Ontario Municipal Board, the hearing held at the Faraday township hall on Nov. 22, 1972.

In his decision setting aside the land division committee approval of the application, Municipal Board member D. S. Colbourne said the access of the application would not only aid and abet undesirable strip residential development . . . but would more easily facilitate an undesirable admixture of all types of uses in a strip form lessening any natural desirability the lands may have for residential purposes.

Man Missing

The Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police request the assistance of Quinte-area residents in locating 68-year-old Welsey Jaynes.

Mr. Jaynes left his residence at the Maple Leaf Nursing Home on Highway 2 on New Year's Day. A police search has been fruitless since that time.

The police describe him as 5ft 10in, five feet five inches tall, fairly heavy build, hair (short and) mixed). He left the home wearing a black, red and yellow plaid shirt, grey suit coat and dark trousers. He is carrying no identification.

He has lived at the home for the past three years and formerly from the Tyendinaga Reserve.

The police request anyone who sights him to contact the nearest police department as Mr. Jaynes is taking medication.

Energy Crisis

Subject to human frailty as man is, a condition compounded by circumstances unforeseen, like acts of God, we may view in this light the energy crisis in the United States.

The shortage reportedly has been long-awaited. Yet if this is the case why has Washington delayed until now — with the crisis upon it — to take action? Have Vietnam and crime in the streets and urban decay been so all-pervasive in Washington's and the people's thinking that this enemy at the gates was not observed in time to fend it off?

It is not a pleasant situation in which the Americans find themselves. They have been so accustomed to material plenty, to unlimited resources that the current crisis must come with all the greater sense of shock. And coming as it does in mid-winter, with weather such as our own covering a substantial area of the United States, it is all the more perilous from a health standpoint.

Now there is renewed clamour in the U.S. for continental energy pool to include Canada. We expected as much and we are reminded of the mysterious case a year or two ago involving one Henry Gahlinger. Described as a resources aide in the Nixon administration, the so-called Mr. Gahlinger wrote an article which said in effect that when the United States felt it necessary it would exert pressure on Canada to provide the U.S. with the resources it required.

The article appeared in The Kingston Whig-Standard and it was reprinted by The Intelligencer. Subsequently it came to the attention of the United States embassy in Ottawa. An embassy official wrote to say no one of that name was on the staff of the White House. We passed on this information to our readers, whereupon a Rosemary Woods an phoned to say she had heard a "Mr. Gahlinger" make the same observations as appeared in the article on a U.S. television network talk show.

We never did solve that mystery but one way or another the pressure will now be on Canada to co-operate. Ottawa must be cautious, for as quipping Pierre Americans we could run short again — only on a much wider, continental basis. There is talk of a conference on domestic resources in November, but why wait so long. They have been talking of such a stocktaking for years. Let's get on with it.

Young Travellers

They belong to a body that is new to us — the Canada World Youth Organization — its members in the 18 to 20 age category — and are among more than 200 in all heading not only for Mexico but for Malaysia, Tunisia and Cameroon.

Their overseas journeyings are said to be for participation in work projects to further educational and cultural activities.

They are a happy looking group, as well they might be, but beyond that we know nothing of their origins or purpose. They are not Company of Young Canadians, nor do they belong to such adult groups as the Canadian technical aid people, such as Lewis Judges of Madoc, a recent guest of Belleville Rotary who teaches in a technical school in northern Nigeria.

We note though that it is an exchange program and it should certainly benefit all the young people concerned to see each other's country.

As North Americans and as travellers we tend to be smug to a greater or lesser degree on return home from overseas, mouthing the word "poverty" observed in some countries and proclaiming loudly how lucky we are to be Canadians or Americans as the case may be. We hope these young people will be above such lamentations and come back with their horizons broadened and in the knowledge that they are citizens of the world as well as just of this or that country.

Meanwhile we note the departure from our own midst of another group of young travellers — members of Moira secondary school's concert band who have left for London, England, on a music-oriented tour headed by teacher Ronald Mason in conjunction with Heritage Canada, an educational foundation. Bon voyage to all the young people concerned.

Canadians All Pay to Keep Transport And People Moving

By FARRELL STEVENSON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Canadians are restless people, constantly on the move for purposes of business and pleasure. Mobility is a central characteristic to the fact the country is big and parts of it remote and sparsely settled and you wind up with a whopping transportation bill.

What many do not realize is that whether or not they travel they pay the transport bill — a number of Canadians to the tune of millions of dollars a year through federal transportation subsidies.

This money, raised by taxing Canadian business and personal income, is designed to compensate public carriers on land, in the air and on the seas for losses they encounter or freight revenue doesn't meet the actual costs of operation.

If railways, air carriers and ferry services were forced to operate without this assistance they would have to raise fares to a level which would put their services beyond the reach of the average traveller. The only other alternative is to stop running the trains, planes, ferries and buses. But this solution would be catastrophic for all parts of the country, and particularly Atlantic Canada.

Most recent example of a new federal transportation subsidy came just before the new year when the railway transport committee of the Canadian Transport Commission, the CTC, had ordered the Canadian National Railway to continue providing passenger service over a vast area known as the mid-Canada corridor.

The railway had applied to the CTC for permission to abandon a number of remote services across the top of the more heavily-populated region. The commission refused to permit this. Instead, the railway will continue the service but receive a subsidy from the taxpayer to make up 80 per cent of its $12.3 million annual losses on these services.

Until 1966 the Canadian railways were paid a blanket subsidy of $18-million annually to compensate for losses and to forestall abandonment of a number of branch lines, particularly on the prairies. In 1967 this subsidy was continued but was related to the traffic carried by each railway. It was agreed that the total would be reduced $14-million each year until by 1972 it was down to $40-million.

To effect this reduction a system of specific payments was instituted under which the railways receive $6 per cent. of proven losses on specific passenger services, $80 per mile out of losses on branch lines, which are freight services mainly in the grain belt of the prairies.

In 1972, total subsidies paid under the specific payments plus the $40-million remaining from the original subsidy totalled $80-million. Of this, $56-million was paid to keep passenger trains operating, $23-million was for branch lines and the other $1-million was a special subsidy for carrying grain and flour from central provinces to export positions.

In January, 1967, an order in council prohibited any further branch line abandonment until January 1, 1975. Under this order approximately 2,500 miles of CNR track and 8,500 miles of CPR line were frozen on the prairies.

A clearer view of railway passenger subsidies can be seen in the operation of the two transcontinental services—the CNR's Super Continental and CPR's Canadian. To keep both operating in both directions on a daily basis requires eight complete trains for each railroad. Their combined losses are about $28-million a year. In order to subsidy formula the taxpayer contributes 80 per cent of the losses to keep Montreal linked to Vancouver by rail.

The remaining rail subsidy is covered by the Maritime Freight Rates Act which came into operation in 1928. Some $14 million goes to the railways each year to keep down the rates for eastern shippers moving goods to other markets in Canada.

There is also a further, indirect subsidy of $30-million a year provided under the grade crossing fund. This is designed to either eliminate level crossings or make them safer by installation of automatic warning devices.

The second major subsidy drain occurs in coastal shipping and ferry services, mainly on the east coast. The Transport Commission has authorized about $6 million annually to keep 27 coastal passenger and freight services in operation. Seventy-two of these operate in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Maritimes, three on the west coast and two small ones on the Great Lakes.

All are run by private operators who cannot charge high enough rates and fares to break even and must be supported from the public purse. Another $6-million is required to subsidy passenger and freight operations around Newfoundland's rugged coastline.

But these subsidies in private operators are relatively small compared to the high cost of operating Canada's railways, which came into operation in 1923. Some $14 billion went

Emission Controls In Effect

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's controls on nitrogen oxides emitted from 1972-model cars now are in effect and will continue to reduce what environment department officials call "our number - one problem in air pollution."

Fred Tuck, acting chief of the environment department's mobile source division, said Thursday that legislative controls on nitrogen oxides started Jan. 1. They require that cars emit no more than three grams of nitrogen oxides in a mile of travel.

"This means that emissions of nitrogen oxides from 1973-model cars are 25-per-cent lower than average emissions measured from 1971-model cars," he said.

Tests are being carried out on selected cars to ensure all models are meeting the standards.

This actually is the second in a series of steps to stop air pollution by automobiles, Mr. Tuck said. The first step went into effect Jan. 1, 1971, when new cars had to have hydrocarbon emissions reduced by 80 per cent and carbon monoxide emissions by 70 per cent.

Study Firms

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario legislature committee will attempt to catalogue differences between Canadian and foreign-based companies operating in the province.

A firm of management consultants was hired by the committee to study "the comparative performance and behavior of both foreign and Canadian-controlled industries and attempt to identify key factors underlying differences — similarities in behavior and performance of both," a committee statement said.

Tony Reidy, president of Local 90, United Auto Workers, said the walkout was sparked by a dispute Wednesday between a union official and a security guard.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul has established an experimental committee for the family to study marriage and family problems, the Vatican announced Thursday.

The 25-member committee, headed by Maurice Cardinal Roy of Quebec, will discuss birth control, abortion and divorce. But Vatican sources rule out any immediate change in Roman Catholic doctrine in those areas.

Would Regime Resign?

PM and Stanfield Differ on Defeat

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Thursday he does not see why every defeat of a minority government in Parliament should force that government to resign.

Even majority governments sustain defeats, he said, and business goes on. Prime Minister Heath had been defeated recently in the British House of Commons on an immigration question but his government did not resign.

Mr. Trudeau said his own government had been defeated on legislation in the last Parliament where it had a large majority.

"The our national marketing legislation," he said. "We couldn't get this through without a lot of amendments . . . If a majority government had to accept that kind of defeat I can't see why a minority government can't."

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said Thursday "the natural course" will be for Gov.-Gen. Michener to call on him to form a Conservative government if the Liberals are defeated in the Commons.

Both men were interviewed here by Judy LaMarsh, former Liberal cabinet minister, now moderator of an open-line telephone show on Vancouver radio station CKWX.

Mr. Stanfield, who preceded Mr. Trudeau on the program, said it would not be necessary to have another election if the Liberals are defeated in the House.

The Conservative leader disclosed that he is getting some letters from voters urging him to make the present Parliament of minorities work.

He said "quite a lot of the excitement went out of the situation when David Lewis and the NDP decided to support the government."

He was surprised "how easy it was to satisfy Mr. Lewis."

Asked if he was "comforted" by Mr. Lewis's support, the prime minister said "reassured" was a better way of putting it.

Miss LaMarsh, an outspoken critic of Mr. Trudeau in the past, described the October election campaign as dull. She attributed part of its "dullness" to a change in his attitude toward people.

In 1968 he had been seen jumping into swimming pools, "pressing the flesh" everywhere he went, with crowds of people surrounding him.

"Don't you like people any more?" she asked.

The prime minister said he still likes people. But one of the main accusations against him had been that he was always travelling; always diving off diving boards, not being serious enough.

Now his staff had been keeping people away from him. As for his restricted travelling, "people don't think I should be allowed to leave the country."

Council to Aid Social Sciences

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Council, set up 15 years ago to help the arts and sciences, said Thursday it will take a more active role in supporting the humanities and social sciences.

The council said in its annual report, tabled in Parliament, that the fastest growing range of subsidies last year was in the arts, and this year it will turn its attention to the other fields it supports.

The council paid out $34.9 million in the fiscal year ended last March 31, compared with $32.3 million the previous year. This year its budget is $36.6 million.

Basford Proposes Satellite City Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — A new satellite city program, aimed at cutting land costs and improving land use, has been proposed by Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford.

Mr. Basford told the Commons Thursday the new plan would be part of a bolted - on land assembly program costing the federal government $100 million annually for at least the next five years.

The main aim of the new land assembly plan would be to develop entirely new towns. These would be set up in co-operation with provincial and municipal governments.

Mr. Basford said the program would "exert pressure to reduce the cost of residential land."

It would also permit provincial and municipal governments to improve land use so that good farmland is not gobbled up by sprawling cities, he said.

Spending on the new land-use program would be almost three times as much as under the existing land assembly provisions in the National Housing Act.

The government now provides about $35 million annually under the current land assembly program.

Just after Mr. Basford's speech, plans for a new "supercity" of 100,000 near Ottawa was announced jointly by the federal and provincial governments.

The announcement said that the Ontario Housing Corp. was taking an option on 5,000 acres of land in Gloucester township, southeast of Ottawa. It would be developed over 20 years to permit a wide range of housing at reasonable prices.

Mr. Basford pointed to this development as an example of what could be done under the new land assembly provisions.

'Ability to Listen' Requirement For Social Work Career

By JOANNE MacKENZIE
Staff Reporter

Have you ever stopped to realize how important listening is?

Mrs. Iris Wilkes and Mrs. Betty Workman are social workers for the Community and Social Services, Belleville, list the ability to listen as the prerequisite of their job.

"Loneliness plays a big part in people's lives. They need someone to talk to," Mrs. Wilkes goes on to say that after talking, they often find their own solutions.

While Mrs. Wilkes concentrates on urban areas, Mrs. Workman works in rural areas, averaging about 10 calls a day.

Is there a difference in the two areas? People in the country tend to look after people more than others. Unmarried mothers seem to receive more support from their families.

Another factor is that problems in cities tend to develop into pockets. Rural problems are more isolated and sometimes easier to solve.

Mrs. Wilkes deals with more specialized cases than a rural worker who has a lulled case load.

Along with listening, both women mentioned the necessity of knowing a person of his or her and the ability to empathize. Relating to people on a one - to - one basis "without inspecting your standard on them," is important according to these social workers.

A lot of listening is involved when breaking barriers and hopefully you can become a confidante and a friend. It is also necessary to know when to leave them alone and help them help themselves. Yell for trust them as human beings regardless of who they are or what they do. "I hope I treat them as they would treat me," said Mrs. Wilkes.

What is the biggest problem that happens to an individual or a family? Lack of motivation is often the worst thing that occurs emotionally. That's something that a person must have within himself and as Mrs. Workman put it "Usually for a person who is motivated, public assistance is very temporary."

With the modern nuclear family currently under focus, both Mrs. Wilkes and Mrs. Workman, who come in direct contact with broken and troubled families, feel the family is still the backbone of society. Mrs. Wilkes said, "It's your heritage, what else are you going to leave to your people? Broken-up segments? Family benefits are given to those in need for the purpose of keeping families together."

The social worker serves as a link between the family and all agencies in the community.

They serve as a buffer listening to a family's problem and explaining it to people they're involved with. Yet at all times being aware of "humanness," whether they're listening to and their case.

All people have needs, and one of the basic ones is having someone to talk to and who cares.

Mrs. Iris Wilkes and Mrs. Betty Workman have a job that attempts to fill those needs. At times, they also serve as "a doctor, a Philadelphia lawyer and a mother confessor."

As Mrs. Workman said, "Even though it can be emotionally and physically trying, I love it."

Mrs. Wilkes? "If I can bring a smile to someone's face, they're halfway home. They give me something too."

MRS. BETTY WORKMAN

The Royal York Hotel in Toronto facilitated clothing manufacturers, retailers and salesmen recently for spring and fashion buying. Over 775 Canadian fashion designers latest creations were shown in individual rooms on five floors of the hotel. Colors, samples, models, and catalogue numbers aided retailers, manufacturers and their salesmen in selecting and purchasing their Spring '73 fashions.

Canadian Fashions Overtaking In Specialty Clothing Exports

NEW YORK (CP) — Canada is within striking distance of overtaking Italy as the prime supplier of quality ready-to-wear women's sportswear and other specialty items on the U.S. market.

Canadian exports of women's apparel have more than quadrupled in the last six years, rising to an estimated $75 million for 1972 from $15 million in 1967. Italian exports have dropped to $85 million from $100 million in the last two years.

The Canadians have put together a winning combination in their export drive—gifted designers, small, flexible production facilities, lower labor costs and clothing with an up-to-date flare—blazers with oversized plaids, skirts and slipper jackets mixing plaids and glen plaids and, for a small line of men's clothing also being promoted, blue suede suits.

The self-assurance so impressed Business Week, the influential American business magazine, recently that it devoted a page to the Canadian development and concluded: "As designers and producers of clothing, the Canadians have come a long way past furs and parkas."

Harper's Bazaar, the slick women's periodical, also gave the Canadian fashions a spread.

SHOWS STARTED BOOM

The Canadian swing into the lucrative U.S. fashion market is the result of a series of annual spring and fall fashion shows which the Canadian trade department began staging here for Canadian apparel manufacturers in April, 1967.

One Toronto manufacturer, on his first showing here a couple of years ago, was disappointed to find that he had sold only six women's coats in the week-long period. But, when he got back to his plant, those six samples brought in orders for 10,000 more.

Since the showings began, a number of Canadian manufacturers have opened offices in New York.

The trade department brings down 250 to 275 manufacturers for each show, advertising the affair to the trade press and arranging showing rooms while the manufacturers pay their own expenses. The latest show-ing included representatives from plants in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Their products, with emphasis on clothing for women, misses and juniors, include coats, car coats, suits, rainwear, knits, sweaters, lounge wear, leathers and suedes and fall into what the trade department terms the moderate to better price range—retailing in U.S. stores for from $30 to more than $200.

The U.S. retailers like what the Canadian produce. Business Week quote the merchandise manager for women's wear for Bloomingdale's, fashionable New York department store, as saying: "in its category, it is the top-selling merchandise we can buy."

The Canadians also move fast. One firm designed and delivered to New York within eight weeks any last summer a new line of brown velvet fall suits for men. Most big U.S. ready-to-wear manufacturers take from three weeks to three months longer than that.

Housing Discussed At Meeting

Mr. William James, housing manager of the Ontario Housing Corporation was the guest speaker at the first meeting for the new year of the Madoc and District Senior Citizens No. 473.

Introduced by Mr. Kel Kincaid. Mr. James explained the Senior Citizens Housing project and answered the questions of members.

He mentioned that there is a possibility of purchasing the 10 acre farm of land at the proposed site, allowing room for expansion.

Mr. James feels that this is a good start towards a beauty spot in this area of Hastings County.

The Club was reminded that the grant for income rent includes heat, hydro, cable, water, and sewer; in fact, everything except the telephone.

The forty-seven members present were asked for their suggestions for the year's program. The next regular meeting will be held on January 17 at the usual time and place.

April Cancer Campaign Planned at Toronto Meet

Canadian Cancer Society volunteers Mr. and Mrs. M. Deane-Freeman of 60 Bridge St., East Belleville, will be representing the Belleville unit in Toronto at the two-day campaign conference of Ontario Division, Jan. 20 and 21.

Deane-Freeman is 1973 Publicity Chairman and Mrs. Deane-Freeman will represent the Campaign Chairman for the Belleville unit of the Cancer Society.

Volunteer workers of the Cancer Society will be coming from towns and cities across Ontario to attend the meetings at the new Four Seasons-Sheraton Hotel. Highlighting the sessions will be detailed discussion of plans for the society's April campaign for funds. Last year, Ontario Division volunteers raised almost $4 - million to support cancer research, services to cancer patients and public education programs.

"We are intending to raise $2,000 in the Belleville Unit this spring. With the generous public support shown in past campaigns, we are confident that we will be able to reach, and perhaps even better, our 1973 objective."

"80 Years in Business To Serve You"

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CORWELL

Does a boss enjoy being a boss?

YES—If he knows the job that has to be ... me, not people. That is his attitude if he is a decent human being who, because of his superior skills, happens to have been placed in a position of authority. Once a boss starts to throw his weight around, however, and begins to manage people rather than the job, he no longer is the efficient executive his superiors think he is. He is using his position to satisfy an inner need to dominate others.

Is a nappy wife apt to have crises?

CERTAINLY. Perhaps the way a wife copes with the crises that can crop up in any marriage is a crisis to her happiness. If she tries to attack the difficulty itself, it is almost a sure bet that the wife is happy. If a woman strikes out at her husband, at the idea of being married, or even at herself, she may be more than an unhappy wife; she is apt to be unhappy as a person—and would be just as unhappy even if she weren't married.

Should kids be pushed to be active?

MAYBE not exactly pushed, but children should be encouraged to take an active part in the world around them. Sometimes it is easier for both the parents and their child to let him drift along, content to be by himself, as long as he "is no bother." Unfortunately, a child like that may withdraw so far into his shell that he is not only reluctant but also afraid to participate in activities with his contemporaries or make friends with them.

Ann Landers

Business Owner Annoyed By Women Lib Employees

Dear Ann Landers: Like millions of others in this country I am fed up to the teeth with Women's Lib. I'm the owner of a business and sick and tired of the heat I'm getting to hire dames to do a man's job. Equal Opportunity and Fair Employment Practices, they call it. Well, what about Equal Opportunity and some Fair Employment Practices for me? I've got my life's savings in this business and I think I should have the right to say who I want working for me.

I read a while back about a 26-year-old woman from Titusville, Florida, who wanted to be a telephone lineman—excuse me, linewomen. She accidentally cut a high voltage power line with a pair of pliers and was burned to a crisp.

When are women going to learn that they don't belong every place? You sound like a level - headed skirt who knows the score. Tell those bleeding hearts, will you, please?—Hate Bleeding Hearts

Dear I.H.B.: Women don't belong every place but the example you dredged up to illustrate the point was a poor one. I remember when the Titusville woman was electrocuted, the accidents do happen, and hundreds of male lineworkers have met similar fates.

As more women move into men's jobs we will see how well or how poorly they do. There will always be some women who want to do heavy, masculine-type work, and I say, let 'em do it. If a male, on the other hand, wants to do female-type work, that's all right with me, too.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me how much of the talking a person does in his sleep makes sense? My husband used to kid me about the things I said and we made a big joke of it. But it's not funny anymore.

I know I talk in my sleep because I wake myself up. But I don't remember what I said. I just know I was talking. Now my husband is becoming upset because I am naming people and places and making intimate references to some of the attractive men in our crowd.

I assure by everything holy that I have not been unfaithful, but my husband is beginning to have his doubts because of my frequent references to certain people in my sleep. Or so he says.

Please tell me, Ann, is it possible to have fantasies in one's sleep? Or when a person mentions names, does it mean more than that?—Awake Nights Over Dreams

Dear Awake: Merely because you mention a man's name in your sleep does not mean you had anything to do with him. Some people have nocturnal fantasies about movie or TV stars, and they've never even met them. They dream about them, talk to them in their sleep and have a lovely time between midnight and dawn. All innocuous, of course. So tell your husband that when he hears you talking, to roll over and go to sleep. It doesn't mean a thing.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I were both born and raised in this town. We grew up with the same crowd. One of the girls was widowed last year. She is only 44. Another fellow lost his wife three months ago. These two people know each other but I don't think they realize they might be the perfect pair. Perhaps if a few of us girls start to pair them for dinner parties, they might "find each other." Right? My husband says "Wrong!" What do you say, Ann? — Cincinnati Cupid

Dear Cupid: If you want to queer a young widow's chances for all time, just start fixing her up with somebody she knows. If you want to do your friend a favor, fix her up with a new face—preferably from out of town.

Successful Living

Arnaments Cost More Than Rehabilitation Cost

By DORIS CLARK

If there were to be a law against indifference to the needs of the disabled, its preamble should state these shocking facts:

— Some 300 million people in the world, crippled by blindness, deafness, mental illness, or occupational disease, are desperately in need of a chance to requalify for a job but are unable to obtain it.

— This "waiting list" increases each year by almost 10 million as a result of population growth, industrial and other accidents, disease and malnutrition.

— Two countries in every three are lacking even basic rehabilitation services, mostly because the world spends only one cent on each disabled person a year. But on armaments, "it finds it possible to spend 200 billion a year," recently commented U Thant, former UN Secretary - General. — Information (ILO Periodical).

I met a man, also married,

Dear Doris: Some time ago Now my husband is different; he does talk and listen to me. But my love for him has died; and I hate his embraces. Yet I do look for him to come home each evening. Then I am so glad when he goes in the morning!

If you suggest I stop seeing this other man, how do I tell him and make it stick? I don't want to break up either marriage. What should I tell my husband? — Hope To Be Understood.

Dear Hope: What makes you think your husband knows nothing of your changed feelings? No use enlarging on what he already suspects.

But you could do with a serious discussion and the matter of sex relations ought to enter into it. You await his nightly return as a friend because you are lonely and now you are able to count on a little interest from him.

It is not too late to learn more about affectionate expression — if not passion — that goes with caring for a friend. And sex is the ultimate when a man-woman friendship, within marriage, ripens. You can start again; but you will need the help of a counsellor; and I'm sending you the address.

Merely deliver the news to your paramour that all is over. He will know why.

Dear Doris: I have found answers to my own problems from advice you have given others. Now I am enclosing a stamped envelope and 25 cents for which please send me the name and author of the book "In Love With Life" I said was so much help to her.

Her letter set me thinking: "Maybe some of us should stand up tall and look ourselves square in the eyes in front of a full length mirror and then search ourselves mentally; often the wrongs we see in our fellowmen start right with ourselves."

I am middle-aged, had my share of problems and sickness, and feel this book certainly can't hurt me and more certain that it will help. I am wondering if this book is our Bible. — Never Miss Your Column.

Dear Never Miss: Looking ourselves squarely in the face is a good idea, but so blessed difficult to do! This is something a social worker is able to help with; can hold up a mirror to a struggling human.

Then there is a chance for repairs.

I am sending the book details; it is not our Bible, though it might well have been. Once a minister challenged a group to embark on a self-regulated study course of reading the four gospels, a chapter at a time, with a commentary for reference alongside. He promised it would make new human beings of them.

(Anonymous letters are bad manners and may be ignored. When writing in, care of this newspaper, give Doris your right name and address. It will be kept confidential.)

Lifeline at 26,000 Feet, 475 mph

Nosing into a refuelling basket 26,000 feet above the clouds, 70 miles north of Bagotville, Quebec, a CF-5A fighter jet takes on fuel during a refuelling exercise Thursday. Two CC-137 tanker jets (Boeing 707s) from CFB Trenton have been converted to provide refuelling for short-range ground support fighters. Limited to flying time of 2-2½ hours, the CF-5 now can stay airborne three times as long, when refuelling from one of the tankers. During the flight, 286 contacts were made at a speed of 475 mph. The 707 carries 158,000 pounds of fuel and is capable of transferring 60,000 pounds at a rate of 1,400 pounds a minute from each of the tanker's two outlets. Normal refuelling time is about two minutes.

Official Plan Deadline Set

By COLEN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The long - awaited draft of official plan for the City of Belleville will be in Quinte Planning Board hands before spring, it was announced following a "summit meeting" of planners and consultants yesterday.

There had been much unrest on the part of local planners because of the lack of communication between the QPB's special committee for the official plan of Belleville and consulting firm Totten, Sims and Hubicki. Unsurprised correspondence and erratic sequence of progress reports prompted the committee to bring the principals of the consulting firm and the QPB together to get things ironed out between them.

Bert Kemp, planning director for the Quinte Planning area said, "they (consultants) started out with a very neat plan and schedule but began diverting from it . . . leaving me not knowing where we stood."

The initial stage for us of final draft will be complete and approve an in-depth planning study which will form the basis or the groundwork for the official plan.

Annexed local planners contend that any long term plans for the official city plan will be "a shot in the dark" before they ever had a chance to see the completed study.

Bill Ferguson, planning director for the consulting firm, said, "We have been delayed from schedule needed to be finished," said Mr. Ferguson, following the closed meeting.

"We have gone what we wanted all along, a completed planning study," he said. "Until December it was only sort of completed."

The completed planning study will be in local hands by Valentine's Day, followed by a two-day conference Feb. 21 and 22 between planners and consultants.

"We'll go over the entire thing with a fine-tooth comb," Mr. Kemp said. "I'm sure we don't have to tear it apart."

The special committee will receive 10 copies of the study on April 19 and simultaneously one copy of the draft official plan will be given to Mr. Kemp.

While the planning study is being reviewed by the QPB, planning board director and his staff will meet with the staff of the consultants for a second two - day conference to study the "final thinking of the consultants and their official city plan".

In a letter to consultants from Totten, Sims and Hubicki, they guarantee a final draft official plan will be presented to the committee for their information by May. 17 months after being commissioned.

A tentative date May 16 has been set for this meeting to be followed by a presentation to city council. From there it will go to public hearings and ultimately, after amendments have been made, will go for provincial government approval.

Judge Will Not Hear Noisemaking Charges

PICTON — Provincial Court Judge James Clendenning this morning ruled that charges laid against Lake Ontario Cement Co. Ltd. and Triad Truckways under the Environmental Protection Act were beyond the jurisdiction of his court and declared them a matter of national concern.

The companies were jointly charged on two counts of committing an offence under the Environmental Act by emission of sound from a loading operation.

David Estrin, representing the Environmental Law Association, said the province of Ontario likely will commence an appeal to uphold its own legislation. The E.L.A. would have the right to appeal but Mr. Estrin answered the province would act first.

He observed that most provinces have created comprehensive environment protection legislation while the federal government has only begun to move in that direction. He added that there is no anti-noise legislation in the province at this time.

Charges of mischief under the Criminal Code of Canada laid jointly against LOCL and Triad Truckways will be taken to on Feb. 14 in provincial court here.

Noting a Stockholm conference on pollution in June with world - wide representation, Judge Clendenning mentioned that the earth was in danger from pollution now.

The Lake Ontario Cement Company Ltd. today was represented by Charles Scott, acting on behalf of a Toronto attorney Charles Dubin.

Lawyer Joseph Pomerant represented Triad Truckways. Aubrey Golden represented the Environmental Law Association, failed to appear because his plane was delayed by bad weather. Attorney David Estrin acted on his behalf. Morris Manning, a representative of the Attorney General's office for Ontario also was absent and Picton Crown Attorney Donald Sheehy acted in his behalf.

Modifications Expensive, Manoeuvres Tricky

TRENTON — Before Canada's two military 707 jets from 437 Squadron here, as could serve refuelling tankers for the two CF-5 jet fighter squadrons, extensive modifications had to be done by Boeing Aircraft.

The exact expense involved was not known by military spokesmen on board a refueller refuelling - training mission Thursday.

Captain Donald Bengert of 427 Squadron said the wings of the giant jets were removed at the plant in order that modifications could be made.

The entire system, known as a Beech 1088 STORE, allows two of the fighters to hook up to the tanker at a speed of 475 miles an hour and pfor at a rate of 1,400 pounds, or fuel a minute for each jet. The whole operation takes between five and nine minutes, from initial approach to successful fuel transfer.

Attached to each of the 707's wings is a 17-foot by 23-inch cylinder that closely resembles a reversed torpedo. From this can be extended a 25-foot hose on the end of which is a spring - adjustable cone similar in shape to a badminton bird. It is into this 22-inch "basket" that the CF-5 pilots must manoeuvre a pipe that leads to the fighter's fuel tanks.

The whole process is not a simple one. During the 2 ½ dry, practice runs and actual fuel transfers witnessed by members of the press on board the Thursday flight, the extent of crew and pilot co-operation and the planning involved was apparent.

Cruising at an altitude of 26,000 feet, the 707 tanker is approached by either two or four fighters. At 24,000 feet, they ask permission to refuel.

The tanker captain radios the time he will order the "basket" extended, a matter of two minutes from start to finish. For use of the tankers, which also serve for regular military duties, two observation platforms are set up in the cabin behind the wings.

As the fighters approach, the two observers advise the pilots and the 707 command ers as to the CF-5's relative position in relation to the lowered fuel hose. When the order is given to move in to contact the flight engineer determines the distance of CF-5 pilot seat at the cylinder, or probe, that serves as a target.

At a distance of five feet, the pilot, using a joystick, the pilot cannot accurately see what he is doing. And more than for the probe. According to Captain Bengert, "if he doesn't get the probe on the approach, he will miss every time." Pilots are guided by the probe and by the observer watching his every move from the tanker.

Cotrolled by hydraulics, a fluid of 105,000 of the 158,000 pounds of fuel, can be provided for refuelling purposes. In the CF-5, fuel tankers are depressurized as fuel is taken on.

The whole operation is breathtaking. At a speed of 475 miles an hour, a small 15,715-pound CF-5 closes in on the wings of the giant Boeing, weighing 331,000 pounds.

Wind currents, as well as speed and distance come into play. It may look easy, but it isn't. Several unsuccessful passes were made during the total of 165.000 of the 707's, 286 contacts made by the 17 CFB Bagotville, Quebec, jet pilots.

Action Central

Refuelling of CF-5A fighter plane from one of two Trenton-based 707 jet tankers, is a closely-timed and highly calculated manoeuvre. The operation is controlled from the 707 cockpit in co-ordination with two observers in mid-cabin, watching the mid-air refuelling approach of the short-range jets. In charge of the flight 70 miles north of Bagotville, Quebec, Thursday, was Captain Don Johnny, second from left. Also at the action central here, are loadmaster Sergeant Jack Genteles, left, co-pilot Captain Jack Rozon, second from right and flight engineer WO Mac Beath. Not seen here is navigator Captain Gary Walker.

North Cold

The thermometer plunged to 29 degrees below zero in Bancroft. At Tweed, the ministry of the environment recorded an overnight low of seven below zero.

Parking Curfew Extended

PICTON Town council has extended its midnight curfew for motorists parking on the streets during the winter months.

At a meeting last night a bylaw to prohibit street parking from midnight to 6 a.m. was amended to read from 3 a.m. to 6 a.m. The time limit is necessitated by snow clearing operations.

Several councillors pointed out the early deadline inconvenienced residents enjoying a late night at bridge and restaurant and hotel owners whose patrons might wish to stay after midnight.

Reeve Jeanne Bird said he did not feel council had the right to set a curfew of midnight for persons who enjoy late evenings out.

Council Meeting Deadline Set

PICTON — Town council meetings have been given a new deadline by Picton mayor Harvey Aylard who feels they should close at 10 p.m.

An amendment to a procedural bylaw already requires council meetings no later than 11 p.m. unless a majority of council supports a motion to continue.

The mayor said few persons following a long day's work have the energy and clear thought in business matters when it grows much later than 10 p.m.

Despite a lengthy agenda last night councillors adjourned shortly before 10:30.

In-air Refuelling Revives CF-5s

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Two years ago, the future of 115 Canadian Armed Forces CF-5 ground support fighter jets was a sore point with defence department officials.

Ottawa had ordered the jets, at a cost of $215 million, but found most of them were relegated to the status of a mothball fleet, waiting in storage for future use.

In response to a House of Commons statement by defence minister Donald Macdonald Oct. 5, 1970, a defence department spokesman said: "Early in 1969, the government decided to freeze the defence budget, causing drastic changes in the forces' structure." Such changes included phasing out of the Bonaventure, 826 Air Transport Command's Yukon aircraft as well as the stockpiling of 44 CF-5s at CFB Trenton and North Bay.

The defence minister said at the time, delivery would be taken of all the CF-5s ordered from Canadair of Montreal. The same defence department spokesman was quoted as saying that in relation to defence cutbacks, "we had to close somewhere and it is cheaper to operate a jet than to operate a Lancaster."

Late in 1969, ex-defence minister Leo Cadieux indicated the proposed air role for Canadian Armed Forces in Europe after 1972 would be one of ground support and reconnaissance. The CF-5 was considered the answer to this NATO involvement.

Highly manoeuverable, and able to achieve speeds of up to 1,000 miles per hour, the CF-5 has one major drawback — it can only stay aloft for between two and 2½ hours before fuel runs out.

Two years ago, it was planned that two Boeing 707s attached to 437 Squadron at CFB Trenton, would be equipped with refuelling apparatus. In this way, tanker CC137s . . . military designation for the 707 . . . could act as mother ships for the short-range fighters.

In this way, the CF-5s could be shifted on short notice from Canada to Europe for defence of NATO's northern flank, a move considered impossible at the time.

Today, Canada is virtually ready to meet that commitment. Two Boeing's have been successfully converted for tanker use and tested in flight with Canada's CF-5 stations at Bagotville, Quebec, and at Cold Lake, Alberta.

To demonstrate the success of this program, 437 Squadron arranged for members of the press to attend a regular refuelling training mission 26,000 feet above CFB Bagotville on Thursday.

As spokesman for the Trenton - based squadron, Captain Don Bengert said by the end of this month, the Canadian Armed Forces will have completed refuelling training of both CF-5 squadrons.

Back in October of 1971, trials of a modified Boeing were held at Seattle, Washington. They were not successful.

To refuel, the CF-5 pilot has to rendezvous with the airborne tanker, attach itself to a flexible hose coupling and take on fuel. Early trials showed the hose coupling unstable.

Modifications were made, and by October of 1972, again in Seattle, a total of 40 hours of refuelling training by the Aerospace Engineering Test Establishment (AETE) of Canadian Armed Forces unit research/bio for evaluation" new equipment) proved the modifications successful.

Observers from CFB Trenton were on hand for the trials.

Training of pilots began in earnest in November of 1972 at Cold Lake, Alberta. Six 707 crewmen . . . two each of pilot, navigator and flight engineer . . . paired up with partners who in turn expanded the program.

CF-5 pilots from 434 Squadron, Cold Lake, began the training. Captain Bengert says of Jan. 19, from 433 Squadron, Bagotville pilots will have completed their training as well. Nine of the pilots failed to qualify during the refuelling training.

And to ensure that both tanker crews and fighter pilots are in top form, periodic training sessions will be maintained, he said.

Forces officials estimate the plausible flying time of the CF-5A can triple the former two-hour flight period.

Water Under the Bridge

Town clerk Andrew Jarvis and Mayor Harvey McFarland discuss last night after the clerk apologized for his sudden resignation at Monday's inaugural meeting of town council. The mayor warned it water under the bridge.

Clerk Retracts Resignation

PICTON — Picton clerk-treasurer Andrew Jarvis last night apologized to town council for his resignation at its inaugural meeting this week and withdrew his job following a handshake with mayor H. J. McFarland.

Mr. Jarvis stalked from the council chambers last Monday night protesting that the mayor was ignoring "procedure" when he tore up a motion to accept the minutes of the final council session of 1972 and refused to give way for a second motion to defer the signing of the minutes until their contents could be discussed in party by the new council. His first act at last night's council meeting was the signature of these minutes.

Mr. Jarvis last night told councillors and approximately 25 spectators that he was closely acquainted with procedure and admitted his action in resigning at the meeting was "possibly not in good taste." He apologized to council and to Picton ratepayers for any inconvenience this step might have caused.

The clerk observed his resignation was verbal and council "did not see fit to accept it". He said personal feelings must be set aside and attention given to the main job of carrying on the true duty of pursuing the taxpayer's interests.

"I am prepared to, carry on until such time as council decides I am no longer competent or adequate," declared Mr. Jarvis.

He stressed he was humble enough to recognize that he is not indispensable to the community but added that he has "sufficient arrogance" to declare that in no way will he ever be "expendable".

Mayor McFarland replied that he was sorry the clerk had misunderstood his intention at the inaugural meeting and termed the incident "water under the bridge." He urged full co-operation among members of council and emphasized the pitfalls in arguing over trivialities.

They now signed the minutes of the December council session after confirming with town solicitor Jack Ward that his signature would not preclude council from reviewing their contest.

'Parking' Lot To Be Plowed

PICTON — The former Mary Street school site has been declared a parking lot but according to one Picton councillor the winter rate for keeping there could be a $10 tow bill.

Councillor Norman March commented yesterday that motorists were unable to park there during the Christmas shopping rush because of an accumulation. He suggested if the site is to be called a parking lot it should be maintained as one.

Council agreed the free parking area should be plowed as soon as possible after a storm.

Minnesota Ties Boston

New York Homes Sabres

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The lack of scoreages eventually caught up with Buffalo Sabres.

The youthful National Hockey League team carried an undefeated 23-game home stretch into their game against New York Rangers Thursday night, but although they fought gamely into the final minute of play, they could not contain the Rangers' speed and a determined Ranger squad.

Steenbakkers scored three goals, one into an empty net, to give the Rangers a 4-2 victory and the Sabres their first homeice defeat of the season. The victory also gave the Rangers sole possession of third place in the East Division, four points ahead of the Sabres, who had won all four previous games this season against New York.

In other games Thursday night, Boston Bruins and Minnesota North Stars played to a 1-1 tie after both rival goalies turned in spectacular performances, and Los Angeles Kings came back from a two-goal deficit to nip Philadelphia Flyers 3-2.

In Games tonight, Montreal Canadiens are at Oakland against California Golden Seals, Toronto Maple Leafs are in Atlanta against the Flames and Detroit Red Wings meet the Canucks in Vancouver.

The Sabres' 21-game unbeaten home record. They still had seven games to go to tie the league record of 28 set by the Canadiens between March 13, 1945 and Nov. 2, 1944. In that period the Canadiens had 24 wins and four ties.

The Sabres streak included 18 victories—the last 12 on home ice—and three ties. Three games were at the end of last season.

Stemkowski, a Winnipeg native who had NHL experience with Toronto and Detroit, scored his first goal in the second period to give the Rangers a 2-1 lead. He scored again with less than a minute to go in the period.

Rene Robert, who with Richard Martin and Gil Perreault has given Buffalo's high-scoring line, scored for the Sabres on a shot from the blue line on a power play early in the third period, but with one second left in the game Dave Dryden was out of the nets, Stemkowski shot the puck from his own zone into an empty net to end a remarkable streak for an expansion team.

Goalies Ed Johnston of the Boston Bruins and Gilbert of Minnesota were brilliant throughout their tied game as Johnston made 37 saves. He was especially at his best in the third period when the North Stars outshot the Bruins 36-5.

For the North Stars, Gilbert made 30 saves. Ken Hodge's power-play goal in the first period gave the Bruins a 1-0 lead but North Stars' Fred Harvey scored the equalizer midway in the second period.

PETE STEMKOWSKI

ED JOHNSTON

Hodge finished brilliant passing plays by defencemen Bobby Orr and Johnny Bucyk for his 22nd goal while Minnesota's Barry Gibbs was in the penalty box for tripping.

Johnston, who robbed Murray Oliver of the North Stars at least five times in the game, had no chance on Harvey's seventh goal after defenceman Carol Vadnais was trapped at centre ice.

The Kings, with their win over the Flyers, moved into a tie for third place in the West Division with the North Stars, each with 44 points, six behind leading Chicago Black Hawks. The loss dropped the Flyers four points behind Los Angeles and Minnesota.

Rick Sentes, Bob Charlebois, Guy Trottier and Bob Leduc were the Ottawa scorers while Bob Jones scored for New York in the third period.

The game, watched by 3,000 fans in Ottawa Civic Centre, was marred by a second-period fight in which two players were given major.

Ron Buchanan's second goal of the night with 61 seconds remaining in the game gave the Crusaders their win over Minnesota. Buchanan's winning goal came when he knocked in his own rebound about 25 seconds after Minnesota had tied the game on Ted Hampson's power-play goal.

First WHA Shutout

McLeod Blanks Chicago

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For goaltender Don McLeod, shutouts have been rare in his professional hockey career.

McLeod, who started as a pro with Forth Worth in the Central Professional Hockey League in the 1967-68 season, finished out the shortened night as Houston Aeros blanked Chicago Cougars 5-0 in World Hockey Association action.

It was his first shutout in the WHA and the first since 1970-71 when he collected two for Fort Worth in 36 games, in which he also got six assists.

In his whole pro career, which also included spells with Detroit and Philadelphia of the National Hockey League and appearances with at least five American League teams, McLeod has registered only four shutouts, including the one Thursday night.

In other WHA games, Ottawa Nationals dumped New York Raiders 4-1 and Cleveland Crusaders edged Minnesota Fighting Saints 4-3.

McLeod, a native of Trail, B.C., got all the offensive support he needed when Dave Dahlkam scored at 2:39 of the second period on a 30-footer past Chicago goalie Andres Gill, a goal for regular goalie Jim McLeod, on relation. Murray Hall and Larry Hale also scored in the second period.

Other goals for Houston came from Ed Hoekstra and Duke Harris, both when the Aeros were shorthanded.

McLeod's shutout was almost spoiled in the second period when Chicago's Rosaire Paiement, on a pass from behind the net, sent the puck into the Houston cage. But referee Ron

Pinch-hitter Rule Adopted by AL

CHICAGO (AP) — Major league baseball, bound by tradition for decades, took a gigantic step toward change Thursday when the American League was given approval to adopt the designated pinch-hitter rule.

With attendance lagging compared to the rival National League, the American League also sought a pinch-runner rule and inter-league play at the joint meetings concluded Thursday.

The pinch-runer rule was disallowed and the major leagues announced a committee will be adopted to study and review aspects for inter-league play which could become a possibility in 1974.

The National League, which will not use the experimental pinch-hitter rule, gave its approval for the American League experiment for the next three seasons with Charles Feeney, president of the National League, admitting "if it does work out, we wouldn't be reticent to adopting it."

Under the new rule, a manager can designate a pinch hitter to bat for the starting pitcher and all subsequent pitchers in a game without affecting the status of a pitcher throughout the contest.

However, the manager must make his "designate pinch hitter" selection before the start of the game and name the pinch hitter in the lineup cards presented to the umpire-in-chief.

"The rule has great possibilities," said Joe Cronin, president of the American League. "It will give the game a new dimension. We're very happy to be able to use it."

Cronin, questioned on numerous ramifications and intricacies of the rule, said: "We'll thrash it all out before the season starts."

As far as the all-star game, the World Series and exhibitions between the two leagues, the rule will not be in effect and the basic rules of baseball will apply.

J.-C. Snead Burns Up Pheonix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) "Well," said J. C. Snead in the same soft drawl his uncle, Sam Snead, uses, "if I improve a couple of strokes I should be all right."

He said it with a big smile.

J. C.—it stands for Jesse Carlysle—had just put together a eight-under-par 61 Thursday for the first-round lead in the $150,000 Phoenix open golf tournament.

After making the turn at 30, he admitted he had visions of shooting a 59 on the 6,516-yard Arizona Country Club course, which would have been an all-time tour record.

"I've shot 29 on that back side before," he said. "I told myself, if you've got any guts at all you'll do it again."

But it was not to be.

The 30-year-old former professional baseball player birdied the 10th and 11th to go seven under par, got it to eight with a 20-foot birdie putt on the 13th hole and needed to birdie three of the next five to become the first touring player in history to on the 14th, lipped out a birdie putt on the 15th and really didn't have a good opportunity on the last three holes.

Even though his total was the best in the last 12 months on the pro tour, Snead held only a one-stroke lead as more than half the field of 144 matched or bettered par on the flat little desert layout.

Dale Douglass, fighting his way out of a year-long slump, birdied his last four holes for a 63 and Grier Jones and Bob Dickson followed at 64.

Defending title-holder Homero Blancas was at 68.

Major League -- Minor Changes

by

Eric Emerson

Sports Editor

Major league baseball has done it again. Meeting with the speed and certainty of a locomotive in a one-track mind, the baseball brass have come up with another ruffle that will help what was once America's "National pastime".

The American League has decided to introduce the "designated hitter" rule, a fancy new innovation that is supposed to cure everything from pandemic fading interest and Vida Blue's holdout problem.

The new rule means that a regular pitch-hitter (s) will come in bat and then take the pitcher in as either to put him in the game in AL circles.

Good idea guys, but couldn't you have carried it just a little bit further? Why not just have an offensive team and a defensive team. Has that other game which we don't mention but is now referred to as the number one sport on the North American continent?

Or why not just allow free substitution as in soccer? Baseball purists could label a left-hander in to pitch to John Wayne Hatfield and then switch to a righty to face Hanks Robinson? Of course the opposing manager would have the latitude to bring in a right hand batter to the plate in place of a Powell to try and get some runs brought from the bullpen. In which case the first stand could then bring in a right hand pitcher. With any luck at all you stretch games into eight or nine hour affairs with all of the fans left.

Specialists may be great in football, where you have kickers, punters, kick return men, and "safe" men - five offensive linemen, five defensive linemen and defensive film projectionists, but does that mean that baseball has to follow suit?

Isn't the beauty of a great baseball player like Babe Ruth or Roberto Clemente or Hank Aaron or Willie Mays the fact that he is a complete star? Up and down every player on the field, had to be able to run, catch, hit and throw - even pitchers. Part of Bob Gibson's greatness has been the fact that he can help himself with a bat or glove as well as his pitching fastball.

So, specialty teams are not the answer for improving baseball. They have always been known to flock to the bush leagues which have no field or fireabley Dungeon pinch hit or Johnny Callison fielder no matter how proficient that may be in that one department.

If the owners really want to improve baseball, why not shorten the season so that the best players have a chance to display their all - around talents every game. Let's face it, the Atlanta Braves aren't the greatest drawing card in the world when fans know that Hank Aaron is going to be rested because the team has already played four games in three days.

There is also talk of introducing intra-league play. But Montreal fans don't have any anxious to see the Detroit Tigers more than once every are the Pittsburgh Pirates. Or that fans in Philadelphia dying to watch the Texas Rangers? Can Los Angeles Dodgers establish a great rivalry with the Kansas City Royals? Not likely.

Baseball is to be re-vamp ed, streamlined, why do it along the lines of the English soccer league, an idea that Toronto sports writer suggested for the National Hockey League.

Place the top eight baseball teams in Division A, the next eight in Division B and the remainder in Division C. At the end of the season, Avco the first division into Division B and elevate the same number to Division A. The same number would be relegated with the "B" and "C" divisions.

Wouldn't baseball fans like to see Oakland, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Baltimore etc. vying for league honors through an entire season? At the same time, fans in Philadelphia, Texas, Cleveland etc. wouldn't see their teams eliminated from the pennant race by July, isn't a race for the Division C championship and the chance to advance up the ladder much more exciting than watching your team finish 97½ games behind the Pirates?

Certainly some changes are required in baseball. So why not for once, make those changes progressive ones?

Teachers Tops in Quinte Hockey

Shania of "Jerry we are, Belleville we are, we are the Best Team" and "Hail to the Teachers" during recess Thursday night as they defeated all the Quinte League foes with a 7-4 victory over Reid's Dairy.

All Reid's third period goal with less than 5 minutes to go to the final score was the Teachers first effort in the first three frames.

The educators started their victory march at right as Paul Peddon and Bruce Record net host goals apiece in the first period within 20 seconds of each other. Teachers Barry Woodbine and Denny Shelton replied for the losers. Scorers for the Anderson, the first frame ended at 2-2 apiece with 2 goals for Teachers.

Bill Rehorstack started the Reid's catch-up hockey scoring in the third as he took a lateral pass from Tompkins in the Teachers defensive zone, to chip a high shot past bewildered Teachers' goalie Casey Shelton. The Teachers, however were quick to make up for the lead by scoring two goals, as Ractiest beat Goaltender Bill Rehorstack.

Ted Watts, who had been playing on a sprained ankle, scored a lengthy fastie game in the first two periods, finally had his effort rewarded as he netted two third frame tallies 1:11 apart. The first goal, the winner stickhandled and shot left wing after taking a pass from Jason Morris and Reid's Dairy's worst in stone, beat Teachers' defenders and backhanded the puck into the Reid's net.

The key to the Teachers' victory despite the high scoring of the forwards rests with the backhanding of Gord Gordon and Paddon, also played with an injured leg, provided defensive support from the rear. Both defencemen made the dairymen work for low much more physically than they wanted to.

In the Quinte League's other contest Thursday night, Belleville Hotel bombed Central Taxi 9-4 as they outshot and outhit the cabbies to earn a second place tie with the dairymen.

All of Ce trai's goals came in the third period as Dwight Not only was Central Taxi's Grand Sage upended in front of Belvedere goal-

Who's at Centre?

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Barrie Colts outscored Orillia Travelways 4-3 in a Mid-Ontario Junior B Hockey League game Thursday night, but they lost 3-4.

The Colts were on their way to victory when, at 17:35 of the third period, referee Ron Marthildon noticed that the name of one Barrie player who figured in three Colt goals was not on the game sheet. The score at the time was 3-2 for Barrie.

The referee wiped out the three Barrie goals, which put Orillia into a 2-0 lead. Each team scored a goal after that.

In filling out the game sheet, Barrie officials used a combination of Mike Bullock, the player in question, and Tony Stone in order to a player named Mike Stone. Mike Stone'—or Bullock—scored a goal and two assists.

Orillia manager Bob McFadden said: "We're happy to take the two points for a win any way we can get them."

New Quinte Rink In Contests

Four newcomers to Belleville and to the Quinte Curling Club will be representing the local club in the Ontario Curling Association's British Consols bonspiel at CFB Trenton Jan. 13-14.

The first year rink skipped by Bill McDonald is the "Cinderella rink" in the draw according to Bill Riley, OCA division three chairman.

The Quinte rink with lead Mike Terris, second Vaughan Storey, and vice Les Garaas will curl against rinks from Tweed, CFB Trenton, Port Hope Country Club, Brighton, and Cobourg in the double knockout conference for representation of division three's west district.

The rink whose members are all first year residents of Belleville defeated a rink skipped by Dave Brown for the representation honors for the Quinte Curling Club in the Consol competition.

'Old Wives Tales' Won't Hinder Redskins

Page is the only player on the Vikings' starting offense who has been called for a holding penalty. Rhodes is the only player on the Redskins' offense who has never been called for holding.

"It won't happen to the Washington Redskins," he vowed.

Rookie wives aren't being allowed to invade the National Football League's locker rooms prior to Sunday's Super Bowl VII game against Miami Dolphins for the traditional Football Writers Association of America interview period. Washington's coach wants the Redskins all to himself.

"Minnesota arrived for the Super Bowl against Kansas City and the wives were unhappy about the size of their tickets," said Allen. "With all that partying, it's easy to be distracted from football."

The Vikings lounged in the Caribbean 2747 for Super Bowl VI.

Allen also suspected the Colts of having "another problem" prior to Super Bowl III when New York Jets' Joe Namath fired 16-7. Those Colts were coached by Don Shula, who now coaches the Miami Dolphins.

Miami, in contrast, has no reported spousal problems. Reservations before Sunday's game with the Dolphin wives had not quartered at the same hotel as the Miami team, visiting hours and privileges are liberal.

"Our guys might get a couple of their wives today, but they won't have much time for them," said Allen, who leaves nothing to chance.

"I don't even know where they're staying out here. If I did know, I'd tell them I'm staying in Chicago."

Both teams finished heavy physical workouts today and practice sessions at University in the Los Angeles Coliseum in the 80,000-plus still watch Sunday's NFL's extravaganza.

"This stuff about mental illness is overrated," said Redskins' running back Larry Csonka. "It's only when you're finished at football that it hurts.

"You can find many all-pro and play one better guys. For as I know, I'm ready. So is everyone else on the Dolphins."

Nobody Critical

OTTAWA (CP) — The condition of boxer Jimmy (Nobody) Mallich continued to deteriorate Thursday and little hope was held for his recovery.

Mallich, struck in the head by a baseball bat during a scuffle at a Buckingham, Que., tavern Wednesday, suffered severe brain damage and has not regained consciousness.

Two men have been charged in connection with the incident in which the boxer and a friend were beaten.

Denis Boucher, 20, was charged with assault causing bodily harm and William McDuff, 37, was charged with causing a disturbance by fighting.

"It's contolesol," said the 220-pound Utah State graduate between a fight. Let me pass on the short cuss. It appears to me that's why Shelly is so picked out it hits the target with great accuracy.

Swift, like Shula, said he enjoyed the fantasy that Allen's Vikings and the Dolphins were being the best team in pro football, even though Coach Vince Lombardi's 1966 Green Bay Packers who was Super Bowl I.

"Yeah, maybe we are better than the old Packers," he said with a smile. "I doubt we'll find out Sunday."

Shula, the taskmaster for frustrated Baltimore Colts' quarterback John Unitas and Earl Morrall, said: "Ain't no way they're going to begin me away from the game."

Scott knows how to play with pain. He went into last year's Super Bowl against Dallas with a fractured hand and returned to the ground his other hand in the second quarter.

McGregor Pots Four In Cornwall Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gary McGregor, considered one of the dandier shots in the Quebec Junior Hockey League, lived up to his reputation Thursday night firing four goals to pace Cornwall Royals to a 9-4 win over Sorel Black Hawks and back into sole possession of first place.

Meanwhile Montreal Red, White and Blue saw their rise from the tail-end of the nine-team league halted by a 6-1 loss to Shawinigan Bruins.

Stuart Davison added two goals and Blair McDonald, Terry Angel and John Nazar one each for the Royals, who now have 61 points, two ahead of Quebec Remparts. However, the Quebec club has four games in hand.

The Royals built up 3-1 and 5-3 leads after the first two periods and outshot the Hawks 45-34.

League action resumes on tonight with Trois-Rivieres Lions visiting Drummondville Rangers, Laval Nationals playing in Sorel, Sherbrooke Beavers entertaining Shawinigan and Quebec Remparts travelling to Montreal.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, JAN. 23

Aries (March 21-April 19): Fortune and competition alike tend matching effort and strongly indicated—not to see them before starting your own.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You may have to go along with irritating but unavoidable circumstances you felt on the threshold that produces results.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Inquisitive you are a bit scattered, just in the middle of things difficult to drop on a moment's notice.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): The natural impulse is to put your trust whatever has become standard or customary. Close friends count in the perhaps impossible.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Your words provoke stronger reaction than once, so be a bit more full what you ask for, sure is demanding your just share.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your tendencies toward haste and short cuts are not very helpful. If you must change course, let everybody know.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Is your temperament mild, if you let it. Almost any move you make is later seen as an over-reaction, too much, and perhaps a bit late.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Pleasant gains now are unlikely of fulfillment. Be prepared to speak out of turn, of matters better left unsaid.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Positive use of your energies can bring sudden benefit. Physical effort is needed to achieve your significant goal.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): There's no great problem being so time or even early—the sensitive area is in being arbitrary or capricious.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19): Whatever responsibility you have taken on concerning welfare, resources of another is tested, or at least reviewed.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Social activities are the source of your greatest pleasure for the day. Avoid any friend who wants to involve you in financial activity.

Low Blood Sugar Symptoms Varied

By G. C. THORSTENSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thorstenson: I have all the symptoms of hypoglycemia. I have had a glucose tolerance test and was normal for the first three hours, then fell to 37 milligrams. My doctor said no cat a candy bar when I get an attack of nervousness. I also get nervousness and shaky when I wait 3 hours between meals but they are apparently functioning.

I have had everything from psychiatric treatments to shock treatments with no help. Lately I have been on a tranquilizer which has helped, but when I stop taking it the symptoms return. I do like it though. I have hypoglycemia? —J.L.

Many a case of "nerves," both imagined and real, manifests and such symptoms has been traced to hypoglycemia, or low blood sugar.

It's a deceptive ailment, since it isn't continuous. It comes in sporadic periods, when the blood sugar falls to six or seven per cent, sometimes when it falls too fast. Then a patient may feel all right at one time, but still be plagued when these periods occur.

That's why I recommend a six-hour sugar tolerance test for the first hours, or even longer, the sugar level may stay low and finally tumble later on. The reading of 37 in your case is a severe drop, and indicative of hypoglycemia.

It is true that a candy bar (or other sugar) will bring relief immediately, but the trouble is that it affords no protection from the next episode of low blood sugar. In fact, it may bring it on sooner. The reason lies in the pancreas—the sugar molten the pancreas releases more insulin; which helps you use up sugar. Some patients, trying to combat hypoglycemia, get on a sort of up-and-down roller coaster. They step on at the bottom with sugar, then off at the next one sooner.

The goal is to have some way of preventing these attacks from occurring in the first place. You have a better idea if you have protein, which reduces the sugar response somewhat. This helps keep the level in the blood more constant. Instead of potatoes, or anything else rich in starch, between-meal snacks may be very helpful.

Since low blood sugar can be influenced by nervous tension, mild sedatives or tranquilizers may be helpful, too, but may or may not be sufficient alone.

As to the interrupted sweetheart date, that suggests an endocrine disorder of some sort. You make no mention of a menstrual cycle, which could be a thought worth pursuing.

Dear Dr. Thorstenson: Mr deGroot is 5 ft. 10 inches in Weight Watchers and has lost 48 pounds in two years. I am concerned about him and the number of diet drinks she consumes. How much is safe on a diet. Could that cause he harmful?—L.D.

I don't know that it has been harmful, and I dare say that she does it when she's tempted to eat something high in calories. She'd probably save some money and gain a few useful vitamins if occasionally she substitutes a carrot stick, stalk of celery or raw cabbage for the soft drink. The main point is that she's making a success of her diet.

Note to S.C.: For all the progress made in organ transplants, I know of no reports toward transplantation of a uterus. The types of tissue involved makes it a formidable task. Likewise most of the other organ transplants so far have been in the field of life-saving efforts.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Rubber, Notrump. North leads the seven of spades, on which South plays the ten. How would you play the hand?

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Spades. North leads the jack of clubs. How would you play the hand?

1. It is impossible to locate the queen of diamonds with any degree of certainty, but it is easy enough to assure the contract by assuming that she can't. Win the spade with the jack and play a diamond to the king, planning to take a diamond finesse next. If it wins, you are certain of ten tricks. If it loses, you are sure of nine tricks regardless of what North does next.

South is the player you can't afford to have on lead, for he is the one who can, and perhaps will, destroy you with a spade return. You therefore play the diamonds so that, if you do lose a trick in the suit, North will wind up on lead.

3. Win the club with the king and, assuming the likely 2-2 or 3-1 break, draw the opponents' trumps. Then cash the A-Q of clubs, discarding a diamond, and play the A-Q of diamonds.

The defender who wins the diamond must either return a heart, cutting off one of your heart losers, or concede a ruff and discard.

The diamond finesse is declarer's assumed because it might fail, in which case a diamond return could result in losing their best tricks and the contract.

Of course, if the trumps proved to be divided 4-0, you would have to rely chiefly on the diamond finesse. But with trumps divided normally, the suggested method of play is 100 per cent sure to win.

Tomorrow: Scintillating play.

New York Recognizes Right to Choose Death

NEW YORK (AP) — A patient or his family can decide, with a physician, when is time to stop using extraordinary means to prolong life when biological death is certain, under a new policy of the New York State Medical Society made public Thursday.

The policy has been set out in a statement concerning "the right to die with dignity." The 85-word statement reads:

"The use of euthanasia is not in the province of the physician. The right to die with dignity, or the cessation of the employment of extraordinary means to prolong the life of the body when there is irrefutable evidence that biological death is inevitable, is the decision of the patient and/or the immediate family with the approval of the family physician."

The statement was approved by the society's governing council Dec. 31. A spokesman said the council originally had asked its committee on ethics for a statement on euthanasia, so-called mercy killing, but the committee dismissed that subject briefly and turned to the question of the right to die with dignity.

The spokesman said the statement is broad enough to be adjusted to individual cases, but said one example might be a person with terminal cancer who decides, with his doctor, to forgo some treatment that might prolong his life for days or weeks.

Sudbury Firm Appeals Revoking of Licence

TORONTO (CP) — Cambrian Realty Co. Ltd. of Sudbury will appeal a government decision to revoke its real estate broker's licence.

J. C. Horowitz, chairman of the Commercial Registration Appeal Board, said Thursday the appeal likely will be held near the end of February.

The firm, formerly owned by Ross A Shouldice Co. Ltd., was notified Dec. that its licence was being revoked because it and officers Regis Moreau and David Shouldice "are not suitable be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of its business."

In a 6-page letter, J. P. Cox, registrar for Ontario's consumer and commercial relations ministry, said the Cambrian and Shouldice operations were characterized by reckleness, financial irresponsibility, incompetence, impropriety, acts detrimental to the public interest and failure to comply with government instructions and regulations.

Mr. Cox's letter outlines activities of government inspectors from 1969 to 1971. No appareal action was taken by the government until complaints about activities by Mr. Shouldice and his firms were made public last month.

The registrar's December letter is typed except for the date, the 29th, which is hand written.

Humanitarians Arise, CEPTIA Needs Doormen

CHICAGO (Reuter) — "The American Crawl," "The Doorman" and "Stick It" are three ways to save a dime recommended Thursday by the Committee to End Pay Toilets In America (CEPTIA).

Representatives of the group, which says it has a membership of more than 1,000 across the U.S. held their first major news conference at a Chicago hotel.

"Pay toilets loom in the dusty corridors of our nation's bus and train stations," said Michael Gessel, CEPTIA national president. "This await the unwary traveller in the shiny rest rooms of our airports."

CEPTIA says it has been gathering members for four years. A lifetime subscription is 25 cents.

Its aims are said to be elimination of pay toilets through legislative action and direct pressure on establishments owning them.

CEPTIA said it plans to work on local, state and national levels to end the groping in time of need for the 10 cents required to get into a public toilet.

Natalie Precker, an undergraduate at Kent State University, outlined methods of foiling a pay toilet.

The American Crawl, she said, "is aptly named because America is the land of pay toilets and crawl is what you do—right under the door."

The Doorman: "This method is recommended only for those humanitarians who have a lot of time to give the cause. It consists of opening and holding open the door of a pay toilet so that others may pass freely."

Stick It: "A piece of transparent invisible tape stretched over the lock keeps it from slipping into the slot in the door frame."

Just Running Roads

KIRKLAND Lake, Ont. (CP) — An ashen-faced mother Friday described her daughter, charged in the shooting death of a Toronto police-man, as "just one of those who got into the wrong gang." Vera Wilson's daughter — Barbara Irene Kimberley — was charged with capital murder Friday in the death of Constable James Lothian. Mrs. Wilson said she last saw her daughter in March and they haven't kept up regular correspondence. "I don't know, where she's been — she's just one of those who's running the roads."

Son May Follow Father

TORONTO (CP) — The widow of a 28-year-old Toronto policeman shot to death Thursday night says if her son ever wanted to become a police officer, she might even encourage him. "I wouldn't stand in his way," Norma Lothian said Friday less than 24 hours after her husband, Constable James Lothian, died from gunshot wounds while on the job in central Toronto. The Lothians have a son, Fraser, who will be two next month.

NDP Asks Explanation

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro has been asked by Ian Deans, New Democratic Party member of the provincial legislature, for an explanation of what he calls a 9½-per-cent pay boost for its 4,300 management employees. He said Friday that the employees, who kept the power flowing during a strike last year, also got year-end bonuses ranging from $300 to $4,000.

Luna Circles Moon

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Russia's unmanned moon probe, Luna 21, went into lunar orbit Friday but there was no immediate indication whether it would attempt a landing. The craft was launched Monday. There was some speculation it might be carrying a new automatic moonbuggy like the Lunokod 1 which landed on the moon in late 1970 by another of the Luna rocket series.

Arab Plot Charged

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — A United States congressman and a newspaper columnist said Friday the Black September Arab guerrilla group was planning to crash a hijacked airliner into the centre of Tel Aviv. Republican John Murphy (Dem.-N.Y.) said he sent a letter to President Nixon saying the information came from official United States and international government sources.

Stewardesses Strike

EDMONTON (CP) — A spokesman for Wardair Canada Ltd. said early today that a strike of stewardesses that began Friday night did not affect scheduled flights.

Old Colleagues Meet

As a weary Judy LeMarsh rubs her eye, Prime Minister Trudeau is hooked up for an appearance Thursday on the former Liberal cabinet minister's open-line show which is now done from Ottawa and broadcast over radio station CKWX in Vancouver. During his appearance, Mr. Trudeau said he doesn't understand why every defeat of a minority government in Parliament should force that government to resign. (CP Photo)

Robert Nixon Predicts $800 Million Deficit

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said Friday night Ontario faces a "fiscal nightmare."

Mr. Nixon said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Toronto and District Liberal Association, that the 1972-73 budget, originally set at $5 billion, likely will be overspent by $800 million.

He said in 1967 the budget expenditure was $1.9 billion with a $20-million surplus.

The Liberal leader said he stated in December 1972, that Ontario does not get a better deal from the federal government it would have to raise its taxes.

The fiscal nightmare, he said, has been brought about by the "fiscal mismanagement" of the present Progressive Conservative government.

The Liberal leader said the experience with regional government so far has been one of increased costs with a trend toward a more imperioual government.

He suggested that legislation incorporating the Oshawa area into a regional government should be postponed for at least six months to give communities a chance to properly examine the proposal.

Socialist Leaders Confer in Paris

PARIS (AP) — Socialist leaders from 18 countries gathered in Paris today for a conclave that is being viewed by the French governments.

But the presence of Premier Golda Meir of Israel prompted the heaviest security precautions seen in Paris in recent years. Policemen with walkie-talkies and sub-machine-guns were posted on the roofs of buildings near the Senate, where the meeting is being held.

President Georges Pompidou called the socialist meeting an intrusion into the internal affairs of France. He views the meeting as an attempt to help the socialists in the coming elections.

The Israeli premier does not plan any public appearances during her stay in the French capital and she is scheduled to return home Sunday.

The Socialist International is a 100 year-old grouping of Labor and Socialist parties. The meeting today is an informal gathering of leaders both in and out of power for an exchange of views.

Aviation Body Balks At Hijacking Sanctions

MONTREAL (CP) — Delegates from 48 countries voted here Friday to reject an international agreement which would have eliminated sanctuaries for hijackers.

By a vote of 26 to 14 with five abstentions, the legal committee of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) decided to shelve a joint U.S.-Canadian resolution which would have imposed severe international sanctions against countries hindering air pirates.

"I would say this means there isn't much of a chance for any sort of agreement including sanctions," said David Miller, the external affairs department's representative at the talks.

Picket Hurt

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — A picket at a service station on the Macdonald-Cartier freeway one mile east of Newcastle was injured Friday night when struck by a car on a ramp leading to the station.

Gerald Beaman, 28, of Oshawa was reported in satisfactory condition at Bowmanville hospital.

"They (the Arab countries') delegates keep asking us what the U.S. would do if one of Fidel Castro's cabinet ministers defected and went to the states," a delegate supposing the resolution said early in the conference.

"They want to know if the cabinet minister would be considered an air pirate or a hero."

ICAO, the world body responsible for civil aviation safety standards, had tried all week at the meeting here to work out an agreement on measures to combat terrorism on civil aircraft.

The three treaties now in existence are not uniformly enforced.

"Without the teeth of sanctions, any treaty will simply be another piece of paper with good intentions written on it," a delgate said Friday.

Moroccans Executed

RABAT (Reuter) — Eleven Moroccan air force officers and men sentenced to death for trying to kill King Hassan were executed by firing squad today, defence lawyers said.

The 11 were condemned to death by a military tribunal last November after the trial of 220 air force men involved in the abortive August coup in which jet fighters tried to shoot down the king's airliner as he flew back to Morocco from a visit to France.

France and Russia Differ On Mutual Arms Reduction

MOSCOW (Reuter) — President Georges Pompidou's visit to the Soviet Union this week gave Moscow and Paris an opportunity to reaffirm their special relationship following President Nixon's visit during the last year.

The two-day meeting with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev will help to appease French critics on the left who have said the Nixon visit means that Washington and Moscow were deciding military matters over the heads of other countries.

But the meeting also revealed that an important difference of view on European affairs has begun to dog Franco-Soviet relations, which potentially leaves France an outsider confronted by a combination of the Soviet Union and the United States.

This concerns the NATO proposal for mutual balanced force reductions (MBFR). Russia has come round to accepting negotiations on this idea, beginning in Geneva in 19 days time, in return for NATO acquiescence in its long-sought European security conference.

France, however, has decided to boycott the MBFR talks because it believes such force reductions could damage the defence potential of a future Western European community.

Thus France, the first country of the Western alliance to change the character of its relations towards Russia and achieve detente with Moscow, now appears in danger of appearing a hardliner compared with its Western allies.

Lawrence to Act

Trent Land Rules Near

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government will decide soon on land-use measures for the Niagara escarpment, the Rideau-Trent-Severn waterway system and the Toronto area, A. B. R. Lawrence, provincial secretary for resources development, said Friday.

Mr. Lawrence said the government will make hold moves in the area of land use and planning.

In an interview, he said more money will be spent to acquire land for public use and the government will bring in strict regulations to tell land owners what they can do with their property.

"There will be plenty of clear evidence of fundamental new policies and approaches from this government with regard to land-use planning," he said.

Such planning will be "dramatically increased in the years that lie ahead," he said. "This government has very strong feelings about maintaining present acreages of arable land."

Priority will be given to preserving rich farmland in the Niagara Peninsula. "You can contemplate industrial and commerce, residential development and recreation on the most unsuitable land for farming," he said.

Tax adjustments may be necessary to preserve farmland, he said. "Many farmers have their land assessed at a market value which doesn't relate to its use just for farming."

Mr. Lawrence said a report has been given to him which "proposes ways of saving the escarpment from Niagara-on-the-Lake to Tobermory."

Action is planned on that report, he said, and on the Rideau-Trent-Severn system, a 385-mile land and water recreational corridor between Ottawa and Georgian Bay. A joint federal-provincial committee warned in 1971 about pollution and over-development and declared: "Unless land use is adequately controlled, open space along the waterway may virtually cease to exist."

Mr. Lawrence said the government also is seeking ways to control urban sprawl in the Toronto-centred region, an area expected to contain eight million people by the year 2000.

Peace Talks Climax Seen

PARIS (AP) — Unusually large numbers of aides joined Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho today in what may be the crucial final session in their latest round of Vietnam peace talks.

Kissinger was to fly back to the United States after the session for consultations with President Nixon.

The U.S. presidential adviser summoned a U.S. embassy photographer to the meeting.

The presence of an official photographer could be for the purpose of photographing an event of some importance. Regular news photographers were not summoned.

Kissinger was accompanied by 18 aides and Tho had 14.

At the Florida White House, Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said Kissinger was flying directly from Paris to Homestead Air Force Base near Miami to report to the president, at Key Biscayne late tonight. Ziegler said Nixon would met Kinshger again Sunday.

Ziegler declined to indicate whether the negotiations have made any progress, but he drew attention to the length of the sessions this week. Since Monday, Kissinger and Tho have conferred for more than 30 hours, while Technical experts have met almost daily for two weeks. The experts were drafting protocols on the detailed execution of a future agreement.

Both Kissinger and Nixon's top foreign-policy adviser and the Hanoi Politburo member had made definite progress. But North Vietnam said Nixon's strategy is unchanged and a position of strengthhas been defeated.

Prime Minister Olaf Palme of Sweden, who met for 80 minutes Friday with North Vietnamese delegate Xuan Thuy, told reporters today: "It is not at all certain that there will be an agreement." He declined to elaborate or to disclose details of his talk with Thuy.

The and Kissinger on Friday completed 27½ hours of talks in five days, but both sides continued their news blackout.

ABC Television news reported from Paris that "a final agreement ending the war may already have been reached." The report did not cite any evidence to back up the claim.

"I demand a non-confidence vote!"

Red Supply Corridor Is Bombed

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 80 United States B-52 bombers saturated sections of a Communist supply corridor stretching more than 150 miles from the North Vietnamese port of Vinh across the demilitarized zone into the northern tip of South Vietnam, U.S. officials reported today.

The command said the B-52s, which dropped up to 2,400 tons of explosives in the latest raids, were striking at supply caches and troop positions in efforts to block war materiel and replacements from reaching battle-front fields in South Vietnam. The North and South have been waging a war of attrition in South Vietnam's northernmost Quang Tri province since last April.

South Vietnamese military headquarters reported that four North Vietnamese tanks, spotted closer to Saigon than any such armor before, also were knocked out by South Vietnamese bombers at rubber plantations 40 miles northwest of the capital.

Fugitive Captured

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Convicted child slayer Roy Donald Kully was recaptured and charged with kidnapping Friday night after a high speed police chase that ended when three police cruisers rammed a fleeing auto.

Kully is charged in connection with the knife-point abduction of two Ottawa construction workers.

Police said John Pearson Krohn, 22, and Cletus J. Sullivan 29, were abducted here when a man jumped into their car.

Kully escaped custody Dec. 22 when he was scheduled to play the lion's role in a children's play called The Dandy Lion. Kully fled during a rehearsal here.

Rhodesian Whites Murdered

SALISBURY (Reuer) — Rhodesian security forces stepped up their anti-guerrilla campaign today in the Mount Darwin area, about 75 miles northeast of Salisbury, where two white Rhodesian government employees were found murdered Friday and a third man wounded.

A government communique announcing the murders did not directly attribute the deaths to guerrillas, but said: "Terrorist action cannot be discounted."

The murdered men were both land inspectors and the communique said the disappearance of another white land inspector, said to have been in the same locality, was being investigated.

Should the latest deaths prove to have been the result of guerrilla action, they would raise the number killed to five since the current guerrilla offensive began just before Christmas.

The latest guerrilla activity led to Tuesday's closure of the border with Zambia which the government said would stay shut until President Kenneth Kaunda gave assurances that guerrillas could not use Zambia as a base to attack Rhodesia.

Advice: Kill One Apiece

ACCRA (AP) — The chairman of Ghana's ruling National Redemption Council, Lt. Ignatius K. Acheampong, has called on all black Rhodesians and Zambianas to "take, one white Rhodesian each, and they will be liuidated in a matter of days."

Acheampong was addressing delegates from 19 African states and 13 liberation movements Friday night at a closed session of the Organization of African Unity's liberation committe.

Excitement Mounts as Pupils Prepare for Cruise

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

For 240 Hastings county high school students, excitement is mounting daily as they make the final preparations for the cruise that will take them through the Mediterranean on their winter-break holiday.

For Centennial Secondary school vice - principal Lloyd Jones, organizer of the annual cruise, this year's trip sees most of the wrinkles ironed out of the logistics.

Mr. Jones has promoted the idea of foreign travel as a valuable learning experience for students and has overcome all the problem that arise in a venture of magnitude.

"We're just on the verge of getting the thing to run itself," he says.

Because of what he terms "the tremendous co - operation from the top down" Hastings county schools now have the Canada Youth Overseas Educational Cruises Inc., the British firm that runs school cruises, liaison between English and Canadian schools.

From now on, the winter-break cruise has been promised to Hastings county and its teachers will plan the cruise and excursions, all to the Ontario secondary school curriculum.

"Because we plan the cruise," says Mr. Jones, "we get certain benefits."

One is the right to provide the clergymen for the trip. Rev. James J. McGarvey of Frankford will serve the needs of Roman Catholics, and Rev. Mike Casswell of Trenton is the Anglican priest who will hold services for both Canadian and English students.

The students will visit nine historic cities on their three-week trip. All were chosen by Mr. Jones with a specific objective in mind.

"We are concentrating on Greece this year to show the relationship between a series of ancient societies," he says.

"The Greek portion of the cruise also touches on about a half dozen courses given in our schools."

The party will leave CFB Trenton March 15 aboard an Air Canada planes, and fly non-stop to Venice. The students will board SS Uganda, their home for the next three weeks, before touring the city.

From Venice they will sail to Delphi, Crete and Ephesus in Asia Minor (chiefly known from St. Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians). The ship will cruise around the Hegean island of Santorin, whose erupting volcano and subsequent tidal wave wiped out the ancient civilization on the island of Crete. The cruise ship will visit Corinth, Mycenae and Athens before dropping anchor in Naples. From there the students have the choice of taking a tour of either Pompeii or Rome. From Naple's airport the students will take a plane to London for a two-day visit before returning to Canada.

The entire trip, plane and ship fare, accommodation, meals and tours, costs each Canadian student $485. They were given more than a year's adjuance notice to enable them to earn money.

While on shipboard the students will attend regular classes arranged by the English director of education retained by the shipping company. On this trip the Hastings county teachers, headed by Mr. Jones will share the teaching duties. Lectures are planned to give students a thorough background on the history, geography, economics and art in each area affecting the places they are to visit.

But while the program brought quick and angry denunciation from the New York Civil Liberties Union and other quarters, it was applauded by some state prosecutors, police officers and judges.

It got speedy endorsement from the hard-line New York Daily News which, labeling pushers "the scum of the city," said a "one-strike-and-you're-out law . . . would save hordes of pushers to go out of business rather than chance a lifetime in the clink."

The Liberal-minded New York Times said Rockefeller was in error when he suggested society "has no alternative" to his extreme lock-'em-up response to the drug challenge.

There was a broad and unexplored ground between the two extremes of some law-enforcement officials to impose excessively lenient sentences and the governor's "wild demand for mandatory life imprisonment for petty dealing in Hashish."

State Supreme Court Justice Irwin Brownstein commented:

"I have a 19-year-old daughter. I hate to think that if she got involved in something like this, the community would just say 'The hell with her.'"

A key element of the Rockefeller program is the abolition of plea bargaining—the device by which an accused pleads guilty to a lesser charge in return for a lighter sentence.

The state benefits through eliminations of trial expenses.

Loyalist Stretching Civilization

The second part of the Loyalist College interest course on Civilization will begin on Jan. 30 at the college.

The course will cover the development of western culture from the industrial revolution to the present through its art and architecture.

The course will be given every Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. Instructors are Dave Shabot, an architect and Wayne Cole of Loyalist's English department.

The Hastings county contingent is taking an excursion with it to ensure dances every night and daily assemblies will be put on by both the English and Canadian students. Mr. Jones is arranging group discussion between English and Canadian schools, when students can compare their different ways of life. There will be an adventure on tentainment night and a fancy dress night.

"If the kids get a little relaxed about it, I'm glad to see it," he says.

The ship can put up about 900 students in dormatories, so the majority of students are English. British schools are dedicated to travel, tours and excursions so that many English students have taken 12 cruises before they graduate from high school.

Compared to Canadians of the same age, English teenagers are socially unsophisticated and their teachers regard Canadian teachers as "too permissive." On the other hand, students in some English schools always refer to their teachers by their first names.

The hand-holding that goes on in Canadian school corridors in between period breaks is distressing to the English, and absolutely forbidden aboard the cruise ship.

English food (grilled tomatoes at breakfast) is startling to pampered Canadian students. Officers aboard ship are English: those performing the menial chores are Indian. The relationship between the English and their former colonial subjects puzzles and distresses the Canadians until they learn the natural factors involved.

"It is fascinating to watch the reactions of the two groups of students — English and Canadian, says Mr. Jones.

A case in point is the activity when a ship or sea picture is sighted.

"The English rush to the rail and set up another conversation whose terms are foreign to us," says Mr. Jones. "They become unhistorically involved in the trim of a ship or its lines. They're a sea-faring, maritime people; we are continentalists."

Because Hasting County teachers are in the driver's seat on the winter-break Newcold cruise, they can specify the age group they prefer among the English students. To ensure a real cultural exchange, they have asked that the British send students of at least 16 to 17 years old. Normally, the Mediterranean cruise is taken by English students at the grade 7 and 8 level.

The Canadians got more than Hastings county. Among the English to be present this year are contingents from two of Britain's most exclusive schools—Eton College for Boys and Slough for girls.

The opportunities for social research are endless, when egalitarian Canadians meet the cream of Britain's future aristocracy.

Hard Rockefeller Drug Line Applauded AND Deplored

NEW YORK (CP) — A major row has erupted over a proposal by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller that drug pushers and violent addicts be tossed into jail for life.

The arguments have been particularly heated in New York City, where an estimated 150,000 of the country's drug addicts have found a haven. Junkies seeking the price of a fix are said to account for one-half of the street muggings and residential burglaries.

Rockefeller's tough anti-drug anti-crime program was announced in the state speech to the legislature, followed by a formal government bill.

Demanding "brutal honesty" he proposed that all convicted drug pushers and violent addicts receive mandatory life imprisonment with no possibility of parole and that even teenaged drug traffickers face possible life sentences with parole possible only after 15 years.

Bounties of $1,000 would be offered to those turning in pushers.

The harshness of the program stunned the legislature and compiled this comment from one skeptical Democratic member: "When are we going to open the concentration camps?"

But while the program brought quick and angry denunciation from the New York Civil Liberties Union and other quarters, it was applauded by some state prosecutors, police officers and judges.

It got speedy endorsement from the hard-line New York Daily News which, labeling pushers "the scum of the city," said a "one-strike-and-you're-out law . . . would save hordes of pushers to go out of business rather than chance a lifetime in the clink."

Nurses Take Steps To Ensure Status Quo

Ontario's association of registered nurses is appointing task forces to ensure the status quo after an announcement yesterday which changed the name of their employer from the ministry of health in the ministry of colleges and universities.

The transfer came with the provincial announcement that nursing schools across the province would leave the health portfolio, "to be placed in the mainstream of education.

Some 9,500 student nurses and 56 schools and their staffs will be effected by the announcement transfer which some say has been anticipated for at least 10 years.

The nursing association feels there is some danger they will be short - changed in the fast pace that will have to be set to complete the transfer by Sept. 1.

In their communique they advise, "no personnel should be disadvantaged should they choose to move to the college with the program.

Phillip Rickard, administrator of Belleville General Hospital, said Friday little immediate change for the local school would result from the announcement and "the earnings, working conditions and fringe benefits for staff will not suffer. They will be at least as good or better."

Speculating on the future of the existing Cavell school building, Mr. Rickard guessed Loyalist College may choose to rent the building as a campus facility until new buildings are completed on the main campus site.

He believed there were allowances for appropriate teaching facilities and that the building is expected to be completed next fall.

A statesman said he had received no instructions yet, and could not comment on the status of building construction or future administration of nursing student.

Computer Is Teacher

Loyalist College has joined a select group of community colleges across Ontario and a few high schools in an experimental computer program.

The project is computer-assisted instruction, the latest teaching aid in education.

Loyalist is using the computer for remedial mathematics programs up to the grade 12 level.

Students entering the college's technology department are tested on their math knowledge and put on computer - assisted instruction if their skills are not up to grade 12 level. So far 65 students are using the computer in spare periods and after hours to upgrade their knowledge. Some adult students are taking part in the program as a refresher course. A 11 year-old from one to three hours a week on computer - assisted instruction.

"This is a very personal situation for each student," said Dr. Tony Knowles of the program. "It has been estimated that the program can be tailored to suit the needs of everyone in the world."

Representatives from the participating colleges and high schools wrote the program required to cover the standard math courses given in Ontario schools. The Ontario Institute for Studies in Education took over to convert the teachers' material into program language and put it on the computer. The terminal at Loyalist is hooked into a computer at OISE in Toronto, which is, in turn, hooked into a computer at the National Research Council at Ottawa. Both OISE and NRC are supporting and supervising the experimental program.

When the student sits down at the terminal he is presented with instruction, example problems, test questions and drill questions on a computer printout. As he works out the problems, the printout tells him whether his answer is right or wrong and gives further instruction if necessary. If computer and student reach an impasse, the printout will direct the student to seek personal instruction from a teacher before continuing. To pass each section of the course, the student must achieve 80 per cent.

The student response is extremely encouraging," said Dr. Knowles, the Loyalist teacher in charge of the program.

Plugging into the computer terminal appears to be a motivating factor in learning, added Dr. Knowles. Since the program started in September, student enthusiasm for the program has remained high.

Although only remedial math is offered in computer-assisted instruction at present, OISE and NRC are looking into using the teaching aid for physics, electricity courses and English.

Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc this month joined the experimental program with the installation of a computer terminal in the school.

Use of computers in education is limited only by the imagination, said Dr. Knowles.

"I don't know where it's taking us in the future, but the prospects are very promising," he said.

Computer Learning

Loyalist student Steven Rodgers works on math problems at the terminal of a computer program to teach mathematics. Assisting him is Dr. Tony Knowles. the Loyalist instructor in charge of computer assisted instruction, an experimental program now being conducted at the college.

Stirling council has received a request to replace pupils now acting as crossing guards with adults. Public school principal George Patino, vice-principal Ed Fleming and OPP Constable Brian Tepper, will attend the next council meeting Jan. 15 to discuss the proposal with councillors.

Wellington's Reeve Defending New Sewer

WELLINGTON — Wellington reeve Robert Boyce this week met with members of the village's senior citizens' club to discuss the proposed installation of a sewerage system. A petition has been circulated loosely protesting the new facility on the basis of cost and hardship and its organizers have suggested most senior citizens are opposed to the project.

Mr. Boyce, who returned to municipal politics last month following a two-year absence, stressed in an interview that he is concerned for Wellington's retired residents and is eager to see the sewerage system installed as economically as possible.

He sought a meeting with the senior citizens' club to exchange views and to fully explain the village council's proposal.

Mr. Boyce said during his election campaign last fall he spoke with many elderly residents who favored the project and wanted to promote village growth. The reeve observed council does not wish to burden taxpayers and all aspects of the new installation would be carefully researched. He predicted failure to install the system might necessitate the construction of a direct pipeline to Lake Ontario. A purification plant then would be required at an approximate cost of one million dollars.

The reeve confined the sewerage service would cost taxpayers an estimated $127 a year and homeowners would be required to pay for hookups at an estimated average cost of $100 to $150.

Reeve Boyce said some village residents objected to the installation of water services in 1963 when an estimated cost of $240,000 was forwarded. The project was completed, however, for a figure within $700 of the original cost estimate.

Cost of the new sewerage system has been estimated at approximately $1,150,380.

Mayor Lectures Council

PICTON — Mayor Harvey J. McFarland Thursday delivered the first of a series of lessons in foresight which he has planned for town councillors this year.

The mayor rapped the town's sale of the Armory Mall several years ago to the Standard Trust Company and pointed out how this step led to a sharp loss in local revenue in the months which followed. He informed councillors he will give brief addresses on other incidents involving foresight at all future meetings.

The Armory Mall was purchased by the town for $7,500 and mayor McFarland welcomed the acquisition of the huge edifice as an opportunity for Picton to develop a recreation centre. He also planned lockup facilities and town offices in the building.

Eventually councillors asked to meet with the mayor to discuss the purchase and, in a special meeting held at his home because he was ill, requested him to promote the sale of the Armory. Subsequently he was harshly criticized for conducting the meeting at his home and it was hinted it was an attempt at secrecy.

The mayor said councillors felt the building would become a burden to the taxpayers and acting against his wishes he sold it to the trust company for $22,500.

The building's new tenants invested approximately $90,000 in improvements and last year sold the mall for about $139,000.

Mr. McFarland said a 15-year lease now has been signed in Toronto by an unidentified person for part of the Armories and through it the owner will receive approximately $60,000 a year.

Over the 15-year period roughly $1 million revenue will be realized.

"We didn't look ahead, we got cold feet," declared the mayor as he lamented the money which might have been paid to the town had the mall not been sold.

Mayor McFarland also reported the third floor of the mall will be used by Prince Edward Heights residents who will learn simple automotive repairs there.

The students will be bused to and from the provincial government complex to the downtown mall at the taxpayer's expense The mayor criticized this action because he is convinced Prince Edward Heights is equipped with every possible facility and residents trained in basic garage work may take business from local persons.

YMCA Week Ends With Summit Talk

A summit meeting of the boards of directors of the Belleville Family YMCA and the United Community Services will serve as the finale of YMCA Week, Jan. 15 to 21.

The outcome of the meeting, scheduled for next Saturday in the Four Seasons Hotel, will spell the future for the Y in their dealings with the United Appeal, from which they were expelled in late December.

The theme for Y Week has been set as "People . . . Helping Change Happen," and will be shared in the 99 communities across Canada where YM and YWCAs can be found.

In a joint release from the presidents of both men's and women's organizations, both report a change in some priorities of the organization.

One of the changes involves the evolution of the Y from a physical fitness centre, located in one building, to an organization that reaches out into the community to aid in solutions of social problems.

For the Belleville Y, the week will mean reaching into the community to disperse information about the Y and its functions

Beginning Monday, a luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club will be highlighted by a presentation of YMCA General Secretary of the National Council, Les Vipond.

Tuesday, the Y will meet with members of the City Recreation - Arena Committee followed by a meeting with the Quinte District Labor Council Wednesday.

The Y's Men's Club will observe Y Week at its regular meeting with guest speaker Dave McLaughlin. He is the assistant director of the National Council's World Y Development.

Final touch of the week will be an open house at the Y in which the general public may tour the building and have a greater appreciation of the facility.

Open house will continue from 2 p.m. until 5:30 p.m., Sunday.

U.S. and Vietnam

Many will scoff at the idea (which is not a new one anyway) that the Americans have been fighting in Vietnam all these years, not for their own self-aggrandizement but in a genuine effort to contain the spread of Communism throughout all of Asia. But that is the case, in our view.

The U.S. bombing and world reaction to it reminded us of a premise of Churchill's, as we recall. "In war," he said, "you don't have to be nice — you only have to be right." He that as it may, if the U.S. had refrained from overt military action (the bombing) would the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have followed suit? We have grave doubts that they would have been so obliging, for they had already violated the demilitarized zone and were on their way almost to total victory until U.S. air power and stiffening South Vietnamese resistance turned them back. Right or wrong then, the bombing was directed against the Communists who in a variety of ways the world over have shown they wish our way of life no good.

So the question must be asked, whose side are Canadians — and Swedes — and all the other critics of U.S. policy really on?

Why has Sweden, for example, maintained one of the world's most powerful jet fighter forces — estimated at some 1,000 aircraft — on instant alert in recent years? And why are these planes, as well as naval vessels, housed in hangars and caves hewn out of rock? Why, if not to face any attack from Russia only a brief distance away by air.

Does Canada have anything to fear from its big neighbor? We believe the answer is no. But given the performance of the Soviet Union, on the other hand, in absorbing once-independent countries from the Baltic to the Black Sea, its record in dealing with political prisoners, its continuing practice of subversion through the activities of foreign guerrilla movements and by espionage, its infiltration of organizations in the western world, its creation of an iron curtain between east and west . . . are we to regard these as friendly acts?

Similarly Australia — until recently an active ally of the United States in Vietnam — has embarked on a right-about-face course of anti-Americanism, spurred on by the new Labor government of Gough Whitlam. But there is evidence that Whitlam, in his brewing rush to overturn the old order down under, has already shot his bolt, alienating in the process individuals and groups that helped him to power. The recent action on U.S. shipping provides such a split, as well as provoking retaliatory action by U.S. dock workers against vessels carrying Australian meat.

Neither Australia nor neighboring New Zealand, which also swung to a Labor administration recently, can afford to lose United States' friendship and support in the Pacific region. Both countries, though principally European in population and traditions, are to all intents and purposes in the Asian orbit. If they allow their policies to be unmoulded by any alien ideology or militancy they must know with whom they must ally themselves in the years ahead. American policy may at times be alarming, but in the very long run, aside from the fact that they are friends and neighbors, we would rather have them at our side than proponents of the opposing ideology into whose hands so many seem to be playing today.

Hands of Fate

A lot of people in these hazardous days — and particularly in the United States — are finding themselves in the wrong places at the wrong time. We are haunted for instance by the death in the New Orleans hotel shootings the other day of a young hospital intern, Robert Steagall, and his wife.

Described as "a happy, talented, hardworking, good-looking young couple" for whom "every day was a honeymoon" (except their last) they were shot down while, presumably, fleeing the hotel. Their bodies were found in a corridor. They had been married only since last July.

Others are mourned too in this senseless tragedy — the dead gangsters and persons who, like the Steagalls, just happened to be there and in the gun sights.

The mental turmoil that has spawned this and other such tragedies in the United States is almost beyond comprehension. It is as much a cause for the greatest concern, as well as counter action, by the authorities and citizens as is the war in Vietnam. For if it is allowed to continue we can envisage only domestic disorder and anarchy on a terrifyingly stepped-up scale.

How Industry Benefits

Lobbying: A Creative Political Art All Its Own

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — From all the weird and wondrous tales you hear about lobbying, it has to be a business with a mystique all its own.

It is supposed to be one of the Capital's bigger, if slightly hush-hush political spin - off industries.

Lobbying is a creative endeavor.

Its inventive practitioners, when things are dire, sometimes as must all entrepreneurs, initiate a demand for their services.

Now, being careful not to take it literally nor even altogether seriously, let us suppose one of our lobbyists, not lacking initiative, is hot after the 25-speed-straight - up - the - wall - superdrive bike - sprocket industry's non - existent Ottawa political account.

First thing he must do is contact all leading 25 - speed - straight - up - the - wall - superdrive-bike-sprocket manufacturers, wherever they may be, and urge upon them the dire necessity of forming an association in the interests of protecting and preserving the industry.

For, he tips them, he has heard through the parliamentary grapevine that, considerations may be given some form of legislation in the immediate future that could be detrimental to the industry.

For a small fee he is willing to represent the proposed association and keep the 25 - speed-straight - up - the - wall-superdrive bike - sprocket people clued in on what is moving in their direction along Ottawa's corridors of power.

For the lands the account, he fast - talks a friendly MP or Senator into introducing a bill imposing some restrictions on the super-power of the 25-speed-straight - up - the wall-bike - sprocket.

Sells one or other of the honorable gentlemen on the safety angle in the appealing context of the public interest.

Then the lobbyist sends out the disturbing news to all association members, warning them that they may be in for big trouble as their chief concern, the 15 - speed - hill-killer-bike-sprocket people are behind the bill.

He may even add that the competition has a couple of lame parliamentarians in its corner and urges the association to take immediate action.

So the association president calls an executive emergency meeting and the lobbyist is flown in by the firm's personal on-the-spot run-down.

Whamo up the war chest in a hurry to "fight the bill, be counsels them, or, who knows, it could go through.

So the funds are voted and the lobbyist promises to use all the considerable political leverage he has.

He writes to the ministers of Industry, Trade and Commerce, Consumer and Corporate Affairs, and chairmen of the Parliamentary Committee on Vehicular Safety, telling them why the bill is restrictive, unnecessary and further unwarranted intrusion of government in business.

Very impressive.

He keeps busy and in constant touch with the association; he has good news for it today, not so good tomorrow, with the situation always fluid.

Then the Parliamentary Committee on Vehicular Safety schedules hearings and he alerts the association that the new controversial bike sprocket issue could come up so please push more money to fight the bill.

The committee meets, and since there is that bill about bike safety on the Order Paper in self - defence and justification and, of course, it is a public interest, it will look into it. Briefly.

On the lobbyist's advice, the association's executive director flies in to testify, which is a pretty big deal on account of it is not everyone who gets to appear before the parliamentary committee.

The association executive is impressed, and when the lobbyist assures them that their director's evidence probably saved the day, they gratefully double his retainer.

Weeks later, the Parliament-

Australia is on A Radical Course Under Whitlam

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Australia, only weeks away from the election which brought Labor Prime Minister Edward Gough Whitlam to power, has a changed world image.

Since 1942, and the first American military presence in Australia as a remarkable bastion against the Japanese invasion of South East Asia, this sub-continent's ties grew closer and closer to Washington.

During the 1950s and 60s, U.S. branch plants penetrated the Australian economy with most under successive-hardline governments. Australia, unlike most other large Commonwealth countries, committed herself to direct participation in the Vietnam War.

By the late 1960s, Australia had nearly 10,000 combat troops in Vietnam (now withdrawn), another 1,000 on anti-Communist peace-keeping duties in Malaysia and a conscription with the U.S. military-industrial complex second to none among Commonwealth nations.

All this is changing radically and quickly. Prime Minister Whitlam in another version of making massive changes in the first 100 days in office, has recognized Communist China, has opened negotiations to do the same with Communist East Germany, instructed Australia's United Nations chief to support moves for the neutralization of the Indian Ocean and for action to withhold Australian support for UN resolutions on South African white-ruled Rhodesia.

At home, Mr. Whitlam has ignited both Uncle Sam's beard and Britannia's lion's tail by ordering a no-holds-barred study of foreign investment in the country and stopped further British knighthoods and decorations for Australian citizens.

This breathtaking number of changes includes many other new developments in its sweep. Again at home, Prime Minister Whitlam has announced an end to Australia's historic "all-white" immigration policy, approved in principle equal pay for women, ended a high 27 per cent tax on contraceptive pills which will now be available through Australia's, British-style National Health Scheme at less cost.

What in the world is he doing to the virile, chauvinistic, barrel-storming image of the Australian, originator and practitioner of the "gung-ho" philosophy?

Radically changing it, perhaps, in the first opportunity for Labor in Australia to influence the nation's direction since the end of the Second World War. In fact, Mr. Whitlam's whirlwind sweep of legislative and social changes is called by Radically Australian.

No other Commonwealth country least of all our own, in which every move is calculated almost too carefully where the United States is concerned, would dare move with the kangaroo leaps of the new Whitlam regime.

Being a social democrat, he has changed the nation's commitments from the historic ones of laissez faire (to business), traditional (supporting the historic British connection) and military (the continuum in the previous Vietnamese commitment of the long Anzac battle record).

Canadian politicians and bureaucrats have said that Australia can move more independently where the United States is concerned because that powerful nation is separated by thousands of miles of ocean from Australia, whereas Canada is geographically attached to her big neighbor.

The Australians (pre-Whitlam) used to say "that's very well for the Canadians but we have a Japanese menace (circa the Second World War and before), and a Communist Chinese menace (circa the 1950s and 60s) to protect ourselves against."

If the "red" or "yellow" peril is still there, Prime Minister Whitlam doesn't see it. As for the Japanese, they are deeply involved in Australia as in western Canada, to joint exploitation of natural resources and mining. Australia is on the move again.

The BCI Home and School meeting was presided over by acting president, Mrs. H. R. Varcoe. A number of students, Miss M. Templer, gave a short musical program: Hazel Lloyd, Diane Whitehead, Bonnie Cavers, Cora and Greg Butler rendered selections.

The WMS of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held its first meeting of the year when a great number of members gathered to welcome the new president, Mrs. John Craig. Mrs. Craig has succeeded Mrs. W. Britain has doubled her food production and now raises twothirds of what she consumes as against one third in pre-war days. In 1939 — 11 million acres under cultivation as against 12 - million before 1939. One of the features in British Agriculture is the large number of girls in the land army. At first a prejudice existed against girls in farm work but today the farmerette land army has reached a total of 30,000; their merits are being admitted. They work a 48 hour maximum week. The girls receive a 50 month's training in agricultural colleges and they are put through aptitude tests.

Quitting?

Ottawa Journal

Perhaps the secret is not to make a big thing of stopping smoking. One chap we know got a three-week start on his New Year's resolution, when a week off cigarettes before anyone noticed, for he had made no grandiose promises. He says he has a 20-cigarettes-per man for 16 years he has to approach quitting much the same way as an alcoholic would try to shun the bottle — one day at a time. He figures that a full year of total abstinence may entitle him to announce next New Year's that he has really quit smoking.

Committees Galore!

By DON O'LEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

This year there undoubtedly will be dozens, probably hundreds, of committees of inquiry, commissions of inquiry and task forces appointed in Ontario.

Committees and task forces are the in things these days. They are all over the place. Nobody here knows how many there are in government.

One minister told me he doesn't even know how many he has in his own department.

But the committees which probably won't be appointed, and which well could be needed most of all, is a committee to inquire into committees.

One can put up a strong argument that through overuse of committees government today (and, of course, this applies not only in Ontario but in governments generally) is not only being absurdly inefficient but is close to ineffectiveness.

In certain circumstances or circumstances committees are fine.

But generally they tend to be confused and weak. Usually they are dominated by a committee tends to have his own pet theories or prejudices. Almost inevitably as a result committees tend to produce reports which should because of this, with a climate of confusion. And their findings are usually compromises that tend to try and cater to each and everyone.

Perhaps this is not too harmful if committees are confined mainly to occupy some people, pay off some political debts and to deal with relatively insignificant matters.

But when the obsession for them in recent years they have meant a great deal of waste and can be harmful beyond this.

Immediately one thinks of the Committee on Productivity. Productivity here, otherwise known as GOOP or the Croxon Committee.

This committee has cost a fortune to date and has stymied to varying degree hundreds of people.

Yet it really didn't come up with much.

It proposed a reorganization of government into a policy secretariat system. This may prove to be important, though perhaps a committee of one or two really knowledgeable men could have come up with something more efficient.

But, beyond this, its recommendations are a lot of hogwash and in some cases highly questionable.

Any one interested would do well to compare its work with the one-man inquiries of J. C. McIlmer here, Glasco in Ottawa or a report on government organization in Ontario made by Walter Gordon some years ago.

These men didn't have to deal with pet prejudices or minor colleagues and they came up with solid down-to-earth understanding of their problems and practical suggestions.

"Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all they heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind." Matthew 22:37

If we think that we can please God with a casual relationship, a few words of respect and a little religious service, we had better take a good look at these words from the Master.

Teacher Is Remembered

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Would you be so kind as to allow me a small space in your fine newspaper to pay a public tribute to the late Mr. Everett Fairman.

Some years ago I spent one of the happiest years of my school life in Grade 8 with the late Mary School with Mr. Fairman as my teacher.

In this room I learned a great deal more than reading, writing and arithmetic Once or twice a week we would close all books and had a session of fine educating many topics of interest. Here we learned a lot about our teacher, his thoughts, his interests, his high morals and goals in life. He had humor, a shy grin, quick wit, and the love and respect of all his pupils.

For all the thousands of pupils who passed through his doors while he was teacher or principal, I'm sure they would all agree with me when I say, using a little slang, "He was one terrific guy."

Prospects for Freedom Often Dark These Days

By REV. G. C. SMITH

On August 14, 1941, two great men, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Franklin Roosevelt met on a battleship off the coast of Maine and drafted and signed an historic document called the Atlantic Charter. In it they incorporated four freedoms which Roosevelt said must become the rights of everybody. These were freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from want, and freedom from fear.

How tragic it is to consider the lot of freedom nowadays. The battle of our times has to do with whether human spirits minds, and bodies are to be truly free or held in chains. We must realize that if the battle of chains is lengthening, if liberty is at stake, the threat comes from more than one source that we have to be alert on more than one issue: and that the enemy is not always authentic else, behind the Iron Curtain.

The foe is often on our side. In our economy in the hands of those who proclaim that they cherish freedom every bit as much as we do; also, even within each of ourselves. Progress is not inevitable. Civilizations have come and gone. The clock has often turned back for generations. The veneer of sophistication is not a wearing off. What is underneath? Only vigilance is the price of liberty".

The cult of uniformity needs to be reckoned with. Ours is an age of organizing things without experiencing them. This is a story, perhaps apocryphal and yet a parable, about a high executive. He returned home quite tired one evening. His wife commented on it. She inquired if he had had a particularly busy day. "Dreadful," he replied. "The computer broke down and we had to think."

The cult of secular education. The needs to be reckoned with. The fathers used to shower children with generosity: the sons send fat cheques elsewhere. There ought to be a better balance. Knowledge is growing by leaps and bounds. But is it producing wisdom?

"The 20th century crisis is a crisis of the individual." So wrote Dr. Carl Jung, noted Swiss psychologist and psychiatrist, some time ago. Prophetic words. Astronomically speaking, we are a mere speck in space. The fact of the matter runs counter to this conclusion, since man is the astronomer! It is of utmost urgency that we the individual. We must, above all, rally every spiritual instinct, religious memory and moral vow to do battle.

I recall the story which historian Arnold Toynbee has told of a pilgrimage made to an ancient shrine where "he prayed that the spirit which had once created a western Christian civilization out of the chaos of the dark ages might return to re-consecrate a yesterday wrecked world."

The only ideal society, the only satisfying relationship, the full flowering of human personality will be achieved when people strive both to preserve the value of the individual and to foster indigation to serve all humanity; where they learn, all through patience, self-discipline, courage, to follow the precepts and example of heart and conscience and love.

Housing Developers Gambol From Bethlehem to Bethel

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel is fortifying Arab Jerusalem with a massive blitz of bunker—one made of bedrooms and bulconcrete.

The defences are designed to withstand a political offensive. Foreign visitors are civilian Jewish families: mothers with shopping bags and children with school bags.

Determined to hold onto the eastern half of the city, formerly ruled by Arabs, Israel is massive building housing developments from Bethlehem in the south, across the Judean hills to the east, and up to biblical Bethel in the north The building rate shows no signs of slowing. It is expected to complete 30,000 apartment units by 1978, has drawn Arab condemnation and international criticism.

For the message is clear: Israel intends to stay in the Holy City, including the Arab half it captured in the 1967 Mideast War.

The majority of laborers, crane operators and bulldozer drivers are Arabs from Bethlehem. Ten thousand are working there three times the number they earned under Jordanian rule.

The building boom has set a gigantic hand clamping down in a semicircle on the east side, each finger a massive block of sands of Jewish families.

In Gilah, halfway between Jerusalem and Bethlehem, a housing complex for 8,000 families is nearing completion.

The township of Talpiyot East is rising up on Mount Scopus Jordan Hills, contrasting starkly with the nearby Arab village of Tour Babar, nestling against a hill opposite.

Bethlehem's northern approaches, once rural, now are a facade of stone eight storeys high, comprising the residential areas of French Hill, Mivtar Hill and Ramot Eshkol, named after former Premier Levi Eshkol.

Near the placid Arab hamlet of Nebi Samwil, reputed burial place of Samuel, the prophet, troops are clearing thousands of boulders left from Jordanian times to make way for an 8,000-flat project.

The building program, with its unconcealed political hue, has its roots in the days when Israel was Palestine. Then the Jews would sneak past British guards at night, set up tents and trenches and stake their claim to chunk after chunk of the land they were determined to rule.

Today the Israelis no longer keep their intentions secret. But the decades-old practice of "establishing facts" remains in full force, primarily in East Jerusalem. It is taking place in other areas of occupied Arab land which Israel refuses to relinquish and, instead, is populating with Jewish settlers.

Israel says most of the land it is developing was owned by the Jordanian government and lay fallow. The housing ministry says that only a few cases were there private Arab owners or tenants and that these were located and compensated.

Inside Israel, the biggest dispute over the building projects involved conservationists, who accused the builders of despoiling a biblical landscape.

Mission Town in Alberta Is Undergoing Second Boom

ST. ALBERT, Alta. (CP) — The banging and clattering of construction is ringing in a new era for Alberta's oldest and largest town.

The little mission town, which has huddled quietly in the advancing shadow of Edmonton for decades, is going through its second boom in 112 years.

St. Albert, founded as a Roman Catholic mission in 1861 by Oblate priest Albert Lacombe, rapidly is becoming Edmonton's favorite dormitory community. It is estimated that 95 per cent of its 13,000 residents now work in the provincial capital, only a few miles south of here.

The town's population was only 1,000 in 1957 and the Edmonton Regional Planning Commission projects it will reach 30,000 in the next nine years. If present growth rates continue, there will be more than 100,000 people living here by 2001.

The first boom was about 100 years ago when St. Albert mission became an episcopal see. It also became an important agriculture centre in the Fort Edmonton area.

The current boom actually started five years ago, but changes have not been particularly noticeable until recently.

St. Albert still is without traffic lights, and except for the traffic madness on the main highway to Edmonton, the community is quietly rural in appearance. There is only one shopping centre, one main street, one hotel and one restaurant elevated—in the newly-constructed Sturgeon General Hospital.

But an average of more than two single family dwellings is made ready for the market each day.

By early in December, the town had issued 614 house building permits for 1972, nd there were 830 buildings lots either ready to go, or already under way in house builders.

Assessment, $38.2 million in 1970, now is about $25 million, about 90 per cent of which is residential.

Annual house taxes are a little higher than in Edmonton because of the lack of commercial and industrial assessment.

To balance this the town has imposed a $5,500 minimum assessment for houses. Cheaper houses, whose assessment would be less than that, cannot be built.

One new hotel already is under construction and two more are planned. Alberta's fourth university was to be built here, but dwindling university enrolments and financial problems forced suspension of that project in 1971.

Two massive residential developments now are being built in the town's east side. The other forecasts filling up 465 acres with housing in the north end.

Mayor Ray Gibbon says the only danger which could hinder St. Albert's growth are limitations of sewer and water systems. But, he's confident those services will keep pace with growth.

The town recently was ordered to get rid of its sewage lagoons and replace them with a sanitary sewer line running to the North Saskatchewan River, almost 15 miles south.

Mayor Gibbon is against annexation by Edmonton, always a favorite topic of discussion in the town. Most residents don't want their community to become part of the city.

"Annexation wouldn't be to our benefit—we've levelled out our mill rate, we've got control of industrial and other problems, and we should be able to reap the benefits.

"If we were annexed, we wouldn't get any better municipal services, such as snow removal. Our recreational facilities would be worse and we'd lose autonomy. It would be harder for the people to get to their elected representatives."

Even if annexation doesn't come about, however, St. Albert's fate could be the same. Both communities are expanding rapidly, and their borders, once more than 10 miles apart, now are only within two or three miles of each other.

Bid to Save Pisa Tower Collapses

PISA, Italy (Reuter) — Moves to save the leaning tower of Pisa from collapse have finally gotten the go-ahead from the Italian government, eight years after they were first proposed.

Public works minister Antonio Gullotti has authorized an international competition under which Italian and foreign concerns have to present schemes to stop the famous marble tower from crashing to th ground.

Spurred on by fears that Italy's best-known monument may sooner or later collapse into a heap of rubble if nothing is done to stop it, the minister also authorized urgent temporary measures to prop up the tower.

The decision follows an analysis, chorus of warnings from experts, who declared early in November that the tower's lean had been gathering momentum for years while Roman bureaucrats fiddled.

The 180-foot-high tower now has a lean of almost 17 feet off the vertical at the top, and has never stopped keeling over since it was begun 800 years ago in 1174.

Gee, Maybe I'll Try That!

Pearson - Greenfield

Centennial Free Methodist Church was the scene of the candle-light wedding of Sharon Ruby Greenfied and Robert Gerald Pearson. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Greenfield, Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Myrtle Pearson and the late Mr. James Pearson, Belleville.

Rev. Lorne C. Ball officiated at the ceremony with Mrs. Ruth Spicer, the bride's aunt playing accompanying organ music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white floor length knit gown, accented with a white rose patterned lace bodice and long lace sleeves. The waist length veil had a headpiece of white imitation roses. The bride carried a white Bible with white streamers accented with red roses.

Miss Jackiyne Salisbury, maid of honor, wore a floor-length pink crepe dress accented with a pink lace bodice and sleeves. Her bouquet consisted of a single 'mum accented with a silver ribbon.

Bridesmaids Miss Debbie Greenfield, sister of the bride, and Miss Ann Coombs were attired in floor length green crepe dresses with yellow lace bodices and sleeves. They carried single 'mums with gold ribbons.

Andy Prudden was the groomsman while William Pearson, the bridegroom's brother, and Douglas Phillips, the cousin of the bridegroom, ushered guests.

Club Donation Made To Fresh Air Fund

A vote to turn over the amount in the general fund of the Senior Citizen's Club, No. 399, Tweed to the Toronto Star Fresh Air Fund for children was part of the business of their first regular meeting of 1973.

Harris Jenkins, past president, addressed the 57 members attending and thanked them for their co-operation in the past year. He introduced the new president Arthur McCarey who asked chairmen-bers to make use of their talents to benefit the club and said he would do his best.

Money from a recent potluck supper, $25.50, is to be turned over to the local Salvation Army.

An invitation was read from Franklin Smith, Marmora, to view slides of various trips on January 13.

A trip was discussed regarding the potential grant from the New Horizon's Program.

Volunteers were requested to make visits to Hastings Manor.

A card party, arranged by Mr. Wilfred Stewart will be held on January 20th.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 24 in St. James Anglican Church Hall.

Old Congregation

QUEBEC (CP) — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, whose congregation is the oldest English-speaking congregation of Scottish origin in Canada, has celebrated its 213th anniversary. The congregation dates back to 1759 and at first was comprised mainly of the famous Fraser Highlanders in General Wolfe's cation ministry said.

Swimming Can Be Fun! Especially for Little Tots

The family that swims together may stay together!

The Belleville Family YMCA has provided a program for interested parents in swimming instruction for their children from the age of three.

The parent, not an instructor, teaches.

In the past, it has been found that children may begin swimming (keeping themselves above water with some ability) as early as 25 months.

There are certain risks, though, according to Bob Hale, physical director for the YMCA.

The swimming instructor is Clif Ralph. Clif assists mothers in teaching their children the swimming tasks.

It is advised that the parent always keep their head at the same level above the water as their tot. No child enjoys swimming if parents are much with their chin just above the water.

Colorful toys are another asset in teaching child swimming. Red and green plastic toys, placed away from the child, innovate him to reach and move through the water.

Other small feats, even swimming to their mother by aid of water wings, aid a tot in adjusting to the water.

Parents who are concerned for their child's safety in the water start their children as soon as possible.

Swimming pools at home may be convenient and fun but may also be dangerous for those tots new to the water.

Social And Personal

Prior to her wedding, Mrs. Robert Pearson, (nee Sharon Greenfield) was honored at a shower given by Mrs. Sylvia Edwards, a sister of the bridegroom. A mixed shower was given for the couple at the parsonage of the Centennial Free Methodist Church.

Tanya Hadley, infant daughter of Raymond and Gail Hadley, of Belleville, has been transferred from Kingston General Hospital to Sick Children's, Hospital, in Toronto where she again underwent heart surgery.

First Law Contact with Judy La Marsh

VANCOUVER (CP) — When the Provincial Court Judge Nancy Morrison first came into contact with Judy LaMarsh, the results let the future judge astounded and the former Liberal cabinet minister infuriated.

Judge Morrison, appointed to the bench in December, recalled in an interview how she landed a job in Miss LaMarsh's Niagara Falls, Ont., law office after articling with a Toronto firm.

"It came as a shock to me that I would actually have to practise law," said Judge Morrison. "Someone asked me if I had a job and when I said no, I was told there was a young MP in Niagara Falls who was looking for someone in her office."

The young MP turned out to be Judy LaMarsh, now a Vancouver broadcast personality. Judge Morrison called Miss LaMarsh immediately from Toronto and introduced herself as a young law graduate looking for work.

"You brought me out of a rape trial to tell me that!" Miss LaMarsh asked.

Miss LaMarsh eventually calmed down and Judge Morrison was hired. Two weeks later she drove to Niagara Falls for her first face-to-face meeting with Miss LaMarsh and was met with the words:

"I've just been made minister of health and welfare. Here are the keys to my house and here are the keys to the office. And here aye the papers on a trial that's coming up in two weeks. Good luck and don't worry if you lose it."

"Here I was with this trial, the office, Judy's general account and Judy's trust account — and I had never practised law," said Judge Morrison.

Judge Morrison was born in Estevan, Sask., in 1937. Eventually the family moved to York, Sask., where her father also a lawyer, opened his own practice.

After graduating from University of British Columbia in 1958 in political science and international studies, she took a job as a social worker in Prince Albert, Sask.

"It was a disaster. I had no training for the job. But worse than that, I realized I could not really help people. I felt I had to do something else."

Judge Morrison applied to Osgoode Hall Law School in Toronto and was accepted. When she graduated, she was one of four women in a class of 160.

After practising in Miss La-Marsh's firm for 3½ years, she moved back to Yorkton to practise and also to try for a Liberal nomination for the federal election.

"In the fall of 1966 you could not find a Liberal in Saskatchewan, but by 1968 Trudeau had surfaced and there was a Liberal behind every bush. So this became a very bitterly contested nomination. I didn't win it."

Judge Morrison recalls the experience as "my only little disappointment I have ever had."

In March, 1970, she came to Vancouver, worked as an assistant city prosecutor and later as a partner in a Vancouver law firm.

Coincidentally, her old boss, Judy LaMarsh, has now moved to Vancouver. Miss LaMarsh now is a big line broadcaster at a local radio station.

Guest Speaker At WI Meet

Carl Reid was the guest speaker at the Canuflon-Corbyville Women's Institute meeting

Mr. Reid, employed by Stephens-Adamson of Belleville, spoke of his work overseeing the installation of conveyors for the company. This has included numerous cross-Canada trips as well as journeys beyond the borders. He entertained the members with slides and films illustrative of his work as well as his travel.

The roll call for the meeting, presided over by Mrs. K. Bowers, consisted of bringing a Canadian city or town and one industry it is noted for.

Plans were also made for a social evening in February.

Let Your Mind Go!

Having trouble trying to decide what to do in your spare time?

Let your imagination go, says Miss Norma Aalto, a recent visitor in the area from Thunder Bay.

Besides the usual reading, sewing and watching TV, all of which lack a personal creativity, Miss Aalto suggests making your own book, either visually with photographs and drawings or with personal writings. "The product can be something that is artistically superior to current books available on the market — and with Canadian content to boot."

Another suggestion is a coloring book. Outlining in black favorite scenes or thoughts and then coloring them with bright colours is the general idea. It's all up to the individual.

Miss Aalto, experienced in homemaking and crafts would like to see Canadian women do more creative things in their spare time — things that could eventually be shown publicly. In fact, she feels that women in a community should pool their resources and their artistic talents for a showing — perhaps ending up with unexpected results!

Inflated Rice

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Suharto ordered that the government's monthly distribution of 66,000 tons of rice be doubled until the staple's inflated price returns to the normal 12 cents a kilo, or 2.2 pounds. In some areas it now sells for more than twice that.

Excess Weight

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Douglas Helms, a prominent nutritionist, said Britain's 56 million people are carrying around 560,000 tons of excess fish, appropriately adding: "The problem of obesity is enormous."

Ann Landers

Husband's 'Nudie' Shots Not Enjoyed by All!

Dear Ann Landers: We are a happily-married, middle-aged couple. Our children are grown now and we have been taking our annual vacations abroad. My husband is an amateur photographer and if I say so myself, he does take very good pictures.

Last night we invited three couples over for supper. My husband asked if they would like to see slides of our recent trip to the Dalmatian coast. When they said yes, he handed me the projector and the screen to begin.

To my complete amazement, every tenth picture was a provocative photograph of a naked girl. Some were obviously postcards, others he had clipped from magazines. The men applauded and shouted, "More! More!" The women were noticeably silent. I was embarrassed almost to death.

After the guests left I asked my husband what was the big idea. He said, "I wanted to keep them awake and it really did the trick, didn't it?"

I had to agree, but I think it was in poor taste. He claims it was fun and made the evening much more interesting. If I'm a prude, Ann, tell me. I'll be a dirty old man, tell him. We'll both be watching for your answer.—Purtified in Pert

Dear Purt: Your husband ought to save the nudies for his more vulgar male friends. A good photographer shouldn't need to sling in shots of naked ladies to keep his audience awake. Tell your husband Ann votes "no" in mixed company.

Dear Ann Landers: Unlike that pathetic, swiveling girl who signed herself "Pushed Out Of The Nest," I never weep when I depart from a visit with my parents. Their parents are still living (they are in their 90s) so who needs me?

My family means husband and children so far as I am concerned. It does not mean parents, grandparents, sisters, brothers, nieces, nephews, cousins, great-aunts and uncles.

I grew up in the hot, flat San Joaquin Valley of California, surrounded by Okie and hillbilly relatives in Tennessee and Kentucky. Like dozens of other transplanted kids, I spent every holiday driving back and forth over the Mojave Desert, the Arizona Desert and the New Mexico Desert. Where were we going? To visit grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins. My mother and dad had this thing about being "with family." Every cockeyed holiday we had to drive back and forth. The only highlight of our Christmas trip was a gift opening. On the third day I got what I see anything crocheted.

Do you think I'm a cold-blooded daughter? If so, how many other daughters (and sons) manage to survive without an annual pilgrimage to visit their parents? I guess I'm plenty.—Weaned In Frisco

Dear Daughter: You are more than weaned, dear, you're alienated. I can't help but wonder what your parents did to you when you were very young that made you feel as you do. How sad that you don't care if you ever see them again. I'd give anything in the world if I could see mine.

Dear Ann Landers: No big deal, but something that needs setting. I have pierced ears. My girlfriend had her ears pierced a few months ago. We decided to exchange earrings. Mom says this is not sanitary. She claims I might get an infection because these earrings go through the flesh. Is this true or not?—Della

Dear Della: The earrings do not go through the flesh, they go through a hole which has been pierced. No problem, unless, of course, the girl had an infection in that opening.

Women Up in Arms About Policies, Discrimination

NEW YORK (AP) — American women who claim they've been denied credit because of their sex are becoming increasingly militant in demanding equal rights in credit cards and loans.

In response, a number of major banks and credit card companies and banks say they are changing or clarifying their credit policies and some creditors are actively pursuing the business of women.

"A year ago, women just accepted discrimination without question," said Carole De Saram of the National Organization of Women (N.O.W.).

"Now they're no longer taking it. They're asking. What do you mean I can't have a loan or credit?' Hundreds of women—and even some husbands—are up in arms."

"There's been an enormous increase in the number of women demanding equal access to credit," said Barbara Shack, assistant director of the New York Civil Liberties Union. "Women are much more militant, and it's having an effect on retailers and lenders."

Ruth Holstein, executive director of the National Commission on Consumer Finance, said the increased protests arise from widespread national publicity about the commission's hearings last spring on the subject of women's credit.

Witnesses, including several congressmen and Women's Bureau director Elizabeth Koontz, told of single women with good incomes who suddenly had their credit accounts closed when they married. They were told they had to re-apply in their husband's name, in the process losing their own credit ratings.

There were instances of widows and divorcees whose credit accounts were cancelled when their marriages ended because the credit belonged to the husband.

Also described were working wives whose earnings were not counted toward eligibility for mortgage loans and single, divorced and widowed women with substantial incomes who had to have male co-signers before getting loans.

Several women's rights organizations, including the National Organization for Women's Equity Action League (WEAL) and the Women's Lobby, say they're planning stepped-up fights this against sex discrimination in credit.

N.O.W. will mount an "organized and concerted" national campaign this year which may include demonstrations and boycotts, said Lynne Littleford, head of N.O.W.'s task force on taxes, credit and finance.

Miss De Saram said she's received more than 100 requests from individuals and organizations throughout the U.S. for advice on how to organize groups to protest discrimination and work for equality in credit.

Most creditors insist they do not deliberately discriminate and their only criterion for extending credit is the ability of the applicant to pay.

Retailers say it's more convenient and less costly for them to issue a married woman's account in her husband's name. Lenders say they're wary of counting a wife's income for loans because she may quit her job, in many cases to have a baby.

Representative Martha W. Griffiths, (Dem.-Mich.), disputed that last claim.

The idea that wives of childbearing age are "unreliable as a group," she said. "Most women have control over whether they'll become pregnant and all women have control over whether they'll quit their jobs."

Feared Thieves

SAN REMO, Italy (AP) — Laura Cobianchi, a 60-year-old Milanese, feared burglars so much she brought her $18,000 worth of jewels along on vacation at this resort. A thief snatched her bag as she strolled through a fruit market, pulled out the fewels and fled.

National Living Provides Student Travel Programs

By DORIS CLARK

Recently a reader asked about The Experiment in International Living. The experiment was founded by Dr. Donald Watt, who believed that people could learn to live together by actually doing so! In the summer of 1932 he took a group of students to Switzerland to live with German and French-speaking families.

Today, The Experiment In International Living has expert programs for high school students and administrators. There are opportunities to study and travel in approximately 25 countries.

For a young person who has saved up for a travel experience, The Experiment Way offers a great promise. Members of the programs are far more than mere tourists visiting national landmarks.

In Canada, information about the Experiment In International Living is available from Mrs. H. Dene Webber, 30 Ridout Street South, London 12, Ontario. — Dorothy Turcotte.

Dear Doris: I am looking for a special talent to develop. A 65-year-old bachelor. I have dreamed up the world's most lasting scheme to hold an intense attraction. As a boy, I dreamed of inventing mechanical gadgets; with the years, the dream died; no parental encouragement; poor character traits; a poor memory.

Perhaps there lay my one special talent? . . . A handyman. I can do . . . well, a little of many things . . . in my slow way but I am willing too old to do a lot of risking leaves, shoveling snow, and have practically given up home painting altogether.

Is it stupid, poor somewhat lazy, lacking in ambition and sick-to-it-ness, no qualities of leadership. But in a Canadian Army unit of bachelors I came second in our regiment. — L. B.

Dear L. B.: Maybe we need reasons to try!

Your self-image may always have been poor. Parents who set the challenges and encourage their offspring have much to answer for. So you withdrew into your dream world.

But your health seems o.k.; and at 65 you may have another good 15 or 20 — or maybe 25 (?) years to live. Time for a career in translations or somebody related to your obvious love of words, to judge by the sample translation of a French - Canadian verse you enclosed.

Intellectually you know you are not stupid! A vocational guidance test out of the question; but you might first write for The Writer's Guide, a publication of the Canadian Authors Association which lists Canadian publishers, what they want in the way of writing, and hints about how to go about it all. Send $3. with your request to them, at 22 Yorkville Avenue, Toronto 5, Canada.

Dear Doris: How do you get a mentally disturbed adult committed?

This man is really sick. He won't go to a doctor. My mother will not have him taken forcibly. — N.F.

Dear N.F.: It is a tough situation. An adult cannot be forced to see a doctor, nor committed against his will — unless he becomes violent an a physical threat to those around him.

If he does, the police ought to be called. They will have him examined by two psychiatrists; who have the authority to commit him to a mental hospital if they decide on this course.

But there are Crisis Intervention programs in many hospitals — sometimes under other names — operating on a 24 - hour basis. A disturbed person will often convert to consultation but not a doctor. He will not see a doctor. They also have psychiatrists at the ready.

Hunt around; get your mother to visit the center on your family doctor. Some subtle persuasion may be needed, but these are the knowledgeable people who can give your mother the guidance and practical support she needs in doing what must be done.

(Is it better to put up with misunderstandings, or to better talking things over. Let Doris help you see the light. Send your letter in care of this newspaper.)

OUR CITY ON THE BAY : 1909

"In her schools the people of Belleville enjoy unexcelled educational advantages." — Souvenir Industrial Number of The Daily Intelligencer, 1909.

"The City of Belleville is perhaps the greatest educational centre, for a city of her size, in the Dominion of Canada. One of her educational institutions, and that too for almost six years been doing splendid work, is St. Agnes School", states The Daily Intelligencer in its 1909 special Industrial Souvenir: "An Epitome of Canadian Achievement in Commerce, Manufacture, Finance." This rare copy which is the possession of Mrs. George A. Bennett, is kindly on loan for our readers' perusal.

To continue: "It is a church school for the elementary and higher education of girls. In the year 1903 Mrs. F. R. Lingham purchased the fine property "Elmpool", the old homestead of Hon. Billa Flint, and presented it to Archdeacon and Mrs. Bridge Street, and founded St. Agnes School."

"Her idea was to have a school where girls could be prepared for the duties and responsibilities of life by a broad intellectual culture. Instruction is given to girls from the kindergarten classes up to matriculation. The school buildings are completely equipped with all conveniences and appliances necessary to the perfect school, including gas and electric lighting, a good ventilation, bright airy halls, classrooms, study rooms, art studio, musicrooms and bed rooms, artistic reception rooms, modern gymnasium, swimming tank, etc.

"Outdoor exercise is encouraged as much as possible, and the grounds consist of beautiful lawns, tennis courts, croquet green, basketball courts, etc.

"The pupils of whom there are an average of from 35 to 40 in residence and about the same number of day pupils, receive individual instruction; there being a staff of nine teachers in residence, besides a number who come to the school daily.

"The school is under the patronage of the Lord Bishop of Ontario, and the Advisory Board is composed of gentlemen standing high in the professional and social circles.

"Mrs. F. R. Lingham, the founder and Directress of St. Agnes School, is a lady of exceptional ability and is eminently suited to be at the head of such an institution.

"The lady Principal, Miss F. E. Carroll, stands high in the educational ranks of Canada, having been formerly connected with Bishop Strachan School and other well-known girls' schools in Toronto. She, together with her staff of capable assistants has been largely instrumental in placing this school in the high position it holds today.

"A neat prospectus of St. Agnes School has been issued and copies will be sent to parents or guardians upon application, either personally or by letter to the school.

In view of the fact that St. Agnes Manor is being demolished this year, 1973, the above gives a timely glimpse of our community's past, which will animate the site for us when ever we pass by.

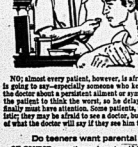
Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONNELL

Are most people afraid of the doctor?



NO; almost every patient, however, is afraid of what the doctor is going to say—especially someone who keeps putting off seeing the doctor about a persistent ailment or symptom. It is natural for the patient to think the worst, so he delays and delays until he finally must have attention. Some patients, though, are more realistic; they may be afraid to see a doctor, but they are more afraid of what the doctor will say if they see him too late.

Do teeners want parental affection?

OF COURSE, even those who act as if they couldn't care less that their parents don't seem to give them a second thought. In fact, young people who put up a front are the adolescents who crave affection most. But they need a defense to hide how deeply hurt they are. Actually, the neglected teeners—especially during the critical teen years when youngsters need all the affection they can get to head off flagging self-esteem.

Is marriage a 'drag' for some men?

THERE might be a small percentage of men who find marriage inhibits them. They claim it reduces their style, curbs their gentility and sociability. Yet for everyone of these, there are ten men who find marriage is their best "antidote." Without a wife, they believe they would drift aimlessly. Even their friends find such men better companions and more interesting people simply because they are married and seem more complete human beings.

CP News Roundup

Charter Rules Assailed

TORONTO (CP) Some travellers stand to lose large deposits on charter flights because of circumstances beyond their control, the Canadian chairman of the American Society of Travel Agents said Friday.

Henry Moos, owner of Kennedy Travel Bureau here, denounced new Canadian transport, consumer, air charter regulations published this week as "extremely difficult and unworkable."

Persons planning to travel to Europe by air charter are required by the regulations to book their flights at least 30 days in advance and pay a non-refundable deposit equal to 25 per cent of the return fare.

The rules replace generally-ignored affinity rules for air charters, which expire April 1 in Canada but not until Oct. 31 in the United States.

Insurance is available against loss of the deposits for those who are victims of accidents or illness, Mr. Moos said.

"But what about someone whose employer changes his vacation dates or, who is the innocent victim of a layoff and therefore can't afford a vacation.

"These are the sort of people who normally travel by charter."

The government's failure to make the deposits transferable to other air travellers is "most unrealistic and unfair," he said.

Work Not Done

TORONTO (CP) — Bell Canada Ltd. should not be allowed another rate increase because it has not made use of the last one, unions whose members build and install telephones for the company say in a brief to be presented to the Canadian transport commission.

Unions representing 2,800 employees of Northern Electric Co. Ltd. said Bell "has not undertaken the construction program it said was required in its submission to the CTC" in support of the last increase. A five per cent increase approved by the commission went into effect last June.

Code Drugs

OTTAWA (CP) — Prescription drugs from your corner pharmacy soon will carry a six-digit number on the label that will permit easy and rapid identification of the drug in emergencies.

The "drug identification code" will be available to doctors, druggists, hospitals and health professionals in a drug identification code directory, which was released Friday by the federal health department.

Sit-in Continues

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — University of Western Ontario officials yielded to a student protest against the withholding of student-aid cheques Friday but the move didn't end a sit-in at one of the university buildings.

Some members of a group of students decided to continue their sit-in as a protest against increases in student fees until Premier William Davis makes a scheduled appearance on the campus Sunday.

Backs Teachers

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — City high school teachers union Stephen Lewis, provincial leader of the New Democratic Party, on their side in their contract dispute with the Windsor board of education.

In Windsor to address a party banquet, Mr. Lewis told a news conference that what Windsor teachers are doing could have "tremendous implications" across the province.

Mr. Lewis said he supports the stand being taken by the teachers and that he cannot imagine why the board is resisting their demands.

Trial Delayed

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Two missing Crown witnesses Friday delayed the trial of the Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. on pollution charges dating back to April, 1971.

Provincial Judge Joseph P. McMahon adjourned the trial to Jan. 26 after hearing testimony from a company official about efforts to control pollution from a foundry here.

Fraud Charged

MONTREAL (CP) — A 35-year-old Australian, charged with defrauding and conspiracy to defraud clients of a slimming clinic of $100,000, was sent Friday to preliminary hearing.

Peter Beverley Myers, who was extradited from England last week, was charged after he allegedly withdrew all funds available to him and left the country, abandoning the Therm-a-Slim International clinic.

PCs Says Bailing Out UIC By Government Was Illegal

OTTAWA (CP) — The Conservatives charged in the Commons Friday that the Liberal government illegally bailed out the unemployment insurance system to the tune of almost $200 million.

Gerald Baldwin of Peace River, Conservative House leader, said the government allocated $454 million in governor-general's warrants—in effect by cabinet order rather than Parliamentary approval.

The money was used as part of an advance to pay for benefits.

Legislation that went into effect at the beginning of last year set a limit of $700 million for such advances. The government has conceded it has required more than that.

Mr. Baldwin said that only Parliament has the right to make payments over limits set in legislation.

But the government poured money into the system through warrants, he said.

Parliament was not sitting when the warrants were issued—in the end.

Under the unemployment insurance system that came into effect last year the government pays out of consolidated revenue for all jobless benefits over four per cent of the labor force.

The first four per cent is covered by regular contributions made by employers and employees.

As these latter benefits came in late and cannot be fully computed until the end of the fiscal year in March, Parliament allowed the government to advance the system $800 million.

But the government found that the $800 million was not enough so it advanced another $454 million in two stages in the latter part of the year.

This was disclosed when the government submitted supplementary estimates, under which the government asks for authorization of more money to carry it to the end of the year.

The $454 million warrants were mentioned in these estimates.

Mr. Baldwin unsuccessfully attempted to introduce a motion to have the auditor-general watchdog of government spending, investigate the matter.

He was ruled out of order.

Privy Council President Allan MacEachen said there is no foundation to Mr. Baldwin's charges.

"We proceeded properly according to the rules of the House" he said. Legislation that would have increased the limit in the original insurance bill was on the order paper Friday but was not introduced.

Think PM Trying to Split PCs

OTTAWA (CP) — There are some Conservatives who think Prime Minister Trudeau's controversial "national unity" speech last Monday was the start of a campaign to bring about a split in their party.

Mr. Trudeau charged some unnamed Conservatives with trying to divide Canada during the recent election campaign—and he went on to say they would have an opportunity to stand up and be counted when the House is asked to confirm the basic principles of the Official Languages Act.

Some MPs argue there is no need for such confirmation, that the act has been in effect since 1969 and its basic principles have never been questioned—although the method of implementation has often been under fire.

"The prime minister remembers that 17 of us voted against the act at one stage," says a Conservative. "If he could demonstrate that our party was divided in any way at this time, he would then be able to demonstrate that the Liberals are indeed the party of national unity."

Hospital Body Says Colleges Not Ready to Teach Nursing

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hospital Association says community colleges are not ready to assume control of the province's schools of nursing.

The provincial government, in a move announced Friday, assigned the training of diploma-seeking nurses to the province's 22 colleges of applied arts and technology.

"Our experience so far suggests that community colleges simply aren't ready to assume the responsibility being thrust on them," R. Allan Riley, executive director of the hospital association said in a statement.

He added that it would be unrealistic of government to think the colleges will be ready for that responsibility in eight months when the next term is scheduled to begin for nurses' training. "There are too many questions to be resolved."

Mr. Hay said he questions whether the government has given proper consideration to the advantages of the affiliation arrangement.

"Our own association's board next month will be asked to approve a set of guidelines to assist hospitals in negotiating acceptable working arrangements with community colleges.

"These have been developed by a committee of hospital administrators, nursing directors and trustees and refer to such sensitive areas as the use of hospitals for clinical instruction, transfer of physical assets and curriculum development."

Sept. 1, 1973, has been set for completion of the transfer to the colleges, but full integration may take another year.

Practical training for the nurses will continue to come at the hospitals with their theoretical and academic courses to be taught at the colleges.

The shift was not a criticism of the current programs, but an attempt "to provide greater resources to the education of this important group serving our communities," Jack McNie, minister of colleges and universities, said in a statement.

Nurses Like College Jurisdiction

OTTAWA (CP) — The Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario (RNAO) has mixed feelings about the provincial government's move to transfer diploma-nursing programs from hospitals to the colleges of applied arts and technology.

"We support the move, but we are concerned about the speed with which it is being made." President Josephine Flaherty of Toronto said in an interview Friday.

"We were surprised . . . and concerned about the announcement. It was done without enough consultation and with less than nine months notice for the schools involved."

She was commenting on the Ontario government's announcement Friday that diploma-seeking nurses, as opposed to degree-seeking nurses who study in university, will be enrolled by the province's 22 colleges.

The move affects more than 9,500 student nurses who enrol annually in 26 schools of nursing outside of universities. About 1,500 administrative, faculty and support personnel are also affected by the proposed transfers.

President Flaherty said the RNAO is concerned about how the change-over will be carried out.

"What about students who are already enroled in the first year of a two-year course in one of the hospital schools?"

The association is also concerned about the nursing faculty members, she said.

However, it is "reassuring" that the responsibility for approval of and inspection of nursing programs will remain with the College of Nursing of Ontario, she said. The college is the licensing body which grants registration to nurses.

The RNAO had not been informed of the province's plan to make the move at this time although it has been working in co-operation with the government for a number of years.

"We were very anxious to have nursing education under truly educational control rather than as a part of the service-hospital," she said.

"But such a move requires detailed planning."

300 Senior Citizens Waiting Housing Situation Stalemate

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Beid or break has become the name of the game in negotiations between the city and the Ontario Housing Corporation if additional senior citizen housing units are to be obtained in the future.

Both parties have become entangled in a tightly knitted mesh of city by-laws which the corporation says are barring construction of an 80 - unit senior citizen residence on land owned by Albert College adjacent to Wellington Crescent.

This would be the fourth such residence to be constructed in the city, adding to the 100 units already available. A fifth development is also being considered which would be located by the existing building on Bridge Street West.

Bill James, Belleville-based property manager for OHC, said the 300 names were all residents of the city.

Belleville residents receive priority for the front of the waiting line because of the city commitment to pay seven percent of any operating loss of the housing units at a year's end, said the spokesman.

Tenants rents are geared to income and start at $37 monthly for those drawing only old age pensions.

Mr. James said there was no problem finding tenants for the developments saying there was a large demand across the county.

The O.I.C. the Quinte Planning Board (who must study the proposal) and the city entered the stalemate when the developers (OHC) refused to forward a site plan describing the situation of the building on the property.

OHC made the refusal on the basis that before they retain an architect to produce such plans, they insist on an assurance that the property will be rezoned to their liking and specifications.

One of their specifications opposes a recently - passed city bylaw. They chose to allow one parking space per four units which they feel is adequate for a senior citizen complex.

Until they are certain the land will be zoned to allow this policy of parking, they will not provide the Quinte Planning Board with site plans. The QPB in turn can make no recommendation to council without the plan.

The land, approximately two acres, is currently zoned to allow multi-family dwellings but requires that 1¼ parking spaces be provided for each unit, or five times the parking the OHC is prepared to consider.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey agrees with the OHC that such parking allowances would be adequate but says council is unable to pass any bylaw amendment without a plan.

The OHC which prefers not to comment on the situation, will meet with the Mayor, city manager and planning board staff, Monday morning to come to some meeting of minds.

"Some information about the site has been passed around ... we've been talking about it," said the Mayor in a telephone interview.

The mayor did say it was possible that a bylaw could be altered if enough information was passed along at the meeting Monday. This would permit herself and planners to talk "knowledgeably" about the proposal, in lieu of an official plan, she said.

A Toronto spokesman for OHC, Chris Lem, development officer, said he preferred not to comment "in particular" on the outcome of the meeting but said his chief concerns were to examine closely the pertinent bylaws and determine "just how the city is prepared to do for us".

If no satisfactory or adequate information is available Monday, the stalemate will continue, jeopardizing the construction with Albert College. The deal was to originally have been closed by Jan. 1 ... a college spokesman said.

Lorne Shewfelt, headmaster at the College, in connection with the undisclosed purchase price of the land, said "every little bit helps. We receive no funding from any level of government."

"We rejoice at having donated it," he said referring to that money the college receives from sources other than tuition fees. "We do look for outside funding, we certainly have a place for it."

While the city, planners and Albert College are eager for a settlement to be reached, Wellington Crescent residents aren't sharing the same anticipation , Shape of Things To Come?

While a list of 300 applicants located in the city are waiting for senior citizen housing, city hall and the Ontario Housing Corporation are wading through a mire of red tape to meet the need. OHC is responsible for the housing. Parking regulations for multi-family dwellings are creating a stalemate between the two that is hoped to be alleviated in a joint meeting Monday morning between OHC, city manager, Mayor Robin Jeffrey and the Quinte Planning Board.

Carnival Chins Shaping Up

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Right by the hair of your chiny-chin-chin. or "It's what is up from that counts," is the name of the game for the Belleville Winter Carnival.

Traditionally a female spectator sport, beard growing reaches a soft spot in the competitor's heart who places much prestige with ability to sprout his forest of facial fuzz.

For the second year, the winter carnival will provide a forum for the competition with the judging taking place appropriately at the Kinsdale Ball, Saturday, Feb. 3.

The Kiwanis Club of Belleville, to keep the competition on the up and up, have retained one of last year's regulations that the beard shall not be professionally trimmed or styled within two weeks of the competition.

Awards will be presented in three classes labelled as full, full beard, best-groomed and most original style.

Application forms are available at the Hotel Quinte Barber Shop. Beards do not have to have been begun upon application.

Judging for the competition will be president and chief instructor of Toronto Barber School. A third local judge will be assigned.

County Museum Gets Once-over Before Opening

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Mayor Robin Jeffrey yesterday led members of the Hastings County Museum management committee through a preview tour of the Philipsa Faulkner house on Bridge St. East that will open as the new museum spring.

Purpose of the tour was to approve the interior renovations, totalling more than $68,000 this year to ready the $1884 Victorian mansion for use as a museum.

The newly refurbished house is now bright with deep toned paint in greens, reds and blues the famous plaster ceilings that are its main attraction restored by a $673 contract awarded to church renovator Morris Bell.

The Victorian mansion, not yet 100 years old, is now gutted of its furnishings. They languish in boxes in attic and cellar, awaiting display when the renovation work is completed.

William Belch, contractor responsible for the renovations said yesterday that difficulties in securing materials had held up the work, but the museum is now very close to completion.

On hand to inspect the premises was architect Paul Weigand, who plotted the restoration work on the house. His fee, soon to be paid, are $6,245.

Some concern was expressed over installation of showcases along the walls of second storey rooms. The bearing walls capacity to support the showcases bought from the jeweler Angus McFee was called into question.

Philipsa Faulkner's former kitchen, once the reception room - office of the banking magnate who built the house, has become the museum office.

The, double drawing room to the right of the wide entrance hall will be prepared and furnished in the manner of the 1880 era as will be the dining room to the left of the entrance hall.

On the second floor will be a lecture room, formerly Mrs. Faulkner's bedroom, encompassing two rooms of the original house. A green-carpeted library will be available to students who wish to research historical topics among the museum's modern volumes.

At the front of the second floor a former bedroom has become the Manly MacDonald room, a memorial to the Quinte district painter.

Describing expenses, said Frank Mosell, city treasurer acting as adviser to the management committee, will be $110,000 a year.

Both the priorities of the Quinte district and the University Womens' Club are donating $1,500 each toward establishment of workers' activity will help to furnish the library.

Because of the difficulties of heating an old Victorian mansion, two furnaces have been installed. The one in the basement feeds the first floor through hot water radiators.

Forced air heat has been installed in the attic forces hot air into ceiling vents in the second storey rooms.

After the Hastings Country registry office on Church St. was razed, museum records and archives were transferred to the Faulkner house.

Some members of the historical society have doubts about their present disposal. Mayor Jeffrey said their future is still in doubt.

When in the old registry office, the priceless records of early days in the Quinte district, dating from 1800 and written in the long-hand of scribes of the period, were relatively safe in the fire-proof vaults of the building. Some members of the Historical Society have advocated turning the archives over to Corby Public Library which is interested in building a fire-proof vault to receive them.

The museum's revenue in 1972 totalled $70,586. Money from the Salamon estate was $27,822. The federal government contributed $35,000 on a capital works grant and the surplus carried forward from last year was $17,733.

Archives Relocated

Kenneth Hill, a volunteer who puts in seven months a year of work on museum matters, checks through the files of the archives in the remodelled office of the Faulkner house on Bridge St. East. Americana and genealogical material for family histories are keeping museum workers busy researching the material in the extensive archives built up in the 15 years since the local historical society was formed.

Has Money, No Ideas

STIRLING — This village has an extra $2,165 that it doesn't know what to do with.

The money is a winter works grant, awarded by the province with the aim of reducing winter unemployment. The village must match the $2,165 provincial money with an equal sum from its own coffers and the men it hires must be welfare and unemployed persons.

The village is having difficulty coming up with a suitable winter project to employ the men. If no project is found the money will be used by Hastings county.

Trailer Park Request Again Made to City

A trailer park is still urgently required in Belleville, the city parks board was told Thursday.

Such a project is "badly needed" and should be reviewed once more, urged a letter to board chairman Paul Russell from Farley Purcell, Bellevillian who served on a civic committee which earlier scrutinized trailer-park sites in the Belleville area.

Such a park would also be an extra revenue source for the city in summer months, said Mr. Purcell.

Ald. Russell noted he and Mr. Parnell had served on the committee and its report "got hung up". He said it was forwarded to the city's industrial commission "and never came back". ✎

But the committee felt there was no city-owned land available for such a project, while privately - owned sites in Belleville were costly,

Ellis Question Airborne

Hastings member of Parliament Dick Ellis' personal interest in flying led to his asking a question in the Commons Friday.

Mr. Ellis asked Transport Minister Jean Marchand if he would indicate the proposed policy of his department on crash position indicators for aircraft.

Mr. Ellis has a private pilot's licence. The crash position indicator is a device installed on aircraft that automatically sends out a distress signal if the plane is downed for any reason, including a controlled emergency landing. They are now compulsory equipment in Canada.

Mr. Marchand told Mr. Ellis he would have to take notice of the question. Mr. Ellis continued his questioning, asking the minister if he would indicate whether or not his department was prepared to develop a Canadian standard for crash position indicators.

Mr. Marchand said he would answer the question as soon as he discussed the matter with his departmental officials.

Tweed Leak Headache

Foreman Allan Allore and the village maintenance crew located the leak on Tuesday morning and immediately began repairs. Mr. Allore states that it was one of the worst breaks in the supply lines experienced for some time.

Hot Flames Blank Maple Leafs

By LLOYD JOHNSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto Maple Leafs' fleeting hopes of making a playoff berth in the chaotic activities of the National Hockey League were dashed Friday night by a 4-0 defeat by a combination that's hard to beat.

Atlanta Flames, currently the hottest commodity in hockey, blanked the Leafs 1-0 before a wildly enthusiastic home crowd of 6,694, while at Detroit, Detroit Red Wings smashed the Canucks 7-1.

In the only other game, the eastern division leading Montreal Canadiens were held to a 3-3 tie on the coast by California Golden Seals.

Prior to Friday night's games, Leafs had a chance to narrow the gap between Toronto and fifth-place Detroit to a mere six points, but the Wings' victory and Leafs' loss left Toronto 10 points in arrears, and they lag 17 points behind the fourth-place Buffalo Sabres.

Montreal increased its margin to the top to five points over the idle Boston Bruins when visit Toronto tonight.

For the Flames, it was a brighter story. They used their victory, the architect of which was goalie Danny Bouchard, to climb into second place in the west, one point ahead of Minnesota North Stars and Los Angeles Kings and three back of the leading Chicago Black Hawks.

The triumph was the third in a row for the Flames and it evened their record at 19-19-7. The Leafs saw their brief threegame winning streak snapped.

Detroit stretched its winning streak to eight games with an easy victory paced by Mickey Redmond's three-goal performance. They're his hat, 35th, 36th and 37th of the season.

Bouchard, a 21-year-old rookie who was born in Val d'Or, Quebec, was magnificent in the Atlanta nets. He stopped 29 shots in recording his second shutout of the season. He has been unbeaten since Dec. 11, going 5-0-2 in that span.

That was a hell of a backstopping," said Leaf coach Johnny McLellan. "Bouchard just beat us and that's all there is to it."

Larry Romanchych's 18th goal of the season ended the first period and sealed the victory and gave him 36 points for the season, third highest for the Flames. His shot was the only one in either direction Toronto goalie Jacques Plante.

Atlanta has a 2-1-1 record against Toronto this season and Bouchard, who posted a 2.48 average last season with the Buffalo Braves of the American Hockey League, was in the nets for each game.

The Wings built a 6-0 lead at Vancouver before Dale Tallon scored the Canucks on the board.

Hilliard Graves, who has been holding a hot hand for California in the past few games, scored for the Seals.

The single point put Montreal seven ahead of the New York Bruins, who were not scheduled. Boston Bruins trail St. Louis by 10 points at the bottom of the western division.

Ken Dryden's early in the third period salvaged the tie for the Canadiens before 12,003 fans, just 36 short of a sellout.

Because of a power shortage, owner Charles O. Finley cut ticket prices in half for the last 20 home games of Atlanta's season.

Previously the Seals had been averaging about 3,000 attendance.

Injured Watts Scores Winner for Virginia

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Brian Watts had to be helped from the ice with a leg injury early in the first period Friday night, but he was back in the American Hockey League game to score ended. It matched the best at all.

The Virginia forward returned in the third period to fire the goal that gave the Wings a 4-3 victory over Rochester Americans before 6,000 fans. Watts scored his winner on the road and their 11th in 18 starts away from home ice.

The result boosted Virginia past the idle Baltimore Clippers into second place in the AHL's Western Division and left the Clips in the East as Providence Reds scored ahead of the pack with a decision over Baltimore Clippers.

Cincinnati Stingers hovered in an 8-3 triumph over Springfield Kings to widen their lead over the top of the West standings to 15 points over Virginia.

The Wings were never behind at Rochester but the Americans overcame a 2-1 deficit. Then a Watts sank them early in the third period. Ron Ellis scored at Hogaboam and Rick Newell looked after the rest as Virginia scoring while Bob Ilett, the Kings go to Rochester.

Providence Reds fired a 55-footer through a maze of players early in the second period and stood up as the winning goal for the Reds. Billy Knibbs had given them the lead on a power play in the first period and Charlie Lyons had scored with a 35-foot slap shot just 26 seconds after Knibbs' came through with the winner.

The suspense went out of the game at Springfield when the Swords scored five unanswered goals in the second period to leave leading by a 2-1 margin at the end of two.

Steve Richardson with two, Jim Mikol, Jim Nichols, Murray Rathwell, Jim Nichols, Murray Kunelius and Doug Rombough got the Cincinnati goal scorers while Phil Horne, Norm Dube and Ron Ellis replied for Springfield marksmen.

The Kings entertain Cleveland Barons tonight while the Clips visit Rochester. Braves and Nova Scotia Voyageurs provide the opposition at Hershey. The Voyageurs are at Providence and New Haven Sunday while the Braves are at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia Owls.

Marlies Starve Wolves in Final Third

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Until Toronto Marlboros flexed their muscles Friday night, Sudbury Wolves had a chance to spoil the first-place applecart in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The Marlies erupted for seven unanswered goals within a six-minute span in the final period for a 10-7 win over the upstart Wolves before 4,286 fans at Maple Leaf Gardens. Sudbury trailed 8-7 with less than nine minutes remaining.

In other games, Ottawa 67s downed St. Catharines Black Hawks 6-3, Oshawa Generals whipped Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 7-4, Peterborough Petes nipped London Knights 4-3 and Kitchener Rangers beat Hamilton Red Wings 6-1.

Toronto has 66 points, 12 more than second-place Ottawa, Oshawa and London share fourth place with 54 points each, one ahead of St. Catharines. Hamilton has 26 points, Kitchener 25, Sudbury 20 and Sault Ste. Marie 17.

The Toronto game had a little bit of everything, including 186 minutes in penalties, as the Marlies led 4-3 after the first period and 7-5 at the end of the second. Referee took 56 minutes in penalties along with two game misconducts.

The 67s extended their undefeated streak at home to 18 games as Paul Sheard scored three goals including two in the third period when Ottawa got three unanswered goals. Peter Lee scored twice for Ottawa and Glenn McLeod added the other.

The Generals connected for four third-period goals before 1,700 fans in Sault Ste. Marie to hand the Greyhounds their 20th defeat in 27 starts.

Saints Edge Nordiques 3-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Canadian-based teams lost by the slimmest of margins on foreign ice Friday, while two others recorded victories in World Hockey Association action.

Quebec Nordiques lost 3-2 to Minnesota Fighting Saints, Ottawa Nationals bowed 4-3 to Philadelphia Blazers and Alberta Oilers defeated Los Angeles Sharks 3-1 in road games, while Winnipeg Jets triumphed at home 5-3 over Cleveland Crusaders.

The Nationals suffered the most disappointing blow, as they squandered a chance to tie Nordiques for fourth place in the eastern division.

Danny Lawson connected twice, with Michel Plasse and Andre Lacroix each adding single. Lacroix also counted two assists, giving him 60 points for the season.

The Saints, winless in four starts in their new $19 million St. Paul Civic Centre, finally gave some 6,184 fans something to cheer about.

Jerry Johnson scored twice for Minnesota and Len Lilyholm connected with the deciding goal after it first was awarded to Bob MacMillan. Andre Gaudette and Pierre Guite connected for Quebec.

Referee Brent Casselman had credited MacMillan with the winning goal from a scramble in front of the net.

But after conferring with Minnesota players, Casselman ruled that MacMillan's shot had stopped on the red line and that Lilyholm had nudged the puck into the goal.

Another apparent Los Angeles goal, which would have tied it 3-3 late in the second, was disallowed by the referee who ruled that he had blown the whistle before the puck entered the net.

Sabres Clip Wings In 7-3 OHA Setback

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A shakeup in forward lines by Welland Sabres' coach Gerry Addaro has the fifth-place club back on winning ways in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior Hockey League.

The Sabres handed Detroit Red Wings a 7-3 setback in Welland Friday night for their second win over the Americans in as many nights, right after Addaro shuffled the offence in an attempt to end their five-game winless streak.

The win moved the Sabres to within five points of fourth-place Windsor Spitfires who lost 7-5 to Niagara Falls Flyers in Windsor Friday night.

And in a third league game Friday night, Chatham Maroons came from behind twice to edge league-leading Guelph Biltmore 4-3.

The Niagara Falls win moved them to within six points of the Spitfires and three ahead of third place Chatham.

Rick Montgomery sparkled in the Welland win, getting his second two-goal night in a row and scoring the first Wings.

Welland outshot the visitors 39-26 while Dave McGillivan, Dan McCourt, Bob Yaciuk, Jim Tunney and Mike Walt contributed goals.

Niagara Falls built a 3-0 early game lead against Windsor and lengthened it to 6-1 by the end of the second period.

Another goal early in the third period made it 7-1 and enabled the Flyers to hang on to Windsor came back with four unanswered goals.

Rauch to Coach Argonauts

TORONTO (CP) John Rauch came to coach Toronto Argonauts without knowing that Argos fans have a reputation for demanding instant success.

But Rauch brought with him his own reputation as a man dedicated to winning and made it clear Friday that if Argos don't have a winning season in the Canadian Football League, the new head coach won't be the only one to blame.

The former head coach of Oakland Raiders and Buffalo Bills in the National Football League signed a three-year contract Friday as Argo head coach, replacing Leo Cahill who was dismissed last year.

At a news conference after the signing, Rauch was asked if he was aware that Toronto fans, who have not had a Grey Cup winner since 1952, might scream for his resignation if he doesn't produce this year.

But later, in discussing his coaching philosophy, the 42-year-old Philadelphia native said:

"I'm not making any predictions of how things will go with Toronto Argonauts. How ever I'm always optimistic that it's a job I can do.

"When I say 'I,' I must backtrack and say 'we' because everything that will be done, will be done as an organization. From the top man of our organization, to general manager John Barrow, to myself, to the assistant coaches, trainer, the doctors, the water boy, everybody that is on this team—everybody's efforts will be utilized.

"So it is not I that won a football game or I that lost a football game—we all did it to gether."

Rauch confirmed earlier reports that he demands discipline on his teams, but with reason.

"My philosophy of discipline is that every individual is separate and different, but every individual has to live within the rules and regulations set down by the head coach.

"If any individual in the organization has a problem, we'll try out best to be human and work over the problem. But if you break the rules and regulations, then somehow you have to pay for it.

"I don't think that I'm a really-tough guy. In fact most people consider me quite mild-mannered. But I have always been one to competing on the football field, pitching pennies, horseshoes, or you name it. When I'm right about it—"

"Discipline, dedication and a little hard work," Rauch said were the three key precepts he intended he and his players would live by.

Barrow, in introducing his new coach, said Rauch was the top name on a list of three candidates he had submitted to the Argo board of directors.

Rauch followed by saying the Argo position was the one which, to him, offered the most promise of future success of any head coaching position now open in North American football.

Barons Leave Ice

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association Junior C game between Hanover Barons and St. Thomas Golden Hawks was stopped in the third period Friday night when Hanover coach Jerry Horan refused to let his team return to the ice.

The Hanover club was sent to its dressing room when fans threatened their bench for the second time in the game at the 11:01 mark of the final period.

Fans had clustered around the Hanover bench in the second period following a player fight but nothing erupted.

The local supporters again swarmed the Hanover bench in the final period after players and several fans exchanged words.

Bobcats coach Moe Hunter gave credit to the defense corps for the game, mentioning Yohn as having done a good job. "The defense was standing up at the blue line, and hitting them," said Hunter. "Yohn was really got beat."

Call-up centre Peter Senire, however, shut the door on Toronto's chances of victory as he tallied an unassisted goal in the third to increase the Bobcats' lead 4-1. Senire picked up a loose puck at the red line, where Robb Foster had tied two Wexford players, took it in, and scored on a low shot which went off Knaggs' stick into the corner of the net.

Hunter said that the Bobcats "got better as the game went on" as the first period was "scrambly" though the second period proved to be a little more "wide open".

The middle frame remained scoreless though there was enough action to please the fans. The Bobcats scoring opportunities were boundless but they failed to increase their 2-1 lead as Yohn, Coates, Brian Lavender and Bill Belleville's first third period goal, which was the game mark.

Winger Paul Lavegder had his first heartbreaker in the second as he had a clean shot on Knaggs from the slot but hit the glove side goal post. In the third, centre Meagher teamed to left winger Ken Lavender on the right side of Wexfords' goalie. Lavender again hit the post with

The 'Cats travel to Bramalea Sunday in t e hope of adding some distr ce between the Wexfords ir the league standings. Belle ille coach Hunter commented after the game that "we wanted to win this one (against Toronto) because they were breathing down our backs". If the Bobcats win against Bramalea, "we're sitting solid," said Hunter.

Quintes vs Aces

Old Rivalry May Rekindle

The Belleville-Kingston senior hockey rivalry that has seemed to dwindle from tradition to obscurity could be rekindled shortly.

Both teams have had their problems this season. They are currently tied for last place in the seven-team OHA Senior A league. That position is highly important to both teams, however, representing the final berth in the' league playoffs.

All of which makes Sunday's meeting with the Aces one of hey most crucial of the season. It is one of two remaining meetings between the perennial Senior A rivals.

The Quintes, plagued by financial difficulties at the moment, have managed to rebound from a horrendous November slump. They have recorded three wins in their last seven games, including a 5-3 decision over the league-leading Orillia Terriers.

They've been playing better lately. If you'll notice, we've outshot the opposition most of the time, something that wasn't happening earlier in the season," points out team rep Lionel Boldy. "We even managed to outshoot Orillia in their home rink and they haven't lost a game there all season."

The team has been cut to the required 19 players with the release of Doug Senior. The veteran centre-left winger had problems with a recurring back injury and found it difficult to get into the kind of shape he felt was required for senior hockey. The team has a full complement of players signed, meaning that they cannot add anyone to the current roster.

In the individual points race, Belleville centre George Godson and left winger Steve O'Donnell will be battling to maintain their edge over high scoring Pete Kennedy of Kingston. Godson holds down sixth place in the goals and 25 assists for 38 points. O'Donnell has tallied seven goals and assisted on 26 more for 33 points and a slim one-point cushion over Godson.

At the other end of the rink, the Aces appear to have the edge on Belleville's Ron Jury holds eighth place among regular skaters with a 5.65 average while Kingston's Mike Lovell has fashioned a 5.19 mark, good for fourth spot.

Following the 7.50 p.m. game a meeting will be held near the west side canteen to discuss the financial plight of the Belleville senior hockey team. According to Boldy it is "open to anyone interested in working for the team".

Locker Room Surprise

What better birthday present can two hockey players want than a one-two over a touch opponent? Bobcats centre Brian Cousins who turned 19 Friday and winger Paul Lavender, who marked his 20th birthday, got just that as the Belleville Metro Junior "B" story defeated Westfords 5-1.

Cousins fed linemate Bruce Knaggs with the puck behind him before team-mate Dave Watts cleared it out of danger. The Toronto goalie was threatened several times in the second period though the Bobcats Metro Junior "B" league we actually was capped in the third with three goals for a 5-1 final. Ricketts, though he failed to score against Westford, earned three assists in the contest.

Ricketts' Goal Stolen by Wexford's Watts

Belleville Bobcats' Andy Ricketts fired this shot on Wexford goalie Bruce Knaggs who lost the puck behind him before team-mate Dave Watts cleared it out of danger. The Toronto goalie was threatened several times in the second period though the Bobcats Metro Junior "B" league we actually was capped in the third with three goals for a 5-1 final. Ricketts, though he failed to score against Wexford, earned three assists in the contest.

Loyalist Scorers Pummel Cornwall

The Loyalist Lancers had four members hit the double figures in Friday's 74-57 victory over St. Lawrence Seaway Hall in Ontario College Athletic Association basketball action.

The Lancers top scorer Bill Kyle dropped 22 points in the Cornwall home while Bob Dewater followed with 14. Rick Goody worked the basket for 11 points and Hubert Hicks for ten.

Though both Loyalist and Cornwall held down last place in the OCAA standings, the Lancer scoring was consistent spread out among the team's members accor*ve to coach Rob Stinson. "Everyone played a good game throughout," said Stinson, "the defensive play of the team was better than the last time they played Cornwall, when they beat us by six."

The St. Lawrence point getters were forwards Sidney Sharpe and guard Jim Rorison who together hit for most of Cornwall's points. Sharpe hooped 24 while Rorison counted for 22 points in the game.

In other Loyalist action Friday, the Lancers went down to a 4-1 defeat at the hands of the Cornwall hockey team. Ross Howe, assisted by Eugene Bisaillon and Wally Brown tallied the Lancers only third period markup.

Cornwall, who earned their ninth straight win last night, saw Bob Greer, Allan Cameron, and Bill Rodney tally first period goals for a 3-0 lead. Gary Harrington provided the third period goal for a Cornwall 4-1 victory.

Yardmen Ice Harbour

Finding it difficult to get ice team at Belleville's two arena's? The Belleville Yardmen's Benefit Fund is hoping to alleviate that problem somewhat.

Four outdoor rinks are being flooded at the Belleville harbor for hockey and skating enthusiasts. The rinks will be equipped with lights, while skaters will be able to use the Yardmen's building and hopefully, the Wharf Street Dobating Club to warm up between periods.

wards the season total, but that you do not have to be a member of the Federation to compete in the races.

The Quinte Cup will be awarded to the highest point winner in the 14 classes that will be contested in the one-day meet. Classes will run from junior stock modifiers to 300 c.c. or less all the way up to "E" open modified snowmobiles of less than 800 c.c. Top prize money for a single event will be $50, with money being paid to the top four finishers, provided 14 to 20 eight or more entries in the race.

Entry closing time for the event will be 12.30 p.m. the day of the race.

Don Foster Looks for Support

Sports Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I would like at this time to express myself a little about Sr. A Hockey in Belleville. Also to thank you for retracting your statement in your column about the Russians beating our Quints by at least five goals.

Also I would like to thank a few people who helped make the Russian game such a success: Punderosa Restaurant who stayed open and supplied many free meals to our players. The cheerleaders at the secondary schools in Belleville who I had only to phone and ask for some help. They did a wonderful job. It didn't hurt anyone to put that cigarette out and I know the players on the ice felt that way too.

I would also like to thank the girls who volunteered their time selling programs, which we made a small profit. Also this newspaper, and Radio Station CJBQ for their support and anyone concerned in any small way, I again say thanks.

It was good to see the boys play such a good game. It was surely disappointing two nights later with the small crowd we had for Sunday night's game. I know how the players must have felt playing one night to such a big crowd and coming out to a handful of fans the next game.

I have been connected with the Belleville Quinte Sports Foundation since it started last winter, and hope to continue to help this organization in anyway I can, but a few people can't do everything alone.

Hoping this may in some small way help the Quinte's to fulfil their season's commitments, and any suggestions from the fans or public at large would be welcome at my house or phone and I will act upon them as soon as possible.

Racist Charges Hurled By Agitated Marchand

OTTAWA (CP) — Jean Marchand hurled more charges of prejudice in the Commons Friday while the Conservatives were preparing a second motion of non-confidence to shoot down the government.

During an emotional address to the House that had opposition members thumping their desks in protest, the transport minister accused the Conservatives of using racially-divisive tactics during the last election. He threatened to leave federal politics unless "fair play" returned.

Mr. Marchand, who received his first political education in the U.S. at Seattle and St. Louis universities, said in a CBC radio interview his stand on continentalism did not mean his government "takes an isolationist stand." However "the resources in Victoria belong to the province and not to Ottawa on behalf and for the people of B.C."

He said any federal attempt to over-rule this anti-resource sharing policy would probably end up in another battle in the courts," because "under the existing British North America Act, we have control within our borders."

Speaking specifically about water resources, Mr. Barrett said it is a resource owned by the U.S. water shortage is not caused by any lack of water but by bad use of existing supplies.

By refusing to give the U.S. additional water, he said, B.C. will be encouraging the U.S. to develop its own supplies.

In a television interview, left in Victoria for viewing Friday on a Seattle television station, Mr. Barrett said political refugees are welcome in Canada "as long as they become good Canadian citizens."

"We don't consider people who leave the U.S. for political reasons criminals," said Mr. Barrett.

He said he has been impressed by Washington Governor Dan Evans' approach to problems such as pollution and tourism and said these will be prime topics in talks between the two men starting Sunday at Olympia.

to deliberations in the House.

"If the atmosphere doesn't become healthier I don't think we will stay very long," he said. "There are many things to do in life."

Mr. Marchand's speech echoed charges by Prime Minister Trudeau Monday at the opening of the throne speech debate.

Lloyd Crosse (PC—South Shore) introduced the second Conservative motion of non-confidence slapping the government for inaction on rising unemployment. The first motion was defeated Thursday 168 to 107, with the NDP and Social Credit members supporting the government.

The motion to be voted on Monday night charges the Liberals with "inertia, indifference and parliamentary incompetence" and an unwillingness to deal with the cost-of-living and unemployment problems.

Some observers saw in the Marchand speech, and in his threat to leave, an explanation for the recent loss of Mr. Trudeau's speech Monday. The prime minister accused the Conservatives then of trying to divide the country by exploiting anti-French feelings during the election campaign.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield charged towards the end of the campaign that Mr. Marchand, then minister of regional economic expansion, was handing out grants to Quebec like a "father Christmas."

Such talk was divisive, Mr. Marchand said, and suggested that if Conservatives were keeping an accounting of who gets what grants, the country would disintegrate.

"I'm ready for last minute," he said. "We can cost time together to unify the country."

Earlier in the day, Mr. Trudeau urged the Tory Conservatives by suggesting that they have no policy jo deal with inflation. He later accused them of lacking any clear-cut set of priorities to tackle the country's problems.

"Our first priority is to get rid of you . . ." shot back J. Patrick Nowlan (PC—Annapolis Valley).

The prime minister responded to opposition charges that the government for the latest price increases by stating that the government has contingency plans for price and wage controls and will use them if necessary.

Jim Fleming (L—York West) and Marcel Lambert (PC—Saint Denis) said outside the House that the anti-war amendment (for total abolition of the death penalty.

Solicitor-general Warren Allmand introduced this week a bill to extend the ban on capital hanging for another five years. The regional ban expired Dec. 31.

The bill retains capital punishment for the killing of police men and prison guards. The amendment was proposed by the two Liberal members will call for total abolition, with a provision that convicted murderers be incarcerated for at least 25 years.

New Democrat Party House Leader Stanley Knowles said his party will hold the government to its promise of a substantial increase of old age pensions. But it will not insist on an immediate jump to $150 monthly, Mr. Knowles said. The basic pension is $80.04 a month.

He suggested the government might consider lowering the age for receiving the pension from 65 years to 64 immediately, with one year reductions in each succeeding year down to 60.

The NDP will press for a broad range of other pension improvements, Mr. Knowles said.

Barrett Rejects Energy-sharing

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Dave Barrett said Friday he "rejects completely," as British Columbia's premier, that there is any valid argument for a continental energy resource policy."

"The Americans must understand we are a sovereign country that happens to be their neighbor . . . our resources are resources to be managed for the needs and use of the people in Canada," Mr. Barrett said.

Lake Pollution Study Called Waste of Money

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Monroe County Conservation Council voiced opposition Friday to a pollution study of the Great Lakes that is being made by the International Joint Commission of Canada and the United States.

"The boundary waters study will be a waste of taxpayers' money," the council asserted in a statement read at a commission hearing. "Here already are mountains of data available."

The commission, a permanent agency of the U.S. and Canada, has been asked by the two countries to make a pollution study of the lakes' boundary waters by land drainage from agriculture, forestry, urban and industrial land development, recreational and parkland development, and transportation systems and natural resources.

Western Separatism Said Major Problem

OTTAWA (CP) — Max Saltsman (NDP—Waterloo) says the most difficult problem this Parliament will face involves "rumblings of Western separatism" stemming from different over the export of Alberta oil and gas.

"It's a most, most serious problem," he said in a CBC radio interview. "It probably is the most difficult problem this Parliament is going to have to face."

To a large extent, he said, the differences between French-and English-speaking Canadians is being resolved. "But things are not being resolved so far as Alberta is concerned."

He said Alberta is almost totally dependent on resource exploitation and development and, for the moment at least, the province wants to sell its resources as quickly as possible.

The federal government will have to back away from a continental energy policy because this would eat up all the energy supplies in Canada.

"But Alberta will not back away from it." The province says 'we have it and if you don't give it to us we're going to go on our own.'"

Mr. Saltsman said Alberta is the only province without a retail sales tax because "it is imposing a tax on the rest of Canada by higher prices on its resources."

Fuel Shortage Is Not Felt By Most U.S. Householders

NEW YORK (CP) — The United States has run into a shortage of heating fuels in the middle of a fierce and protracted cold spell, but no one is in danger of going to bed cold.

There has been widespread rationing of fuel to large industrial users and some public schools have had to close or limit classes. Some didn't reopen after the Christmas holidays. And airlines and buses have experienced shortages.

But the average home owner or apartment dweller has experienced no major inconvenience. Which minor exceptions, supplies of fuel oil and natural gas for heating are adequate to quote.

A spokesman for the office of Emergency Preparedness in Washington, which keeps track of the country's fuel supply, said Friday the region experiencing difficulty because of the weather is the midwest, where temperatures have dropped 10 to 15 degrees below normal for this time of year.

But even there it is the industrial user who is having trouble, not the householder.

Part of the problem in the midwest stems from a wet fall which prevented farmers from harvesting corn and soybean crops. Those stands of grain, though frozen, now are being harvested but must be dried at the mill or they will rot. This has produced a big demand for heating rooms.

The spokesman said most of the industrial plants being ordered see those which buy their fuel at cheap rates on an interruptable basis. They knew that when supplies run short, they are the first to have their supply reduced.

New York City, with its eight-million population, has had no problem with home heating. Consolidated Edison, the big supplier, said it has enough on hand to meet consumer demand this winter.

Consolidated Edison had to reduce steam heat services to 2,500 office buildings, stores and the like briefly earlier this week when one of its big boilers broke down. But generally it has been able to meet demand.

Lately International Airport was forced to ration aviation fuel earlier this week but officials said the situation has improved. U.S. airlines use kerosene, which is in the heating fuel category.

The spokesman for the Office of Emergency Preparedness blamed the country's major oil problem on the shortage on the ground that they had chosen to produce gasoline for motor vehicles rather than low-priced heating fuels.

They also, he said, had based their output on last year's relatively mild winter and were not prepared to meet demand when temperatures fell sharply below normal this year.

Grant G. Brown, new president of the Federation of Automobile Dealers Associations of Canada, says the public is penalized because of governmental insistence on incorporating safety features into automobile designs. The Toronto car dealer says lack of government regulations in licensing mechanics and of uniform laws concerning tampering with odometers are also hurting the consumer. (CP Photo)

Public Said Penalized

Boyfriend of Princess Anne Is Shy Lover of Fast Cars

LONDON (Reuter) — Tall, blue-eyed and shy, cavalry officer Mark Phillips has an engaging manner and a bright smile. But, with the exception that he loves horses and fast cars, little is known publicly about this lieutenant labelled by gossip columnists as the man who may marry Princess Anne, fourth in line to the British throne.

The 24-year old cavalry officer stands six feet two inches in his riding boots and is as handsome as any television idol.

The Phillips Protestant family is well off without being excessively rich. Mark was educated at one of the best schools in England, Marlborough College.

From there he went to Sandhurst Military Academy. In 1969 he was commissioned into one of the most exclusive regiments, the First Queens Dragoon Guards.

This was his father's old regiment. With battle honors stretching back beyond Waterloo, the Dragoons give up horses in 1937. Phillips does his soldiering in 54-ton Chieftain tanks.

Off-duty, Phillips has never given up horses. He has made a passion with him since early childhood. He ranks as top flight amateur in the pricey show jumping circuit.

It is an interest strongly shared by the 22-yr Id Princess Anne. Horse-riding contests brought the couple together.

For some time they were rivals for championship prizes won but most of the time she was beaten by the young lieutenant.

Last August he achieved a feat on which Anne had set her own heart. He was in the British team that won an equestrian gold medal at the Munich Olympics.

Shortly afterwards newspapers noticed Phillips was spending a great deal of time in Anne's company.

Twice she stayed at the Phillips family 'home, a 16th-century manor in southwest England. Once she attended a ball at the Dragoons' regimental headquarters in York-shire and danced mostly with Phillips.

Speculation intensified when Anne, defying the wrath of Britain's vociferous animal lovers, rode off three times with Mark to hunt foxes.

But what really convinced the columnists about the romance was when Mark took leave of Anne to join his regiment for a two-year tour in Germany last Sunday.

A security guard at Harwich, the port from which Mark set sail, spotted the couple exchanging kisses on a quayside.

"A royal marriage must be on now, she doesn't care who knows," wrote columnist Heather Kirby in the London Evening News. Other writers agreed.

Buckingham Palace presserved its customary silence.

Mark was born Sept. 22, 1948. Little is known publicly about his life except that it has been blameless and uneventful.

Mark's father, Peter Phillips, is a landowner and director of a meat packing firm. He and his wife have one other child, Sarah, 19.

The whole family is keen on riding. Their estate lies near the village of Great Somerford, Wiltshire where the inhabitants have little knowledge of Mark.

"Most of the time he was away from home . . . at school or at Sandhurst," said church organist Gerald Miles Bishop.

"I do remember talking to him once in a pub and I commented then on one of his horse riding victories.

"He blushed a deep scarlet and changed the subject."

Villagers remember him "roaring" round the country lanes in a powerful blue Ger-man-made car.

St. John's Doctors Top Paid

TORONTO (CP) — The 122 physicians in St. John's, Nfld., with an average net income of $47,798, were the highest paid in Canada between 1970 and 1970, a study by the federal health department shows.

The physicians in St. John's averaged a gross income of $122,422, slightly less than the average gross income of $64,365 in Toronto, said the study, published in the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

The study says that the average net income of Canadian doctors practising for a fee was $34,260 in 1970, an 11.5-per-cent increase over the previous year.

Toronto's 2,209 practising physicians earned an average net income in 1970 of $42,150. In Sudbury, 118 doctors earned an average net income of $46,823.

Montreal's 2,072 doctors had net earnings in 1970 of $32,022. Only doctors in Victoria, at $32,777, and Charlottetown, at $28,395, earned less.

A medical economist said net incomes are higher where costs of maintaining medical practice are also lowest and where are fewer physicians relative to the number of patients.

The net income of physicians during the 1960-to-1970 period has fallen behind that of other professionals. The report gives the average annual income as: physicians — 7.9 per cent, engineers and architects 3.6 per cent, lawyers and notaries 6.7 per cent, dentists 4.4 per cent and accountants 4.4 per cent.

The average income of all Canadians rose 7.5 per cent during the same period by an average of 4.8 per cent a year. In 1970, the average income was $6,454, up 6.7 per cent over 1969. In 1960, the average net income of doctors was four times that of other employees and in 1970 it was 3.4 times higher than the average employee income.

The report says government medical care insurance programs "tend to augment physicians' incomes both by removing financial barriers to the reciepts for services by beneficiaries and by guaranteeing physicians payments for these services at established rates."

CRTC Refuses to Renew Licence for Radio Station

OTTAWA (CP) — An application by Lakehead Broadcasting Co. Ltd. for renewal of its licence to operate radio station CJLX in Thunder Bay was rejected Friday by the Canadian Radio-Television Commission and Mr. McGowan, the

The CRTC said that Robert MacGowan and Lawrence Potts, shareholders and directors of Lakehead, "failed to disclose fully and accurately the ownership of the shares of Lakehead in the original applications for an AM radio licence to serve the Thunder Bay area."

It said the same could be said of later applications and returns Lakehead made to the CRTC, the old Board of Broadcast Governors and the board of governors of the CBC.

The CRTC said the Broadcasting Act imposes responsibility on licence holders for programs they broadcast and requires that these programs be of high standard.

Thus, it said, the CRTC scrutinizes qualifications of prospective and existing licencees to the fullest to ensure that broadcasting undertakings are operated in the public interest and in accordance with the objectives outlined in the Broadcasting Act.

"In the present case the Commission considers that Mr. Potts ad Mr. McGowan, the majority shareholders of Lakehead, intended and did mislead the Commission and its predecessor bodies as to the true nature of their ownership involvement in Lakehead.

"In the opinion of the Commission, such conduct is contrary to the fundamental obligations of licencees of broadcasting undertakings."

Friends emphasize Mark's shyness. At his former army camp fellow officers said he enjoyed talking to the horses as much as chatting in the mess.

For a royal suitor, shyness may be less of a drawback than for others. By tradition, the princess would have to take some of the initiative in a courtship. It would be up to her to invite the man of her choice into the royal circle.

Under the Royal Marriage Act of 1772, the princess must apply for the consent of her mother, the Queen, before any marriage can take place.

Anne now is a year older than the Queen when she was married in 1947.

Murdoch A Winner For New York Rangers

He digs and fights and assists and checks and has taken the spot position in his 12th year in the National Hockey League.

Bruce Cameron MacGregor is a 35-year-old right winger whom Detroit traded to New York Rangers two years ago. Coach Emil Francis wishes he had more players like him.

"He's always giving you 110 per cent," said Francis.

There's never a squawk from Bruce when things go badly, and he takes his successes with modesty.

MacGregor and Pete Stemkowski are linemates, and when the Rangers desperately needed a win over Buffalo Sabres Tuesday night, the Steamer came through with three goals.

Bruce worked hard for two of them, each time digging the puck out of the corner and behind the net.

Pete and Bruce played together when they were with the Red Wings. Stemkowski was traded to the Rangers for Larry Brown in October, 1970. He has been the Rangers' high scorer of late, with 23 points in 15 games.

MacGregor came to the Rangers in February, 1971, after 11 seasons with the Red Wings.

Stemkowski calls him an "under-rated guy."

"He and I have been together so long we have each other's moves down pat."

"I'm really surprised he was able to dig out the puck on that second goal," Stemkowski says of MacGregor's effort.

"Hell, two or three of their guys were really leaning on him."

While Stemkowski, a six-foot two-footer and Brown's linemate "little." MacGregor is a middle-sized five-foot-10 188-pounder.

A blue-eyed, redheaded Scotsman from Edmonton, MacGregor has nine goals and 10 assists for 19 points so far this season. The Steamer has 12 goals and 25 assists.

After losing four straight to Buffalo, coach Francis said "we had to get the Buffalo monkey off our back, we had to win this one."

MacGregor, whose waterbug style on the ice makes him an effective checker, was relentless throughout the game, and added the sparkplug.

The two assists he picked up were his 200th career NHL career total of 238. He has scored 191 goals in regular play.

Bears' Growling Beats Festivals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Toronto Bears moved back into contention in the three ranks of the Central Junior Hockey League Friday, defeating the last-place Hull Festivals 6-3 in Toronto and Brockville scored a 5-2 win in fourth place.

The Bears lost their chance to pass third-place Nepcun Navy when they dropped a 9-2 loss to Ottawa Rangers.

Weaver Corkran and Terry Fournier scored two goals each for Smiths Falls, with Dave Hall, Bobby Richard and Ron Richard getting one goal apiece.

Rick Bordeleau, Jamie Pinkett, Terry Feindel and Terry Nielsen scored single goals for the Rangers.

"Steve Keech was the ione Brockville scorer getting two.

The standings have been fairly consistent for some time now. Pembroke Lumber Kings have solidified the second position to lead by a wide margin, with Ottawa doggedly holding on to second.

Nepean now has a bare one-point edge over the Bears and the Braves for third place, with Hull mired in last.

The race resumes Sunday night as Brockville is in Pembroke and Smiths Falls travels to Laurentian.

By G. C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thompson: I have been very ill. Almost two years ago I was treated for pleurisy. I thought that time would clear it up without further trouble. After reading many informative articles on it lately, I realize how wrong I was. Could it be about it? Can it be cured by taking the right medicine?

Are there any physicians who won't report me to the authorities? I am employed by the Health Department and cannot bear the embarrassment of having my co-workers know about this.—A.A.

First things first. Go to a doctor and get the treatment you need—and you and I both will hope that in the last two years the disease hasn't caused damage that is beyond repair.

I suspect that you'll find a doctor who won't report your name to authorities, because that only one case out of four or five is ever reported. All cases ought to be reported, because we badly need to know exactly how many cases there are, and where, if we are ever going to control this kind of gonorrhea epidemic. But there are too many people who think they are going to be embarrassed by having the cases reported.

Actually, very skillful methods have been developed to avoid any embarrassment. Any investigation of cases is done very circumspectly, and anyway, it is quite impossible to investigate all reported cases. There are too many of them.

Most people have heard about venereal diseases, including gonorrhea, but it is surprising how few have bothered to spend an hour learning the real facts. If do not understand what, when the problem obviously is so important.

And I'm particularly shocked when I hear about a health department employee who lets a case go untreated for two years.

I just don't understand it. Do you?

Opening lead — five of diamonds.

It is not easy to make three clubs without seeing all 52 cards. But what will you do if you played in the Mixed Pair championship of the 1974 World Olympiad. Martin Hoffman of London managed the affair exceptionally well and so brought home the contract.

He won the diamond lead in dummy with the ace and returned a low spade to the queen, losing to the ace. West continued with the king of diamonds. East contributing the queen, and then played the jack of diamonds.

Now came the crucial point of the hand, for Hoffman had to decide which card to ruff with in dummy.

Analyzing the situation perfectly, he ruffed with the king, returned the three of clubs from dummy and, when East followed suit with the deuce, finessed the five.

The five drew the ace and Hoffman later led a trump from dummy toward his jack to trap East's ten and thus make the contract. His only losers were a diamond, a spade and two clubs.

But let's suppose Hoffman had played the hand some what sensationally by ruffing the third round of diamonds in dummy with the seven. In that case, he would have gone down one against proper defense.

East would overruff with the ten and, whatever he returned, West would soon take the ace of clubs and a pair of clubs to produce the fourth trick for the defense.

West would then lead still another diamond and East's now lone queen of clubs would become the setting trick. Hoffman declarer elected to discard from dummy or ruff high or low. In all these cases the defense would wind up with three trump tricks to put the contract down one.

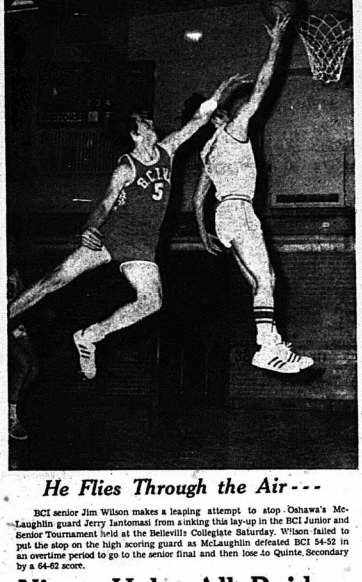
Vietnam Peace Pact May Get OK Today



HANOI (AFP) — A peace agreement between the United States and North Vietnam may be announced later today, a reliable source here said.

At a time when there was general pessimism in the North Vietnamese capital over an eventual agreement, rumors of a ceasefire suddenly started to circulate around the city.

The announcement was expected to be made sometime tonight, the source said.

Several sources said the announcement of a ceasefire could be made soon in certain capitals.

Nixon Sends Envoy to Thieu

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (Reuter) — A special White House envoy was on his way to Saigon today with proposals the Nixon administration hopes might spell the end to United States involvement in the Vietnam war.

Gen. Alexander Haig, a frequent emissary between the White House and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam, left Key Biscayne Sunday night after more than five hours of talks with President Nixon and Henry Kissinger, who had returned from Paris early Sunday with a peace package drawn up during a week of bargaining with North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho.

The White House refused to discuss the proposals or messages that Haig was taking with him on his mission to Southeast Asia.

However, they were understood to amount to North Vietnam's final offer for a settlement that could bring peace to Vietnam.

White House spokesman Ronald Ziegler said Haig will visit Thailand, Cambodia and Laos as well as South Vietnam, but he would not say when he will return with a reply from Thieu.

Kissinger returned to the United States shortly after midnight Saturday night and immediately embarked on a series of meetings with the president and Haig, who had served as his deputy on the White House National Security Council unit promoted to the defence department earlier this year as army vice-chief-of-staff.

Haig was called to Key Biscayne by the president Friday, when it became apparent that the talks in Paris had reached a decisive stage and a personal mission to Saigon was necessary.

It was understood that North Vietnam has yielded slightly on a few points of dispute, among them terms relating to the international peace commission that would supervise the ceasefire after an agreement is signed.

It was also understood that Hanoi might have agreed to some sort of formula that would be written into the agreement which provided for removing its troops from South Vietnam although not necessarily before a settlement is signed.

This has been a major point of contention with South Vietnam which objected to the terms reached in October which contained no such assurance.

South Vietnam also wants written guarantees that its political integrity and national sovereignty are assured by a peace agreement.

Hanoi, however, has been and apparently remains steadfast in its insistence that Vietnam is a single country, separated only provisionally by the demilitarized zone.

Isn't it odd how neighbors whom we seldom see all year write to wish we were with them when they get 500 miles away.

Meir Sees Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Golda Meir conferred with Pope Paul today amid expectations that the first papal audience accorded an Israeli premier might lead to formal diplomatic relations between the Vatican and the Jewish state.

The unexpected arrival of Mme of a ranking Israeli official in charge of religious affairs indicated too the possibility of the start of talks over the future of holy places in Jerusalem, controlled by Israel since the 1967 Middle East war.

The official, Meir Mendes, deputy director-general of Israel's ministry for the cults, declined to discuss with reporters his plans while in Rome. He described his visit as private.

Mrs. Meir's car drove into St. Peter's Square shortly after noon. She had earlier been at the Quirinal Palace where she discussed the Middle East with the Italian president.

Scores of armed policemen stood watch on two large balconies overlooking the wide Viadella Conciliazione and St. Peter's Square as the car reached the Vatican escorted by a dozen motorcycle-mounted policemen.

Vatican sources said the discussions between the Pope and Mrs. Meir centred on the Middle East as well as the status of Jerusalem. The informants also said the Vatican may have decided as play a role in the search for an Arab-Israeli settlement.

The Pope has maintained strict neutrality between Israel and its neighbors and some quarters view the Vatican as a possible behind-the-scenes mediator.

Nixon Halts All Raids Against North Vietnam

BULLETIN

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon ordered a halt Monday to all offensive military operations in North Vietnam "because of the progress made" in Paris peace talks, the Florida White House said.

SAIGON (AP) — President Nixon has ordered a further curtailment of the bombing of North Vietnam as a sign of good will during the current peace negotiations, United States sources reported today.

The sources would not say, however, whether Nixon ordered a full bombing halt over all of North Vietnam, a reduction in the number of raids or a limitation in the areas that may be attacked. Nor would they say if the new orders had gone into effect.

President Nixon first halted bombing above the 20th parallel last Oct. 23, when it appeared that the United States and North Vietnam were near a ceasefire agreement. When the negotiations broke off, Nixon resumed the bombing Dec. 18 with the biggest air blitz of the war. He halted the bombing above the 20th parallel again Dec. 30, saying Hanoi had signalled its intention to negotiate seriously.

Saigon Says Thieu Ready To Sign Accord

NEW YORK (AP) — A CBS television reporter said today that "highly-reliable palace sources in Saigon" expect the United States and North Vietnam to sign a ceasefire agreement "as early as this week" that would end the Vietnam war.

Richard Wagner, the network's Saigon correspondent, also said the sources told him that President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam will accept the agreement "after making a few superficial changes to suggest that he took an active part in the drafting of the accords."

Security Parley Agenda Drafted

Delegates from 34 nations, including the United States and Canada, resumed the preparatory negotiations and there were predictions they would last a month or more.

The draft agenda, officially coming from the nine states of the enlarged European Common Market but also accepted by members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, included all three major points expected earlier by the West ern states—military, security, economic and environmental contacts and human contacts.

The Western draft was presented by Belgium on the economic proposal, Italy on security, and Denmark on human contacts.

Soviet Ambassador Viktor Maltshev did not comment on the Western draft, although according to Western diplomatic sources, the Eastern side had been informed in advance.

On security, the Western countries proposed the creation of two subcommittees: one studying the principles guiding the relations between the nations and the other studying appropriate measures, including military ones, for building confidence among the participating states.

U.S. Consulate Seized By Group Opposing War

AMSTERDAM (Reuter) — A group of 17 men and women briefly seized the U.S. consulate in this Dutch city today to protest the bombing of North Vietnam and called on President Nixon to "sign peace now."

They barricaded themselves inside with the aim of occupying the consulate for 24 hours, police said. But they were turned out less than two hours later by police who stormed the building from the rear through an unlocked window.

They released a statement while they were in the consulate, expressing their horror at the bombing of North Vietnam.

Police said the demonstrators did not resist them when they broke in. All were driven off in police vans, given summonses for a breach of the peace and allowed to go. No serious damage was done.

Policemen Are Killed In Ulster

BELFAST (AP) — Guerrillas killed three police officers in Northern Ireland Sunday night in a weekend resurgence of violence that brought back the sectarian conflict that had shown some signs of fading.

The officers died in explosions that climaxed two days of the most intensive bombing in Ulster for months.

At least eight bombs exploded and two others were defused by British Army experts. The worst blast wrecked a Roman Catholic tavern in Belfast late Saturday night and wounded 25 persons.

The diehard Provisional wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army was blamed for most of the bombings, but Protestant extremists also believed responsible for at least two of them, including the Belfast tavern blast.

The first policeman to die was blown up by a terrorist mine on a lonely country road near Pomeroy, 35 miles west of Belfast. Another officer was badly wounded.

Two hours later, two other police officers were killed and two others critically wounded when a 20-pound booby-trap magnet bomb under their car exploded outside police headquarters in Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second city.

Winter Works Begin

The Moira River Conservation Authority's provincial winter works program is under way for another season, according to authority officials.

The Moira authority has an allotment of $31,500 from the province and last week a total of 20 men, mostly from the Tweed and Thomasburg areas, were at work on woodlot improvement and minor construction projects.

Winter works are being carried out at the Thomasburg Vanderwater area, the Plainfield area, the Sidney to Ongship field station area, and at the O'Hara Mill north of Madoc.

If time permits, work will also be carried out at the old Ackerman Gold Mine property east of Marmora.

The work to be done included woodlot improvement, plantation thinning, cutting of diseased elms and improvement of wildlife habitat.

Policy recommended by conservationists for improvement of wildlife habitat is to let branches lay where they fall or to pile them in log heaps rather than burn them. This provides cover for wildlife.

Minor construction project are the preparation of signs, construction of recreation area items such as picnic tables and building of small storage buildings are also planned.

River Rises In Cold Snap

A cold-weather watch is being kept along the Moira River at Victoria Park where an ice-blocked channel threatened flooding last week.

Slush ice caused by a cold snap blocked the channel on an annual problem — and water rose two feet up to a few inches from the park roadway at the Canadian Pacific bridge, says Quinte Emergency Measures co-ordinator Angus Duffy.

A crane and bucket was used in midweek to smash through the frozen river surface and dredge the slush.

"We'll keep the rig there until the next cold snap we get — when it'll be used again," said city engineer Wilbur Purcell.

The dredging dropped water levels three to four inches below the road rim.

Mr. Duffy said the clearance operation was a precaution to prevent a possible flood backup further north along the river in the downtown business sector. Water levels were still four feet below the river bank top at the Footbridge and current residents or weather should help reduce the slush threat.

Letter to Minister Outlines Deficiencies

A Belleville teacher has struck out at the Ontario ministry of education in a personal letter to Education Minister Thomas L. Wells.

Alan J. Deacon, an English teacher at Quinte Secondary School, charges that education in Ontario is a "monumental mess and the ministry has been in difficulty for some time, administratively and financially."

The ministry, he says, is becoming "monolithic and static. With rigidity comes chaos and collapse."

Prime evidence that the ministry is in trouble, says Mr. Deacon, is its decision "... publish "a propaganda organ" - New Dimensions — a magazine that reports, he says only facts that bolster the ministry's public image.

Mr. Deacon contends that current crises in educational budgeting are the result of earlier "go - ahead - promotions".

"Teachers," he told Mr. Wells, "are well aware that there is waste in educational spending. We approve increase of efficiency as far as it does not destroy individuality."

However, teachers fear that financial savings will be made at the cost of quality, of education, Mr. Deacon says.

Before launching his attack on Ontario methods of education, Mr. Deacon lauded the introduction of the credit system in secondary schools.

"wise, however late".

Under the credit system, a student is allowed to select whatever subject he wishes to study, within broad general groupings of subjects. A certain number of subjects from each group is required for graduation, but there are no compulsory subjects.

Despite the credit system, says Mr. Deacon, "the trend seems to be closer to rigidity than to flexibility.

"For example, while we are now to encourage our students to make the most of their individual strengths and capabilities, we often hamper them by insisting on rigid, inflexible conformance to attendance regulations that do not allow them to develop any personal self-discipline or sense of responsibility."

To support his contention that education in Ontario is "in mess", Mr. Deacon cites the "complaint from industry and higher levels of education that secondary school graduates cannot read and cannot write, let alone write effectively."

The reason, he says, goes back to elementary school education. He does not fault elementary school teachers, but lays the problem at the door of the minister of education.

"Part of the reason lies in the misconception that elementary students are continuing to teach the basics," says Mr. Deacon, "Gradually the overworked elementary teachers constantly struggle to maintain standards and teach the basics, but they are not allowed to do adequate instruction of the multiplication tables or by-rule drills of grammar points. Standards have unavoidably fallen."

Also, a number of children enter high schools with undetected physical or emotional problems that severely interfere with their learning ability, says Mr. Deacon, who teaches some special education classes at Quinte.

Mr. Deacon, in his letter to the Minister, paid tribute to elementary school teachers.

"The elementary school teacher has by far the most difficult job in education. He or she must do the bulk of preparation required for a all aspects of education. The single day's work is incredible. Many conscientious teachers spend hours before and after school involved in preparation, and unfortunately, the elementary teacher received the poorest pay and needed the least training to enter the profession. The elementary teacher has served above and beyond the call of duty for years. It is remarkable the quality of education was maintained at such a high level. The elementary teacher is the unsung, patient hero of education, receiving inadequate support from the Department of education. The problem of maintaining the quality of education has grown increasingly difficult.

"The elementary teacher needs major assistance in three areas-decreased workload, increased availability of resource materials and resource personnel and increased remedial assistance for the problems that exist in the area of students with learning disabilities."

Other measures suggested by Mr. Deacon to put Ontario education back on course are increased psychological testing, increased remedial help in elementary schools a nd more effective teacher training to help the teachers spot special problems before they become ingrained and serious.

Smaller classes would help, he claims, but would cost money.

"The ministry will have to allow increased spending while assisting boards (and themselves) to greater wisdom in spending," Mr. Deacon told the minister.

The Quinte teacher suggested to Mr. Wells that his first years as education minister "might be profitably spent in a completé overhaul of your department.

"It badly needs it, if for no other reason than it takes days, weeks, even months to make contact and receive effective communication from the department," says Mr. Deacon. "Often even the department does not know what section is responsible for what."

Hobby With A Purpose

Vincent Stein (right) of RR 3 Carrying Place, builds and flies remote controlled model airplanes with the idea of becoming a pilot one day. With his youngest son, their Dave he displays the latest model he turned out and tested. It has a wing span of four feet four inches, an air speed of 30 mph and can be directed by a radio, signal in a two mile radius. It carries enough fuel to stay aloft 13 minutes and could climb to an altitude of 2,000 feet under the right conditions. The cost, about $300, is well worth the time, effort and experience gained from the project, according to the bobbiest, a student at N'chdson College at Belleville.

Council Cuts Own Pay

MARMORA — Douglas Lynch, 37, was chosen at a special meeting this week as the new mayor of Deloro Village to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Councillor Charles Gardanier on Dec. 16.

Mrs. Marie Bedore, who lost out in Dec. 4 election was picked as the fourth member of Council to fill Mr. Lynch's position.

One of the first acts of the new council was to cut their own salaries. The new reeve will receive $1 per month and the council $10 per month each, a reduction in both cases of $5 monthly.

A decision not to operate a skating rink this year was taken because a call for tenders elicited no replies a nd also because of the expense involved. It is hoped that an early start will be made next year on a rink for skating only as most of the hockey plays are involved with Marmora teams.

Council is very pleased to have been able to rent a heated apartment over the Deloro General Store on a monthly basis. The Deloro Village Social Association is planning to continue their meetings and hold card parties at the new location. It will also be available for church and other groups.

Flu Light Here

No cases of London flu have been reported to public health authorities in Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

Neither does absenteeism from school and work appear significantly greater at this time of year, a spokesman for the counties' health unit said today.

The unit, along with other Ontario local helath officers, across the province for the Ministry of Health during winter months.

Statistics are gathered each week from two public schools, two high schools and three industries.

Latest reports show school absenteeism between five and 10 per cent — this last believed primarily due to flu, although what strain could not be determined, since the statistics are not broken down.

But reports from local doctors show "nothing specific" on the possible presence of London flu, said the health official.

Meantime, Dr. Shirley E. Johnson, chief of the ministry's epidemiology service, said both London and Hong Kong flu are in Ontario. But, absenteeism from work is not greater than usual at this time of year.

She said 15 new incidents of London flu were confirmed in Ontario during the week ending Jan. 9. This brings the total so far to 31 cases from Stratford, Orillia and Parry Sound.

Car Found

A 1973 Corvette stolen early Sunday from the service garage of Trudeau Motors was recovered this morning by city police.

The gray sports car, owned by Margaret Craig of RR 4, Belleville, was found beside the Moira River at the end of Reid St.

Thieves used a large window to enter the Station St. garage. After finding the keys in the car, they apparently opened the garage door and drove away.

Quarters Stolen

TRENTON — Police in this area are advising shop owners and banks to be on the lookout for anyone passing a sizeable number of 25-cent coins.

During the break-in the money bags, and at least 50 keys that fit area coin operated dispensing machines such as automatic washers and dryers at commercial businesses, private apartments and senior citizens' homes and coin-operated car washes, were also from a representative of Automatic Laundries Ltd. who was staying at the motel.

The keys and the empty money bags were discovered by school children on a side road west of Trenton.

Resignation Protests Treatment of Retarded

PICTON — Peter G. Donnelly, director of the training and rehabilitation unit at Prince Edward Heights has left his job because he cannot support "the new and exquisite form of institutionalization that is being developed."

Mr. Donnelly, a professional worker in the field of mental retardation, has spent two years in Picton and is now leaving Canada after resigning in protest of the system of "human subjugation" he claims exists at the provincial government's village complex for the retarded.

In a letter to a district newspaper, Mr. Donnelly explained "scores of intellectually handicapped persons who are capable, with appropriate training, of leading a much more free, independent and human life" are kept indefinitely at Prince Edward Heights.

He said taxpayers pay costs of more than $12,000 per year per resident for the "custody" of a substantial number of residents who do not need to remain at the complex. The more prolonged their stay, the greater the chance they will nit learn as readily to cope with the "normal" world, according to Mr. Donnelly.

He observed the "pig sty" and "snake pit" institutions of the abnormal institutional behavior among inmates that lived in Ontario also can make individuals unfit to cope with the outside world.

"Prince Edward Heights is utilizing a model of non-rehabilitative programming for some of its residents which by design or sheer ignorance results in the reinforcement of handicaps rather than their remediation," stated Mr. Donnelly.

He claimed that before he resigned his job at Prince Edward Heights, opposition to its operation were made "explicit on several occasions by various senior staff."

He declared, "These objectives as given to me were: Fill 600 beds; provide total health and personal care with 100 percent certainty that every real or assumed physical or health need is being met including the total custody so that at every moment every resident will be under the supervision of staff; and, if and only if these items are totally in operation may there be any efforts at rehabilitative programming."

Mr. Donnelly said he had spent two years of "exhaustive struggle" attempting to change the operation from within to give it meaning.

He commented "Now you have a different viewpoint on the facility that was supposed to be one of the most progressive of its kind in North America. I can do no more. For the sake of the many retarded persons, both the young and the more mature, for whom a life of greater freedom and independence is possible, I truly hope that some change is possible."

City Development

While we have our reservations about high-rise apartment buildings, they have nothing to do with high-rise per se — they are here to stay — only as to their location. As we have suggested before, they should not conflict with existing housing and preferably should be in locations of their own as is the case in many big cities.

As for the prospect of a high-rise on the St. Agnes Manor site, this has become an emotional issue for some. But there is no question the old manor and former girls' school has seen better days. Even as a student there before the first world war actress Beatrice Lillie, as she explains in her autobiography, saw it as a rather historic edifice from an architectural standpoint (incidentally it features in the distinguished British Who's Who, in the column outlining Miss Lillie's career).

Given the assurances of the developers though, regarding its aesthetic qualities and the immediate environment we are not convinced that a high-rise in this one instance would be all that undesirable. However, those who live in the area think otherwise and there is no doubt the whole question will be the deciding issue in the referendum on the line. Meanwhile, a petition and an appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board regarding the St. Agnes Manor development are an indication of the depth of concern in this matter.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey has talked with the developers and at this point anyway seems satisfied with their plans. At the same time she has warned that citizen opposition of the kind we see here could produce a developer backlash which could leave Belleville out in the cold. Somewhere between the two extremes there has to be a compromise solution which will satisfy everyone while keeping the city's best interests in mind.

Looking further ahead, there is word of a public hearing on February 7 regarding construction of a high-rise apartment building and marina on the waterfront. This is one mooted some time ago on the old Moira Schuster lot on South Front. It would be an expensive residence, with the possibility of some sailing clientele from the United States, but reservations have been expressed already by members of the Subdivision Planning Advisory Committee. Some see a limited market for such accommodation and say it would obstruct the view of the bay.

This latter complaint we cannot take seriously — the bay would be no more obstructed than it is at present by waterfront building units and even the hospital. What gets to see much of the bay anyway . . . how many of the committee members have taken a stroll along the green Zwicks Park area along the waterfront, or through interesting Foster Ward? A brand new apartment complex in that area might represent the beginning of a new era there unless, that is, we want it to remain quiet and relatively undeveloped as it is now, an older section of the city that time to some extent has passed by.

Water Resources

Veteran Public Utilities chairman Lyle Langabeer is concern for the preservation of local jurisdiction over the filtration plant and our water resources generally is a view that is likely shared widely.

Whether we can retain such a hold however may depend largely on whether we have done our homework if and when the Government receives knowledge of the case on the question of regional administration. As Mayor Robin Jeffrey told Rotarians recently: "I am one of those who believe that our provincial government will listen provided we are united, have prepared our case well and present it in a logical manner. . ." She spoke of the need for a "positive contribution (at the local level) rather than taking a purely negative stance which only hastens direct provincial action."

It is plainly of course not wish to envisage regional government eventually embracing Belleville and its surrounding area, as in effect already or pending in other parts of Ontario. So just how long we can retain such control over local resources remains to be seen. Preparedness though, for any eventuality, and with the city's area interests in mind could be potential as the focal point for whatever region may be contemplated, should be the watchword.

". . . these swift-moving times we must look ahead. Meanwhile a foretaste of the high costs Mr. Langabeer fears under Government control is already pending here. The PUC chairman says that because of an increase in cost of electrical power, customer rates will rise shortly.

"Hard" Stand South of the Border

Mexico Places New Clamps on Foreign Industry

By JOHN E. HARRISON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Mexico, like Australia, has announced new plans to tighten foreign regulations against incoming foreign industries. Canada has watched the methods used in both countries as possible models from which to help determine our own foreign ownership policy.

Until the change in Australia's government to the present tough Labor party regime of Prime Minister Whitlam, the Australian approach could have been called a "soft" one, that is limited control over incoming foreign enterprises.

It appealed immensely to successive Canadian federal governments because it was a kind of assurance the Australians could be about as easy on foreign industry as the Canadians and get away with it. That is now changing in Australia if not here.

Mexico on the other hand, was the model for the "hard" view of controlling the international firm, potentially more applicable to a future Canadian policy than other Third World models, because Mexico like Canada is a direct neighbor of the United States.

The Mexican model for the control of foreign industry and investment is a long-established one, perfected to suit Mexican nationalistic and economic needs by many years of practice.

Canadian economic nationalists have observed it at first hand only in recent years, coming away with frustrations that Mexico can substantially control foreign enterprise without losing essential overseas investment in the process.

The reason for this is clear in Mexico as it could be in Canada. The Mexican market of 50 million is just too big to ignore it, even if Mexican law compelled the incoming foreign company to find a majority partner in Mexico, from either the government or private enterprise.

Mexico's so-called "Saturization of Industry Law," (saturization presumably meaning enough penetration of Mexican capital), is more flexible than many believe. Certain sectors of the Mexican economy, for example energy, are closed at primary manufacturing levels to foreigners.

Other industries are wholly-owned by the state or must have up to 49 per cent Mexican control, such as banks, cinema chains, warehousing and mass media outlets.

Still other areas are actually open to majority foreign ownership if the outside firm is bringing into Mexico management and technological skills which Mexican companies do not have or cannot develop.

This latter freedom within Mexico's tough ownership laws flames fair all the way to success. Powerful Mexican manufacturers associations who benefit from controls over incoming foreign industry will often insist they can find the capital and the management, do without the industries, for example in the computer field, even if they know they cannot.

Irish Premier's U.S. Visit Marked by Demonstrations

The following verse might be from a Sean O'Casey farce, perhaps titled The Patriot Game.

In the street outside a New York TV station were massed some 300 Irish-Americans.They are patriots. Prime Minister John Lynch of Ireland emerges from the station. The patriots shouts "Lynch go home!" and "traitor!" They pelt him with eggs as he drives away.

The patriots are angry because the TV interview Mr. Lynch said that British troops should remain some time in Northern Ireland to avert further conflict. And also, probably, because he has cracked down on the militant Provisional wing of the illegal IRA within the Republic of Ireland.

Ad Import Ban Likely

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A ban on the importation of television commercials made in the United States likely will be recommended to the Ontario government by its select committee on economic and cultural nationalism.

Committee member Gordon Walker, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for London North, said Saturday the ban is among recommendations being considered to place Canadian-owned advertising agencies on an equal footing with Canadian subsidiaries of American firms.

"I would hope that there will be import bans on these commercials," Mr. Walker said. "They place Canadian companies at a distinct disadvantage."

CANBERRA (Reuter) — Australian journalist Francis James, missing in China since November, 1969, is on his way back to Australia, Prime Minister Gough Whitlam announced today.

Whitlam said he had been told officially that the Peking government was deporting James, who published an Australian newspaper, The Anglican, before he disappeared in China.

Justice Blind

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Justice, in its blindness, has chosen Vincent (The Cat) Siciliano, an alleged mob leader, as a juror in Queens County Court.

"The first guy that walks in is innocent," Siciliano said jokingly of his impending service, which begins today. He was called to serve on the basis of voter registration records.

Siciliano, who has served 14 years in prison on charges of gambling, weapons possession and armed robbery, has been described by the Queens County district attorney Thomas Mackell, as "a well-known figure in organized crime."

Siciliano says the description is untrue.

Nixon Assailed

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian council of the United Auto Workers union has condemned President Nixon as a "20th-century barbarian" because of the recent United States bombing of North Vietnam.

A resolution passed unanimously at a weekend conference of the council said bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong area has "lifted the massacre at My Lai to the level of national policy."

Letters Explode

TEL AVIV (Reuter) — A new wave of letter bombs, apparently directed at ordinary citizens, was uncovered in Israel Sunday. Three people were slightly injured.

Two letter bombs, mailed in Israel, had been discovered in widely scattered post offices by nightfall.

A schoolteacher, Anat Zamir, 28, of the southern town of Kiryat Gat was wounded in the hand when she opened a letter in a clinic. Two bystanders were slightly hurt.

Until now all bomb letters and packages arriving in Israel have been mailed from abroad.

Hot-air Airship

A blimp-like craft described as the world's first hot-air airship rises from a field near Newbury, England, on its public maiden flight. It measures 100 by 60 feet when inflated, but it can be folded up to fit in a car trailer. It sports an air-inflated rudder and a Volkswagen engine, which powers a five-foot propeller. The builders, Cameron Balloons of Bristol and Lindemore Engineering of Oxford, predict big exports for the craft, which is said to cost little to fly. (AP Photo)

Western Ontario Students Pepper Davis with Queries

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Students who took over part of the University of Western Ontario administration office last week to protest increased tuition fees carried their protest to Premier William Davis Sunday.

The premier was on campus to address the final session of a Liberal conference of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Campus Associations.

The students took over the administration office Thursday night in protest against both the university holding back student aid cheques until second-term tuition fees were paid and the increase in fees.

When the university agreed to release student aid cheques, about 20 students remained in the administration office, hoping to confront Mr. Davis.

However, when the premier refused to come to the students Sunday, the students, by then about 80, ended their occupation and marched to the campus association conference to pepper Mr. Davis with questions during a two-hour discussion.

Answering students' questions about the effect of university budget restrictions, Mr. Davis said:

"I don't know how, in specific terms, the universities are going to deal with all these limitations, but I think they can."

He told protestors that he was willing to hear suggestions on how student aid programs can be improved.

"But I'm not going to hold out any hope that by further discussions we will change the fees."

Elevator Strike Talks Adjourned

TORONTO (CP) — Mediation in the 18-week elevator technicians strike against five companies recessed Saturday apparently with no significant progress toward a settlement.

Talks were adjourned because negotiators were occupied by court cases in British Columbia and Quebec arising from the dispute.

The workers, who earn $7.25 in Toronto, say money is not an issue. Key issues include a union request for job security.

Hundreds of buildings across Canada cannot be finished because of the strike. Supervisory personnel are servicing elevators.

Dentists Join Body To Back Denturists

TORONTO (CP) — A citizens' committee was formed Sunday as the first step in a renewed campaign by Ontario denturists to sell false teeth directly to the public.

Twelve people volunteered at the public meeting to serve as directors. They include town Mayor Garnett Williams of nearby Vaughan and dentists Dr. Charles Peterson of London, Ont., and Dr. Angus Blair of Bowmanville, Ont.

Gordon Smith, spokesman for the Denturists Society of Ontario, told 225 people at the meeting that denturists would rather go to jail than abide by legislation that outlaws their businesses and increases penalties.

He called the recently-passed legislation a "colossal fraud . . . a hoax."

Government spokesmen have said denturists are free to continue practising until the bill is proclaimed, which they say could take a year.

The bill forces denturists to deal with the public only under a dentist's supervision.

Trudeau Declares Separatism Exists in English Canada Too

OTTAWA (CP) — Separatism exists throughout Canada but the difference between French- and English-speaking separatists is that the former are open and candid about their aspirations, Prime Minister Trudeau said Sunday.

"Quebec separatists express their views openly, they say they no longer wish to be governed by the nation. In the other case, it's not quite as clear."

In a wide-ranging interview on Politique A'aut, a weekly CBC French-language program dealing with political issues, the prime minister criticized "fanaticism and separatism that exists throughout Canada."

Mr. Trudeau said that during last October's federal election campaign, "certain persons argued about whether there are French-speaking cabinet ministers and small, they have too much, let's strip them of a little."

The prime minister said separatism was a minority sentiment in Canada that could be defeated with logic and a call to unity.

On another matter, he said Finance Minister John Turner would present the federal budget within a few weeks, adding that the budget would be an important test of Parliament's confidence in the government.

Paper Says Princess Told to Wait 3 Months

LONDON (CP) — Queen Elizabeth has asked her 22-year-old daughter princess Anne to wait three months before announcing her betrothal to Lt. Mark Phillips, a cavalry officer and ace horseman, The News of the World said Sunday.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said: "This is pure speculation or guesswork. We have no information on the matter."

Anne's friendship with Phillips, 34, has hit the headlines in recent weeks. Last Monday the princess gave him two goodby kisses at the dock in Harwich as he embarked for West Germany where his regiment is stationed.

Magical Mystery Tour!

'In the Sun' Travelling Tips For Vacation Sun-Seekers

Many people are now thinking about getting away from it all and planning a holiday in the sun.

What to pack in a travel wardrobe for down south or a cruise in the sun?

Go for items that do double duty such as lingerie which can go dancing or even be used as a coverup on the beach.

It's a good idea to stick to one or two color combinations so you won't have to pack too many clothes or accessories.

A capsule wardrobe for a holiday in the sun should include:

Two swimsuits with coverups which can double as short daytime dresses for sightseeing and shopping.

One bolero shirt.

One cotton shirt to wear with skirt or slacks.

One cotton daytime dress, possibly a shirtwaist style for sightseeing and casual dining out.

One evening pant outfit, possibly pants, silk shirt and dressy cardigan.

One or two long dresses for dining and dancing, not too fussy or formal, made of cotton, linen, silk or polyester.

A shawl or cardigan to wear if the evening is chilly.

One pair of casual, comfortable shoes for walking.

One pair of dressy shoes for evening. Think about white, pastel or black patent sandals with lots of straps and higher heels. They're in vogue.

Big tote bag for travelling and carrying essentials.

Evening bag such as the little clutch which is back in fashion.

Jewelry.

Lingerie, including a cotton shift to boucout that is nothing to pack.

A sun hat or scarf and sunglasses to protect you from the sun.

Sun lotions and creams. It's handy to have them on hand rather than going out and buying them when you arrive at your destination.

Resort wear is a forerunner of what's coming for spring and summer. Look for the two-piece cotton suit with short top and pleated skirt. The shirt look is everywhere, not only in sportswear but also in dresses and coats and even evening wear.

"The drop - dead look in fashion is dead," designer Oscar de la Renta told Women's Wear Daily, scrappy, preppy New York trade journal that is the voice of the U.S. garment industry.

"Shirts are my best selling dresses, and women want to buy them because they are so easy and can look casual or dressy."

Nevertheless, pants are still on the hit parade. You'll find many casual and dressy pant outfits you can buy now to take with you on your holiday.

TURQUOISE, BLACK AND WHITE SUIT — It has sheer, cotton shirt and pleated cotton skirt.

Dental Floss Prevents Decay

Dental floss cleans between the teeth and under the gum margins where a toothbrush can't reach.

This helps prevent the accumulation and growth of colonies or organisms which can form a substance called "bacterial plaque".

"Bacterial plaque" is the chief cause of gum tenderness, bleeding and periodontal disease (pyorrhea), a gum infection that attacks the underlying bone in which the teeth are set. If the plaque is not removed, the bone can be destroyed and tooth loss will follow — in fact, periodontal disease is the leading cause of teeth loss in adults.

Floss at least once a day, preferably before bedtime. Remember to floss before brushing, to clean the spaces between the teeth. Then the toothpaste additives, such as fluoride, can work more effectively on the tooth surface when you brush.

Continue to see your dentist regularly of course. Use your toothbrush as well as your floss between visits and your teeth will always be as clean and healthy.

Magic and Trained Dog At Hastings Manor

Now you see it, now you don't!

That was the general impression of the audience at Hastings Manor, when they held their first Winter Carnival, Friday.

The magician performing the feats of magic was Mr. Burt Hayward. Carrying Place who considers magic his hobby. With endless scarves pulled out of magic wands, and hypnotic eyes, and even spot removal, Mr. Hayward managed to keep everyone wondering.

Included on the program was a trained dog, Toby, with his master, Mr. Archie Greatrix. Toby, a five year old German Shepherd was found at the Pet Clinic, and took obedience classes where he learned the tricks he performed for the audience.

It didn't end there.

Mr. Walter Liedenfield, master of ceremonies for the Winter Carnival, introduced Mr. Ed Hogle who gave a recitation of "Uncle Lem and His Favorite Horse Jim", which was well received. Mrs. Martha Hollinger entertained the audience with a selection on the harmonica.

To top off the festivities, a mysterious fortune teller under the name of Madame Zerbi travelled from table to table reading palms.

For a first, the Winter Carnival at Hastings Manor certainly provided a variety of entertainment for all involved.

Jesus People Discover Money Isn't Everything

By DORIS CLARK

Religion — why is it that we feel a little self-conscious about even mentioning the word? Has our materialistic society taken us so far that we feel a certain pain in the attitude of many contemporaries if we dare admit there is a power higher than we are?

The Jesus People don't have any problem. These are the young men and women who have come full circle in discovering that once you have the things money can buy you are disillusioned with our affluent society. In the person of Christ they have found the example of caring and concern and honesty which makes it possible for them to love life and to cope with it here and now.

In the excitement of making money and creating things, many of us go through a period in life when we seem to need neither God nor Christ. And there comes a time when we discover emptiness of life without a ruling philosophy which carries us to the stars.

Dear Doris: My fiance and I are 23 and 25 years of age. I want to give a family dinner when we tell them our plans, at my home.

Please tell me how to seat the family. There will be my bachelor son, my daughter, her husband and their son. Also, my fiancee's sister will come. She makes a speech, if any? What do I say when he announces our engagement?

What a lovely way to renew a marriage. It's like being a bride all over. Give them the word, will you? It's a great idea.—Eternal Bride

Don't tell me sex is natural. Many things in nature are repulsive, such as a cat eating a bird, etc.

I hope you will print this letter so the women in your readership will realize that they are not alone.—J. and J., Winter Park Florida

Dear J. and J.: How marvelous that you two looks found each other. It would have been unfortunate if either of you had married a well-adjusted, normal person. A couple who equates sex with disease, mental illness and murder is too much for me to deal with in this space. But thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: If you publish this letter it could save someone from a serious accident, or even death.

A young woman I know was driving her new car. She had her baby with her. The gas pedal stuck, she became panicky and put the car in reverse. The car leaped around and crashed into a house. Fortunately, no one was at home. The baby was not hurt but the young woman was painfully injured and she is lucky to be alive.

Here's how to avoid tragedy if your gas pedal sticks: Turn off the ignition and apply the brakes. The engine will stop.—N. Name, Please

Dear N.N.: Thanks for your letter. I will repeat the key line for the benefit of speed readers. If the gas pedal sticks—don't panic. Simply turn off the ignition and apply the brakes.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the bride who had spent a fortune on a satin and lace wedding morning, when she drove up in a car driven by a younger man.

Doris, it is hard to describe this feeling of anger and being cheated. She still considers herself innocent, yet I have found her stories to be false.

She has made attempts to soothe everything. In fact, she has become the person she originally was. However, he does not want to move, and I have had confidence in her. I do love my two boys. How could we live happy as we did before?

Please send any literature that may carry me my wife's attitude. — Incoherent.

Dear Incoherent: You are coherent enough. The way I read it, she missed your companionship, yielded to the temptation of a small cash crawling with her working pals. And one thing led to another.

I'm not too keen on your phrase, "correct my wife's attitude". It takes two to make a marriage; and long weeks apart cut down your chances of getting to know each other; of making your love grow. I expect she has her moments of wanting having to raise her — and your — boys alone.

If she has "become her former self", then work with that self, making plans to move to the new location where you can be home every night. The alternative is not attractive, is it?

(Do you wonder why the people you care about act as they do? Let Doris shed light on your particular human problem, by writing her in care of this newspaper. And remember that stamped envelope.)

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

What's the best day of a marriage?

TODAY: the present; right this minute is absolutely the best time of a marriage. That is obvious, since yesterday is gone and tomorrow is yet to come. Admittedly some yesterdays may look better in retrospect than others; but if the past is preferable than the present, a husband and wife need to read just their values. The couple should, as the saying goes, figure that each dawn brings the first day of the rest of their life together.

Do parents need to be complimented?

DEFINITELY; mothers and fathers, after all, are human beings with the same feelings as anyone else. The compliments, too, must be genuine, not just words that amount to meaningless lip service. In fact, a sincere compliment very seldom sounds literally like a compliment. Just watch the glow on a father's face, for instance, when his son or daughter will say casually but confidently; "Say, Dad, got a minute? . . ."

Must friends be considerate?

YES; no matter how close friends are, they should never stop being careful not to hurt each other's feelings. Sometimes the closest friendships can be severed because one person will accuse the other of "taking advantage of our friendship." If the friends were considerate of each other this would never happen. The only time such an accusation would be voiced is when the friend who makes it no longer wants to be friends.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, JANUARY [illegible], 1973

Visitors from Down Under

Belleville Rotarians last night welcomed two Australian exchange students sponsored by the local club during a year's visit to the city, Rosemary Downs, 16, and Deborah Charters, 17, both from the state of Queensland, were entertainer at a reception at the home of Rotarian Kenneth Wormwald and met Rotary president Robert Ord and Mayor Robin Jeffrey. Two Belleville boys are now studying in South Africa under a similar arrangement. Miss Charters will attend Centennial and Miss Downs will attend BCI.

Australian Ambassadors Arrive

Belleville Rotary's high-geared student exchange program has brought two Australian girls to the city for a year.

They arrived Saturday night after three days on an aircraft from their Queensland homes.

A well-versed duo, armed with all the vital statistics on their area, they are Deborah Charters, 17, from South Bundaberg and Rosemary Downs, 16, from West Bundaberg. Both are the daughters of Rotarians and both have attended the same school Bundaberg State High School.

Both girls have graduated from school and the year they spend in Canada will be an enrichment period. They will gain no academic credits in Australia for the courses they successfully complete in Canadian schools.

Miss Downs will attend BCI and Miss Charters will attend Centennial. Both are eagerly awaiting their introduction to Belleville schools, slated for Wednesday morning.

The similarities and differences became apparent Sunday night as the two Australians rapped with Belleville students at a reception given by Rotarian Kenneth Wormwald at his Sunset Dr. home.

The two Australians came on strongly for school uniforms to the greens of Belleville young people.

"Every school has a uniform," said Miss Downs, "you don't need a range of wardrobe. Your personality comes out; you're not judged on your clothes; there is no class discrimination."

"What about blue jeans?" said a Canadian voice from the rear.

Both students are here on student visas and both will return home on Jan. 9, 1974. In the meantime, they are aware that the "primary purpose of the exchange program is to further international understanding and goodwill."

Their application forms told them they would be their country's ambassadors abroad.

A large order for two teenagers, but the degree of maturity they displayed was in keeping with previous exchange students' attitudes.

Their city has a population of 30,000, and if the surrounding district is included, it takes in 52,000 people.

Surprisingly, the Australians had one factor in common with the South African girls who have just returned to their native land after a year in Belleville. Sugar cane is the common denominator. Bundaberg is one of two cities in the world where sugar is grown, processed, refined and all its by-products manufactured within one municipal boundary. Not surprisingly, one of their chief hydro needs is rum, celebrated throughout Australia.

Cars are no surprise to the Australians. Bundaberg is the second most motorized city in Australia and most families have two or three vehicles made in Australia or imported from Japan.

The climate is sub-tropical, with average temperatures ranging from 60 to 80 degrees. The surrounding countryside is flat, with only one hill that gives them a 75-mile view of the Pacific Ocean and inland territories.

"Everybody rides bicycles," says Miss Downs. "There is a traffic jam every morning and afternoon."

Schools like BCI and Centennial will not be strange to the Australian girls. Their high school had 1,500 students.

Large co-educational high Bundaberg has two state high schools and two Roman Catholic high schools.

"Latin went out" they said. The division between the period when their older brothers and sisters went to school and they enrolled. English is compulsory and Australian physics are given a choice of two foreign languages — French and German. Both Miss Downs and Miss Charters chose German.

Sports are compulsory and so is swimming. It is a compulsory subject in elementary schools and no student graduates to high school unless he knows how to swim.

Miss Downs will spend the first few months of her period in Canada with Mr. and Mrs. Herb Cox. The Cox's son, Peter, is now in South Africa as a Rotary exchange program. Miss Charters is living with the Douglas Forbes family.

As usual, snow is a new phenomenon. Said Miss Downs: "I went for a walk this morning, just around the neighborhood, and when I came back my chin was frozen from the wind and cold."

"Just wait until this is over below," growled a student behind her.

Man Charged

A Belleville man who required hospitalization following an accident on Dundas St. West Saturday morning has been charged with impaired and careless driving.

David Anderson, 19, of 118 Tracey St., suffered cuts and bruises after the car he was driving crossed the road and struck a parked car. The stationary vehicle — unoccupied — then rolled back into another empty parked car.

Anderson was treated and released at Belleville General Hospital. The car, owned by Robert Allen Welwood, also of 118 Tracey St., sustained $600 damage.

The first parked vehicle struck was owned by Paul Williams of 34 Shamrock Road. Damage to the front and rear ends amounted to $1,000.

The other car belongs to Wayne and Robert Kimball of RR5, Belleville. Repairs to the front end will cost $400.

One in Ten at Y Doesn't Pay Fees

Never publicized and seldom talked about, there are many than 100 people who do not pay for their Y membership.

Describing it as a "delicate topic," the Y's general secretary Di Diamantides explained people are very proud and don't like to explain why they can't renew their membership or can't take one out in the first place.

The Y board of directors anticipates there will be a percentage of people who will not be able to pay the fees and budgets funds to help out.

"No one is barred from coming here . . . all deserve the rights and treatment of any member," said Mr. Diamantides.

For those who cannot renew their membership, Mr. Diamantides will meet with them and explain what is available. All such interviews are kept in confidence.

The "never say no" policy of the Y accounts for 10 per cent of their membership.

Another alternative for the would-be member is not having a member at all.

"You don't have to be a member to come and use the YMCA," said Mr. Dimantides.

A large number of people come to the Y and pay a two dollar charge, allowing them to use any of the facilities for the day.

Senior men's memberships are $70 annually, women's are $48, young men's and women's $40, youth $25, intermediates and juniors $24 and senior $25.

With each group being scheduled for an average of seven - and - one - half hours of program each week, the cost per week averages approximately 75 cents.

Store Robbed

Thieves made off with more than $1,000 worth of goods during a break-in at Kelly's Drug Store early Sunday morning.

Among the missing items are cartons of cigarettes, cameras and perfume.

Entry to the Bridge St. East store was made by prying open a side door. City police are investigating.

Colborne Boy Found Trussed And Gagged Near Gananoque

By ELMER BONTER
COLBORNE (Staff) — The story of 10-year-old Daryl Glenn Chapman, missing from his home here since early Thursday night, ended on a happy note during the week-end with full credit to determined, methodical police work.

Police however, indicate the incident which set off a province-wide search could just as easily have been another bizarre tragedy.

The boy, last seen by his mother when he left home Thursday night to walk to a hockey arena three blocks away, suffered cuts and bruises from a beating and frostbite from exposure when he was found lying in a ditch near Gananoque at 4 p.m. Friday, almost 24 hours later. He had been beaten and gagged when abandoned along the side of a road not far from the Canadian approach to the Ivy Lea Bridge, according to a report from the Ontario Provincial Police detachment at Gananoque.

The boy was taken to Kingston General Hospital where he was admitted for treatment and rest.

A suspect in the case is convicted child slayer Roy Donald Kulby, a fugitive who Kingston police recaptured Friday night after a high-speed chase that ended when three police cruisers rammed a fleeing auto.

Kulby is charged in connection with the bodily abduction of two Ottawa construction workers. He was moved under police escort to Wallaceburg where he is being held in connection with a murder there.

Kulby escaped custody at Kingston Dec. 22 when he was scheduled to play the lute's role in a children's play called The Dandy Lion. In the meantime police have traced a series of stolen cars with his movements about the province.

The Chapman youngster is one of six sons in the family of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Chapman of 52 Toronto Road, Colborne.

In bed in hospital in Kingston, Daryl told his father he was stopped by a man in a car as he walked to the rink to watch an older brother play hockey. He related the conversation that induced him to take the ride. "Is your name Chapman?" asked the man. You're just the guy I'm looking for. Jump in — it'll only take us 15 minutes."

When the boy failed to return home by 10:30 p.m. his mother became worried and contacted the OPP detachment at Brighton. Constable K. Peet was assigned to make the preliminary investigation and passed it to Sgt. E. J. MacDougall of Peterborough, called in to co-ordinate the widening search.

On Friday, concerned residents of Colborne and Harold Daryl's grade 5 classmates and other students of Colborne Public School searched the village and surrounding countryside without result. They were assisted by the Emergency Measures Organization with Angus Duffy of Belleville as co-ordinator.

Pony Killed

No personal injuries resulted from three accidents investigated by officers of the Madoc detachment of the OPP this weekend, but a pony was killed in a collision with a car.

Norman Sexsmith, 49, of RR1, Roblin, escaped injury at 10:30 a.m. Jan. 14 when he swerved to miss an approaching vehicle, hit a snowbank and rolled his car. The car came to rest on its roof on a two miles north of the Lennox and Addington county line near Marlbank. Damage to the vehicle was $1,000.

Henry Ross Matthews, of RR4, Marmora was involved in a road collision after he parked his pickup truck off the east bound lane of Highway 7, one mile east of Marmora at 6:40 p.m. Sunday. Mr. Matthews was assisting a motorist in distress when a car driven by Mary MacDonald of Ottawa came over a hill, skidded on ice and hit the Matthews truck.

Damage to the car was $400 and to the truck was $350.

A pony owned by Carman (Crookston) was killed at 11 p.m. Sunday when it was hit by a car driven by Harry Danford on a Huntingdon township road, 7 miles west of Highway 62.

Queen Victoria Is Keeping Busy

The community school program at Queen Victoria school is rolling again for its second term this year.

An organizational meeting was held last week to plan activities for the remainder of the winter. The upholstery course is over for the time being but a furniture refinishing course will be offered late in February.

The family swim every Monday night at Albert College has been well attended and will be continued.

The ladies' keep fit classes have also been popular and activities such as folk dancing will be introduced soon. The keep fit classes are offered every Tuesday at 7 p.m.

"The chess program is booming," Ken English, co-ordinator of the community school program at Queen Vic. It is offered every Monday at 7 p.m. and Dick Lovering is on hand to give instruction if needed.

Because of the popularity of macrame, two classes will be conducted on Thursday evenings. One will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. and one from 8 to 10 p.m.

Creative stitchery has also captured the attention of women in the community and three classes had to be scheduled to handle the numbers enrolled. Two classes are held at the school on Tuesday evenings from 6 to 8 p.m. and from 8 to 10 p.m. Because this course is offered in conjunction with the city recreation department, the third class is held Wednesday mornings at the recreation centre on Pinnacle St.

Starting Feb. 8 Mrs. Audrey Davies will again teach ceramics to children. The class

Five Injured In Collision

An accident late Friday afternoon sent a Plainfield family of four and the driver of a second vehicle to Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Vivian Rose, passenger in a car headed north on Highway 37, was admitted to hospital with chest injuries.

Driver Floyd Rose was treated for scalp lacerations and released.

Also treated and released were the Ray children, eight-year-old Dale, who sustained a bruised leg and three-year-old Lana, who received a cut lip.

Mrs. Jackie Maretti, driver of the oncoming vehicle, was returning from Ottawa to her home in Downaview when a spokesman for the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said her car went out of control, sliding into the path of the Ray vehicle.

Mrs. Maretti was admitted to hospital with abdominal injuries.

The OPP spokesman estimated $2,200 damage to both cars and said no charges were laid at this time.

Youth Charged

Anthony Donovan, 16, of 23 St. Paul St., was charged with break and enter and theft after a city police patrolman chased someone away from the 129 Dundas St. East building.

Only item taken, a cashbox containing between $5 and $10 has not been recovered. Two pane glass windows and a door casing were found broken.

Diehard Sailors

Colin Bayne and Christopher Coiture converted a rowboat into a sailboat last summer with sails they ran up themselves on Colin's mother's sewing machine. Undaunted by frozen bay, they transferred the sails and rigging to a homemade iceboat and were sailing again on Sunday. The iceboat, on skate blades, made up to 25 m les an hour on its trial run. Assisting at the stern in a come-about is Scott Coiture.

Farm Groups Meeting

It's annual meeting time again and Quinte district farm organization members have a busy schedule for the next few weeks.

Quinte district Apple Growers kicked off with their annual meeting Saturday at the Picton Yacht Club.

On Tuesday, Jan. 16, the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture will hold its annual meeting at the Ivanhoe Hall, the event getting under way at 7 p.m. with a potluck supper followed by reports, speeches and election of new officers.

Dan Neilson zone 5 representative from the Wheat Marketing Board, will give a report as will B111 Langstaff, delegate to the provincial committee.

Guest speaker will be Jack Buth, former owner of Sidney township and member of the Quinte Planning Board, who will talk on Rural Land Use.

Then, on Wednesday, Jan. 17, members of the Central Ontario Agralite Club will hold their annual meeting at Ben Luck Gardens in Belleville. And on Feb. 5, the club will be host to the Ontario Agralite Club at the Ivanhoe Hall in annual meeting.

Another event of general interest in area farmers is the Eastern Ontario Conference to be held this week at Club Caesars in Belleville.

Sponsored by the soil and crop improvement associations, milk committees, and beef improvement associations from the four counties of Hastings, Prince Edward - Lennox and Addington and Northumberland, the conference will again be a two-day affair — on Jan. 17 and Jan. 18.

Silo systems — tower and horizontal — will be the topic of discussion on the first day, while on Friday the conference will be devoted to livestock discussions.

Rabid Dogs Shot

The high incidence of rabies in neighboring Lennox and Addington counties and Frontenac counties claimed the lives of two more dogs last week.

Ronald Shaw, RR1, Enterprise was forced to shoot his registered blue tick hound and a German shepherd pup after both were beaten by a rabid fox. Mr. Shaw also shot the fox and it was found to be rabid.

Dr. N. W. Byington, district veterinarian with the federal government's health of animals branch said there has been a high incidence of rabies in Frontenac and Lennox and Addington counties.

He said the outbreak centres around the Verona, Parham and Sydenham areas, about 30 miles north of here. Eleven confirmed cases of rabies have been reported since mid-November. The main carriers are foxes, with some skunks also affected.

To protect animals against the disease they should be vaccinated once a year. If vaccinated they need not be destroyed after contact with a rabid animal, but "must be quarantined for three to six months.

Bottoms Up

More than 100 people, or 10 per cent of the Belleville Family YMCA's population, participate without paying a membership fee. The general secretary for the Y says no one is turned away from the Y. For those who cannot afford the membership, the problem is solved by meeting in confidence with the general secretary.

Kelly Fired By Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Leonard (Red) Kelly was fired Saturday as coach of Pittsburgh Penguins of the National Hockey League and replaced by Ken Schinkel, the club's veteran right winger.

There have been rumblings for some time, as I can say this is totally unexpected," said Kelly, who has 3½ years left on a five-year contract.

"Apparently they think they have a first place team here," he added with a strained smile.

The Penguins had two wins, three ties and seven losses in their last dozen games before Kelly's dismissal and were in fifth place in the NHL West Division.

However, the Penguins were only four points out of second place and 10 points behind division leader Chicago Black Hawks with more than half the season remaining.

"I think you have to look at an entire season to judge a team," Kelly said.

"My kids have been doing some speed skating," he added. "I'd like to devote some time to them, and maybe take a little vacation. I have no real plans at the moment."

Prairie Tracksters Bloom

WINNIPEG (CP) — Poland's Wladyslaw Komar, West Germany's Hildegard Falck and Sweden's Kjell Isaksson were billed as the stars of the second annual Knights of Columbus indoor track meet, but they were outshone by two Prairie athletes.

Eighteen-year-old Joanne McTaggart of Saskatoon captured the hearts of the more than 7,500 spectators with a stunning victory in the 300-metre test, moments before Edmonton's Brenda Walsh became close to a world record in the 600-metre event.

Miss McTaggart made it look easy, turning back a field that included world champion Maryin Neufeld of Arcadia, Kathy Hammond, United States Olympian and Yvonne Saunders of Guelph, Ont., in a time of 40.2 seconds.

"I knew I had a chance if I could get on top by the first turn," she said.

"The only person I was worried about was Yvonne (Saunders). She had the outside lane and can really pick them up and lay them down."

Several months ago, Miss McTaggart was advised by Dr. Lyle Sanderson of the University of Saskatchewan, required delicate surgery on an injured knee and it was doubtful she'd compete again.

"It's a hard worker and is dedicated to the sport and to our surprise was able to compete and has really come along," Sanderson said.

Walsh, competing in the same field as Olympic gold medalist and record holder in the 800 metres, Falck, held off Wendy Koening of sites Park, Colo., to win the 600-metre run in 1:30.6, 3-10ths of a second off the world record.

"I was hoping someone else would take the early lead," Walsh said.

"I wanted on part of the front end."

Liz Vandersteen of the University of Alberta picked up a third behind Koenig. Falck was leading last.

Komar, Olympic gold medalist, managed a put of only 58 feet 9 inches, finishing last in the shot put won by silver medallist George Woods of Long Beach, Calif., at 67 feet, 6¼ inches.

Isaksson, holder of the world indoor pole vault record of 17 feet, 10½inches, won the event at a disappointing 16 feet 4 inches.

Dwight Stones of Los Angeles, a former member of Munich, won the high jump at 6 feet, 11 inches. Brother Welch of Winnipeg took the women's high jump at 5 feet, 8 inches; Grant McLaren of London, Ont., won the men's mile in 4:05.8 and John Haberstadt of South Africa was the two-mile winner in 8:49.6.

Isaksson said he was "terribly disappointed" at the pole vault results.

"This is only my second meet in six months, and, like most of the others, I'm not really in shape yet. It'll take another two or three meets to get in shape and get the timing right."

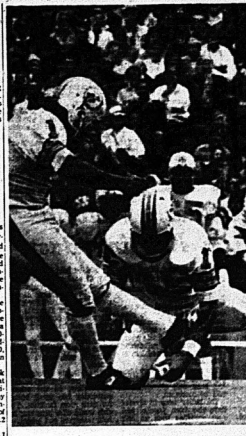
The biggest disappointment was the shot put. Billed as a rematch between Komar and Woods, whose medals were decided by half an inch at Munich, the event never reached expected levels.

Obviously Komar is not in shape," Woods said. "There's no glory in beating him now. I want to beat him when he's in shape . . . I haven't forgotten Munich."

An interpreter for Komar said Komar has not yet recovered from a motorcycle accident.

"His ankle is still very bad and because of it he can not keep his balance or really know of the feet.

In the senior open events, Joe Hamm of Thunder Bay won the high school boys mile in 4:23.8, John Konikowski of the University of Saskatchewan won the 600 metres in 58.0; Wayne McMahon of the University of Manitoba took the 1,500 metres in 4:06.6; Doug Thompson of the University of North Dakota was tops in the 800 metres in 2:18.5; Lynne Clarke of Winnipeg took the women's 800 metres in 2:10.5, and Janet Nesdale of Winnipeg captured the women's 400 metres in 58.6.



Super Bowl 'Boost'

Garo Yepremian has kicked some important points for Miami in his career as a Dolphin, but his most famous "boot" came in Sunday's Super Bowl.

The Miami placekicker recovered a blocked field goal attempt and attempted a pass which was intercepted by Mike Bass for the Washington Redskins' only touchdown. Despite his miscue, Miami powered to a 14-7 win over the Skins for the National Football League championship and a perfect 17-0 season.

Crampton Captures Pheonix Open

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "There is no substitute for victory," Australian veteran Bruce Crampton said after his triumph in the Phoenix open golf tournament.

"I really don't feel I deserve to win," he said, almost apologetically, after sinking a 20 foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole to break a logjam for the top spot in the second tournament of the year on the pro tour.

"I made a lot of mistakes," he continued. "I feel there are a whole lot of times I've played better and didn't win and Crampton, 37, and now in his 15th season on the tour, has failed to win last year but still collected over $100,000—much of it off second place finishes in both the U.S. Open and Masters.

Crampton forged a five-under par 65 in the sunny final round on the 6,216-yard Arizona Country Club course and finished with a solid 268 total.

They were in the clubhouse at 11 under par and were tied with Crampton. J.C. Snead and Dave Jones when Crampton approached the 18th. He put his second shot, with a seven iron, above the hole and banged in the putt.

Jones and Sneaak both behind him on the course, both bogeyed the 17th and dropped back in a tie for fourth at 278 with Jerry Heard, Aaron and Paul Harney. Aaron had a 64; Harney 67, Snead 70 and Jones 72.

The group at 271 included veteran Gene Littler, on the rebound after a cancer operation, Dave Hill, Red Fuoshi, Ray Floyd, Len Thompson and Bob Dickson.

Crampton was five strokes off the pace when the day's play started and gave no indication of what was to come when he missed a 10-foot birdie putt on the first hole, then bogeyed the second after an errant drive hit a tree.

But he punched short, irons within five feet of the flag for birdies on the sixth and seventh holes and reached the par-five eighth in two big blows and two-putted for a third birdie.

He made a duece from 18 feet on the 13th and got a birdie on the top spot with a 12-foot birdie putt on the 16th and won it on the last hole.

He picked up $30,000 for his victory.

NE Rebels Lose First

Northern Electric League's Rebels finally fell from their loss free perch as the Falcons, led by the five-goal effort of Grant Sage, defeated the first place team 8-6.

Randy Longhurst, Don Woodward and Bruce Pasco tallied Falcons' other goals while Dwight Rathwell with four, Larry Lupenette and Doug McCory were the Rebels marksmen.

In the other Northern Electric game Sunday, the Bearcats clawed the luckless Yankees 12-2. Rick Rosebush led the Cats with four goals and two assists while Wayne Brown, Jim Hagarty and Edgar Elly scored two apiece. Tiger Totten and Marco Mior each scored singles. Bill Goodfellow's hat trick for the Yankees failed to make a dent in the Bearcats torrent of goals.

Dolphins NFL Champs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Welcome to the Super Bowl — Fifty Fifty," said the bedsheet banner in the massive Memorial Coliseum. However, it was Washington Redskins who got neatly sautéed by pro football's unbeatable underdogs, Miami Dolphins.

And when the banquet was over Sunday, the Dolphins, with a record-low Super Bowl fig ure more convincing than the final 14-7, had become the National Football League's first team to munch their way through an entire season without so much as a tie to blemish their record.

With the American Conference's top offence and equally-supreme defence, they had barrelled through the year with a 14-0 record. Then, in a trio of come-from-behind victories, they'd nudged past Cleveland Browns 20-14 and Pittsburgh Steelers 21-17 for the AFC title.

And finally, as underdogs of anywhere from one to three points, they marched into Super Bowl VII, already determined to shove into the background their 24-3 humiliation at the hands of Dallas Cowboys in the championship game of a year ago.

They didn't just push it into the background. They obliterated it.

But with their 17-0 record, they moved within one victory of Chicago Bears' achieved record for the NFL's longest winning streak.

Garo Yepremian's 42 - yard field goal attempt was blocked by Bill Brundage and, when the Cypriot place-kicker recovered the ball and tried to pass it, he lost the handle.

Cornerback Mike Bass snatched it in mid-air and galloped 49 yards down the left sideline for the touchdown which, with 2:07 to play, averted the ultimate ignominy for Washington.

Suddenly, the record championship crowd of 90,182 fans— and the estimated 71 million television viewers—had themselves a close game. They got waited for the onside kick. But it never came.

"There was too much time left," Washington coach George Allen said. "You just try to kick deep, hold them and maybe block the punt." But they didn't hold them until barely a minute had ended. They didn't block the punt, a 40-yarder by Larry Seiple that dumped the Redskins back on their own 30-yard line.

Then, after three incomplete passes by Billy Kilmer and a final crushing quarterback sack that left him staring helplessly at the smog-laden C. Tornia sky, the Dolphins — for 60 minutes were each $15,000 richer—closer to $25,000 when you include the AFC playoff shares.

The National Conference champion Redskins each receive about $17,500, including the $7,500 Super Bowl loser's check.

Grosse, who played it cosy in the second half, finishing the game with eight completions on 11 passes for 88 yards, was characteristic in the first half of his first start since the fifth game of the season when he had ankle injuries brought Earl Morrall into the signal-caller.

In the first two periods he went 6-for-6 for 75 yards. And he would have had a bigger 42 yards had not a 20-yarder to Marv Fleming and a 47-yard scoring bomb to Paul Warfield been wiped out by penalties.

It seemed the teams would go scoreless through the first period before Grosse got Miami moving from its own 27-yard line with three minutes to go. A series of runs by Klick and an 18-yard bullet to Warfield put the ball on the Washington 28.

Then Grosse looked for his ace receiver Warfield. "Warfield had double coverage so Twilley had single coverage with Taylor," Grosse said. "He just went down and beat him."

With a beautiful inside move that had Fischer faked out of his cleats, Twilley was well clear of the Redskins' corner back when the ball arrived at the six-yard line. Fischer recovered but his tackle came just as Twilley crossed the right corner of the end zone.

Bake Scott came up with two of Miami's interceptions, one of them near midfield in the opening minutes of the second period, and the other a touchdown theft in the final zone which he returned 55 yards.

Delvecchio May Retire

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings centre Alex Delvecchio said Saturday he is tentatively planning to quit the National Hockey League at the end of the season.

"I think I'm going to call it quits after this year," he said.

"You know, you get a little tired of all this travelling and 22 years is long enough, I think, to be playing in the league."

Delvecchio, captain of the Wings for a dozen years, has been consistently retiring for the last three seasons, but each time has been wooed back.

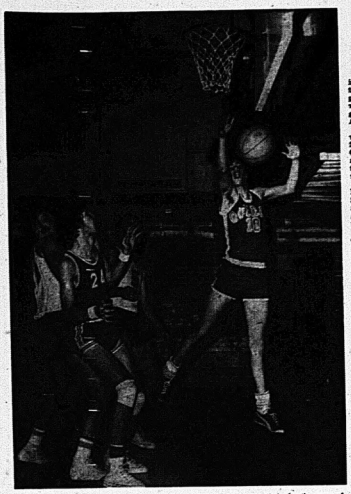
"I'd like to stay in the game in some capacity," he added. "I'd love to stay with the Red Wings. I haven't discussed this with them.

"No, I wouldn't want to coach. What with the travel and be all. it would be the same as playing. Scout? I don't know. It would depend."

Delvecchio praised the efforts of coach Ann Wilson.

"I think John's kept me in another year," he said. "I think John's done a terrific job."

This has been an eventful season for Delvecchio. He played his 1,500th game last Sunday night against the New York islanders and early in the season became the second high-set point scorer in NHL history behind retired teammate Gordie Howe. Delvecchio passed Jean Ratelle, the ball-of-fame centre for the Montreal Canadiens, who finished his career with 1,219 points.



Quinte Secondary's Terry Collins went up for the rebound beating Oshawa McLaughlin six-foot forwards John Nell and Doug Rae (5) in the senior championship game at the BCI Basketball Tournament Saturday. Collins and Brian Hale (24) were members of the Quinte squad which won their fourth game of the day and the senior championship with a 64-62 decision over the visiting Oshawa club.

Convery Sinks Quintes in Overtime

By AL ZARAS
Staff Sportswriter

There were many cheers in Memorial Arena at 4:17 of the sudden death overtime period Saturday despite Quintes' winger Ken Kingston's four goal workout for Belleville Aces' net.

Aces' winger Charlie Convery took a pass from fellow winger "A" teammate Dick Cherry and beat Quintes netminder Karl Bagnell from the top of the slot for the 7-6 victory marker.

Convery's overtime goal allowed him to notch his stick for the fourth time in last night's contest as he had beat goalie Ron Jary for three in the first two periods.

The Kingston winger, however, did not earn his second goal as Jary failed to seal his right post and Convery's shot along the red line hit Jary's leg and bounced into the net.

Kampton proved to be the workhorse for the Quintes as he played strength throughout the tightly fought contest. In the second frame, Kampton's third and fourth goals gave the Belleville club a 5-3 lead, but shots by Tom Carty and Convery ended the period at 5-5.

In the silent dressing room after the game, coach Wayne Brown said up to the end of the second his team had been playing well "until they (Aces) got a couple of tip-in goals. But you can't do anything about them."

Brown attributed part of the Aces' damage to be Quintes to the fact that Belleville "missed too many goals. Every shot must have missed five." He also said that "everytime we got ahead, we gave up. We get a goal and they get a goal."

Right winger Al Ferguson was not the only Quinte to fall to connect with the scoreboard, as Ray Johnston, who played his first Quintes game in November against last night's opponents, failed to beat Aces' goalie D'Arcy Walters in the first period. Early in the second, Wayne McConnell hit the post on a shot from the slot.

The Quintes do not seem to have learned from their encounter with the Russian brand of puck control hockey, as in the first period they constantly dumped the puck into the Kingston zone, hence puck was eith- ed by Walters or the Aces' defe- and or passed up by them immediately. In the second period, in which Belleville brought the puck over the blue line more often, the home team contrived the play more effectively and tallied four of their six goals. In the first, they ended the 20 minutes trailing 2-1.

Centre George Godson increased his point total to 40 with 14 goals with an assist and the Quintes only third period markup. Dick Cherry and winger Pierre Dumont provided Kingston with their other tallies.

The Quintes meet the Galt Hornets Wednesday at Memorial Arena in a senior match with the second place club. Belleville defeated Galt 5-4 in a Saturday evening contest as Bob Taylor posed the ninth place club with two goals, Taylor's markers sandwiched goals by John McConnell with two, and O'Donnell, Belleville Quintes George Godson and Lorne O'Donnell (12) try to beat Kingston defenceman Bob Olajos and centre Peter Kennedy (7) to the puck in front of Aces' goalie D'Arcy Walters. Though both Quintes scored in the 7-6 sudden death overtime loss to the Kingston club, they failed to connect with the puck and the goal in this instance knock it out of reach. The Kingston win over Belleville Sunday again places the two teams in a two way tie for sixth place and a playoff berth.

Kingston, Quinte Tops

The fan turnout was good, the basketball teams were of near equal calibre. What more could BCI junior and senior teams want except to win the championships in their home grown eight team competition.

The BCI junior dribblers, who were the defending champs going into this year's double knockout tourney, lost to Kingston's Queen Elizabeth Collegiate in the final by a 61-55 decision.

McLaughlin Collegiate was the thorn in the side of the BCI seniors as well as the Quinte Secondary dribblers, who won the BCI senior arm of their tournament 64-62 over the visiting Oshawa team.

The BCI - McLaughlin semi-final was forced into a three minute overtime period in what was the closest contest of the tourney, BCI 51 on Wilson provided the Collegians typing basket before the final siren as he swished an 18 foot jump shot after accoster John Neil had sunk two foul shots with less than a minute remaining in regulation time.

In the overtime period, McLaughlin's Stan Ball pumped the first in for a 49-47 lead. Peter Lebaron counted two with a 49-49 result. Oshawa's Neil sazed two from the foul line. Then BCI Rick Bell connected to tie it 51-51. Vic Kneitas rammed in McLaughlin's final two pointer for a 53-51 lead.

The key to the loss, however, was at the foul line as Bell made only one of his shots for a 53-52 score at the end of the period. Jerry Lantomagi dropped a single foul shot with no time on the clock for a final score of 54-52.

The BCI senior Collegians, played "amazingly" according to coach Brian McKenzie. "We haven't been playing all that well lately and then today (Saturday), we played super basketball."

The Collegians had to readjust their play to "more running and pressing rather than control" ball according to McKenzie in order to make up for the loss of Peter Scott, BCI's top scorer and rebounder. Scott suffered a collarbone injury in Wednesday's game against Centennial.

The Quinte - McLaughlin championship game also came down to the wire as the scoreboard lights showed a Quinte lead of 63-58 with 1:41 remaining in regulation time.

McLaughlin closed the gap to 63-62 with 15 seconds remaining when Ball again fouled. Terry Collins went to the foul line shooting two, dropped a single with 10 seconds remaining. Despite a dying-seconds time out conference for McLaughlin and the remaining 10 seconds of play the Oshawa team was unable to tie the Quinte 64-62 lead for an overtime period and another shot at the BCI Senior Tournament championship.

Larry Wilson with 20 points, Russ Simonds (13) and Fred Cass (11) were the top junior scorers against the Kingston club.

Lancers Win Hockey Joust

Loyalist Lancers turned their medieval weapons into hockey sticks in Saturday's contest with St. Lawrence College Kingston.

But the Lancers were just as effective with their new tools of trade as Barry Remington scored the winner with one and a half minutes remaining in the final frame to give the Lancers a 3-4 victory.

Barry Roantree tallied two goals while Dave Ferguson and Bill McDougall scored one apiece as Loyalist led 4-2 at one point in the third period.

The Lancers had a 42-32 edge in shots on goals over Kingston in Ontario College Athletic Association play while the visiting team had a five minute edge in penalties with 20.

In basketball action over the weekend, Kingston mercilessly pummelled the Lancers (17 - 36 with St. Lawrence's top scorer Mike Dawling topping the Loyalist total by one point, Kirk MacKenzie followed with 21 points, Bill MacArthur (19) and Gary Kearns brought up the rear with 13. Loyalist's Ed Goody dropped eight points while Nick Goody netted seven.

Esposito, Thomas Pace Eastern NHL Powers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Scala played to a 66 tie, St. Louis Blues edged New York Islanders 2-1 and Pittsburgh Penguins, after winning Saturday night for new coach Ken Schinkel, who succeeded fired Red Kelly, lost Leonard Stanley in Detroit Red Wings on a disputed goal.

In games Saturday, the Penguins beat the Kings 3-1, Boston downed Toronto 4-3, Buffalo won 5-1, the Rangers stopped the Flyers 3-2, Montreal North Stars dumped the Islanders 8-1 and Philadelphia edged Chicago 3-2.

Thomas got his chance to start in the absence of Ken Dryden, the regular goalie, has a slight back injury and backup goalie Michel Plasse was suffering from the flu.

"You like to have the feeling you're contributing," said the 25-year-old Thomas, who came from Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American League. "I also admitted he was worried he had blown his chance when the game seven began.

He couldn't find one of his skates, parked in the wrong equipment bag. However, it was found in time for the opening game.

He gave full credit to the Canadiens' defensive work for the win as he was subbed upon to make only 20 saves.

"They (Canucks) weren't getting any rebounds. The defense was really clearing the puck after the first period," Thomas said. "There weren't any scrambles."

Frank Mahovlich gave Thomas and the Canadiens the early goal when he scored his 21st goal of the season at 1:07 of the second period, and added an assist as Montreal rookie Jacques Lemaire gave the Canadiens their second goal. Mahovlich got the other goal in the third period.

Esposito, who leads active NHL players in three-goal performances with 15, demonstrated his versatility by scoring a power-play goal in the second period, and a shorthanded counter while both sides were even.

Boston goalie Ed Johnston made 28 saves in recording his fourth shutout of the season, while the Bruins continued their running feud with Buffalo rookie defenceman Jim Schoenfeld, who drew 23 minutes in penalties the last time the two teams met.

PHIL ESPOSITO

Jim O'Brien had singles.

The host left Griffin with 38 points on top of the eight-team league, three better than Galt Centennial's Brent of Barrie. Barrie holds a seven-point margin over fourth place Brantford.

At Owen Sound, the Downrowers spotted the visiting Firemen a three-goal lead in the first period but fought back to take a 6-5 win in the third. Brantford tied it up and then got the game winner from Lepsaire.

Two goals from Bill Gratton punched Brantford while Jim Reid, Jim Cochrane, Bob Graham and Dave Johnson had singles.

Dale Watson tallied three goals for the losers while George Boorman and Bob Monteith added singles.

Next games are Friday night when Orillia, Barrie and Brantford is at Kingston and Owen Sound entertains Belleville.

Small Player Scores Big

You don't have to be big to be a big scorer.

Wilson Concrete tyke Jamie Hofford proved just that in Saturday's game against Imperial Gun Club novice minors as he led Wilson's to a 9-6 victory with four goals.

Beer and Gord Slaughter following Hofford's example scored single goals apiece while Jamie Johnston knocked in a single also.

The cornerstones failed to win their Sunday contest with Peterborough's Trevor Powell, assisted by Slaughter, scored Wilson's only goal in the 4-1 loss.

Belleville's Rollies peewee majors dropped a 4-2 decision to East Ottawa Voyagrus in an exhibition game in Madoc. Danny Dilley and Jim Skibble were Rollies' goalgetters while Michel Bonnet, Shawn Trudeau, Bernie Tertrer, and Jeff Mitchell scored for the Ottawa club in the second period.

The peewees, however, turned the same score around 2 over Tuesday as G.F.R. Fedorick scored a hat trick with the double tally going to Duffy. Trenton's marksmen were John Webb and Gary Saulnier.

Dixie Lee Fried Chicken peewee minors, led by Mark Crawford with three goals defeated Kingston CAL 5-3 in a Quinte - St. Lawrence League game Saturday. Crawford's markers were added to by Tim Soule, who earned a fighting major during the game, and Steve Molina. Kingston's goaltenders were Dickey with two goals, one assist, and Shaw.

Billy Rowe beat Trenton's goalie for two goals in Sunday's 6-0 victory over fellow Quinte - St. Lawrence League member. Dixieree. John Henry, Soule, Paul Chapman and Darrell Coleman formed part of the 25-9 barrage on the opposition's defender. Donald Cook and Bob Hedge shared the shutout honors for the Belleville.

Mark Crawford apparently not satisfied with one weekend hat trick scored another against Kingston Young Nationals as the Dixie Lee peewees won 5-3 decision. Rowe and Soule with two goals apiece and Henry and Chapman with single tallies completed the scoring picture for Belleville.

Kingston marksmen were Rick Young with two goals with John Linsmen, Bob Bloemestyn and Bob Earle bringing up the finals.

In novice action Saturday, McDonalds fell to the sticks of Kingston Fort Henry in a 9-2 decision. Jim Gosnell and Rick Manderville tallied Belleville's only markers.

Brockville novice majors delivered a 8-0 pummelling to Towers Food City in a Sunday contest.

McInroy - Maines bantam minors defeated Campbellford 4-1 in exhibition hockey action Sunday as Andy Luperette, Peter Hall, Jeff Gray, and Bob Crawford netted goals for Belleville.

Bantams Take Second Best

Kinsmen Club bantam majors came home from the Aurora Bantam Invitational Tournament with the consolation runner-up trophy after being defeated by Thornhill 5-4 in their final game.

Kinsmen had the eventual champions 4-3 with 21 seconds remaining in the game but but Thornhill tied it up and won the game in overtime. Bob Thompson tallied two goals in the contest while Kelvin Pope and Paul Hipkin scored singles.

Kinsmen were beaten in the first round competition by Sudbury in a 7-2 decision as only Pope and Paul Hayman managed goals.

In the consolation series, Tony Meagher received the star of the game award as he scored a goal and earned two assists over the Kinsmen's second game opponent Oshawa. Hipkin, Rob Chase, and Hayman provided the remaining markers for Belleville's 4-1 victory.

The Kinsmen edged Barrie 3-2 in their third contest of the tourney as Meagher worked two goals into Barrie's net and assisted on Hayman's tally.

Mary First

Mary O'Neill captured first place in the women's all-Ontario point standings as she tied for five firsts and one fifth in the Ontario Snowmobile Racing Federation's Mosport Park Booch Invitational race last January 13-14.

Mrs. O'Neill, who races 340, 400, and 440 cc Arctic Cats, will be appearing in the Owen Sound Speedcan Cup races January 20-21.

Wakely Helps Winnipeg To Win Over Cleveland

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Jets and Minnesota Fighting Saints took advantage of Eastern Canadian opponents' Sunday to widen their lead in the Western Division of the World Hockey Association.

The Jets, backed by Ernie Wakely's 200th career scoring goal, checked Cleveland Crusaders 3-1 before 2,886 fans in Winnipeg, and the Fighting Saints defeated Ottawa Nationals 3-2 on Jude-Marc Gaudreault's goal at 4:46 of the second overtime, their first loss in seven overtime games.

The two games were the only ones scheduled in the WHA Sunday night. Saturday night, Philadelphia Blazers downed Quebec Les Nordiques 9-4, Houston Aeros beat Chicago Cougars 6-2, New England Whalers edged New York Raiders 4-3 and Alberta Oilers defeated Los Angeles Sharks 4-1.

Wakely broke out 24 shots, many from close range. He was especially alert midway through a second period when a mixup in the Cleveland defence saw Gerry Pinder put the puck alone in front. Wakely had to do the rest, batting it home for a goal the third time in the game.

Barrie Peterson, Bob Ash and Steve Coddle scored for the Jets, who broke their scoring slump. Peterson, who had gone 10 games without a goal, tipped in Wakely's shot from the point at 5:58 of the second period. Ash scored on Wakely's rebound from Wayne Connelly, and Coddle added the other for Minnesota goal while Rick Smith and Gavin Kirk scored for Ottawa.

Danny Lawson ended a league record, scoring three goals and 15 assisting on three others, to spark the Blazers over Les Nordiques. Andre Lacroix added two goals and Johnny Poppa, Jim Hodge, Bob Sheppard and Mike Antonovich got the other Minnesota goal while Rick Seiden, Jim Watson and Jim Dorey scored for Ottawa.

Lawson's 18 points set a league record for most points in a single game. Jacques Lemaire of Montreal Canadiens and Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Smugglers Active On Columbia Border

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The sweat of the average man's brow fetches only $1.50 a day in South American country, but flourishing bands of thieves are proving that agile fingers and well-placed muscle can earn millions.

They route cattle and other contraband across the border, and steal Colombia's fabled emeralds at a rate exceeding the official export revenue of $5 million a year.

They steal cars, which cost three times as much here as in the countries that manufacture them. Only 15 per cent of the cars are retrieved. One of those still missing is the Mercedes-Benz of a high police official.

The "esmeralderos," dealers in illegal gems, even gather goods openly on one of Bogota's main thoroughfares.

"It is hard to say what to do to stop this situation," a government official commented.

Those who try suffer the outlaws' wrath.

Jaime Gama Quijano, director of the government's mining department, resigned because of a kidnap and assassination threat against his son.

There was an outburst in Congress against the contraband cattle traffic across the border into Venezuela. A senator's brother was kidnapped in reprisal.

The stakes are high. In addition to the millions the thieves get through stolen emeralds, police estimate they realize $10 million a year from stolen cars and about $40 million from cattle thefts.

Also high is the price in human lives—among the victims of armed thugs and among the thieves themselves. Competition for emeralds has claimed approximately 100 lives in three years.

The government periodically has had to convert miners' fields as those at Muzo and Chivor into armed camps.

Garo Needs Pass Practice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quarterback Bob Griese laughed and said he'd try to work with Garo Yepremian on his passing, but the Super Bowl champion Miami kicker said "I should as it" instead of trying to throw the ball after his attempted field goal was blocked.

Yepremian grabbed the ball and tried to throw it after the kick was blocked, but the Redskins' Mike Bass picked it off and ran 49 yards for Washington's only touchdown Sunday.

"I should as it," Yepremian said. "I should have just fallen on the ball."

He said "I just picked up the ball and thought I could throw it to somebody. I saw two team-mates who were open but when I tried to throw the ball just slipped out of my hands."

Yepremian said his mind went blank.

Afterwards, he spent worried minutes on the sidelines, frightened that he might have blown the game.

"I was so scared, scared maybe I could have lost the game," the 5-foot-8 soccer-style kicker from Cyprus said.

"Wouldn't it have been terrible . . . we win 16 games in a row and then if we'd lost on that play of mine people still would have said we were a fluke team."

As it turned out, the play may have been a fluke but the Dolphins proved they weren't, 14-7.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — About 5,000 persons gathered at Hiram Bithorn Stadium Sunday in a memorial service for baseball star Roberto Clemente and four others who were killed in a New Year's Eve plane crash. The plane was packed with relief supplies for victims of the Nicaraguan earthquake.

RECORD FOR SYLVIA

DAVOS, Switzerland (Reuter) — Sylvia Filleul of Winnipeg and Lasse Efskind of Norway set women's and men's world records Sunday in the combined results for four-sprint skating events at the international speed-skating championships. Miss Burka finished with 175.650 points for the four events, compared with the previous world mark of 174.095. Efskind, with 152.800, beat the previous world record of 154.400 held by West German skater Erhard Keller. Miss Burka finished second in the 500 m (43.4 to 43.5 for Ciglay Priestner of Wrexjeg.

OTTAWA RINK WINS

SHAWINIGAN, Que. (CP) — An Ottawa Lansdowne Curling Club Rink skipped by Wes Marks won the Royal Victoria Jubilee Trophy in the final day of the three-day curling championship here Sunday. Marks led his rink to a 12-3 win over a Quebec City Cambria Curling Club foursome led by Gaston Delisle.

Bobcats Rebound For Tie

BRAMALEA (Special) — Andy Ricketts and Mark Coates made up a 4-2 deficit against Metro Junior "B" opponents Bramalea as the two Bobcats' scored a goal apiece in the third period to tie the score 4-4.

Coates and Ricketts exchanged goals and assists in the final four minutes Sunday to earn a tie and solidify Belleville's hold on fourth place in the league standings.

Coates picked up the puck at his own blue line and passed off to Ricketts inside Bramalea's blue line. Ricketts took advantage of the two on one situation and beat goalie Bruce Jackson for his second of the afternoon.

Ricketts, who played with Coates and Cousins, came out of the penalty box to break into the Bramalea zone with Co...as for the left winger's tally.

Goalie Jackson played a solid game between the Bramalea posts as he stopped 47 shots to Bobcats' goalie Bob Moore's 33. Jackson put the stops on two 'Cats breakaways as he kept out Wayne McGeachy's first period attempt and Rick Meagher's second period solo goalgetting try.

McGeachy provided the Belleville club with its first period tally, while Bob Mclntosh, Dan Walker, Doug Crawford, and Alan Hayes were Bramalea's marksmen.

Rob Foster was absent from the Victoria Park ice Sunday. Jim Richardson held down the left wingers spot alongside starters McGeachy and Darryl Cole.

Winger Mike Watt, who was sitting out a game misconduct earned against Wexford Friday on home ice, was joined by top scoring Rick Meagher as the Bobcats' centre received a disputed high sticking penalty, a game misconduct, and then a major misconduct over a disagreement with an official.

Toronto Midgets Able to 'Smrke'

Toronto's Ted Reeves midget all-stars managed a few "Smrkes" Sunday afternoon, but the Blake Kerr Imperial midgets found little to laugh about, for visitors recorded an 8-4 win in the OMHA exhibition game played at the Belleville Memorial Arena.

Stan Smrke, brother of Western Tire juvenile coach Lou Smrke coached the victorious Ted Reeve team, while John Smrke led the winners with two goals and an assist.

"We scored the first goal and the last three, but they scored the eight in between," said Imperials' manager Jerry Murphy.

Blake Kerr were without the services of injured team captain Eric Powell in addition to Peter McBride, Roger Chapman and Mike Crawford. Belleville scorers were Wayne Clapp with a pair of goals and Peter Crawford and John Murphy with one apiece. Steve Kirby picked up three assists.

Coons Collects

Carl Coons of 64 Edgehill Road left Memorial Arena $14.58 richer as his was the winning ticket in the Belleville Quintes 50-50 Pot-O-Gold Draw held at Sunday's Quintes - Kingston Senior "A" hockey game.

The remaining half of the ticket receipts go to the Belleville Quintes' hockey team.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

TUESDAY, JAN. 16

Aries (March 21-April 19): See the other fellow's point of view, make a deal somewhere soon, as time works against you on differences of opinion.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Those in appropriate positions yesterday are now advanced. Youngs predictate new monetary surges of activity.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You have opportunity for change, may not recognize its forms or the full implications. Make full use of what you do see.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): The urge to boss those you love doesn't quite fit their best interests. Give thought to your health; avoid needless exposure.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Great expenditures are unnecessary. Routine brings heavier rewards than appear on the surface. Be business affable.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Moderate speculations are encouraged but first get a real estimate of what you are getting into. Personal secrets emerge.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Investigate possible new partnerships. Where some formal move has to be made, this is a good time to do so.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Investigate possible new partnerships. Where some formal move has to be made, this is a good time to do so.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your mate or associate tend to run with the wind. You must keep in touch with what they do, and how they do it.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Persistence pays well. Your family improvises and inadvertently causes temporary heavy [illegible]. Patience brings correction.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): How the dimensions of obligation are more clearly seen—you have more to do than most people think; so get busy.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Private projects advance. Mod[illegible] effort, material, and money in reasonable proportions brings good results.

Fugitive Charged With Killing Man

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Ray Donald Kelly, who escaped custody Dec. 22 while rehearsing with a prison drama group for a kiddies' Christmas play at Kingston, Ont., was charged Saturday night with murdering a man two days before his re-capture Friday.

The 29-year-old former Toronto milkman, already charged with armed abduction of two men on Friday, was accused of the non-capital rifle killing of Gordon Wilson, 31, of nearby Wallaceburg. Provincial police laid the charge.

Wilson was found dead last Wednesday at his home, where he lived alone. He had been shot once through the head, apparently as he entered the home at 8 a.m.

His wallet was missing but was found by provincial police beside a road Thursday.

Kelly was recaptured in Kingston Friday after a high-speed chase that ended when three police cruisers rammed a fleeing car.

He was charged with knife-point abduction of two Ottawa construction workers, John Pierpoint Krohn, 21, and Clinton J. Sullivan, 29, while they were in a car.

Police pursued an automobile four city blocks before arresting Kelly.

Kelly also was charged at Kingston with armed robbery Friday of a gasoline bar at a shopping plaza opposite Collins Bay penitentiary, where he had been a prisoner before his escape.

A few minutes after the holdup, police chased a gold colored car which soon crashed into two other automobiles in an underpass.

They said a man jumped out of this car and c[rushed] into the Krohn-Sullivan [ve], which shortly was backed as cruisers of the city and provincial police converged on it.

Kelly escaped in December while rehearsing in a Kingston theatre for a production of The Dandy Lion, in which he was to play the lion. He was with a drama group from Collins Bay penitentiary and his disappearance was discovered during a periodic head count by a guard in attendance at the theatre.

Kelly was due to appear in court here today.

Thousands See Man Die For Trafficking n Drugs

MANILA (Reuter) — Thousands of persons watched a Chinese businessman shot by a firing squad today for drug trafficking while countless more listened to a live radio commentary.

The condemned man, 53-year old Manila-born Lim Seng, alias Gan Soo Se, faced an eight-man execution squad on a rifle range at an army camp on the outskirts of Manila.

A crowd estimated at 8,000 watches the execution while the state-owned radio provided live coverage.

It was the first execution in the Philippines for drug trafficking under harsh penalties brought in by President Ferdinand Marcos when he imposed martial law last September to reform what he called "a sick society."

Lim, a father of five, was originally sentenced to life imprisonment by a military tribunal last October, but a military review board ordered that he be executed.

Lim was one of five persons accused of manufacturing and trafficking in heroin and other prohibited drugs. Two Filipino accomplices were jailed for life. Two other Chinese allegedly involved are still at large.

Satellite City Is Regarded Skeptically

OTTAWA (CP) — A land bank of 5,000 acres for a proposed satellite city of 100,000 persons about 10 miles southeast of here has been greeted with skeptical approval by regional execs.

While federal, provincial and regional authorities waxed lyrical about the prospects for the city, Reeve Andrew Haydon of Nepean and Reeve Bob MacQuarrie of Gloucester weren't quite so rhapsodic.

Reeve Haydon, an engin .r, explains why.

He says the land is basically composed of a substance called leda clay.

"Frankly, I think they could be getting into a can of worms.

"In leda clay, with a high water table, you've got a real problem in putting in services. It's going to be very expensive land to develop."

Plan Court Test

Clendenning Upsets Auld

TORONTO (CP) — Environment minister James Auld said Monday the Ontario government doesn't know where it stands on pollution programs following a decision by an Ontario judge dealing with jurisdiction for environmental laws.

"We have a program involving just about every industrial operation of any size in the province over water and air," Mr. Auld said in an interview.

"At worst, it would more or less put my ministry out of business."

After meeting with attorney-general Dalton Bales, Mr. Auld said the decision made last week by Provincial Court Judge J. L. Clendenning of Picton, Ont., will be challenged in the courts.

Judge Clendenning said Ontario had no right to rule on noise pollution charges under the province's Environmental Protection Act.

Section 14 of the act dealing with noise is a federal jurisdiction, he said.

The fate of pollution cleanup programs worth hundreds of millions of dollars rides on the decision.

Cleanup orders against industrial wastes alone constitute Ontario companies to spending estimated at $210 million in the next five years. There are additional orders against municipalities.

Environment Canada "would be very unhappy" to inherit the bulk of environmental protection across Canada, said Jack Davis, federal environment minister.

"Our role is really to work with the provinces."

The judge also ruled that environmental pollution of all types is of pressing, national concern and therefore a federal jurisdiction under the British North America Act.

Lang Will Study Ruling at Picton

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Otto Lang said the Commons he will consider a decision of an Ontario county court judge dealing with jurisdiction of environmental laws before deciding whether to refer the decision directly to the Supreme Court of Canada.

He said Gordon Fairweather (PC—Fundy-Royal) he will consult Environment Minister Jack Davis and provincial ministers before making a decision.

Mr. Fairweather referred the minister to a decision last week by Judge J. L. Clendenning of provincial court in Picton, Ont., which said Ontario had no right to rule on noise pollution charges under the province's Environmental Protection Act.

He said section 14 of the provincial act dealing with noise was a federal jurisdiction.

Mr. Fairweather said the decision challenges the right of Ontario and all other provinces to deal with certain aspects of environmental protection.

He said the matter should be referred to the Supreme Court Supreme Court

Mr. Lang replied that a reference to the high court might be desirable.

But the ordinary course was to allow such cases to proceed through appeal courts in the province.

Davis Picks McKeough As Aide on Energy

TORONTO (CP) — Former treasurer Darcy McKeough was appointed Monday as parliamentary assistant to Premier William Davis, with special responsibility for energy policy in Ontario.

The announcement Monday by Mr. Davis followed release of a report by the Advisory Committee on Energy which said the government must place high priority on the development of a comprehensive and coordinated energy policy to avert a possible future crisis.

Mr. McKeough (PC—Chatham-Kent) resigned his cabinet post last August over a conflict-of-interest.

No Request Yet For Canadian Truce-keeping

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said today there seems to be no request for a Vietnam ceasefire but there has been no request yet for Canadian troops to participate in a truce supervisory force.

Reporting to questions from Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield, New Democratic Leader David Lewis and others in the Commons, Mr. Sharp said there will be no discussions with other possible members of the truce force until terms of a truce agreement are known.

He said if Canadian troops are required in Vietnam they will not be held up until Parliament can have a debate on the conditions under which they are sent there.

Milk Store Manager Fired For Fighting Armed Thief

TORONTO (CP) — A former milk store manager whose cash drawer stuck when he tried to give money to a gunman has been awarded $1,000 for pain and suffering by the Ontario Criminal Injuries Compensation Board.

Dimitrios Karistinos, 30, was dismissed by the Becker Milk Co. the day after the robbery for violating the company's standing orders not to resist a robber.

Mr. Karistinos grappled with the robber and was struggling on the floor of his store when a passing policeman saw them and arrested the robber.

Dr. C. V. Murray, a psychiatrist, told the board that Karistinos suffered mentally as a result of the "extra" ordinarily callous treatment by his employers, the loss of employment and the consequent misery inflicted upon his family."

Karistinos received a civilian citation from Metropolitan Toronto police for thwarting the robbery, but since the incident last May he has been unemployed and on workmen's compensation benefits.

Dr. Murray described him as "tense and chronically anxious."

Municipalities Seek Delegates At Conference

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities urged Monday that a delegation of municipal representatives be allowed to attend a national energy conference in Ottawa Jan. 22-23.

D. G. Newman, president of the federation, asked the support of all provincial premiers for an invitation to take part in the conference called by Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford.

Mr. Newman said in a telegram that since it will require the co-operation of the cities and towns of Canada to implement a housing program, it is essential that local government be given the opportunity to participate in the design of the community-development program.

He said it is proposed that a national municipal delegation of 25 representatives attend the meeting along with the provincial and federal representatives.

Kidnapping Mystery

Lastman's Wife Home

TORONTO (CP) — Marilyn Lastman, 37, striking blonde wife of multi-millionaire Mel Lastman, returned to her suburban home unharmed 10 hours after she was kidnapped Monday.

Police said no ransom was paid by Mr. Lastman, 39, who recently became mayor of the Toronto borough of North York.

Metropolitan Toronto police chief Harold Adamson emerged from the Lastman home an hour after the five-foot two-inch, 118-pound woman arrived there by taxi to say she was abducted . . . kidnapped."

"No ransom money was asked for and no ransom money was paid," the chief said. "She returned safely unharmed."

The police chief said the mother of two boys was "in reasonably good condition" after she arrived home at about 11:20 p.m. "Naturally she was shaken up by this very unpleasant experience. She has been a very courageous woman and is standing up very well."

When asked if she escaped or was freed, Chief Adamson said: "No comment."

"I had a talk with Mrs. Lastman and am quite pleased she is safe," he said.

Chief Adamson would not divulge the contest of the discussion and would not say whether one or more kidnappers were involved.

"Investigation is continuing. No arrests have been made."

The chief said no ransom demands were received by police.

Mr. Lastman or any member of the Lastman family.

Taxi driver Youssef Riad picked up Mrs. Lastman at an intersection about four miles from her home. He said the woman was seated in a car with a man whom he could not see clearly. She got out of the car and waved to the taxi to stop.

She told the taxi driver: "I have a headache."

When the taxi arrived at the Lastman home, Mrs. Lastman shielded her eyes before news cameras and walked into the house.

Mr. Daud remained in his taxi for a moment and before he was taken into the house by police for questioning he said Mrs. Lastman had asked him for a cigarette when she got into the car. He had none and they stopped at a convenience store on the way to the house to buy some. Mr. Daud said.

About five minutes after he was taken into the house, Mr. Daud and a policeman emerged. They got into a police car and left, without comment. Another policeman drove the taxi cab away.

Chief Adamson said late Monday night from the porch of the Lastman's elegant Bayview Hill the couple had been instructed not to talk about the incident with anyone and said they would not be meeting with reporters.

At an earlier news conference the police chief said Mrs. Lastman received a telephone call about 1:30 p.m. from a person who said her husband had suffered a serious heart attack and had been taken to Mount Sinai Hospital. The caller said a friend would come to the Lastman home to take her to the hospital.

Mrs. Lastman telephoned a close family friend, Paul Gastman, and asked him to sit with one of her two sons who was ill at home.

Mr. Gastman telephoned Mr. Lastman's office for more details of his illness and discovered that the owner of the Bad Boy chain of appliance stores was in the office.

Mr. Lastman telephoned Chief Adamson. By the time Mr. Gastman and Mr. Lastman arrived at the Lastman house, Mrs. Lastman had gone.

Mr. Lastman said two weeks ago that as of June 9 he had a bank balance of about $780,000 and his wife had about $317,000. Today they have about $900,000 and $500,000 respectively.

Mr. Lastman holds $250,000 of the one million shares of Bad Boy Industries Ltd. and Furniture Ltd., and his wife holds 142,558. The shares traded at $17.25 on the Toronto Stock Exchange Monday.

The North York mayor said the public had a right to know his holdings and his only worry and disclosing them was the possibility that a member of his family might be kidnapped.

Canada For Free Movement

HELSINKI (Reuter) — Canada called today on the negotiators preparing for European security talks to take practical measures to reduce barriers affecting the movement of people and information.

Conference sources said Canadian envoy Ernest Cote told representatives of the 34 countries gathered here that "The detente process will be incomplete if it does not in some specific ways touch the people of our countries."

He said "It will not be enough for governments to agree to certain principles designed to guide relations between official agencies."

Canada and Britain were the only countries to speak at the ambassador level meeting today.

Delegates were still waiting for Soviet reaction to the Eastern and European bloc proposals, made at the opening Monday, for a conference agenda and its terms of reference.

The Sting Is in The Tale

AMHERST, N.S. (CP) — There was a break-in at a Royal Bank of Canada branch here early today, but police gave up their chase when the culprit raced towards a marsh at the edge of town.

Police said they got a call from the bank caretaker when he showed up for work this morning and found the plate glass front door smashed.

But all police found in the building when they arrived was a badly frightened deer.

One comment was: "We don't know whether it was a buck looking for dough or a doe looking for bucks."

Government Accepts Postal Conciliation

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government announced Monday its acceptance of a conciliation board proposal for settlement of the long-simmering postal dispute.

The board recommended a 65-cent-an-hour increase in postal wages, which now are $2.60 an hour for postal clerks and $2.34 an hour for letter carriers.

The proposal was rejected by the postal unions' negotiating committee, but that rejection was itself turned down last week by a country-wide vote of postal workers.

"It is understood that the recent vote of the members of the Council of Postal Unions indicates that they were prepared to accept a settlement based on the majority recommendation of the conciliation board," the government announcement said.

Union wage requests have been for an 80-cent-an-hour increase over a 21-month contract. The conciliation board recommended a 33-month contract.

Last week, following the national vote, postal union leaders indicated they would return to the bargaining table.

Russian Spaceship On Moon

MOSCOW (CP) — An unmanned Soviet spaceship made a soft landing on the moon today and put out a 1,848-pound moon rover that sent television pictures back to the earth, Tass announced.

The propelled Lunokhod 2 rolled down the gangway to the lunar surface at 4:14 a.m., Tass said. Lunokhod 1 landed on the moon about, its running gear and control systems were checked by the ground crew, and "television pictures of the landing stage and the lunar landscape were received," Tass said.

Lunokhod 2 will continue the work of Lunokhod 1, a 1,663-pound moon vehicle that spent 10 months exploring the lunar surface in 1970-71, Tass said.

Unilateral Ceasefire Said Planned by U.S.

SAIGON (AP) — A ceasefire will be declared by the United States and South Vietnam on the eve of U.S. President Nixon's inauguration to a second four-year term Saturday to pave the way toward signing of a peace agreement to end the Indochina war, South Vietnamese sources said tonight.

Nixon was said to have advised South Vietnam President Nguyen van Thieu that an international agreement has been reached to preclude further hostilities by North Vietnam, and to have told Thieu to "trust in me."

The unilateral ceasefire would be designed to set the stage for the signing by the foreign ministers of the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong of the peace settlement drafted at Paris, the informants said.

There was no clear understanding of whether Hanoi and the Viet Cong had agreed to a ceasefire. However, the sources, who have had access to discussions by Thieu and other top-level South Vietnamese leaders of the latest draft proposal, said concessions had been made by both sides on essential issues blocking the peace treaty.

These reports came after U.S. envoy Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. conferred for 2½ hours with Thieu on the draft proposal worked out in Paris by U.S. negotiator Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho.

The sources said some "ambiguous points" of the peace agreement will remain to be settled following the ceasefire and before the pact can be signed. They added it was hoped this could be accomplished before the end of January.

Official sources said North Vietnam and the United States have agreed on the site of an international force to supervise a ceasefire.

The U.S. embassy indicated there would be further meetings between Haig and Thieu and said the schedule of President Nixons special emissary was "open-ended."

Housing Holdup May Be Solved

Though still not certain, a solution may have been reached Monday which will permit the Ontario Housing Corporation to build a fourth senior citizen housing unit for the city.

The OHC and the city became entangled in a mesh of requirements and the forwarding of a site plan from developers. This resulted in a stalemate of opposing policies between the two.

OHC is willing to allow one parking space for four units or one fifth of the parking required by the city.

For the city to rezone the property to allow this parking situation, common among senior citizen housing, a site plan was necessary. The OHC refused to submit such a plan until they were assured rezoning would follow.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey called for a meeting of the OHC, the city, and the Quinte Planning Board to better understand the OHC building proposal in lieu of a plan.

The mayor, following the closed session decided rain-er than attempting a time-consuming rezoning process, the Quinte Planning Board has been instructed to investigate the solution Kingston used to solve the same problem.

Mayor Jeffrey claimed there was a bylaw in that city which could possibly serve as an amendment to a Belleville bylaw, expediting the permits soon to be build.

The mayor said a special council meeting could be called to process the amendment, followed by a public hearing and completed by an Ontario Municipal Board hearing.

Mayor Jeffrey said this parking problem was the only thing standing in the way, and might money was not causing the OHC to stall.

Before council can act on the amendment it first must be investigated by the QPB who say it must be investigated thoroughly. "We must weigh all the pros and cons," said deputy planning director Frank Stokmans.

Quintes Ask Rent Cut

Plagued by low gate receipts, Belleville's Senior A Hockey Team is seeking a reduced rental rate for its home games at the Memorial Arena.

The request for the reduced rental was conveyed to city council yesterday by Harold Foster on behalf of team officials.

Mr. Foster noted that the Senior A team was being charged the same rental that were other teams playing at the arena and asked that the rate be reduced to the same as that paid by Quinte Teams.

Alderman Jean Smith chairman of the Recreation-Arena Committee, said he was arranging a meeting of hockey officials and would report at the next meeting of council.

Tele-Shelter

Necessity is the mother of invention, and a phone booth was just what John Deshane needed to beat the wind this morning. Perched on the directory stand, he was high and warm but was he ready to be on his way.

Apartment Height Limit Requested

The horse is out of the stable insofar as the proposed highrise apartment complex for the St. Agnes Manor property on East Bridge Street is concerned.

But city council will ask the planning board to bring in a report with "recommendation relative to the density of population to be allowed in B districts of the city.

This was the immediate action taken Monday by city council following the submission of a delegation of East Hill residents headed by Dr. David Lintern objecting to construction of further highrise apartment structures in their area.

Dr. Lintern presented a nine-point submission specifically asking that apartment structures be limited as to height. He called for an immediate amendment to city bylaw 1088 limiting the height of apartments in B districts to four storeys.

William Hockley, speaking for Douglas Sword, chairman of PACC (People Against Contaminated Environment) said his organization supported the East Hill group wholeheartedly and asked for an immediate freeze on highrise apartments until the city's official plan was received.

Later in the meeting, Alderman Stu Meeks brought a motion calling for the Quinte Planning Board staff to bring in a recommendation to limit apartment house heights in B districts when the official plan was approved.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey said she sided with the latter of the recommendation but asked that reference to four storeys be removed.

"We want the planning board to come in with a report relative to densities," she said.

Alderman Arnold Orr agreed that there was strong feeling against apartments in some sections of the city but he personally understood that it was dealing with something in the future.

"We must keep in mind that if this motion is passed it does not mean council will stop the apartment planned for Bridge Street property," he said.

The building permit for the proposed new Bridge St. apartment already has been issued at city hall.

Council took no further immediate action with respect to the East Hill residents' objection to the apartment other than to request a typewritten copy of Dr. Lintern's submission.

It was agreed that discussion of the various points raised should be delayed until a copy of the submission was received.

Union Bargainers Reject Bata Offer

Bata Footwear workers will vote next Monday on a company contract offer on which now has been rejected by labor negotiators, it was revealed today.

Whether the stand of union bargainers — a sudden reversal of what seemed reconciliation between management and labor will leave its thumbs down imprint on the workers' ballots won't be known until votes are tabulated.

The ballot poses the possibility of strike action — the first in the company's 33-year history at Batawa. It asks workers whether they favor the company's offer or a strike.

Points disputed by Bcot and Shoe Workers' Union negotiators involve retroactive pay and piece rate formulas.

These issues excepted, the union team states frankly that the current contract offer is "probably the best we have ever had for the vast majority" of its Bata membership.

Some 700 employees of Bata's 1,250 wkeforce are members of the three locals at Batawa, Picton and Campbellford.

Rejection by labor spokesmen follows a contrasting pattern of reactions since negotiations went to conciliation after the last work contract expired in October.

In mid December, union bargainers charged the company with negotiating in "bad faith" and disruption of conciliation progress seemed possible. But further talks were held with company negotiators. When conciliation talkes resumed Jan. 4, the climate was more reconciled. Ian Brill, Bata chairman who is the union's international representative, said the talks produced progress and the situation looked "hopeful".

In recommending rejection of the company offer, the union negotiators charge retroactive pay terms are not "real retroactivity".

The Company's formula would cost $30,000 to $40,000. What the labor team calls "true retroactivity" would cost $80,000 - $120,000.

Piece rate workers earning more than 128 per cent of the minimum hourly rate would receive little or no increase on piece rates claim the union spokesmen.

There are 120-150 workers involved in this group.

The company offer will be discussed between the general membership of the three union locals and their bargainers at a special, pre-ballot meeting Thursday night at Frankford Legion Hall.

Town Council Meets Tonight

TRENTON — Trenton's newly elected town council will meet again tonight in a special closed meeting of the whole session, primarily geared to outlining municipal board and committee functions.

Last night Quinte Planning Board principal planner Frank Stokmans outlined the function, policies and procedures of the area board.

The Trenton Public Utilities Commission Manager Douglas Manlow will present a report on PUC operations.

Said Mayor Duncan McDonald, this morning: "I think the business is good in view of the new council-members, having people like Mr. Stokmans in.

"In the last couple of years we've become separated in some respects and I'm glad to see they're (committees and council) getting together."

Car Pulled From Canal

CARRYING PLACE — A car that sank to the bottom of the Murray Canal near the narrow bridge on Highway 33 on Sunday night was dragged from the water Monday afternoon after a diver hooked the vehicle to a tow truck.

At 8:40 p.m. Sunday, Clifford Arthur Cupid of Carrying Place, found himself settling behind the wheel his 1964 Buick after it plunged off the canal bank a short distance from the bridge near Perrin's Grocetería. He was uninjured.

According to local residents, this bridge has been the scene of several drownings and near-drownings over the past several years. Residents have been unsuccessful in bids to have the bridge replaced.

Case Dismissed

Charges arising from an Oct. 28 break during a Frankford dog show were dropped against two men Monday in provincial court.

Judge J. L. Clendenning ruled the men, Allen Stacey and Eugene Wood, both from the Frankford area, were trying to prevent a disturbance rather than cause one.

He said he agreed with the testimony of Walter Watson, a spectator at the fight, who told the court Stacey and Wood tried to calm down a fight after he had been refused liquor.

During the melee that followed, chairs were thrown, a fire-extinguisher set off and Allen Stacey knocked unconscious. The incident took place in Frankford arena.

James Stacey, brother of Allen, was fined $125 last Nov. 10 for causing a public disturbance. Another man who took part in the brawl, George Bates, was fines $75.

Privy Burned

TRENTON — Unintentional arson has been labelled the cause of an early morning fire that destroyed an outdoor privy on the property of Frank Jones, near the old CN railway, between Highway 33 and the Wooler Road.

Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police reported that between 3 and 4:45 a.m., Mr. Jones spotted flames coming from the outhouse before the alarm was sounded the small building was reduced to ashes.

Constable Ray McNicol soon located an RRI Trenton youth who has admitted to setting the fire. According to police, Barry Laird, 20, said he had been walking most of the night and had only tried to keep warm in the privy, accidentally setting fire to it.

The youth remains in custody.

Thurlow Reeve County Warden

Thurlow township reeve Horace Casey and Stacey's bro-member of county council has been named as the 1973 Hastings county warden.

Reeve Casey, who has 15 years' experience on township council, defeated Deseronto Reeve George Lyons for the wardenship in a straight two-way fight.

The new warden succeeds Carman Gibson as county-council head. Mr. Gibson has retired from active municipal life.

A Corbyville area farmer, Warden Casey was last year's chairman of the county roads and bridges committee and also served last year on the personnel committee. Two years ago he served on the municipal reform committee.

He has two grown children, Mrs. Marjorie (Linda) Reid of Cannifton and Ronnie, and two younger sons by a second marriage, Mark and Doug, both at home.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and greatly relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a special healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured tissue and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Not Much to Shovel

Three - year - old Kevin Young, of Chatham St., bundled up by the capable hands of Mom, found there weren't the piles of snow he expected. The Belleville Winter Carnival Committee is worried about the same thing, with many scheduled events relying on either ice or lots of snow.

Changeover to FM Concerns Council

Belleville city council members are concerned that council meetings are no longer broadcast by CJBQ 950 on request, 980 shot on the dial, but instead are being aired on its FM band.

The change of policy on the part of the city's radio station was begun with this week's meeting.

Alderman Paul Bassett admitted that he was "concerned" about the change, pointing out that many Belleville listeners do not have FM radios.

He regretted that council had not been consulted before the change, and hoped that something could be done about getting meetings back on the 950 slot.

Alderman Arthur Keegan had the same views, adding that many people were interested in council's decision making deigsion. He feared that, lacking FM sets, many people would be deprived of this opportunity.

And Alderman Joseph Cox, as a new council member admitted he also was unprepared and said radio listeners would be losing something.

Alderman Dr. John Stock suggested that a letter go to the radio station manager pointing out council's views.

Mayor Robin Jeffery said she would personally talk to station manager Fred Mac- vay taking along council's letter.

In an announcement prior to the change, CJBQ said the reason the station was switching the council broadcast to FM was that as result of station's more powerful AM signal, many of the listeners outside the immediate Belleville area were not interested in the proceedings of Belleville city council.

Highrises Find Little Favor

For whatever reason, apartment buildings springing up in Belleville's residential sections are hearing the brunt of homeowner scorn.

At public meetings and in private interviews, the word highrise is treated like the plague, making politicians and planners tread softly and homeowners shout foul play.

Highrise buildings are generally considered as structures rising more than seven stories from the sidewalk and technically referred to as high-density housing units.

The two sides of the coin are the tenant and the neighboring homeowner.

The purpose of the building is to put as many people into as small a space as possible. Generally the tenant of the building is not in a position to own his own home and is satisfied with the highrise alternative.

The homeowner generally feels compassion for the tenant and admits these buildings serve a purpose, as long as the building isn't next door.

So vehement is this attitude that only one person who participated in a recent public interview defended the highrise.

While many preferred not to be quoted or have their photograph taken, they all considered tall buildings a bad thing that might be all right for someone else's street.

Special Service January 19

Careless Conviction After $7,000 Damage

Last Oct. 4 was not Alexander McDonald's day.

The Toronto truck driver was headed for Kingston along Highway 401 when he began to notice signs warning him of blasting operations near Highway 14 ahead.

He motored on, only to find both lanes blocked at Highway 14 by a string of cars and a transport truck.Ahead ing one line was an Ontario Provincial Police constable with his hand up in front of the other was a construction flagman holding a stop sign.

To the right of the jam was the constable's motor cycle, topped by a rotating red warning light.

Mr. McDonald, who was travelling at about 50 miles per hour, found himself unable to stop. He headed for the shoulder but before his vehicle came to rest, it was up side down and minus its rearmost wheels. In addition, the motorcycle was also badly smashed.

"I put my brakes on several times but they wouldn't function," Mr. McDonald told Judge J. L. Clendenning in provincial court Monday.

He said his only option at the time was to "bail out to the right," despite the hazardous consequences.

The truck was also ripped open along one side and cost $4,000 to repair. Damage to the motorcycle was $1,000.

The judge found Mr. McDonald guilty of careless driving and fined him $100.

Authority Receives Grant

Another notch has been added Trent River greenbelt plans to improve Trenton's already dated riverside.

A $21,000 provincial government grant has been made to the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority, seeking acquisition of six properties along the Trent's west bank in the town. The authority hopes to place river front lands in public domain. It already owns one property and now hopes to acquire three other parcels of land along the waterfront.

The grant is from the Ministry of Natural Resources. All member municipalities in the conservation authority will share its acquisition costs.

Meeting Time Switch Moved

MEETING INDENT EG

Belleville city council could switch from afternoon to evening meetings if a notice of motion presented Monday wins approval in two weeks.

The notice of motion to change the council meeting time from the present 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. was brought in by Alderman Joe Cox and will be debated January 29.

A similar motion was presented by then Alderman Robin Jeffery a year back was defeated by the 1972 council.

Three other notices of motion were presented at Monday's meeting by Alderman Stu Meeks.

One called for a feasibility study to be undertaken to determine the need for a high level bridge across the Bay of Quinte. Another called for the appointment of a harbor improvement committee, while the third asked for flag staffs at the four corners of the city hall roof to allow flying of the Union Jack.

"Do you mean the Union Jack or the Canadian flag?" asked Alderman Jack Ireland. "The Union Jack," replied Ald. Meeks.

Base Joyride Brings Jail

A CFB Trenton youth who went for a ride around the base in a stolen car last summer will spend the next two months in jail.

Mike Shipland, 17, changed his plea to guilty in provincial court Monday after an Ontario Provincial Police officer produced fingerprint evidence showing the youth had been in the car.

Driver of the vehicle, Richard Matheson, also of CFB Trenton, was given a six-years probation last Dec. 11.

Shipland had been placed on probation twice last year for other offences.

The pair was caught Aug. 29 when Matheson drove the 1965 Mustang into a parked truck. Captain Roger Clark, who tried to catch the fleeing youths, later identified them for military police.

The car was owned by Warrant Officer Wilbert Neal of Moose Jaw, in Germany at the time. He left a spare set of keys in the glove compartment.

Damage to his car and the truck totalled somewhere between $365 and $540. The youths were ordered to divide the reparation cost evenly between themselves.

Assault Charged

A 44-year-old girl talked her way to freedom, 10 a.m. Monday, after being attacked while on her way to school.

A charge of assault causing bodily harm has been laid against 227 Pine Street resident, 19-year-old Keith Albert McCoy.

The Quinte Secondary student was taking a short cut to school to write a French examination when her attacker overtook her.

The young girl persuaded her captor to release her on the provision she would tell no one.

Belleville police were contacted, leading to McCoy's arrest. The girl was treated for facial cuts and bruises.

Belleville to Join In Disposal Study

The city of Belleville will go along with the concept of a county - wide waste management study taking in the city and the town of Trenton.

Hastings county, at its December meeting agreed that waste management is an area problem which can be met only by collective action and that any study should include all the municipalities rather than just a few in the Belleville area.

Accordingly, letters have gone out from the county to Belleville and Trenton inviting them to participate in a joint study.

Yesterday, on the recommendation of Alderman Jean Smith, chairman of the council waste management committee, council voted to go along with the concept of the county - wide study and will meet with city officials to work out details.

$200 Donated

The city of Belleville will contribute $200 to the County of Essex Flood Relief Fund.

The request for a donation to the fund was received late last year but was referred to the 1973 council for action.

The fund is to help relieve financial hardships from flooding on Lake Erie which last fall inundated large areas of Essex County.

Nursing School Principal Welcomes Move to Loyalist

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

The Ontario Hospital Association has expressed concern with the takeover of nursing schools by community colleges throughout Ontario.

But the principal of Edith Cavell Hospital School of Nursing here says the move has been a boon for nursing associations for years.

R. Alan Hay, executive director of the hospital association says his body is concerned about "any move that might affect the quality of nursing care."

The OHA in 1971 recommended that "hospitals should have an equal voice at all levels where educational policy is decided in order that such programs provide an appropriate blend of service and academic requirements."

Mr. Hay says new fiscal arrangements with Ottawa will result in a bigger federal contribution toward education costs after control of nursing education is transferred from the ministry of health to the ministry of colleges and universities.

He questions whether the government has given "proper consideration to the advantages of an affiliation arrangement" in which nursing schools would share community facilities and courses but would preserve their own identity.

Mrs. Madge Flindall, principal of the Edith Cavell School says that education has changed so much "we're sort of isolated" in hospital-affiliated nursing schools.

The transfer of nursing education to Loyalist by September will be a big adjustment, but she's optimistic about them. "They are an eyesore and a waste of time. You may as well be in a prison."

Nonna, a Belleville homeowner. Mr. Nunn feels sewers would be taxed beyond their limit.

J. S. Taylor, who lived in Toronto for 38 years and has seen living in highrise buildings says, he's not "funny" about them. "They are an eyesore and a waste of time. You may as well be in a prison."

Mildred Steiger accepts the good and bad of the building.

Asked if she would mind a highrise being built next door, she said she wouldn't mind.

"It's better than saving old crumbling buildings and trying to rent them," she said, referring to the current controversy surrounding St. Agnes Manor.

Mrs. Flindall, principal of the Edith Cavell School of Nursing employs a principal and her assistant and 12 instructors, some of whom work part-time.

Tuition fees at Loyalist college are the same as those paid at the nursing school—$258 a year. But a Loyalist student pays a further $25 a year activities fee to support college - based sports and entertainment.

The Edith Cavell Regional School of Nursing employs a principal and her assistant and 12 instructors, some of whom work part-time.

For the first time, the association will include not only Protestant ministers but also Roman Catholic priests. In addition, clergy from outside Belleville have also been invited to join.

The expanded membership was made possible by a change in the association's constitution ratified at a meeting last week.

For Rough Going

Swamp craft, as we recall, were used in Florida recently to get to passengers of the big jet that went down in Everglades country en route to Miami. And at Edmonton about the same time a Mountie on a snowmobile was the first to reach the site of a crashed cargo jet.

These are examples of vehicles which come into their own in conditions of extremity as was the case in the two instances cited above. And while this part of the province has not been greatly taxed, from a weather standpoint, this winter — not yet anyway — we know that municipal work crews and organizations like Hydro and the Department of Transport are well prepared.

A recent article by Rae Hopkins in Hydro News has interesting information on this organization's degree of preparedness. For instance, Hydro has no fewer than 250 snowmobiles, mainly for use by linemen traversing snowbound right-of-way. It must have been a pretty major cost factor for the taxpayers — the purchase of these machines — but it will pay off in greater efficiency and easier job performance. The machines can be used from about 50 days a year in southern areas to about 80 days in the northern part of the province and Hydro's view of their economics matches our own — there are almost 500 "off-highway" vehicles worth some $2,800,000 and writer Hopkins says "it is an investment which has paid for itself many times over in terms of hours saved in the construction of vital power facilities."

One of the most recent additions is a tree spader, a giant hydraulic device capable of digging up and transplanting trees 15 to 25 feet high. According to Hydro transportation executive George Morton, rubber-tired articulated vehicles are rival tracked vehicles in fleet usage. Tracked vehicles are particularly useful in soft ground or muskeg while vehicles with tires are used predominantly on rough or rocky ground, like the lunar type terrain around Sudbury used as a training ground by U.S. astronauts.

But the "Daddy" of all these vehicles is the aptly-named Foremost, a 29-ton, double-track vehicle that looks like a cross between a tank and a crane. Its job is to lift linemen up to 75 feet in the air in insulated buckets where they can work on high-voltage lines. It is particularly suited for use in muskeg or snow and a $9 million order for the vehicle has been received by the manufacturer from the Soviet Union for use in Siberia.

What about hovercraft, like the one airlifted recently from Trenton to the Northwest Territories for a wide variety of uses from rescue work to the transport of other vehicles? Mr. Morton says there is not much chance of them being becoming suitable for utility work for some time. Meanwhile Hydro gets about very well with the vehicles now at its disposal.

A Churchill 'Put-Down'

We like those words of Winston Churchill recounted by his actress daughter Sarah in a recent television special. The great man made the remark in answer to someone who was critical of an example of Churchill bricklaying (with painting one of his many time passes). "Any fool," he said, "can see what's wrong — but can you see what's right." Wise words indeed and they apply to many situations in life and in day-to-day dealings between people.

We don't know for certain but in all probability, as with many a Churchill riposte and virtually every aspect of his story, the rejoinder was likely an original.

The same cannot be said for everyone. For example NDP leader David Lewis, in one of his more abrasive moments in Opposition referred to Prime Minister Trudeau in these terms: "there, but for the grace of Pierre Elliott Trudeau, sits God."

Again, however, it was Churchill who made a similar observation with the austere Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer as target. "There but for the grace of God," said Churchill, "goes God."

Trappings of Power Big Factor in Political Life

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — In these days of big budgets and high taxes, a great many people believe the Ottawa barium mess to regard public servants as a privileged class, protected from the rigors and realities of the cold, hard, competitive, work-a-day world by Parkinson's Law.

That fabled bureaucratic attitude, you will recall, provides that work — or non-work as some taxpayers beyond the bounds of the National Capital often suspect — always must expand to accommodate the $ to $100,000 in the competitive commercial world.

Other senior executives, disciplines the Estimates, are in the $21,000 to $37,500 range.

Junior administrators are on the way up get from $16,000 to $20,000.

But they are far from creatures of special privilege.

Collectively they operate the nation's biggest business, the currently is fuelled by a $17-billion budget.

And while the top executives among them, the deputies of Finance, Industry, Defence, Transport and External, do make something like $42,000, their responsibilities, former businessmen and cabinet ministers George Hees and the late Robert Winters have said, would exceed those anything from $75,-

Ministers of cabinet rank get $60,000 to $100,000 in the competitive commercial world.

If they all — or even a good proportion of them — could do so much better in private enterprise, as both George Hees and Robert Winters once aware — what are they doing working for less, in government?

To hear them and such advocates as Mr. Hees tell it, not for money, certainly.

Could be perhaps to a degree, anyway.

Then for what else?

For power and the symbols of power.

It is this preference for intangible power over tangible money that gives the public service its curiously compelling attraction.

Symbols of power — and that is the visible measure of authority in the Capital — like what?

Well, not rugs. For everyone has them, wall, to wall, and now there is hand-hooked special its broadloom unless perhaps it bears a crest.

Nor Chesterfields, big and luxurious and comfortably deep as they surely are, because they are standard equipment in the executive suite. All routine, except, of course, for custom-crafted, hand-tooled specials like Prime Minister Trudeau's $6,208 job in soft grey suede.

Spaciousness counts, though, the multiplicity of offices in the suite.

And location makes for precision. In-the-executive erie is the low overcrast at the top of a high-rise tower? Has it a view of the Ottawa River reaching across the valley to the Gatineau Hills beyond?

But more important for The Man At The Top is making his distinctive mark is to do something extraordinary in taking his executive command post.

Like having an executive board conference table just so long, wide and handsome it will not fit into the freight elevator and must be hoisted up, spectacularly into street level window.

Or a mobile crane as happened not long ago, providing a splendid noontime entertainment spectacle for lunch-hour strollers.

Or like having your own private washroom pink-tiled right to the fifteen 27" ceilings and floors — again as happens in government — for the planners or an impulsive mind-changing chief executive.

But all this and such other trappings of power as the private dining room with fine linen and china, kitchenette and staff, washrooms with showers and electric dryer, and even a siesta chamber can not compare to the really hot secretary.

She knows how to position your office gear, with the easy chairs just far enough from the executive desk so your visitors, when they have to walk across the room and stand in front of you feeling like small boys awaiting a end from the headmaster.

And she will know the absolutely essential pecs of Who-Gets-In - The - Phone - First.

She will be able to keep executives of other agencies who may outrank you waiting for you to pick up the phone after she has outfoxed their secretaries into putting them on the line.

And by their voice she shall know Who's Who, and make you unavailable in conference to all but the Closen Elite.

You have all that, and you have it made.

"I think this room might look better in turquoise, with new carpets and ..."

Economic Council in Probe of Unemployment

By DON O'BEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

Finally it is being done.

The Economic Council of Canada has announced it is starting a study of the nature and extent of unemployment in Canada.

Presumably this means it will not only be studying the state and causes of present unemployment but also the probable directions in the future. It also, automatically, will be committed to go into these questions, in fact, if it is to make any proper study of unemployment.

And if it does go into them this could be one of the most important research undertakings in our hit cry.

The undertaking, of course, was recently authorized by the Commons, with a mandate to report within two years.

It would have provided them with the opportunity to reinforce and regroup their already dedicated foot and armoured units, and establish tactical advantage at the conference table.

When the Soviets made the announcement, many years ago, that they had developed a hydrogen bomb, they immediately proposed a ban on the weapon.

Apparently at long last President Nixon has taken the advice of people who understand he Communist mind. A mind, a mode of life, a train of thought which is completely alien to western habits and beliefs.

The fact that peace talks were in progress could easily have lulled Mr. Nixon into a false sense of complacency. A lull in the action at that time was exactly what the Communist desired

Spring Dresses 'Supreme' For Italian Designers

By ODETTE MENGIN

ROME (AP) — Most Italian high fashion designers still believe they can't do without pants—for women that is. But the whole they prefer to show women's legs.

The 1973 spring summer collections, showing in Rome from Sunday to Friday, are expected to witness the supremacy of dresses. Bowing to the imperatives of modern life, couturiers are small and sometimes happy to include trousers.

"They have become a way of life. Women all wear them and no woman will want to do without them," says Rome-based American designer Tiziani with, perhaps, a hint of regret.

He doesn't stress pants, but concentrates instead on a great number of dresses with heightened waistline and separates—blouses, skirts and jackets—that combine with each other.

"I don't believe in coats for spring so much," he comments.

Another American designer, Jack Mavrinac predicts pants for all through the day. His "pants-coat-and-jacket" also can be worn over neat and soft jersey dresses. Many others advocate jersey.

"So easy to pack, and no ironing," said one couturier.

An eternal relic against women in trousers is Capucci, whose spring collection will again ignore pants.

Most designers are going in for pastel shades: red, coral, turquoise and lavender. Knees will still be allowed to peep out from beneath skirts and dresses, mostly pleated, flared or tucked. Even for evening wear, hems are not expected to go up or down more than an inch.

Designers have announced nothing extravagant or revolutionary. Most are playing it safe. Many have just gone through a difficult time, with seamstresses striking for higher pay and workshops idle and deserted. Two weeks is a short time to run up a dress for the showroom.

'Instrument Introduction' Included For First Dental Check-Up

An early visit to the dentist preferably by the age of three is a necessity for parents concerned about their child's health and hygiene.

Learning that "it doesn't hurt" is a lesson to last a lifetime for both the dentist and patient at future dental check-ups.

A first visit to Dr. Mitch Vodrey's dental office includes a ride in the chair and instrument introduction which consists of mirror, pointer and even an air spray.

When a parent has a dental appointment, it is advised that he or she bring their child with them, since Dr. Vodrey allows children to watch their parent in the chair. This way, the child adapts more easily.

Nervousness is typical for patients of any age. However, when a patient knows and trusts his dentist, much of the apprehension is relieved. Initial apprehension of the young patient can be helped by the parent NOT seeing the child to the dental-chair. This way, the child recognizes the dentist by the BOSS of the dental office instead of second - in - command to the parent.

This dentist also believes parents should be orientated to educate their children in dental hygiene at home. Also, they should be taught to brush and floss their children's teeth on a regular program.

As part of Dr. Vodrey's preventive dental technique, correct brushing and flossing techniques and early care eliminate many future problems.

Proper hygiene, including the use of a recommended soft and thin bristled tooth brush and also, using dental floss is a must for every patient.

Proper diets including a reduced sugar intake is also recommended. People are not born with a "Sweet Tooth" according to Dr. Vodrey, they acquire this taste.

When cleaning the five tooth surfaces: Cheek side, tongue-side and biting surface are cleaned with the tooth brush. But, the area betwen the teeth is missed. Dental floss is used for this purpose.

Welfare a 'Tender Trap' But Self-Support Possible

CALGARY (CP) — Susan-is 28, a delicate, plain-looking girl with straw-blonde hair—the type you wouldn't notice in a crowd.

She has two children, is separated from her husband and has been on welfare for four years.

Susan feels welfare is a tender trap. Once you go on, it's hard to get off, she says.

She wants to be independent. But with no job skills, a Grade 10 education and no work experience of any kind, it seemd to hr tht was no escape.

Until last fall, her chances of becoming self-supporting and making a new life for herself were irrational.

But all that has changed. Susan has found a way off the long staircase that leads nowhere.

A program called Contemporary Woman helped Susan and others like her realize independence.

The course, began three years ago in Calgary. It was geared to middle-class women whose marriages were intact, but who felt they weren't getting enough out of life.

Last fall the course was restructured and offered on a limited basis to hard-core welfare recipients who are widowed, separated or divorced.

They are single parents who have been thrust into a competitive job market for which they are unprepared. They are women who would like to be independent but who, through circumstances, have begin forced to seek welfare assistance.

The eight-week pilot course, which began in October, was co-sponsored by the adult education division of the Calgary school board, the student counseling services at the University of Calgary, and the Alberta social development department.

Recently, of the 14 who began the course, one had dropped out, t w ho have jobs, one had a job opportunity, six were seeking job training, three were job hunting, and one remained at home because she had a severe problem with a teen-aged child.

Susan plans to obtain a do-it-yourself divorce and return to school. She wants to be a social worker some day.

"The thing I liked best about the course—the thing that helped me most—was the group support," she said.

"I was in a rut. My husband left me five years ago and I was trying to be a father and mother to my children.

"I couldn't, but I tried.

"My whole world was that house. I was depressed all the time," she said.

"But all that has changed. I have hope now. I think I can do anything within my limits and I'm not scared to try anymore. . . ."

Participants in the course ranged in age from 18 to 53. The average number of children each had was 3.5.

"Society looks down on welfare recipients, but they can succeed in becoming self-supporting if they are given a fair chance," said Don Pearse, supervisor of the employment opportunities program for the social development department.

"Some have been on welfare for a long time. They were raised on it and now are raising their own children on it.

"What we try to do is break this cycle of poverty or welfare."

Overalls Replace Tux for Men

ROME (AP) — The man who wears linen at a party may be taken for the gardener, but dungarees are the latest substitute for tuxedoes.

Rome designer Sivigila introduced the black silver stitched overalls in his would-be casual men's collection for spring-summer 1973 at the opening of the Rome fashion showings.

On the whole, the first day of the fashion parade didn't make much excitement. Only the designers of men's clothes presented their latest creations.

Sivigila's collection was original, even if he appeared to have his hours mixed up. While he insisted that dungarees were for evening wear, his morning suits were assembled a bed jacket, loosely tied with a belt, over pajamas.

The overall tuxedo had large silver cuffs and collar and the designer sewed the seams with a silver thread in big pant-type stitches.

Other outfits included loose cardigans with shawl collars, or with a black and red muffler to cling round the neck, and huge plastic windbreakers.

Sivigila's models were intended for the muscular type of man, with broad shoulders and narrow hips. But his strong color contrast—an orange shirt with a tie-red jacket or yellow with pale turquoise—might make a be man hesitate to wear them.

The designer stuck firmly to his last year's intention of doing away with lapels and cutting out designs in the jacket front to replace them.

"You gotta be kidding!"

Not at all. You may have to pay your home building costs twice — if you pay your building contractor, and he fails to pay his supplier and sub-contractors. A "contract bond" from the Gerald Joyce Insurance Agencies Ltd., can insure against such losses.

Resourceful Wife Sleeps In Old Wedding Gown

Dear Ann Landers: Shame on you. What has happened to your flair for flexibility? Why shouldn't a woman find more than one use of a wedding gown? If she uses her imagination the possibities are endless.

For example: One night I was feeling especially romantic (we has been married less than six months) and my husband wasn't in the mood, so I put on my wedding gown. It was a marvellous aphrodisiac! The wedding gown ended up being a nightgown. I slept in it at least a dozen times after that and then moved the zipper from the back to the front and wore it as a beach cover-up. It was perfect.

A few weeks ago the zipper broke so I made a smock out of the dress and yesterday I washed the car in it.

So you see, Ann, if a woman uses her noodle she can really get her money's worth out of an expensive wedding gown. I paid $200 for mine and it doesn't owe me one cent.—Boulia in Birmingham

Dear Bon Bon: Now you're what I call a girl with natural resources. But everyone can't sleep in her wedding gown. Some gowns have skin-tight sleeves, a couple dozen buttons down the back, lace insets, ties to mention wire-hooped skirts, embroidered roses, etc., pearls and sequin trims. This would be murder to sleep on. But thank you for your suggestion. I wouldn't be surprised if dozens of women went to bed in their wedding gowns tonight.

Dear Ann Landers: Today I ran across "A Prayer For The Driver" in a Motor Trade magazine and I hope you will print it. It gives every driver of a motor vehicle something to think about. The author is unknown.—California Reader in Fullerton

Dear Fall: Thank you for sharing. The prayer is, indeed, worth printing. Here it is:

"Lord, impress on me the great responsibility that is mine when I get behind the wheel of my automobile. When I would be careless, remind me that I have in my hands the power of life and death. Write indelibly upon my consciousness that I am a potential murderer, that in one careless moment I could put an end to the lives of some innocent victim, my family, and my own life.

"Help me to be thoughtful, patient, and in control of myself as I drive this car. Help me to extend the same kindness and consideration to others that I would like them to extend to me.

"Give me, Oh Lord, a sense of perspective. Let me never become so foolish that I would take a chance with my own life or anyone else's just to save a few minutes. You know too well, Oh Lord, that heaven is full of people who made that mistake. Amen."

Confidential to Old Wise, New Bottles: Neither the wire nor the bottles are new. It's a story that goes back many centuries. Plato said, "of all animals, a child is the most unmanagable, inasmuch as he has the fountain of reason in him not yet regulated. He is the most insidious, sharpwitted, and insu lent of animals."

PENDANT SET — This silver-gilt pendant with large smoke-colored citrines is to be exhibited at the upcoming International Jewellery and Gift Show in New York, February 11-15. It is ideal for complementing a plain evening gown or with the currently fashionable deeply slashed neckline. (CP Photo)

Successful Living

School Prepares Students For New Environments

By DORIS CLARK

The School for International Training in Brattleboro, Vermont, was created in 1962 as a training centre for The Experiment In International Living (mentioned last week). Its goal is to help students to prepare to live, work, travel or study in another country or with a maximum of effectiveness and a minimum of cross-cultural strain.

Most students study a second language or improve their existing language skills. For example, the summer Experimenter leaving for Poland can learn, in 2½ weeks, enough of the new language to enable him to communicate with his Polish host family. A scholar from abroad may learn enough English in 22 weeks to be able to carry a full academic load at a North American university.

The School is a flexible and highly specialized institution. Programs demand a high degree of motivation. In return, they offer the personal satisfaction of preparing for exciting careers.

Information is available from the Registrar, School for International Training, Kipling Road, Brattleboro, Vermont 05301, U.S.A.

Dear Doris: Will you please send me instructions on how to wrap and mail used Christmas cards? I still have my cards from last year, hoping that you would put an address in the paper. — Senior Citizen.

Dear Citizen: We did put a note in last year, and still have addresses of mission stations in Burma, India and Indonesia. We have a sheet about how to wrap and mail them, with other details. Not more than 25 should go in any one parcel.

The missions do amazing things with the cards: make calendars, decorations, bastinotes, framed pictures. And they sell them to buy much needed clothing or drugs for handicapped folk who have just no money at all for such things.

Usually it is these needy ones who do the work on the cards to make them saleable.

Confidential to Sex Shy: My guess is that your husband is not so much vulgar as uninhibited. You approach sex more timidly. Also, you have physical reasons for finding it painful.

It is imperative that you get your doctor and your husband together. You are not frigid, but you are recovering from an operation, and may experience physical difficulties for several months to come. You are not unloving because you ask your husband to be patient and he is the one who needs education and understanding.

I am sending you the names of some books about it; but see the doctor, in a private and man - to - man conversation with your husband, can help you far more than any letter from me.

(Doris knows Canadian resources and can guide you to the help you need. Write to her, in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CRWELL

Can emotional ills wreck a marriage?

YES, if the husband and wife are frightened by the very term "emotional ills." Certainly they can use professional help; but too often a couple will stop trying to help each other, when either one of them—or both—is called emotionally ill. They then have a tendency to leave everything up to their doctor or therapist, without determining if the emotional trouble is a repercussion of a problem that could be solved if they set their minds to it.

Must teeners conceal disappointment?

NO; they can "let go." A high school girl might lose lost out on a coveted class officer's post, say, and finds it frustrating to suppress the resentment she feels. If she voices her disappointment, perhaps even to the rival who beat her out, the girl might find her rancor gone. She might still wish she had won that class title, but now that she has had her say she is able to rationalize her disappointment.

Is money blocking mass transit?

THAT'S part of the reason there isn't much progress in providing more mass transit in moving commuters to and from work. The biggest obstacle, however, could be the ordinary commuter himself. He would love to ride comfortable, reliable air-conditioned trains. But he just cannot see leaving all that concrete free and clear to the individual motorists who could then tool effortlessly along the commuter-free highways.

Lovely War Is Revived

OTTAWA (CP) — On a night of rumors about peace in Vietnam—after the decade of fighting—the National Arts Centre's theatre workshop presented a new production of Oh What A Lovely War Monday night.

The satirical musical about the tragic comedy of war, first produced in England a decade ago, prompted a capacity audience to react variously with applause, laughter, tears and embarrassed silence to the first production exposing the patriotic silliness and human misery that was the First World War.

The Canadian revival of the Littlewood theatrical, directed in Ottawa by Jean Roberts, included new material inserted for the local audience.

Short new scenes inserted by writer Jeremy Gibson were designed to show that the European politicians and generals of the 1914-18 era had no monopoly on folly and corruption.

Exposed as inept were such one-time Canadian heroes as Sir Sam Hughes, the munitions and recruiting man, while Sir Robert Borden, prime minister at the time, was portrayed as simply stupid.

Apart from the political and military satire, the cast of five women and 12 men generated a theatrical tour de force that provoked prolonged and repeated applause at the final curtain.

However an arts centre official said that after the two-week engagement here, there were no plans to take the production on tour.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jazz musician Duke Ellington was "doing very well on his way to a complete recovery" Monday in hospital with a virus attack, a hospital spokesman said.

Ellington, 73, is in St. Vincent's hospital last Thursday and is expected to be released a couple of days.

The 72-year-old composer-pianist flew here last week to taje a television special at the Shrine Auditorium. He worked with a 161-degree temperature.

LONDON (Reuter) — American Rock-n-roll singer Chuck Berry defended his hit song Ding a Ling Monday and suggested that censorship campaigner must have a dirty mind.

"The song is true," he told reporters on arrival at Heathrow airport for a tour prompted by the tremendous popularity of Ding a Ling.

"The song is about a little girl who is given a present of a toy with silver bells attached. My grandmother wrote me just such a present and that is what the song is about. It's not dirty."

Cleanup television campaigner Mary Whitehouse failed to have the record banned in Britain because she said it had sexual overtones. She complained to the BBC that a film about Berry singing the song to teen-agers was corruptive.

But the song encouraged self-and mutual masturbation, Miss Whitehouse said. She accused the BBC of allowing it's films to be used as a vehicle of "mass child molestation," by showing the film.

When told about this Monday, Berry said of Mrs. Whitehouse: "She must have a dirty mind."

NEW YORK (Reuter) — "If I had to write my own epitaph it would be 'Here lies Elizabeth Taylor Burton. Thank you for every moment, good and bad, of my wonderful life'," actress Elizabeth Taylor says in a magazine interview released Monday.

She she missed death from a rare kind of pneumonia several years ago, she said "been through that scene". Meanwhile, she "was not very ambitious anymore." She told the Ladies Home Journal and American Home.

"I just want to be very happy and left alone to mind my own business," she said.

Miss Taylor is a convert to Judaism but said: "The women's lib in me resents syna-gogue rituals, though. Because the women have to go upstairs and the men downstairs.

For a long time, she was too shy to speak to people "at parties, she said, and still has difficulty giving compliments.

"I have never considered myself a beauty," she said, adding that men "react superficially to beauty . . . people who worry about their looks and their figures and all that how what really makes a person."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Florida was prevented Monday by Supreme Court from enforcing its law against obscene movies.

The law was struck down by federal court in 1970 in a test case involving the film Vixen. The state is appealing the ruling.

The case from Jacksonville, Fla., has been before the justices for more than two years. The late Justice Hugo L. Black had ruled Florida could enforce its law until a ruling was reached.

But last June the court reversed his stay. In a decision on Monday, the court turned down a request by Take Attorney T. Edward Austin that it change its mind.

Is New Coach Argos' Answer?

by

Eric Emerson

Sports Editor

John Rauch has inherited the Canadian Football League's worst team from Toronto Argonats. Is the former Oakland Raider - Buffalo Bills coach the man to finally whip the lubes-laden boatmen to a Grey Cup?

One factor in Rauch's (and the Argos) favor is the new CFL rule' which shifts the backs 5 - yards from each sideline. A similar rule adopted by the National Football League last season resulted in marked improvement in rushing totals. If the same holds true in the CFL, Argonaut - bruiser Leon Bennett, Jim Lone McQuay, Bill Symons and Eric Allen could run wild for Toronto.

On the debit side of Rauch's record is a statement attributed to Miami flanker Marv Fleming, who played under Rauch at Buffalo: "My problem is that when I fall down is in his handling of players. Maybe he's changed, but in the time since he resigned during the 1971 training camp at Buffalo -- an event which did not sadden me -- that's not the way I remember him. I'm sure nearly every man who played for him would verify what I say, that Rauch is a good coach but has trouble getting along with his players."

In Toronto, where prima donnas are as commonplace as Jim Bishop books, is this flaw could prove disastrous.

The Argos apparently have lost star defensive back Marv Luster, who recently announced his retirement. Luster, a hotting tackler, filled in spot of the season at middle linebacker. His best effort was set by a healthy Joe Theismann. The 1971, "low season" was overshadowed by Hamilton's Chuck Ealey last year, but don't count him out in the picture. He could still be the best in the country.

While the Argos have proved to be talented, but troubled, Toronto's Maple Leafs have been troubled period.

The Leafs trail Buffalo and add insult to Punch Imlach by 16 points in the battle for the Eastern Division's fourth and final playoff position.

With the Leafs' play off hopes about as per with Detroit Sanderson's chances for a WHA scoring title, why not start building for the future?

Montreal Canadiens are crying for a quality centre, someone along the lines of Toronto captain Dave Keon. The same Montreal team is up to its elbows in talented, young defencemen and goalies.

Why not unload the high-salaried centre for, say, Wayne Thomas, Pierre Bausard and Murray Wilson. With the defections of Bernie Parent to the WHA and Jacques Plante's advanced age, the Leafs are going to need another young netminder to team with Ron Low. Bauch and could readily fill the "professional" role Toronto is searching that they definitely lack -- Wilson had an outstanding training camp, but only seen spot duty with the high flying Habs.

It is a trade that would help both teams. It would also leave a little money in the Toronto safety coffers to prevent defections to the WHA that cost them Parent, Jim Harrison, Brad Selwood, etc. last season.

Relying on George Allen's Bible - thumping Washington Redskins enough is to make this flaw could prove disastrous.

Skaters Display Winning Style

Though Metro Junior "B" Belleville Bobcats' right-winger Dwayne Dayton trys hard, it is doubtful that he will ever achieve the grace of carriage that Quinte Figure Skating Club member Sheri Knott can summon. The 15-year-old young lady has been skating for nine years and is presently working on her third figures. Dayton, on the other hand, will be appearing with the Bobcats in their home game against Whitby Friday at Memorial Arena. He figures to ply more muscle than grace in that skating performance.

We Get Letters

Former Fan Gives Sr. 'A' Views

Sports Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Having divorced myself from the Belleville Quintes and my season tickets (which I subscribed to for some years) I had no intention of entering into any further matters re the Quintes, until I read the letter from D. Foster in your Saturday's paper, in effect asking support for the Quintes. Well Mr. Foster without going into full detail herewith follows a very minute summary why the Quintes cannot look for fan support.

(1) Lack of proper management of the Belleville arena. This management has practically no concern whatever for the public. Below you will see why.

(2) The taxpayers of Belleville spent a goodly sum in the installation of heating apparatus for the arena, but at every game there is either no heat at all (unless it is 60 below) or the heat is on and then shut off half way through the game.

(3) There is supposed to be NO SMOKING in the arena yet there are really more people smoking in the arena than there are in the canteen and the arena management in no way makes an effort to enforce this rule. (all h-- will break loose someday if there is ever a disastrous fire there.)

(4) The filthy areas around this arena (some show not don't unless you are a player) are a good breeding grounds for mice, rats or germs.

(5) Fifth but not the least is the lackadaisical play of many of the older players. A desire for a little extra pock et money or a way to put in a little time with the boys is not the intiative required to fill the Belleville arena. At least 50 percent of the players are not in the condition that the game of hockey demands and subsequently cannot give what it takes to get the fans at the rink and keep them interested.

And incidentally in closing it was not the Belleville Quintes who beat the Russsnos. It was rather the Kingston Aces. Who scored the winning goal? Do you for one minute think the score would have been what it was if only the Belleville team had played the Russians without Kingston reinforcements? No way. Mr. Foster. When the players and the arena management decide they are ready to give something to the paying fans and not only then will the Belleville Quintes get the support they want and need. That is over.

Editor's note: In fairness to the Quintes it should be pointed out that while Kingston's Tom Thurlby scored the winning goal in the 2-1 win over Moscow Dynamos, he was the only import in the Belleville lineup. The Aces playing-coach was substituting for Greg Marchen who was injured while performing for Kingston against the same Soviet team.

Picton Suffers More Than Loss

Kevin Quinn is by no means a chunky basketball player, as a matter of fact, the 5' 7" since Edward Collegiate senior is one of the team's top scoring forwards.

But in Monday's game against Centennial, Quinn just did not have luck on his side as he sprained his ankle within the first minute of play. The six - foot - four star was forced to play the bench before a single point was scored by the Picton team accounting to head coach Jim Stewart.

The loss of Quinn, who holds down a per game point average of 24.7, allowed the Centennial club to lead the Picktonians 47-19 at half time and eventually win 75-52.

According to coach Stewart the sidelining of Quinn allowed the Centennial team to control the rebounding in the first half. But then his team jelled and Picton "came on well in the second half" as they "beat them (Centennial) by five points."

Despite playing with an injured ankle, Picton's Dave Culmer, who notched 16 points, played a good game for the beleaguered visiting team. Bruce Richards also gave the team a 16 point markup despite playing a limited game due to the acquisition of four fouls in the second quarter. Picton's top scorer, Doug Dermah, who sports a 25.6 points per game average was an off night Monday as he only dropped 13 points.

The Picton coach, however, was "very much pleased" with the performance of the Centennial squad, a solid game in the second half for the Bay of Quinte contenders division team. Vandusen had only played for minutes in previous games in the season according to coach Stewart.

"They were having trouble with our press," said Centennial coach Bruce Priddle. "We were pretty benevolent in the second half."

The top scoring honors in the game went to the home team as Centennial's Dave Dent dropped 24 points into the Picton basket. Randy Sorke followed with 15 points, while Brian Morphy and Vahe Parmeksherian netted in the double figures with 14 and 12 respectively.

Despite Centennial possessing a half time lead of five points over the Picton juniors, the Dave Edward dribblers led by Tim Barrett, with 21 points, won a 46-0 decision. Steve Tripp with 14 points and Bryce Butler (11) contributed to Picton's scoreboard total while Paul Dancey (13), Doug Vandervaeter (13) and Doug Yates (12) were the Centennial's top scorers.

In the other game of Monday's tripleheader in Consortal midgets defeated Picton 64-37.

Brent Babcock with 21 points, Steve Whitley (15) and John Hipwell (11) provided the scoring for the Belleville school. Kent Quinn, appears to be following in the footsteps of brother Kevin as he dropped 21 points through the Centennial hoop for top Picton scoring honors. Joe Gelks followed with 10.

Operation Saves Hospital

The Hospital performed a late scoring operation on Constellation Carpets to retain sole possession of second place in the Gas House Hockey League Monday.

Constellation had grabbed a 2-0 lead over the league runners-up before a pair of goals by George Jacklin and single tallies by Bill Minaker and Hyalie Bryant gave the Hospital a 4-2 victory.

Fred Knight picked up two assists for the winners, who drew four of the game's 11 penalties.

The Intelligencer remained two points behind the Hospital by squeezing past Rosebush 3-2. Dennis Barager opened the scoring for the winners, but Bob Armstrong evened the count for Rosebush. The winning goal was scored by Dennis Griffith assists going to Sonny Farrell and John Kilpatrick.

Each team drew four minor penalties.

Mead Johnson moved into fourth place on the strength of a 5-1 win over Cassidy Electric. Ted Rowland, Steve Bedard, Dave Fox, Alex Belch and Wayne Lavecque scored for the winners, while Jack Lucas earned three assists. Cassidy's lone goal came from Paul Williams as the losers drew four of the game's 10 penalties.

Gerow Coaching Aces

KINGSTON (Special)There will be no new faces dotting the Kingston Aces for the remainder of their OHA Senior A hockey schedule.

Napanee's Walt Gerow took over bench duties from playing-coach Tom Thurlby previous Sunday's 7-4 win over the Belleville Quintes.

Thurlby asked to be relieved of the coaching duties about five weeks ago so that he could concentrate on playing.

His stellar play in the Royal Bank International Hockey tournament, when he performed solely as a player, prompted the management to relieve him of the coaching reins.

Gerow, former Napanee Arena manager, coached teams from that centre to Ontario Intermediate "D" championships in two of the last three seasons, in addition to making the provincial finals the other year.

Shark Strikes Alberta Oilers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Earl Heiskala, a left winger with few credentials as a sharpshooter, scored a rare two-goal night at the expense of Alberta Oilers Monday night.

The 30-year-old Kirkland Lake, Ont., native had just scored only seven times since the start of the World Hockey Association schedule, making his timely occasion for his offensive heroics on behalf of Los Angeles Sharks.

His first goal, early in the second period, brought them back from a 3-1 deficit. And the second, which turned out to be the game - winner, left Alberta goaltender Jack Norris shaking his head in disbelief.

It was a harmless-looking shot from 40 feet out that bounced a foot in front of Norris, hitting his stick and slipping through his pads at 3:35 of the third period.

Another unlikely marksman provided the winning goal as Houston Aeros nipped Chicago Cougars 5-4 in the only other WHA game of the night. It was Houston's first win in Sam's, but had only one previous goal to his credit, with less than four minutes remaining.

The Oilers, 4-1 winners over the Sharks in Los Angeles Saturday night, were never behind in the return meeting at Edmonton but still managed to finish second goal.

Alberta defencemen Bob Wall and Gary Veneruzzo of the Sharks traded goals in a 59-second span early in the first period and Ron Walters gave the Oilers a 2-1 lead before the first intermission.

Another Alberta goal by Jim Harrison brought replies from Heiskala and Steve Sutherland in the second period, setting the stage for the dramatic go-ahead breaker in the third.

Smith's goal enabled the Aeros to maintain their third-place tie with Los Angeles in the WHA's Western Division in a seesaw battle with the tail-end Cougars, who lost their fifth game in a row.

Gord Labossiere opened the scoring for Houston but two goals by Larry Mavety put the visitors ahead early in the second period. Dunc McCallum brought the Aeros level, but Bob Liddington gave Chicago a 3-2 lead as the period ended.

Larry Hale and Dave Harris put Houston in front and Jim Pelot tied matters for the Cougars before Smith fired the winner.

The Oilers and Sharks meet for the third time in four days at Edmonton tonight while Minnesota Fighting Saints visit Winnipeg Jets. Philadelphia Blazers entertain Cleveland Crusaders and Ottawa Nationals are on Les Nordiques at Quebec.

Some Jest!

Heavyweight boxing champ Joe Frazier, left, and challenger George Foreman look solemn but square off in jest at National Arenas in Kingston where they're both training for their Jan. 22 title bout. Frazier had just finished his workout Tuesday and Foreman had entered the arena for his training session when they consented to pose in this manner. (AP Photo)

Boxers Exchange Angry Words

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Before fights, there is usually some verbal exchange between opponents. But there is rarely as much before the fight as there will be when heavyweight champion George Foreman and challenger Joe Frazier meet in Kingston Jan. 22.

Both fighters were in good shape with seven days to go before the fight.

Foreman, who has been training at Kingston's National Arenas, has been calling Frazier a "gorilla" and "ugly" and has said he will "put him away" in two rounds.

Frazier, who has been training at Miami Beach, Fla., has been telling Foreman to shut up.

Karen Favored

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some of the world's best women figure skaters start competition for the Canadian championship today and all but one are hoping for a stunning upset. The odd girl out is Karen Magnussen of North Vancouver, the defending champion who hopes to add the world crown to her collection this year.

It would be a shock if the 20-year-old university student lost, particularly since a change in scoring is expected to help her.

A brilliant free skater, Miss Magnussen was never particularly strong at tracing figures, but this year for the first time the figures will count only 40 per cent of a skater's total, down from 50 per cent last year.

Another 40 per cent will come from free skating and 20 per cent from compulsory free skating—a new wrinkle in the system.

In effect, the change gives the strong free skater an edge—and there is one in Canada who can touch Miss Magnussen in that area.

When asked if the new system would help, she said she wasn't sure, but conceded that "it should."

She really makes the competition a fight for second place between the world, Eastern, U.S. and Canadian Figure Skating Association official said there should be eight finalists here. Suzanne Ruth Hutchinson, 21, of Vancouver, last year's runner-up, and Cathy Lee Irwin, a 20-year-old beauty from Toronto. Miss Irwin was third last year.

Miss Irwin competed in the Moscow Skates, an international competition, last month and finished first.

However, Miss Magnussen says she has been working hard and there are few people—if any—in town who would bet against her. She says she wants the title badly and believes it's better to go to the world championships as a champion.

The worlds are in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, next month and it's there that the scoring change could hurt Miss Magnussen. The world champion—Trixie Schuba of Austria—has been challenged by Karen Magnussen and Janet Lynn of the United States as her apparent heirs.

The Canadian girl was second in the Olympics and the world last year; Miss Lynn was third. However, Miss Magnussen has her lead on compulsory figures, finishing behind the American in free skating.

The compulsory free skating figures include a loop, a jump, a jump combination, a fast upright spin, and a serpentine step sequence—all in a two-minute program.

Miss Magnussen will skate in the world championships' no matter where the finishes—International skating union rules say a competitor who is in the top five at the world championship is automatically eligible to compete the following year.

Ward Rolls Along

SANTA ANA, Calif. (CP) — Every time Ron Ward looks at his scoring record, somebody ante up his heels in the World Hockey Association scoring race. Like the New York Raiders' shooter manages to maintain a comfortable lead.

For the last two weeks, it's been Ward's Terry Caffery, Jeffery and Tom Webster trying to overtake Ward. Before that, it was Winnipeg Jets' Chris Bordeleau, and before that, Houston's Gord Labossiere.

Ward picked up three goals during the weekend, and after Sunday's games, he led the league with 56 goals and 56 assists for 72 points. That was good for a seven-point lead over Andre Lacroix of Philadelphia Blazers, who moved into second spot with 27 goals and 38 assists.

Lacroix is a member of the Blazers' "Fire Line" with Danny Lawson and Don Herriman. Together, they have 77 goals and 88 assists, making them the league's highest-scoring line with 165 points.

Oh, say . . .

NEW YORK (AP) — The Star Spangled Banner, which has been met with something less than respectful attention by some athletes at recent sporting events, will not be on the program for the Olympic Invitational track and field meet at Madison Square Garden.

Jesse Abramson, director of the Feb. 16 meet, says the national anthem will be played because his staff "couldn't find a note for it."

Some of the crowd booed at the Olympics when the gold medal black United States runners, Vincent Matthews and Wayne Collett, took a relaxed position during the playing of the anthem.

A similar incident at the Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, N.Y., Saturday led to disqualification of the Eastern Michigan relay team. Some teams in various sports have chosen to remain in the locker room during the playing of the anthem.

Flames Exhibit Unexpected Spark

MONTREAL (CP) — Atlanta Flames, given little chance for success by pre-season pundits, continue their determined bid for a playoff berth in the National Hockey League's West Division.

And leading from their performance of late, the first-year Flames opener bent on upsetting Chicago Black Hawks a fight for first place in the division.

One week ago, the Flames were in third place, one point behind Minnesota North Stars and nine behind Chicago. Then they won their next three games, beating the Hawks 5-2, Toronto Maple Leafs 1-0 and Los Angeles Kings 4-1.

Meanwhile, the Chicago club managed only one tie in three games last week, losing two while Minnesota won one, lost one and tied two.

As a result the Flames overtook the North Stars for second place and whittled Chicago's first-place lead to four points. The Hawks have 51 points, the Flames 47 and Minnesota 45.

While they are not noted for a particularly spectacular style of play, the Flames have developed consistency. In their last 21 games they have lost only seven—only one loss in the last eight—and in none of those defeats did they lose by more than two goals.

And latest scoring statistics issued by the NHL headquarters show that the Flames haven't been beating their opponents with firepower.

Their leading scorer is veteran forward Ed Kea with 20 goals and 19 assists, good for 41st place in the over-all scoring race. But the team's consistency shows in that it counts nine scorers—all within 10 points of each other.

Defence appears equally in the team's goaltending where rookie Dan Bouchard and Phil Myre each have registered two shutouts in the span of 21 games, have allowed only 2.62 goals against the former and 2.72 goals allowed in 46 games.

Individually, Bouchard has a 2.62 average, while Myre's mark is 2.75.

Elsewhere, centre Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins increased his lead to six points atop the individual scoring race—thanks to a four-goal one-assist outburst in a 6-4 win over Buffalo Sabres.

Esposno now has 66 points on 29 goals and 37 assists. Tied for second are Jacques Lemaire of

PHIL MYRE

Montreal Canadiens and Stan Mikita of Chicago with 60 points each. Lemaire leads the league in goals with 32, while Mikita is the assist leader with 40.

Right-winger Rene Robert of Buffalo Sabres and centre Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia Flyers share fourth place with 57 points each, two more than Bill Fernsch, Robert's linemate at Buffalo.

Smash Opener

BOLZAN, Italy (Reuter) — An Italian-Canadian ice hockey team from Toronto beat a team from Bolzan 9-1 on Saturday night.

The match was the Canadian team's first in a tour of northern Italy.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Wesday, Jan. 17

Aries (March 21-April 19): Temptation to overdo hobbies, fun and games increases today. Avoid what must do for home and career first, then play.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Expect uphill progress at rather slow pace. Complaints and excuses are of little avail, may even start discussion.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Turn your attention to cashing in on whatever commercial opportunity is at hand. Sell off any subtle elephants.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Where emotional ties exist, matters tend to intensify. Take the trouble to sort things out with loved ones.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): If you have things to do that must be kept confidential for the time being, now is the time, as present circumstances will not last.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Let others find their ways around barriers. Spending is not an appreciated because the discussion is not related to anything that money can buy.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You need to define your terms, say what you want, what you will do to get it, and perhaps begin the doing. It's a lively day.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Formalities of any sort drag. Putting forth a strong opinion will almost certainly attract a dispute.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Interest centers on new sources, your chances of getting organized support for your ventures, scheduling.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your natural propensity for organizing all that concerns you produces resistance or reprisal from those near and read.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Whatever you have been doing comes to the forefront of local and perhaps widespread attention. Your work is challenged.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): What seems a bargain isn't, as you need a complete set rather than an isolated item which doesn't match easily.

To Your Good Health

Various Foods Sources of Iron

By G.C. THORTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thorteson: Please tell about all the foods that contain iron. I am supposed to take iron pills but am unable to do so at the present time I am eating raisins.—R.S.

If I undertook to list all the foods that contain iron, the list would take so much space that I would be sorry I had. I am sure you know that some iron salts (as used in iron medications) can be irritating.

Doctors are familiar with the —one type of medication both —are used but not another. So your doctor may find it will help to prescribe a certain preparation. But he can't do so unless you tell him the present type is bothering you.

Another useful trick that often helps to prevent irritation is to take the medication immediately after a meal.

Dear Dr. Thorteson: Are hemorrhoids (internal) cancerous. My doctor says I have to go for surgery, that there is no other way to cure them. If I have this done, will they gradually grow back—TY.R.

Asking whether hemorrhoids are cancerous is about like asking whether varicose veins are cancerous because hemorrhoids are a form of varicose veins, but in a specific location. In other words, no, they are not cancerous. They are just needless, distended veins.

Your doctor, of course, is right when he says that when hemorrhoids reach a certain stage, surgical removal is the only recourse. Best protection against having them occur is to guard against constipation.

Dear Dr. Thorteson: I have an abdominal hernia in the groin and would like to know if necessary corrective surgery is. It causes me no discomfort and I am excellent health in other ways, so hesitate to have surgery for fear of upsetting the applecart.—L.M.F.

Hernias never get better by themselves. They can only get worse. As to the present urgency in your case, I have no way of knowing. If I were you, if your doctor says it ought to be repaired now, I'd do so. If he says you can wait, then okay.

I have noted the problem that sometimes arises. A hernia doesn't bother some folks, so they keep putting off surgery. The years slip by—and if the hernia does finally become acute, and needs immediate surgery, the patient might no longer be in as vigorous health as he used to be. That is, the go for surgery, that there is to do for him than if he'd had the repair work done earlier.

Therefore I lean strongly toward having the operation while you are strong and healthy.

And I don't know what "applecart" could be upset, anyway.

	♣6 4 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	2 ♥	Pass

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Consider this deal where South got to four hearts after West led the K-A and another club that ruffed. West led back a trump, and declarer—after casshing the A-Q of trumps—had to take the rest of the tricks to make the contract. It might appear that the best line of play at this point would be to cash the K-Q-A of spades, hoping to fell the jack on the first, second or third round, and — if that card failed to appear — fall back on a diamond finesse. Had South elected to play the hand this way, he would have finished down one.

But the actual declarer chose a different line of play that succeeded handsomely. He reasoned that West was unlikely to have the king of diamonds among his treasures, for he almost surely would have bid two clubs over a heart if he had been dealt that card in addition to his clubs. This was all the more true, considering the vulnerability.

So, at trick six, South led the queen of diamonds and, after West followed low, went up with the ace. Declarer then drew two more rounds of trumps, ending in his hand to produce this position:

	North
	♠A 10 8 3

5.♠-K Q 8 ♥ J 10 6 4 ♦-Q 10 ♣-A Q 9

Now South played his last trump, discarding a diamond from dummy, and at this stage East came to the conclusion that he would have been a whole lot better off had he gone to the movies.

Tomorrow: Fluctuating defense.

CP News Roundup

Police Win Gun Battle In Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — City police have two men in custody following a bank robbery and high-speed car chase and gun battle Monday morning.

Constable Ronald Serbu was treated for cuts from flying glass when a bullet shattered the windshield of his cruiser during the chase. One of the suspects also was cut by flying glass, police said.

Police said 19 shots were fired during the chase, 14 by the suspects and five by police.

The two men, both Windsor area residents whose names were withheld by police, were to appear in provincial court today on charges of armed robbery and attempted murder.

The chase took place after two men carrying handguns staged a holdup at a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Flu Kills 882

LONDON (Reuter) — Britain's annual outbreak of influenza left 882 people dead in England and Wales last week, a department of health spokesman said Monday.

More Bed

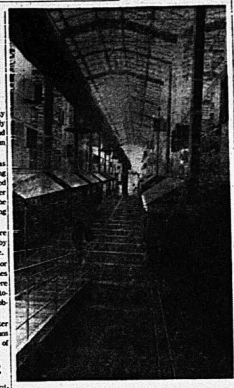
TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario ministry of health has approved the construction of 3,500 nursing home beds to add to the 22,750 now in service, A. B. McFarlane, special adviser to Health Minister Richard Potter, announced Monday.

Pair Guilty

MONTREAL (CP) — Yves and Carmen Geoffroy pleaded guilty Monday to charges connected with Geoffroy's escape from custody in December, 1971. They are to be sentenced Feb. 19.

Lot of Waste

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec produces 28 per cent more waste per capita than the United States, says a white paper made public Monday by Jean-Benoit Bazdock.



Student Housing

HUB is the latest thing in student housing at the University of Alberta. The $5.5-million building described as one of the most unusual structures of its kind in Ca-nada, derives its architecture from the public arcades built in England and Italy during the 1800s. (CP Photo)

CMHC to Be Reorganized

OTTAWA (CP) — Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., under fire from several quarters recently, faces major surgery to suit changing government housing policy.

The planned reorganization is part of increasing government concern with social housing policy—providing more and better homes for low-income families, the elderly and such groups as Indians and Metis.

Herbert Hignett, CMHC president, said in an interview Monday he hopes the reorganization will begin in three or four months, before he leaves the corporation in July.

It will involve extended authority for regional and local offices, retraining personnel to fit the new approach and closer links between federal and provincial housing policy groups, Mr. Hignett said.

He said the government is seeking someone to replace himself and a candidate for the vacant post of vice-president for policy development.

Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford has indicated that his search for a new president is not restricted to CMHC employees.

20,000 Refused Aid

TORONTO (CP) — A report released Monday showed that more than 20,000 people were refused legal aid in Ontario between April 1, 1971, and March 31, 1972, double the number of refusals in the previous year.

New Treasurer Off to Ottawa

TORONTO (CP) — John White, Ontario's new treasurer, will get an early baptism in intergovernmental affairs, but he says he will be just as forceful as his predecessor in bargaining with Ottawa.

He is scheduled to go to Ottawa Thursday to take part in a two-day conference of provincial and federal finance ministers but said he intends to be more moderate in his language than were some of his predecessors.

The 46-year-old London South member of the legislature was sworn in Monday as Ontario's new finance chief and minister of economics and intergovernmental affairs.

Premier William Davis said the job "has very onerous responsibilities" and he wanted Mr. White to decide whether the two ministries should be split up.

Claude Bennett, 38, member for Ottawa South and previously minister without portfolio, succeeded Mr. White as minister of industry and trade, a position he had held since February, 1972.

In an interview, Mr. White said he had an understanding with the premier that this would be his last term in office. Mr. White said Ontario, which is faced with an $800 - million deficit this year, urgently needs more tax dollars "but I don't want to get into a lot of rate words with the ministers of finance."

Mr. White's intention to leave when the next election is called may be one of the reasons Mr. Davis chose him, since if he does not look for a political future, he can make unpopular decisions.

Jobs and Benefits Keys to Youth Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — The key words for the federal youth-employment program for 1973, announced Monday by Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner, are "jobs" and "community benefits."

They have replaced originality and innovation as the criteria for allotting funds under Opportunities For Youth (OFY) and the handful of other programs lumped under the title "Summer 73".

The full program should provide employment for nearly 67,200 young persons, Mr. Faulkner said.

The largest single program again will be OFY, with a budget of $39,970,000 compared with $33,970,000 last year. It is expected that nearly 34,000 young people will participate.

In previous years, applications for projects were screened by originally. This year the goal is creation of jobs.

Projects also will have to provide definite benefits for the communities in which they are carried out.

Planning and execution of projects is to remain in the hands of youth, but there will be an expansion of an experiment begun last year with local advisory groups, Mr. Faulkner said.

Such groups will be created in various communities to assist the OFY administration in the selection of worthwhile projects.

The balance of "Summer 73" is a collection of programs carried on by various government departments. All but two of the programs existed in previous years.

The two new ones are hazardous-products display and farm-idea research. The first will retain 25 youths at a cost of $38,000 to organize and present displays of hazardous household products.

The second will employ 20 youths at a cost of $30,000 to research innovations in farm machinery developed by farmers.

Lewis Again Saves Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democratic Party maintained its temporary-bedfellow relationship with the minority Liberal government in the Commons Monday night, assured defeat of a Conservative non-confidence motion despite Social Credit support.

The 21-member NDP, power juggler in the House of Communities, reaffirmed its intention to back the government in a statement well before the vote.

In it Leader David Lewis said the motion, attacking government handling of unemployment and inflation, was Conservative shadow-boxing.

Specifically, the motion said the government had "chosen not to deal immediately with the problems affecting the Canadian people and particularly the aggravated situation resulting from the current simultaneous high rate of unemployment and rising living costs."

Mr. Lewis said it did nothing to convince that a Liberal or Conservative government would do anything about high food costs.

The NDP would wait until the government had a chance to put legislation before Parliament before making any move that might spell its end. That would be the case when debate on the throne speech, outlining in a general way government policies and programs, ends Thursday.

It was the second time since the 20th Parliament convened Jan. 4 that the NDP has sided with the government to defeat a Conservative non-confidence motion.

Monday's vote was closest so far—139 to 114 for the government—as the Social Credit party, asserting its independent, cast its lot with the Conservatives.

Post offices in Belleville, Toronto and Vancouver were shut down today as workers refused to cross picket lines.

Belleville mailmen, members of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, Local 43, set up picket lines shortly after midnight last night, in protest against an alleged planned "speedup." Clerks and sorters arriving for work this morning honored the lines by refusing to cross them to enter the building.

In Toronto, letter sorters and carriers also observed lines set up by overnight workers at the main post office and postal terminal. Nearly 600 employees launched a wildcat strike starting at 1:30 a.m. to protest Tuesday's breakdown in contract talks between the federal treasury board and the postal unions.

A picket line also went up around the main post office in Vancouver Tuesday night after word was received about the breakdown.

It was not known how long the walkouts would be in effect but mail service in the three cities was at a standstill today.

A management spokesman in Toronto said this morning that close to a million pieces of mail, including a large number of unemployment insurance cheques, have been held up. If the strike continues, all mail in Metro will be cut off, he added.

Both sides accused the other of causing the interruption in Ottawa as officials attempt to reach final agreement on a conciliation board's contract proposal.

Monday, Postmaster-General Andre Ouellet announced the government would accept the proposal.

The postal unions charged the government was reneging on its commitment by refusing a section on job classification grievances.

In return, Claude Parent, chief treasury board negotiator, said the union had demanded "as a price for further negotiations" that the government go beyond the terms of the majority report of the conciliation board.

No date for a resumption of talks was announced.

In Belleville only companies that normally pick up their mail at the post office were served today. They had until 8:30 a.m. to collect bags from the back door from the inside workers, who arrived for work before the picket lines had been set up, went off duty.

Pickets asked all drivers arriving to collect mail to honor the picket line. They said many complied with their request, although several continued through. Police said a cruiser across the road throughout the night and morning to make sure there were no accidents.

Jim Campbell, president of Local 43, said the walkout was a "last resort" after talks between the local's four-man executive and postmaster Roy Wainwright Tuesday failed to resolve differences.

Under discussion was the post office's planned implementation on Feb. 19 of a new system to speed mail delivery.

The 33 carriers would be taken to their routes in taxis instead of using their transportation, as is now the case.

Mailmen Walk A Different Route

Striking letter carriers block the entrance to loading area at Belleville post office. The 33 mailmen set up picket lines at 12:15 a.m., leading to a standstill in service as clerks and sorters arriving this morning refused to cross. Dispute is over management's proposal to use taxis to transport the men to their routes. From left, in foreground, are Harold Curwain, strike co-ordinator Bruce Nickle and Tom Wood.

Thieu Calls in Army Chiefs To Map Post-truce Security

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam discussed the revised Vietnam peace agreement drafting all day with his chief aides, then summoned U.S. Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. to the Presidential Palace tonight.

Haig met with Thieu for 2½ hours Tuesday.

There appeared to be growing evidence that a cease-fire was nearing. One indicator was a 75-hour meeting of Thieu with his national security council and four corps commanders; they were reported to be discussing what steps they would take to protect the territory and people the Saigon government now controls once a cease-fire goes into effect.

Asian diplomatic sources in Washington said they believe an agreement ending the war is imminent. They anticipated that Nixon, in his inaugural address Saturday, would propose postwar rehabilitation of the economies of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos through continuing economic and military assistance.

This Washington report said there also is expectation that the Soviet Union, Communist China and other major powers will join the United States in guaranteeing the cease-fire.

South Vietnamese officials said Thieu's lengthy conference with his key advisers also dealt with modifications of the protocols to the agreement that specify how it will be carried out, such as the site of the international force to supervise the cease-fire and the method by which prisoners of war will be freed.

One source said one of Thieu's closest aides, Lt. Gen. Vinh Loc, would fly to Paris Thursday to join U.S. technical experts who are drawing up the protocols at daily meetings with South Vietnamese representatives.

These sources said Thieu has little choice but to join in signing the final treaty because of the threat of a cutoff of U.S. military and economic aid.

South Vietnamese sources said Tuesday that Nixon and Thieu planned to declare a unilateral cease-fire shortly on the eve of Nixon's inauguration. Sources said today that Nixon and Thieu did plan to declare a cease-fire but the day may be pushed back.

Congressmen Seek To End War Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-war forces in the House of Representatives say they will introduce a bill to cut off funds for the Vietnam war—just in case the current round of peace talks fail to produce settlement.

"Obviously the steam would go out of it if a peace agreement is announced," Rep. Lee Hamilton (Dem. Ind.) said Tuesday, "and I would like to see that happen."

The bill would prohibit expenditure of any funds "of U.S. military or combat operations in or over Indochina" and require that "such operations be terminated immediately" provided arrangements have been made for release of all American prisoners of war, safe withdrawal of U.S. forces, and an accounting of Americans missing in enemy territory.

The House Democratic caucus approved the language of the bill by 154 votes to 75 Jan. 2.

Sixty-four Republicans would be needed in the Democratic-dominated House for the measure to pass. That is three times the 23 votes House anti-war Republicans cast last year.

Davis Feels Frustrated

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Ontario needs a greater share of the federal tax dollar to deal adequately with future problems, Premier William Davis said Tuesday night.

"It is somewhat frustrating having to deal with massive problems of finance, health, education, social services—many other things—recognizing the limitation of the tax resource available to the provincial jurisdictions," he told a local riding association.

Mr. Davis, who left the meeting for a rendezvous today in Edmonton with Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed to discuss the proposed raising of Alberta natural gas prices, said other provinces aren't getting a fair share of the federal tax dollar.

He indicated Ontario would take a hard line when the provincial finance ministers meet with their federal counterpart, John Turner, in Ottawa Thursday and Friday.

The premier said Ottawa must recognize the "greater flexibility, greater capacity (of the provinces) to deal with problems that are constitutionally theirs."

Ontario had been urging for three years that the federal government "rationalize the tax structure of Canada."

Mr. Davis said it was "not a case of passing the buck, not a case of forever going to Ottawa and saying we need more money."

"It's a factual case whereby to discharge the responsibilities we have, we have to have the tax resources to do it."

Tax Evasion Charges Against Ballard Dropped

TORONTO (CP) — The Crown has dropped all charges of income tax evasion against Harold Ballard, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, it was announced today.

Ballard, now serving a three-year term for theft and fraud involving more than $200,000 in Gardens funds, had been recharged with evading federal taxes on $134,000 in income.

Crown attorney Joseph Sedgwick told county court that the federal government does not intend to proceed with the charges. It was felt Ballard had been pursued enough.

There also was a question as to whether Section 11 of the Criminal Code, which says a person cannot be tried twice for the same offence, applies in the Ballard case.

Britain Bans Rise In Profits

LONDON (CP) — The British government announced today the critical second stage in its controversial anti-inflation campaign, setting out strict statutory limits on prices and incomes and establishing machinery to enforce them.

The present outright freeze on pay and prices, introduced in November, will be extended up to 90 days beyond its expiry date of Feb. 27 until the new program can be implemented.

When the second stage receives parliamentary approval, wage and salary increases will be held to a flat rate of $2.35 a week plus a further four per cent of the over-all wage bill for the working group concerned in the previous year.

Manufacturers' prices will be allowed to increase only enough to offset rises in the cost of raw materials.

Any increase in manufacturers' prices which enlarges profit margins will be disallowed.

The government announced its plans in a 10-page white paper which emphasized that the flat-rate increase in weekly wages will be greatest benefit to the lower-paid. It would give them a better deal than a single percentage limit. Overtime pay will not be covered by the controls.

Prisoners Will Be Freed In 'Few Months'

NEW YORK (Reuter) — The draft peace agreement between the United States and North Vietnam provides for the release of all U.S. prisoners of war within "the first few months" after the signing of the agreement, the Columbia Broadcasting System reported today.

CBS correspondent Don Webster said in a special radio report on the proposed agreement that the first group of U.S. prisoners would be released the day after it is signed.

Diamonds Are A Girl's Good Friend

Rings and Promise Won Mrs. Lastman Liberty

TORONTO (CP) — Kidnappers took two diamond rings worth $12,000 before releasing the wife of millionaire North York mayor Mel Lastman, but failed Tuesday to call for a large sum of money the 27-year-old blonde socialite promised in negotiating her own release.

Several calls were received at their heavily-guarded $120,000 suburban home, but none concerned a ransom promised to the two abductors by Marilyn Lastman before they released her Monday night, about 10 hours after she was taken from her home.

At a news conference in the Lastman home, Police Chief Harold Adamson explained that he had earlier denied any indication of ransom, in the interest of Mrs. Lastman's safety.

Reporters had been told that Mrs. Lastman was released unharmed with no ransom demands made.

Mr. Lastman, in an interview later, complimented police on their work. "The police advice was damn good . . . exceptional. When they say you have the best police force in the world, they're not kidding."

Mrs. Lastman had been carrying the rings in her purse because her "home had been barged before" and she did not want to leave them there, Deputy Chief Bernard Simmons said.

The abduction began with a telephone call, telling her that her husband had suffered a heart attack and a car would be around to take her to the hospital.

After she got in the car, a man brandishing a gun appeared from the back seat. She was blindfolded and forced to lie down on the back seat. She was driven into the country and crossed a field and went into a house, where she was chained to a bed.

She agreed to the two abductors' demands and gave them the rings and a promise of money.

The kidnappers drove her to an underground garage in an apartment building. She got a lift with a passer-by and then took a taxi the remainder of the way home.

Police would give no indication as to the amount of money promised to the kidnappers and would not release their description.

After Dec. 4 civic elections, Mayor Lastman publicly stated that his family assets were $10.7 million.

During the New Year's weekend their home was broken into. Two watches valued at $4,000 and $1,000 in cash and several sets of mink coins were taken while the family vacationed in Florida.

Mr. Lastman, who owns a chain of appliance stores, said Tuesday night his house will be "completely bugged up and down and all over the place, . . ."

Province Stands Firm On York River Veto

The ARDA branch of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food will not change its original decision with respect to the proposed York River development project in North Hastings.

This was learned Tuesday by members of Hastings County Council in a letter from Herb F. Crown, ARDA director, who said the benefits from the project would not warrant an expenditure of from eight to 10 million dollars of taxpayers' money, keeping in mind that local taxpayers would be required to raise 25 per cent of the total cost.

The provincial department in 1972 conducted a feasibility study for the York River project, which South Hastings officials hoped would provide a much needed economical boost for the area.

The original report of the study, which indicated the benefits to be received would not warrant the full expenditure, was given to county council last fall but county officials were not satisfied and a special delegation went to Toronto in an attempt to have the matter reconsidered.

Council yesterday received Mr. Crown's letter with little enthusiasm and referred the reply to its council ARDA committee.

Mr. Crown's letter said, however, the ARDA directorate would be interested in hearing what county council and the county tourism committee listed as their priorities in regard to alternative types of project that might be developed to benefit the people in South Hastings.

Reeve Jack McKenzie wondered whether ARDA assistance might not be secured in building roads to still undeveloped lakes in the north part of the county.

Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen expressed disappointment in the ARDA decision not to proceed with plans for the York River project and took exception to what she termed a "possible" remark in Mr. Crown's letter with reference to possible alternative project.

"They want to look over our shoulders and see what we are prepared to do," she said.

Plans Under Way

Plans for the annual education week observances this spring are under way with meetings of the committee being held in Madoc Township Public School. As well as the full county council education week, special area observations are held in Centre Hastings. She replaces Zdenek Kvarda on the committee as resigned Tuesday night because of inability to attend the weekly meetings.

RR 5, Trenton resident Ronald Hamilton, was installed as worshipful master of the Franck Lodge of Frankford Monday night.

Parents' Pressure Permits Pictures

Commercial photographers are back in at least one separate school in Hastings. Prince Edward county separate school board had apparently overturned ban in a bylaw of last Nov. 22.

The board said last night to permit a photographer to take pictures of students in St. Teresa's School, Trenton. The move was instigated by 32 pages, prepared by the students and staff and printed by the photographic firm.

The company will also provide the school with an individual portrait of each student for the new Ontario School Record cards, a folder unit and set of identification cards for each tuient and students cards with pictures for all students in the immediate district.

Last November the board passed a bylaw stating that commercial photographers in schools are forbidden without the express permission of the board. It was a photography incident that was partly responsible for introduction of the bylaw.

This is exactly the type of promotion that the board was against — outside pressure on students to buy photographs," said trustee Zdenek Kvarda of Belleville.

He said the pressures included those of the photographer and the subtle social pressures applied by other students to their less affluent schoolmates.

"That's life," said John Granville of Belleville. "They have to set up an artificial, protected environment and call it a school?"

Since the November decision, the board has had two requests for photographs in schools. Last month Marmora Public School asked for group pictures of classes at the school and were granted permission.

Mr. Kvarda said the permission was given Marmora because its request was for group pictures, not individual shots.

Several trustees asked whether the Trenton request had come from a majority of parents of St. Peter's School or from a sampling.

The policy of Nov. 211 was set down to avoid our involvement in such a decision," observed Austin Scott, a Trenton trustee.

Trustees bowed to the parents' wishes and granted their request.

Opinions Vary on Dogs at Large

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Ban running at large in Picton underline the need for animal control but several ratepayers interviewed yesterday disagree with the system now employed.

In 1972 town council hired Donald "Peter" Starling to patrol the streets impounding stray dogs. He received $1,800 for a six-month workperiod and an additional $15 for each dog picked up. Monthly reports received by council showed that fewer than a dozen dogs were impounded by the animal control officer last year.

Council this month deferred third reading of a bylaw retaining Mr. Tucker's services for a salary of $2,000 plus $15 for each dog impounded. It was suggested the by-law's final reading of the bylaw until Committee of study the question of animal control in greater depth.

In an interview yesterday Mrs. Ted (Patricia) Folds said she does not feel impounded strays should be destroyed if no owners claim them. Mrs. Folds and her husband, who are dog owners, suggested the money paid by the town to an animal control officer should be spent in attempting to find homes for strays.

Mrs. Folds and her husband praised the work of the Picton Animal Hospital where impounded animals were taken by police before a dog catcher was hired. The hospital staff made every effort to find homes for strays.

Mrs. Folds suggested that the animal control officer's salary could be used to board the dogs at the animal care centre until homes were found for them. To assist in this project, advertisements could be inserted periodically in the local paper describing the pets available for adoption.

Mr. and Mrs. Folds agreed animal control is important but the town bylaw prohibiting dogs at large should be enforced by the Picton police department. Both commented that many dog owners are unaware of the present animal control program and could fail to inquire at Mr. Tucker's Sterling pound if their pets disappear.

The Folds, who operate a downtown clothing store, said that in recent months there have been fewer dogs at large than before on Main Street.

Picton police commissioner Jesse Mason remarked a town bylaw officer could be appointed to enforce animal control. Such an employee could "not only administer the very serious problem of dogs running at large but also enforce other bylaws."

He felt a bylaw officer, because he would be employed locally, likely could impound several dogs each day. He said Mr. Tucker's services are not justified because of the small number of dogs he has impounded in recent months.

Dog-owner Lola Ostrander, an employee of a Main Street centre, said yesterday she has observed fewer dogs on Main Street since a dog catcher was hired last year. She has experienced no problem with dogs running at large in her neighborhood.

Picton jeweller Duncan D'Esterre commented that it is "absolutely ridiculous" to employ an animal control officer because there are seldom any dogs on Main Street. He felt if animal control were needed in other parts of Picton a local resident should be hired for the job.

Victor Lord, owner of a camera shop in the Armoury Mall declared it is not the responsibility of the town police to investigate dog complaints and catch strays. He said the policeman's job is to protect citizens and property.

He felt the town should consider the establishment of a committee to assess the number of dogs in the town and the necessity of a licences

Service Offers Financial Advice

"There are cases," says Ted Milliken, "where people are making $100 a week."

"And their charge accounts and finance payments came to $200 a week. There's just nothing left to live on."

What he's talking about is the personal incapacity of many to lead financially orderly normal lives — a trait which taints and stresses living.

As director of Belleville's what Mr. Milliken also is talking about is a new counselling service by the volunteer personal consumer agency aimed at extracting people from money pitfalls as painlessly as possible.

Not that any such process is painless.

But, through its new credit counselling service, Telecare hopes to ease the withdrawal pangs. Particularly at a time when easy credit can lure people further into financial furor than they realize.

It works like this:

A small group of financial counsellors is available through Telecare. When individuals in a tight financial spot seek help they're assigned one of them for advice.

"If necessary we'll take over their financial affairs," says Ted Milliken.

If necessary, special bank accounts are set up, often co-signed by the counsellor. There's a fundamental agreement that no money will be spent without consultation with the counsellor, who also will seek to have creditors extend payment periods.

After that, help in personal bookkeeping and in making reasonable financial decisions is available.

Such a service is a necessity for many, believes the Telecare director. Few people are in the business of trying to explain how people should budget their finances.

Parents used to do this. Schools try in some courses now.

Nonetheless, personal financing is a problem to many — a fact repeatedly brought home to Telecare. Since it was launched more than five years ago as a round-the-clock anonymous telephone listening post for anyone in urgent need of talking out a problem, it now handles its 8,000th call this month.

Many of the problems related to the Telecare volunteers involved financial troubles, misunderstandings.

For anyone asking help, Telecare had the services of Oscar Wagar, a one-time clerk who worked with the federal income tax service in Belleville and quietly made accounts set up, also co-signed by the counsellor. Mr. Milliken, Belleville Collegiate commercial teacher.

Mr. Wagar died recently and this was a contributing factor in setting up the Telecare service.

Financial mismanagement, while not a major social concern, is nonetheless a "real problem to many," says the Telecare director. And not only just the less affluent.

Only difference is that in higher-income categories or a profession may use their financial knowledge power as collateral to float credit of a tidy long-over kind.

For others, it means knuckling down to strict management of their personal finances.

The new service also is being designed so that, if needed, men and women can work in counselling teams. The reason is obvious: Easier communication.

"We're planning to have a husband — and - wife team working on this," says the director, "because contact between people in difficulties at times can be poor.

"If you have a couple come in for an interview it seems to help if you have a man and woman meeting them."

Ideally, what he'd like to see is some form of preventative service — "to help people before they get into trouble, people who are unsure what to do or how to handle their finances."

"It would save some people a lot of grief and heartache."

But, such an objective may be long in the distance "because as long as you're not in financial difficulties you're prone to ignore possibilities."

Meantime, Telecare is putting forward the best service it can to meet the realities of today's personal situation. Contact can be made through the Telecare phone number: 962-4111.

And in memory of the quiet man who was its initiator, Telecare is calling its new community venture the E. Wagar Credit Counselling Service.

Measurements Defined In Amending Bylaw

Should sideyard requirements be measured from the outside wall of a building or from protruding canopies, balconies or fire escapes?

This is the problem which city council will attempt to straighten out through amendments to its building bylaws.

Both city building bylaws 6485 and 7080 contain definitions for sideyards and while basically these definitions are the same, some small differences in wording exist which could result in different interpretations.

One calls for sideyards to be measured from the main foundation wall. The other seems to indicate the measurement should be taken from jutting protuberances such as balconies, eaves or chimneys.

An amending bylaw eliminating any possible difference has been drafted by City Solicitor John C. Miller and deputy planning director Frank Stakmann and has been referred to the subordinate planning advisory committee for consideration.

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell told council Monday that the city building department has issued permits on the basis of sideyard measurements from the main foundation, the parade was discussed last night which showed the parade will be the overall colourful.

The committee netted $400 to act as a reserve fund for next year after paying $4,300 in expenses for this year's parade. The committee is budgeting for a $5,000 parade next year.

The first planning meeting to begin work on next year's Santa Parade will be held in Ben Hoffman Auditorium, Monday, Sept. 10

In the final meeting for the winter, John Lewers was returned to office as chairman of the Belleville Santa Claus Parade Committee.

It was also announced Monday, Harry Abbott, for the last couple of years, will be honorary parade marshall.

Snowmobile Law To Be Rewritten

City council has moved to legalize snowmobiling on the new West Riverside Park in the north end of Belleville and at the same time will redraft its snowmobile bylaw to make it more enforceable.

Under the present bylaw, snowmobiling is permitted on most of the city park areas during specified hours but the West Riverside Park was not included.

The reason, according to Alderman Paul Russell, chairman of the parks board, is that the West Riverbank Park was not city-owned at the time the bylaw was written.

However, snowmobilers have had unrestricted use of the park and the city is moving to include the park in the bylaw.

Alderman Stu Meeks would like to see it mandatory for all snowmobile drivers in the city to have a valid driver's licence also to make it illegal to drive on sidewalks or boulevards and also to have blanket coverage with respect to hours when snowmobiling is permitted in the city.

Under provincial law, a driver's licence is required to operate snow machine on streets or highways.

Alderman Meeks feels that extension of the requirement to all drivers would eliminate the complaints of persons under 16 "bombing" around school yards and churches.

He said the present bylaw allowing snowmobiling between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. on certain days was difficult to enforce. He favored the same hours but on all days.

The city solicitor will write a new bylaw after consultation with the parks board and traffic committee.

Snowmobilers to Help Buy Heating Plant

PICTON — A snowmobile-a-thon sponsired by the congregation of St. John's Church, Waupoos, will be held Sunday, February 25, to raise money for installation of a heating system.

Frank Wright, one of the organizers for this special event, said a 40-mile route has been mapped through North Marysburg township. Starters will leave the Waupoos Canning Factory at noon and a trophy will be awarded to the first competitor to finish the course at the safest pre-determined time.

A $50 prize will be presented to the entrant securing the most pledges while prizes of $30 and $20 will be awarded to runners up. Several other special prizes have been donated by Picton merchants. Hot drinks will be dispensed at the half way point on the trail.

Mr. Wright said the snowmobile-a-thon is open to all interested persons, and it is hoped Belleville area snowmobile enthusiasts will participate. Pledge forms are available from the Williamson Insurance Company Main Street, Picton, and Weese's Grocery, Waupoos. Further information concerning the project is available from Harold "Dick" Wilkinson, telephone 476-3642 or Frank Wright, telephone 476-2881 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Penal 'Reform'

The policies of a government, once in effect, are difficult to direct let alone change. This means that legislation, good or bad, generally is left on the statute books.

The policies and legislation of the present government (even now in its minority situation when the country is expecting more attention to public opinion) are still eloquent of the old laxity with regard to public safety.

The iniquities of the parole system and the expressed opinions of former Attorney-General Goyer giving priority to rehabilitation of prisoners over the security of citizens have been well documented. Mr. Goyer since has been shifted to another post but the events of recent days have shown that the old departmental melody lingers on, to the serious detriment of life and limb and the public interest generally.

The murder of Constable Jim Lothian in Toronto is symbolic of this malaise that permits dangerous criminals to go at large. The man alleged to have killed him and made subsequently died by his own hand was a "speed freak" with a long criminal record. Last September he was picked up by a police officer who found he was carrying an offensive weapon, yet he was released on the street under the terms of the new Bail Reform Act.

This is the sort of thing that is making a mockery of the law. It is not the fault of the police — they are only doing their duty and trying to apply the law as it stands — rather it is the responsibility of a Government which by now should have seen the error of its permissive ways but which clearly has not.

We must guard the liberty of the individual, yes, but not at the expense of creating public mischief and jeopardizing the lives of law-abiding citizens. The Bail Reform Act has less to do with reforming the system than with affording shiftless and unstable persons opportunities to menace innocent people.

The case in recent days of a fugitive from Collins Bay penitentiary is another grave reflection on our penal system. A convicted child slayer, the man was allowed out last Christmas to take part in a children's play in Kingston. He escaped custody and is alleged to have murdered a man in the Wallaceburg area since, as well as abducting a 10-year-old Colborne boy. The suspect is now before the courts under the law. There is no death penalty. Here again is an example of what is happening to our penal system...Such a man should not have been permitted to leave the jail in any circumstances?

The government has much to answer for. Penal reform, bail reform or whatever, there are many aspects of this liberalizing trend that simply are not working — and further, are creating serious problems for effective law enforcement and the public. Let those who are known threats to society and are in custody remain where they are, lest we have further incidents of the kind discussed here.

The Y Abroad

It was interesting to hear from Les Vipond, Associate General Secretary of the YMCA National Council, that the Y operates in more than 80 countries around the world. He mentioned that he would be seeing the Jiffonesian ambassador shortly to discuss Y programs for that country.

A humorous man, with a broad grasp of the problems of society, Mr. Vipond sharer his views with Rotarians the other day and reminded us once again of the advantages of living in a place like Belleville.

Often, when we begin to take things for granted, where the positive aspects of life here are concerned, along comes someone like Mr. Vipond who, without overlooking local problems either, rekindles our respect for the community and helps us look upon it with new pride, as well as determination to make it a still better place.

Energy Crisis Major Factor

Economics at Heart of Canadian-U.S. Relations

By JOHN HARRISON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The present serious U.S. energy crisis and its relation to Canada as a major foreign source of U.S. oil and gas, emphasizes what this column has said before, that foreign economic policy will continue to dominate Canada-U.S. relations in the 1970s.

Already the suggestion has come from American politicians facing fuel shortages, that Canada be persuaded to form a continental energy pool. And more quickly than usual, possibly because of the Canadian government ministers' situation, has come Ottawa's reply that Canada will not contemplate such an arrangement.

There is a current experience under way in the continentalism which our U.S. neighbor puts forward to Canada from time to time in our history. Canada and the United States exercise it in the 1965 Canada-U.S. Auto Pact which allows the manufacture of thousands of cars and car parts in Canada, but for export to the U.S. market.

The lesson to be learned from this experience in continentalism is that the Americans do want it when the formula works in Canada's favor as is the case at present with the auto pact.

Energy Minister Donald Macdonald who shares mild economic nationalism with Senator J. J. Greene, his predecessor in that portfolio, has said current and future U.S. energy shortages will not pressure Canada into any arrangement detrimental to her own energy requirements.

Only a few days before U.S. energy crisis took on Canadian overtones, the U.S. treasury department applied an almost-forgotten duty in the import of Radial steel-belted tires from the Michelin Tire Company plant in New Glasgow, Nova Scotia.

This countervailing duty, never used before against a Canadian company in the case of Michelin, will place an additional 6.6 per cent on the 17.5 per cent duty imposed on all Canadian-made tires imported into the U.S.

The department of treasury, in resurrecting a bill passed by Congress in 1897, said it was being used to offset Canadian governmental subsidies paid to Michelin Tire Manufacturing Company of Canada permitting it to export into the U.S. market.

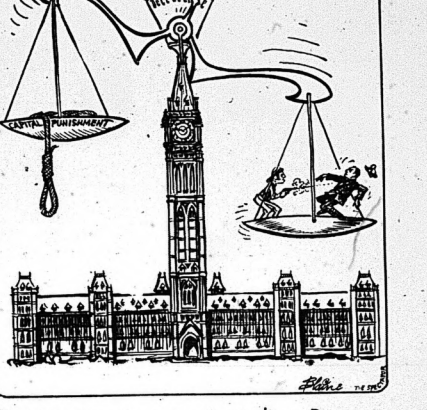
It doesn't matter to the U.S. treasury department that the social investment in the Canadian context are an essential part of persuading Canadian and foreign companies to settle in economically deprived parts of the country to concentrate on the major U.S. market.

The implications of the duty decision against Michelin are wide-sweeping as those emerging in other ways, from the entry of Canada into the Vietnam conflict, assisted in part by the federal and a provincial government to export to the U.S., is technically free from the threat or imposition of a U.S. countervailing duty against an alleged state-subsidized industry.

The negative effects on Canadian industry from high-powered U.S. trade associations, or the pressures of congressional politicians appear gradually from clandestine places, have just begun.

These two instances, plus the many unresolved ones relating to the proposed Arctic Gas and other trade bill, point to a very rough time in the immediate future for the once unthinkable and more-or-less smooth-sailing Canada-U.S. relationship.

At the diplomatic level, both nations must now recognize that there exist only top trade negotiators as ambassadors to Washington and Ottawa, the traditional career diplomat, in our case in Washington, the U.S. Presidential political appointee in Ottawa, soon won't be able to cope.



Cool U.S. Reaction to Australian Protests

By PETER BUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — A low-key reaction by the United States State Department is being credited by diplomats here with helping to restore relations with Australia's new Labor government after their recent flare-up over U.S. bombing of Hanoi and with providing the basis for future amity.

"They were very cool," one Australian diplomat said, speaking of the Labor department. "I felt they were anxious not to make more of the situation than could be helped."

Although published reports said seven unnormally peck ing at the grass on Capt. John Watson's lawn on Foster Ave.

Australian officials confirm the department's version. They stress the restraint of the U.S. reaction at a time when, under criticism from nations around the world for the bombing, the U.S. might easily have reacted testily to hostility from such a traditionally uncritical ally as Australia.

The soft approach to Whitlam—eventually matched by a conciliatory response from the Australian prime minister—contrasted noticeably with U.S. reaction to criticism from Sweden. Diplomatic ties with Sweden were abruptly downgraded as the climax to a long period of steady decline in the two countries' relations.

Although Whitlam has pledged substantial changes in Australia's domestic legislation and has taken foreign policy in no new direction after 23 years of Conservative rule, he also has said he regards the ANZUS treaty linking Australia, New Zealand and the U.S. as the key to his country's defence policy.

Nor has the sudden change of government affected the long-standing friendship between Australians and Americans. Australian diplomats say—a sense of shared feelings that is, in some respects, more profound than that between Canadians and Americans because it is less frequently tested.

The brief flurry of difficulty between Washington and Canberra served to point up the role played by trade unions in the dispute.

After Australian longshoremen carried their anti-bombing protest into a boycott, U.S. longshoremen retaliated by refusing to handle ships carrying cargo to or from Australia.

Both unions have taken such action before. The U.S. longshoremen refused for years to unload cargo from Communist countries. The Australians boycotted French shipping last summer to protest France's nuclear tests in the Pacific.

"Both governments are left again to wonder who is making foreign policy. Although the unions' right to act in either country would be severely abridge, both government have expressed impatience with the role the longshoremen played.

Neither U.S. nor Australian officials are confident that new difficulties will not arise in their relations as the Whitlam government establishes its own pattern. If U.S. bombing of Hanoi resumes, Whitlam has already warned he will react strongly.

But the first test of the new relationship has left both sides seemingly wary of a further disturbance.

Pope Gregory XI of Avignon visited Rome 100 years ago today—in 1377—and died there, precipitating the Great Schism of rival popes that was settled by councils, not supreme, authority. The papacy had officially moved to Avignon from Rome in 1309 to escape war and civil disturbance in Italy. The Great Schism lasted until the Council of Constance, 1414-17, which reunited the church under Martin V of Rome.

'High-Rise' in Public Eye

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The highrise hiatus, pitting developers against citizens, has quickly precipitated the formation of battle lines for Belleville's first confrontation of the year.

The municipal election was largely fought around a background of citizen unrest at the apparent power of the developer to prevail over the desires of residents.

Many fine-sounding platitudes were advanced by those elected or contesting seats on city council. "Highrise yes — but where the people want them." "Belleville is definitely in the hands of the developer." "we must listen to the people," these and many more were tossed around during the campaign. Now all that is over, the time to turn those fine words into action is here.

The construction of any building over the wishes of the people living in the area should not be considered unless some very germane reason is established. If, as a result of meaningful meetings between developer and residents mutually agreed upon compromises can be arrived at so much the better. But, if the desires and wishes of the citizens cannot be met then the developer ought not to be allowed to proceed.

To object to highrise merely because it is highrise is ridiculous. There is a place in Belleville for such buildings — it is merely a matter of the right location.

Too much attention is paid to the bleatings of developers and not enough to the cries of the citizens who suffer as a result of municipal capitulation to the political and financial pressures of urbanization.

We have been told over and over again that people in Belleville need better jobs, more afford, or rental accommodation with rents that have enough over to put bread on the table.

The "very high class, community very high rent" structure being considered for the waterfront area is one that can hardly fit into this category. Who wonders how long the "high class" who would occupy these buildings would keep up with the sight of the more down-to-earth homes of the working people in the Foodex to the proposed Parks-Hartley and other trade bill, point to a very rough time in the immediate future for the once unthinkable and more-or-less smooth-sailing Canada-U.S. relationship.

At the diplomatic level, both nations must now recognize that there exist only top trade negotiators as ambassadors to Washington and Ottawa, the traditional career diplomat, in our case in Washington, the U.S. Presidential political appointee in Ottawa, soon won't be able to cope.

Newspaper's Content Is Criticized

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Why do you find it necessary to fill the pages of The Intelligencer with such dull, even insulting, trivia as that which was so typified in today's issue because perched atop a cat's head? It was not amusing, nor was it interesting — I assume it was put in for one of those reasons.

Other equally inane photos in the past few days would seem to show we have had strong local winds (Surprised Jumping Jack) and broken windows to indicate the ice formed on them while the inside of the car needed!) and more cat and dog results.

It is the frequency of these pictures, on the front page no less, which tend to turn one away from any inclination to read anything through to find what news may be found in the paper.

I am well aware of the difficulty sometimes in finding features, even enough to fill a newspaper and, barring numerous story headlines which it has few major faults for a small city paper, but these recurring pictures mar what good points it does have.

This is a representative appeal to please shorten the letters to make rather than resort to the twelfth repeat this month of a "cute" animal posing, or an understating picture of weather conditions. The comment held opinion is that they are a consistent here and only serve as a deterrent from the paper.

JOCLYN REID

Focus On Election Givings

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

The announcement by Premier Davis that there would be disclosure of election contributions was pretty well inevitable.

The combination of big spending on campaigns today together with the always-present public suspicion of politicians, government and big business where there has been an unhealthy growth of cynicism.

And while Davis may say as far as he has, that he doesn't know any details about campaign contributions, anyway it is one thing and getting the public to believe it is another.

Only a few years ago when times were simpler, or people more gullible, they believed these things.

When Mackie Frost drove regularly back and forth from the Royal York hotel while Alec MacKenzie his chief organizer, perhaps people would believe they didn't know money.

They might even have believed that John Davis flies his trade fools to his buddy Ernest Jackson.

But today they just won't buy that when Bill Davis flies his main money raiser, Bill Kelly, back and forth to his cottage he doesn't discuss money.

The statement of good intentions by the premier, of course, doesn't automatically mean that we are going to have a healthy new political scene.

Still to be made known are the details of how disclosure will be handled.

There are those who would say you actually can never really enforce it; that there will always be ways of getting around it.

Then there are other questions to be considered, such as whether there should be a limit on spending or whether the state should pay election expenses.

But at least a start has been taken.

Drinking Drivers

Editor,

I want to commend you for the timely and informative item on the Editorial page of The Intelligencer, January 3, Drinking Driver Menace. Your point was well taken and some of these tragic statistics need to be publicized. Some editors seem to lack either the insight or the courage to say these things.

Report Suggests Napanee Set Up Police Commission

NAPANEE — Administration of this town's police force should be placed under a board of commissioners — to keep it free of political interference, the Ontario Police Commission has recommended.

This would remove the force from present supervision of a town council committee.

F. J. Taylor, of the OPC, one-time Trenton police chief, conducted the investigation which produced a 31-page survey of the policing of Napanee.

The probe was sought by the Ontario Police Association on behalf of the Napanee Police Association whose major complaint was lack of separate investigation teams during four night shifts each week.

The investigation was sparked by the shooting last June of Const. Robert Murdoch. The officer, shot while investigating a fight between a man and woman at a private residence, is still awaiting Ontario Board approval to return to duty.

Other recommendations in the OPC report:

— That the seven-man force will be increased by one officer;

— All personnel to be provided with training opportunities at the Ontario Police College;

— That council members deal with complaints against officers through the police chief.

Heads Two Boards

Former Trenton Mayor D. James MacDonald has been elected to fill two public committees in the forthcoming year. As alternate commissioner on the Trenton Public Utilities Commission, Mr. MacDonald has this year Donald has this year been appointed chairman, succeeding Charles Hilton. Mr. MacDonald has also been elected president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce for 1973.

As one of 32 best projects this year, Robert will read his work during a three-day symposium at the university, commencing Jan. 23.

794 Have Attended Snowmobile Classes

TRENTON — The Trenton Rotary Club—sponsored snowmobile safety classes held at St. Peter's School on Quaker Street are proving a real success, despite the absence of ideal snowmobiling conditions.

The second class, held last night, attracted approximately 50 persons, who bring the 1972-73 season total to 794 adults and school children who have attended safety lectures given by town police officer Constable Roy Miller.

At each class, a member of the Rotary Club introduces Const. Miller who then discusses aspects of safety and law. Two films are also shown during the lectures.

The third and final class will be held at the end of February.

Recording Secretary Reports 'Achievement' for Auxiliary

Recording secretary Mrs. P. H. (Joyce) Till reported 1972 was another year of achievement for the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

Membership convener Mrs. Angus Duffy reported membership reached an all-time high of 359, an increase of 44 over last year. This included 105 new members.

Highlight of 1972 was the opening of the Gift and Coffee shops. These shops, long hoped for, became a reality only after many hours of planning, discussion, frustrations and very hard work by Mrs. B. E. Burley, Past President who was chairman of the Gift and Coffee Shop furnishings and equipment and Mrs. S. B. Bochnek, 1st vice-president and chairman of the Gift and Coffee Shop operations, and their committees.

After repeated delays, the shops were finally completed and the official opening ceremonies were held Nov. 25, with Mrs. Nelles, Mrs. Burley, Mrs. Bochnek and Mrs. Ashley officiating. Both shops are staffed by volunteers (175 of them) and are being well patronized, indicating a need for this type of service within the hospital.

Mrs. J. H. Forrester and her committee issued 10 monthly bulletins. By the end of the year 453 active workers, paid up members and hospital board members received the bulletin. This is an increase of 116 over 1971.

Mrs. M. F. L. Jones, Public Relations Committee chairman, reported a busy year for her committee. This committee assisted in the hospital Rehabilitation Week in November. A history of the Belleville General Hospital was written by the Chairman for the commemorative program. The Auxiliary also had a page in the program with an article and pictures of our volunteer projects. Also organized was the serving of coffee at the morning and afternoon sessions with assistance from the different auxiliary committees.

Hospital administration and for their co-operation with the press and radio were thanked for their co-operation wit the Public Relations Committee.

Guest speakers at recent auxiliary meetings have included Mrs. Helen Morningstar, president of the Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario; Dr. Reg And-rson, Medical Co-Ordinator; Philip Rickard, Executive Director of the Belleville General Hospital and Police Chief Douglas Crosbie.

In November a report was given by the Auxiliary delegates to the Ontario Hospital Auxiliaries' Association Convention in Toronto, Mrs. S. B. Bochnek and Mrs. G. Wilson. This association represents 218 Auxiliaries in Ontario, with 60,000 members. At the convention Mrs. J. H. Forrester was among those presented with Provincial life memberships in the Provincial Association in recognition of past service.

Mrs. D. G. Burr was in charge of the Auxiliary's correspondence until October, when she found it necessary to resign.

Past Auxiliary President Outlines Her Recent Role

Highlighting the events of 1972, Mrs. Barbara E. Nelles, past president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, mentioned her rewarding experience working with her capable executive. She expressed thanks to very member of the Auxiliary for their efforts.

"I shall never forget serving on the Board of Governors of our hospital, which I deemed a great privilege."

Mrs. Nelles mentioned a profitable day spent at the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston at the spring conference of district No. 8.

"I was also pleased to represent the Auxiliary at the graduation of Laboratory "echnologists."

Another highlight of the year mentioned took place at the annual convention of the Hospital Auxiliaries Association where Jane Forrester received a provincial life membership. Selma Bochnek, second vice-president, also served on a panel discussion at the October convention in Toronto.

The opening of the new Coffee and Gift Shops was another forward step in 1972, Mrs. Nelles also credited the Opportunity Shop which is growing in its success.

The Paediatric Christmas party was the high point of the year, conceived by Jean Wilson, chairman of volunteers.

In closing Mrs. Nelles wished the new president Lillian Ashley every success in her two years of office.

Though Dr. Richard Potter, Minister of Health, Province of Ontario, was unable to attend the Belleville Hospital Auxiliary's annual meeting, his wife, Enid came. Mr. R. B. McFarlane was guest speaker on Dr. Potter's behalf.

Report Indicates Success Of Coffee and Gift Shop

"Both the Coffee and Gift Shops main objectives are to provide service and convenience to the visiting public, patients, staff and the community at large."

Total sales in the gift shop have totalled $3,263.99. Coffee Shop sales have reached $1,472.89 since the shop's open ing in November.

Concerning the 1972 WHA Coffee and Gift Shops Mrs. S. B. Bochnek, chairman, reported that, although the shops did not run each month until November 15, 1972, planning and preparations began early in the year.

Different hospital departments assist in daily needs of the shops.

Both shops have conveners and co-conveners with individual committees consisting of treasurers, buyers, display co-ordinators and inventory controls.

Visits were made to different sized hospitals to observe their auxiliaries' gift shops and coffee shop operations and procedures hoping to take from each what would be most effectively applied to the Belleville shops.

Members and friends of the auxiliary started making their hand-crafted items for the gift shop early in the year.

While internal planning was progressing schedules were being planned and volunteer recruiting began.

With a requirement of 175 volunteers to fulfill both shops schedules plus volunteers to assist the gift shops and handcraft committee, both shops opened just 25 volunteers short of this goal.

All volunteers are required to have training before working in either shop and approximately 400 hours were contributed by conveners, co-conveners and chairmen alike.

Both shops are now and experiencing growing pains.

But from all indications, Mrs. Bochnek reports, the WHA Coffee and Gift Shops will be well on their way to becoming two successful, well-supported projects.

A.B. McFarlane Addresses WHA Discusses Health Program

Provincial health care and "alternatives to a hospital - oriented society" were discussed by Mr. A. B. McFarlane, at the annual meeting of the WHA, Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. McFarlane is the special advisor to Dr. Richard Potter, Minister of Health, Ontario.

Mr. McFarlane dealt with the problems involved in the health program delivery and the financial constraints placed on hospitals.

Decisions must be made at the local level, he emphasized. "We in Ontario have one of the finest health care systems in the world." But, the guest speaker noted, it is also important to provide alternatives on a local level with local involvement. The ministry's role should be one of advising, assisting and monitoring.

Many innovative projects are taking shape, with an emphasis on "caring and sharing on a community level."

Mr. McFarlane said that no matter how much research is carried out they could never achieve their objectives without the volunteer services.

"In shaping new programs we need your support." With a busy year ahead, including reorganization and new approaches to health delivery, Mr. McFarlane, speaking on Dr. Potter's behalf, mentioned the magnitude and complexity of the job. But with good plans and hopefully, a good execution of the plans, they could achieve their goal. They would require the assistance of all — plus understanding.

In addition to Mr. McFarlane's speech, reports of the Hospital Auxiliary's past year were given.

Installation of the officers for 1973 took place at the meeting. The officers elected by Mrs. M. F. L. Jones, nominating committee chairman, are as follow: Mrs. C. D. Ashley, president; Mrs. J. E. Nelles, past president; Mrs. S. B. Bochnek, first vice president; Mrs. G. A. Wilson, second vice president; Mrs. C. A. Campbell, third vice president; Mrs. P. Till, recording secretary, Mrs. M. F. Sisson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. T. R. Colden, treasurer.

Committee chairmen elected were: Mrs. S. B. Bochnek, Coffee and Gift Shop; Mrs. T. R. Colden, finance; Mrs. Allan Twagg, Holiday Treats; Mrs. A. B. Duffy, membership; Mrs. W. G. Harvey, nominating; Mrs. C. A. Campbell, Mrs. F. H. Bowler, Mrs. J. Gallacher and Mrs. R. Blake, Opportunity Shop; Mrs. M. C. MacLeod, Samaritan Cupboard; Mrs. J. H. Macey, social; Mrs. G. Wilson, Volunteer Hospital Services and Mrs. M. F. L. Jones, Public Relations.

Samaritan Cupboard and More!

Mrs. M. C. MacLeod outlines the Auxiliary Samaritan Cupboard in the obstetrical ward. From this, articles of clothing are provided for the infants in need when they leave the hospital. Ten members worked during the year making knitted outfits for the cupboard.

Chairman of the Puppet Committee Mrs. C. D. Ashley reported that during the year they had an average attendance of 19 members at their meetings and placed 438 puppets in the pediatric ward and 50 more in the playroom. As Mrs. Ashley is the incoming president, she will be replaced by Mrs. Ethel Stewart on the Puppet Committee. Over the past five years 2,250 puppets have been placed in pediatrics for distribution to children hurrying to go home, and 100 more in the playroom. At least 12 hours a month is spent by volunteers sewing to keep up the monthly orders.

Another committee contributing to Hospital needs is the Birthday Treats of which Mrs. Alan Twagg is chairman. Special days listed at Christmas, Easter, St. Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day are marked by the distribution of small gifts to patients. Any favors made by Girl Guide Companies and Brownie Packs of the Moira Division and CGIT Groups from churches throughout the city. Letters were written by the convener to the leaders of each group, in which the thanks of the Auxiliary was expressed. On Easter Sunday volunteers gave each patient a small bagonia plant. On Mother's Day, each new Mother was presented with a pair of hand-knit booties. Thanks was expressed to the many auxiliary members and friends who have knitted and crocheted items from Madeira who each year send a beautiful assort ment.

On Christmas Day, thanks to the co-operation of the Gift shop, conveners with a number including Mrs. Nelles, president gave each patient a gift of his or her own choice.

Coffee and Gift Shop's Plans; Furnishings Established 1969-70

The committee charged with the planning, furnishing and equipping the Coffee and Gift Shops was established in 1969-70 by Mrs. H.E. Burley, the Auxiliary President. The president Mrs. J. E. Nelles re-appointed this same committee to ensure continuity and harmony and see the project through to completion. The committee included Mrs. J. E. Nelles, Mrs. S. B. Bochner, Mrs. C. D. Ashley and Mrs. H. E. Burley.

The first coffee shop was started about 1953-54 and was found in the basement of the original hospital which is now demolished. Subsequently it was located on the main central corridor of the original hospital. In 1962-63 the Board of Governors requested the Auxiliary to relinquish the space used for the coffee shop. Bedspace was urgently needed. The Board promised that when the new buildings were erected, space would be made available for another shop. The Auxiliary complied with the Board's request and sold or disposed of the equipment and supplies.

In 1968-70 when plans for the Administration Building were being formulated the Auxiliary requested that space which had been promised to be restored by the Board of Governors.

During the term 1969-70 the Auxiliary agreed to conserve funds to be available for the furnishing, equipping and stocking of the coffee and gift shops. This was by the faithful arduous work done by the volunteers at the Opportunity Shop, that funds were made possible for this project. The Auxiliary advanced "interim" funds, held by Mrs. J. E. Nelles, president and Mrs. B. E. Bryant as to see everything has been paid for and only a few invoices are necessary to complete the financial aspect.

Many hours were spent in travelling (at members own expense) to other hospitals in the province to inspect their coffee and gift shops, obtain information and ideas.

The very slightest detail was given much consideration choosing the chairs, drapes, and colors and seeing that all were co-ordinated and in good taste. Local merchants and local outlets were dealt with wherever possible for the purchases.

These shops would not, of course, have materialized without the kind consideration of the Board of Governors, the co-operation of Administration and many other people.

Thanks was expressed to Robert A. Joy, Administration Assistant, Belleville General Hospital.

'In-hospital' Volunteers Report Auxiliary Program

The In-Hospital Volunteer Program consists of six services: Pediatric Playroom Supervisor, Planters Care, Free-lending Library, Cradle Pictures, Free - Lance Visiting and Hair dressing appointments.

Personal contact with each patient is stressed by this volunteer program.

A total of 161 volunteers helped maintain the 5,976 hours of service.

It was noted that the annual Mother and Daughter Tea will be held Jan. 21, instead of in November, 1972. This event will honor the invaluable teenage volunteers.

Mention was made of the Christmas Party in the Pediatrics Ward this past Christmas. More than 80 children from infants to 15 years, received a gift from Santa Claus compliments of the Auxiliary. There were also parties provided for patients in the 1st Third, 1st Fourth and 2nd Third levels.

Bingo parties and musical evenings were also enjoyed by patients this past year.

Christopher Waller, 4, needs your blood. He is a hemophiliac. Christopher received 32 units of cryoprecipitate in one week which requires 32 pints of blood. Many others in the Belleville area need blood as well.

Your Blood Needed!

The Red Cross Donor Clinic in Belleville has had poor response from citizens.

According to the dictionary definition blood is the fluid which circulates through the arteries and veins of the body. It is essential to life and muscle.

Hemophilia is an inherited disease where one of the factors for blood coagulation is missing.

The Belleville - Kingston chapter of the Canadian Hemophilia Association urges people to 'get out and give blood.' There are youngsters and others in this area that need your help.

In order to live — people may need your blood.

The Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic is being held Thursday, January 18, from 1:45 p.m. to 4:30 and from 6 to 8:30 p.m. in the Legion Hall on Pinnacle Street.

It takes very little time and effort, considering what life is.

Record Profit For Op Shop!

The Opportunity Shop annual report was given by Mrs. C. A. (Evelyn) Campbell. It was noted that the shop's profit for the year 1972 totalled $11,550.

This money is used for the purchase of equipment and special comforts of the patients at the Belleville General Hospital.

Special thanks was expressed to the 106 volunteers.

Also thanked were the salesladies, pricers and Opportunity Shop Committee.

Over $200 was realized this year from unsalable clothing prepared and sold to the local companies.

The committee members are Mrs. J. Gallagher, Mrs. F. E. Bowker, Mrs. R. R. Blake, Mrs. C. A. Campbell, past chairmen, Mrs. R. L. Brethingham, secretary-treasurer, Miss Ivy Eggleton, bookkeeper and Mrs. R. N. Pringle, staffer.

Opportunity Shop hours are Monday to Thursday, 2-4 p.m. Friday, 9.30 a.m. till 11.30 a.m. and 2 p.m. to 8.30 p.m.; and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

New members are always welcome.

Treasurer's Report

The 1972 treasurer's report, given by Mrs. H. W. Adams at the WHA annual meeting Tuesday included receipts for the year, $44,751.82; disbursements, $40,421.18.

A donation of $25,000 was reported given to Belleville General Hospital. $20,000 went toward equipment and furnishings for the Coffee and Gift Shops.

The bank balance as of December 31, 1972 was $13,504.85.

Belleville Presbyterial Holds Annual in Napanee

An interesting and varied program is planned for the United Church Women and their friends of Belleville Presbyterial when they hold their annual meeting on Thursday, January 25, at Trinity United Church, Napanee.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Joseph Price, who will speak in the morning on "The Spirit of Saskatoon". Commissioners who came back from Saskatoon talked about this spirit that pervaded General Council.

Rev. Joseph Price, BA, BD, STM, is well known to residents of the Tweed district as he spent his younger years at Actinolite. The son of a United Church minister and veteran of World War II, he has worked as a lumberman, surveyor and businessman before entering Queen's University. In 1963 he graduated from Queen's Theological College and three years later from Union Theological Seminary, New York City. Rev. Price served on several charges in Belleville Presbytery before being appointed to his present position of Executive Secretary of Bay of Quinte Conference, in 1971. He is married and has three children.

The theme of the annual, "God in Our Midst", is in line with Mr. Price's subject and follows through in the afternoon session when a devotional drama will be presented. Registration for this meeting begins at 9 a.m. and the program starts at 9:30.

Music, fellowship, business and programme, all these are promised at the 11th annual meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial UCW.

LEICESTER, England (CP) — A stag night prank left the groom in a tight spot. He was bled into a local police station candlestand in a steel chastity belt. Ann Landers

Loveless Child Begrudges Forgive and Forget Advice

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please stop the unwarranted — groan and on their own—who know-nothing of men and women prefer not to associate with their parents?

These children are not always the spoiled, incompetent, untitled, thoughtless clods you make them out to be. More often than not they were left second as youngsters or practically by their parents. But they grew up in spite of the agony and somehow manplately mystified as to why they are being treated so shabbily.

Then Ann Landers, don't help much when you castigate the children and loudly them to forgive and forget. You ask the impossible.—A Victim in Detroit

Dear A.V.: All right, don't forgive and don't forget. Continue to bear your hate and dread on resentment. Then what do you have, besides a colossal waste of energy?

Don't you understand that most parents were the result of what happened to them when they were children? Of course, we grow up unloved and without parental approval, but you made it. If you can replace some of that anger with a little compassion you will figure out what it was. Be the better for it.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently my husband and I bought the prettiest house you ever saw. The only thing I have against the house is that it's only one block from the office of his ex-wife. I caught them it was like a scene from an X-rated movie. I talked it over with my husband and he said he accepted my husband's promise that he would continue to see the children without his ex-wife being present. This seemed like a terrific solution and I agreed except for the morning sickness. Personally, the morning is a good friend of mine.

Our first housewarming call turns were this woman and her husband. We decided to play it cool. We both acted like perfect ladies. I felt that pressure on my temper and couldn't danced under the table and saw that H. had removed his shoe and was trying to play footsie. I knew good and well he wasn't looking for my foot.

I want to tell this home and present what might be coming. I say it's financially imperative. Should I insist?—Dance Of Persuasion

Dear Dance: Selling your home is not the only reason to move. If H. has that old feeling, a new extra bucks won't make any difference.

My advice is to accentuate the positive. Turn on the heat and be nice to come home to. If the woman is a good friend of yours, I have a book she rocks like your husband's hand match the holes in yours.

No Pants? It's Fashion!

HOME (AP) — The fashion mill turns round and round, they say.

But it seemed to have come almost to a standstill Monday night when Gregorians put Chanel suits and shirtwaist dresses on the runway. Pants were banned for the first time this year.

In an effort to spruce up a rather dowdy collection, Gregorians pleated sleeves and collars of dresses and draped shirts into scarfs tied in a bow over the shoulder.

Duchess of Windsor hats, brim turned back over the face brim, matched the color of dresses, as did the shoes and stockings. In sunflower yellow, the effect was a bit dazzling.

The suits were classical—box, pleats for the skirts and dark contrasting edges for the hem and trimmings. The designer's ties crossed and draped the front of shirts and bodices across the model's breasts.

Gregorians was a little more daring with her evening dresses.

A couple of party frocks had short, puffed sleeves. But on others she closed plunging V-shaped necklines. Both front and back, with strings of beads and cut out diamond patterns at the underline or under the bust. The dresses, all in one color or brightly printed, lengthened the silhouette and flowed gracefully.

In contrast to Gregorians, Martieri's collection stressed pants and high waistlines for dresses. He used plenty of sun pleats, starting from the yoke and billowing out into fairly short dresses.

Martieri also designed short satin raincoats, covered with rain flowers that spread out in the same way over wide straight pants.

Deaf Children "Speak" Without Use of Signs

By DORIS CLARK

Message from a deaf student:

I believe that every deaf person should learn to speak orally and to be acclimated to the hearing world. Deaf people must fearlessly venture into the hearing world. . . .

Most deaf people that I met at the convention (of the Alexander Graham Bell Association for the Deaf), many of whom were trained to speak orally, also knew the manual language and actually used it most. But this does not help the deaf person get away from the stereotype of the manual sign user.

The key toward change lies in how much faith teachers and, especially, parents have in the child's ability to eventually deal with the hearing world on his own feet. The Danish view is that of auditorally deaf children into the hearing schools when they are small, with special training on the side, so that they become fully acclimated as they grow up. — The Volta Review (November 1972).

Dear Doris: I have a 19-year-old daughter who grates on my nerves — simply being around me. She is a normal girl, even pretty. And I can see how she tries to get into my good graces. I just don't know what is wrong with me. She is not obnoxious and very well liked by everyone.

I would like to make clear that it is not physical abuse involved here; it is verbal abuse. I always said secretively to her, call her names such as I should dumb, lazy, etc. I don't even like her to kiss or hug me.

I've just been so ashamed of my feelings. I've never admitted this to anyone. But I know that no matter how I try (and I have) this one problem I can't solve without help. I'm terrified of what I will do to her personality.

There's many a morning she's gone to school with the last word she heard from her mother being degrading. I spend the rest of the morning crying and telling myself I will make it up to her at lunch time. But she comes home, with a big "Hi Mom", and I have that same feeling in my stomach and I'm off again — Painful Hostility.

Dear Painful: I know a woman in a mental hospital who, in her sixties, had an almost overpowering urge to kill her grown children. Had controlled this terrible feeling for 40 years. Finally the psychiatrist unearthed the girlish romance which had been abruptly broken off by her parents. She married an older man, a kindly one she did not love.

She could not take out her heartbreak on him; so her children represented to her unreasonably and unconsciously, a barrier standing in the way of her first and only love. The desire to harm them remained a mystery to her.

Someone must help you to find out the cause of your misplaced hostility. I'd suggest a psychiatrist. And soon. Your child will come to believe she is an stupid and horrible as you tell her she is, if you don't destroy the emotion at the bottom of it all.

Confidential to Depressed: I wish I could have replied to you quickly before Christmas as requested, but you gave me no name nor address.

It is unlikely that a gift would win back an unwilling boy friend. In spite of your break-up, it would have been nice to give the gifts you had prepared for other members of his family, if you are fond of them, but any move to renew friendship with the man himself must come from him.

Council Disrupted

THOUARS, France (AP) — Members of the municipal council were deliberating serious business at the town hall when a wild boar charged into their midst. The 220-pound animal, which had outdistanced hunters in a nearby forest, was shot by a policeman.

Cheetah Boosters

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — The National Zoological Gardens announced it is considering using harnesses and vitamin boosters in an effort to breed rare cheetahs in captivity.

Artistic Talent

PRAGUE (AP) — Restoring an old church bell would seem to be an artistic line of work. But those engaged to restore the bell of Prague's St. Vitus Cathedral had to haul 220 sacks of bird feathers, bones and droppings down 300 half-ruined steps before they could get on with it.

Italians Punish Mediocre

ROME (AP) — Italy's new opera season finds audiences on the warpath against any inefficiency by foreign singers and also against the politicians controlling opera houses.

Amy Shuard, from London's Covent Garden, was driven from the stage of the San Carlo Opera House in Naples halfway through her performance as Puccini's "Turandot." The audience of 2,000 stamped, booed and guffawed, and the chorus forced the artistic director to put in an Italian soprano.

Anna Moffo, the American soprano, nearly collapsed on the stage of the Rome Opera House at the hoos and catcalls for her Lucia de Lammermoor. She seemed like an actress from a silent film," said Il Tempo.

The opera orchestra in Turin went on strike demanding that the long-vacant post of artistic director be filled.

"Mediocre foreign singers should not be preferred to mediocre domestic singers," said the union of opera singers in a statement. But most music critics agreed that the reaction to the visitors was also an expression of dissatisfaction with the way many Italian opera houses are run.

"The public is right," sa Rome's Il Messaero. "We call on spectators to keep booing pitilessly programs which fail to live up to the minimum standards of musical excellence."

Italy's major opera houses are controlled by the city governments and subsidized by the state. Critics charge that the opera companies have become political pawns, with the influential, highly paid managerial posts going to party stalwarts rather than to musical experts.

Lighthouse Pair Face Eviction

ENTRANCE ISLAND, B.C. (CP) — Lighthouse keeper Kurt Cebak and his wife Erika are faced with the prospect of a life they don't want to accept—working back in the city.

The department of transport plans to automate manned lighthouses by 1976 and Mr. Cebak said: "Leaving this island and going back to an apartment in the city is the worst punishment I can imagine.

"Living here has cast an influence on our lives. I am a lighthouse keeper 12 hours a day, seven days a week, 11 months of the year."

Mr. Cebak's two-acre island of Gabriola Island near Nanaimo, sits at the centre of a panorama that stretches from the mountains of Washington state to the wilds of Vancouver Island's Forbidden Plateau.

He shares it with another family—Jim Tait, second keeper, his wife Hilda and three of their five children.

A lighthouse was first built and manned in 1876 when ships came through the Strait of Georgia to collect coal from Nanaimo mines. But if department plans go through, the island will be depopulated and left in the hands of automatic circuits and time switches.

Both Mr. Cebak and Mr. Tait said they see no reason why the existing system should be altered. There are about 45 manned lighthouses along the British Columbia coast with two families on each.

"The shipping people will scream if we are taken of," Mr. Cebak said. Mr. Tait agreed: "They should leave things as they are. Mariners are already starting to complain."

The guiding beacon on top of the island's new 63-foot tower usually burns out once a month. When it does a second bulb automatically comes on.

"But then if power is an outage, what will the department do?" asked Mr. Cebak. "Who will fix it?

"In the winter the weather is lousy most of the time, sometimes it's wicked."

He said technicians will have difficulty getting on and off the island. Winds of 40 miles an hour are common and one storm was so fierce that Mr. Tait was almost swept off the boat-landing platform, 10 feet above the high-tide line.

"Sometimes I have to dash from the generating house to the boathouse between the crests," Mr. Cebak.

"I have strong feelings that transporting technicians on and off the island will be more expensive than keeping two families here."

Mr. Cebak said Scandinavian countries and Britain tried to automate their lighthouses years ago, but that these experiments failed and lighthouse keepers were re-assigned.

Two Toronto Judges Decline To Hear Air Pollution Cases

TORONTO (CP) — A provincial judge's decision last week to invalidate a section of Ontario's Environmental Protection Act had its first direct impact Tuesday.

Two Toronto judges refused to hear air pollution charges pending clarification of a court decision which questioned the province's constitutional right to legislate on environmental protection.

In provincial court Tuesday, Judge Carl Waisberg remanded Gypsum Co. Ltd., Toronto, Ont. Inc. Mr. Justice Lawrence Pennell remanded charges against Canadian Pittsburgh Industries Ltd. against two convictions in lower courts.

The remands resulted from a decision by Friday by Provincial Judge J. L. Chadwick who ruled in Picton that protection of the environment is a fair matter.

Environment Minister Jaros Auld said delays in court hearings and cleanup programs ca

They Expect Concessions

Provincial Health Ministers Optimistic

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial health ministers probably are heading their headquarters with smiles on their faces this week as they head for a joint federal-provincial meeting Friday on health care financing.

They'll expect Marc Lalonde, the new federal health minister, to be taking a more liberal attitude toward shared-cost arrangements for health care in the provinces, possibly even allowing them to set their own priorities.

The biggest provincial complaint has been over shared-cost agreements for hospital and medical care insurance. For them, the provinces have enforced 50 per cent recovery from the federal government, provided the provinces played by federal rules.

The provinces couldn't afford to pass up the 50 per cent, but sometimes also forced them to distort their priorities, for example, giving more emphasis to hospital care.

However, financing re-arrangements proposed in November, 1971, by former health minister John Munro, already had suggested the provinces might be able to determine their own goals in new health programs.

Based on a percentage of the gross national product (GNP), Canada spent more on personal health care than any other country in the world.

Because of this, the Munro proposals tied growth of health care costs to a base year (1971-72) and limited additional years to controlled escalations.

Richard Potter, Ontario health minister, criticized the proposals publicly last June, saying he did not argue with the underlying philosophy but questioned the feasibility of implementing them.

Under the proposals, Ontario would have to reduce the rate of health cost increases from a M.5-per-cent increase in 1972-73 to a 8.3-per-cent increase in 1977-78, the end of the five-year agreement.

This is significantly lower than we believe is possible," he challenged.

In the last six months, however, Ontario has made major changes in its health programs to reduce escalating health costs. For example, Mr. Potter announced that a number of hospital beds would be closed.

Sen. Davey Assails U.S. Ad Control

TORONTO (CP) — Senator Keith Davey says it's time to end United States discrimination against Canadian advertising because the country disappears "down the Hudson River."

He told the legislature's Select Committee on economic and cultural nationalism Tuesday he would like to see governments "insist on . . . 55-per-cent (Canadian) ownership of all advertising agencies in this country."

"American domination of our media through advertising, of our culture through advertising, and of our creative resources through advertising must inevitably stifle any attempt we make to develop some sense of Canadian identity."

The senator also told the committee he would like to see Canadian industry prohibited from advertising in U.S. media. Later, in an interview, he explained that companies should not be able to claim advertising in the U.S. as tax deductions.

MEMO FROM HELEN GAGEN

MEAL PLANNING HELP
...FOR THE HOMEMAKER IN A HURRY
...FOR THE BUDGET MINDED

As a new service to Miracle Food Mart customers, this begins a series of menu plans for homemakers who work, and home makers who must watch their budgets.

Plans for the budget minded will necessarily depend to a degree on items on hand, which are usually but not always more costly than foods prepared from scratch. Strict low-cost menus will not be menu preparations.

Today's menu uses the always popular hamburger. Since it is ground it can be cooked by dry-heat methods usually reserved for expensive tender cuts. Ground meats should be stored in the refrigerator and used within a couple of days.

QUICK DINNER MENU Ground Beef Paprikash, Buttered Noodles, Lettuce Wedges with Favorite Bottled Dressing and Frozen Pineapple Chunks-on-a-Stick.

Ground Beef Paprikash: In lightly-oiled pan stir 1 ½ pounds ground beef over heat until slightly browned. Drain excess fat. Add 1½ cups chopped onion; seasoned salt and pepper to taste; 1½ tablespoons paprika. Cook until onion is translucent. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons flour and stir. Add 1 ½ cups beef consommé, dash of Worcestershire, and stir and cook until boiling. Stir in ½ cup commercial sour cream. Heat briefly. Makes about 5 servings.

Big, New Council Tagged For ID

With Hastings county council membership age at 47 and with more than 50 percent of the members being new faces, identification of the various rooms and deputy reeves is rebidding to something of an immediate problem.

For the inaugural session Tuesday, council members were provided with temporary identification, but with the sea of new faces hogging the mind, Deputy Reeve George Blatherwick of Tyendinaga township moved that permanent name tags be provided.

Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen admitted the suggestion was a good one.

Then, in a lighter vein added "sometimes we forget who we are ourselves."

Warden Casey assured he had felt the same way as Deputy Reeve Blatherwick when he first came to county council seven year's ago. He said however, he'd be soon name to know the other members.

Members approved the motion for payment of some large to be provided councillors.

This year's increased number of council members is the result of changes in the election act which extended the franchise to non-resident property owners and boosted the number of electors to over the 1,800 figure, making election of a deputy reeve mandatory.

As a result, 12 additional deputy reeves were elected, boosting council membership from the previous 34 to 47.

Council membership this year sees one more member of the fair sex taking a seat at Shire Hall.

She is Deputy Reeve Mrs. Muriel Ellis of Thurlow.

Other women council members are Reeve Barbara Allen of Tweed, and Audrey Conolly, deputy reeve of Bancroft.

Charting Continued Co-operation

The chairman of the city recreation arena committee, Alderman Jean Smith and YMCA treasurer Frank Heiss took over the recap of the Y year showing 3,165 different people used Y facilities in the past year. Theme for the meeting, held in conjunction with Y Week, was continuing the good relationship between the Y and the city.

Y and City Get Together

The atmosphere yesterday was that of two old friends meeting, as the Belleville Family YMCA and the city recreation arena committee lunched together, celebrating Y Week which began Monday.

Few topics of business cluttered the meeting, which has become a traditional affair between the two groups who work co-operatively to "create the best possible recreation program for the city," said Y board president, Dr. Doug Ian Horne.

Dr. Horne, in a brief address to the meeting, paraphrased the temperament of the group saying, "we both work for and have the same purpose in mind."

YMCA land use was one subject aired at the meeting and was mentioned some of the land at the rear of the Y building could be used to greater advantage.

Mr. Syer urged the Y to fully investigate the possible uses of the large field, currently being used for soccer and softball, and create an official plan.

Mr. Syer also suggested the land be properly graded to end some drainage problems on the site and to reseed the grass.

Dr. Horne, in a closing comment, asked for a continuance of the good relationship the Y has always had with the city.

This marked the first of formal meetings for the YMCA for this week to be followed this evening by a conference with the Quinte District Labor Council.

City Vote Added Again, 'Few Slight Changes'

A re-tally of deputy returning officers' statements in the aldermanic election last Dec. 4 revealed "results very little different from those declared by the city clerk Dec. 7," said a county Judge yesterday.

Lennox and Addington county Judge, Gerald F. Smith, conducted the readdition of the DROs statements in Hastings county court house Tuesday morning.

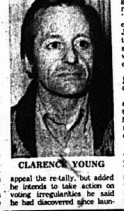
The re-tally was requested by Clarence Young, who was concerned about the differences between the vote totals released by the city clerk Dec. 5 and revised totals issued Dec. 7.

Judge Smith conducted the readdition, using two adding machines—one from the city clerk's office and one from the county clerk's office.

"They coincided 100 per cent," he said. "There are a few slight changes in the totals" between yesterday's count and that of Dec. 7.

Mr. Young has two days to appeal to the supreme court. If there is no appeal, Judge Smith will issue a certificate Friday morning.

Mr. Young said he would not



CLARENCE YOUNG

appeal the re-tally, but added he intends to take action on voting irregularities he said he had discovered since launching his request for a re-tally in December.

Judge Smith said Mr. Young had originally asked for a recount of votes, then abandoned the application.

"The law compelled me to go ahead with a recount or a readdition," said the judge. "I asked him which he preferred and he said a readdition."

Judge Smith, Mr. Young attempted to file an additional statement of what he claimed were irregularities and wanted all ballots counted. Tuesday morning, said Judge said he saw no reason to continue the matter.

Judge Smith accepted a statement from Mr. Young as the aldermanic election but refused an affidavit alleging irregularities in the mayoralty contest.

This morning, city solicitor John Miller said he will recommend to the court that Mr. Young's deposit of $100 be returned to him. The money was deposited with the court for the re-tally as security against the costs of the court.

Board Approves Audio Equipment

Just how far regular schools should go in accommodating the special needs of handicapped children caused the Hastings-Prince, Edward separate school board some anxious moments Tuesday night.

Two hard-of-hearing children enrolled in St. Mary's School, Trenton and Our Lady of Fatima School, Belleville, sparked the discussion. After consultation with Ontario School for the Deaf officials, the board's academic administrators asked for carpeting in the kindergarten rooms in those schools with audio loops for hearing aids installed under the floor covering.

Trustees finally agreed on the installation, costing a total of $2,100. However, the province pays 95 per cent of the cost.

The audio loop, said Assistant Superintendent D. S. O'Sullivan, is part of a closed-circuit broadcasting system for hearing handicapped children. The teacher speaks into a microphone, voice is transmitted through the audio loop and the "broadcast" is picked up by the hard-of-hearing children through their hearing aids.

The carpet is considered essential to muffle background classroom noises, which, unmodified by the pupil's hearing aid, prove to be distracting.

Several trustees were doubtful about providing special services for the two hard-of-hearing children in the system.

"What happens next year when the children progress to a new grade level?" asked Joseph Chapelle of Belleville. "If we set the precedent, we may eventually have children in every grade of all our schools (18) who need this service?"

New trustee Bert Garrett of Trenton asked: "Where do you draw the line?"

Mr. O'Sullivan said the hard-of-hearing child, by law, is the responsibility of the separate schools, not OSD. If not accepted in separate school he had two choices — to attend a public school or go to OSD. Until recently, OSD has cared for the hard-of-hearing as well as the profoundly deaf.

Both Zdenek Kvarda of Belleville and Rev. Walter Hamilton of Picton said they're opting is an advantage on kindergarten classroom floors and would benefit all pupils.

"Because of the wrong environment, a pupil could suffer," said Austin Scott of Trenton. "In the right environment he could progress normally."

His opinion was shared by the majority, and the audio loops and carpeting will be installed.

Car Hits Bus

PICTON — A Picton motorist, Donald Cumming of 15 Prospect Ave. escaped injury Tuesday morning when his car collided with a school bus at the corner of Main and Ross Streets.

The bus, driven by Thomas May, 46, of RR8, Picton, was not carrying passengers at the time of the accident. He was unhurt in the mishap. Damage to the bus owned by McGinnis Coachlines, was a negligible while damage to the station wagon was set at $500.

50-year Association

Valerie Truax, Nurse-in-Charge of the Quinte Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, follows up Tuesday's Kiwanis luncheon with slides and a talk on the history and role of VON. It was the Belleville Kiwanis Club, now celebrating its 50th anniversary, that got VON off the ground in 1924. Nurse Truax and her staff of six now care for 112 patients in the area, providing a 24-hour service, seven days a week. Her talk to the Kiwanis emphasized rehabilitation in the home and she said VON nurses got to know the home situation of their patients. They irfied to involve the whole family in the rehabilitation process, teaching them how to apply treatments and supervise exercises.

BGH Gets $3-Million Bequest From Charlotte Sills Estate

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A massive injection of good fortune and philanthropy has been finally confirmed for Belleville General Hospital.

A hefty $3-million bequest, expected to ease operating burdens of the taxpayer-owned medical centre for years to come.

The endowment is part of the multi-million-dollar estate of Charlotte Sills, who died in 1961, leaving the widow of another native Bellevillian who made the couple's fortune in the U.S. automobile market.

The bequest is allocated in two separate spending allotments:

- $2 - million for general hospital purposes.
- $1 - million for construction and maintenance of a convalescent home administered by the hospital.

Magr. J. P. Sullivan, hospital board chairman, saw the Sills fund as easement of financial pressures on local taxpayers. The hospital is a publicly-shared responsibility of he city and Hastings County.

It has been long known BGH would be a beneficiary of Mrs. Sills' estate but legal and tax technicalities involved in conclusively dividing such a sizeable fortune have been complicated.

In the past decade, the bequest has been a suspended windfall over successive hospital - board administrations not always a favorable prospect but its confirmation date uncertain.

The long wait ended Tuesday afternoon with a phone call between Boston trust company and Alderman Ben Corke, chairman of the hospital's finance committee. At that time, trust company officials handling the Sills estate confirmed the bequest had been processed in to the hospital's possession.

Mr. Sullivan said the bequest will evoke immediate attention of the hospital's board of governors. There are interim side effects. While decisions are reached on putting the $3-million to work, the long dimensions of the legacy broadens further as it accumulates interest.

Ald. Corke said the endowment was a "big financial boost to the operation of the hospital" but would not speculate what projects would receive immediate funding from the $2-million allocated for general cost purposes.

"I can't say what will be done with it. It will be first discussed at a finance committee meeting Friday," he said.

The $1-million marked for a convalescent unit would be a project set aside for special future consideration.

But Magr. Sullivan indicated the bequest over the $3-million allocation would be an ongoing source of funding various projects without seeking public and county financing.

"I can't say if it will be needed in the near future because we don't want to go to the taxpayers for anything," said the board chairman.

The bequest could now facing the hospital administration's solution of the bedpanking problem — conceivably by construction of a multi-level garage.

Magr. Sullivan said this was one project that may be re-considered in light of the bequest.

"But it will have to be a board decision — and there will be many decisions as to what these funds should be used for," he said.

And despite the sudden availability of a richly-endowed funding source, the chairman also cautiously indicated it may stay within government cost guidelines."

The fortune on which the bequest is drawn was founded by Bellevillian William Clarence Sills. He married Charlotte Martin, whose family ran Mary Fraser bookstore early in the century, and the couple later emigrated to the U.S.

He started a garage business, became a dealer in then-booming General Motors, eventually heading distributorship throughout the New England states. Mr. Sills died in 1955.

Ex-Mayor Dr. J. Russell Reid recalled Mrs. Sills returned each summer to visit her hometown, staying at the Grand Quinte. As physician retained on call by the hotel, he revealed having received conversations with her. Once, when disinterred bodies willed the public library by a Belleville pioneer, Mrs. Sills requested if the city'shospital had ever been endowed.

At the time, Dr. Scott said BGH was pondering purchase of nearby, vacated county home property as a convalescent centre and he mentioned the hospital needed such a project.

The Sills couple is buried in Belleville cemetery.

Ellis Says UIC May Move Out

From the Ottawa Bureau of The Intelligencer

A good part of the Belleville office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission may be moved out of the city.

That's the statement of a member of parliament for Hastings, made the charge in the maiden speech in the Commons Tuesday.

"There is now a move afoot to reduce the effectiveness of the Belleville office and perhaps move a big part of it out of Belleville," he said.

Mr. Ellis called for a complete investigation of UIC.

Morale among the staff at the UIC offices in Belleville and across Canada is at an all-time low, with many senior executives absent due to illness or other excuses on long-term leaves at full salary. Others had been shuffled about, leaving no cohesive managerial sequence, claimed Mr. Ellis.

He said the system was consistently being abused. Some families receive benefits as high as $600 a month while some persons "who have paid benefits for a lifetime" are unable to collect.

"I cannot and will not blame the employees of the regional office in Belleville for these sins," Mr. Ellis said. "The blame belongs within the commission from the top down. There is little or no direction."

Mr. Ellis blamed Guy Cousineau for the UIC difficulties, calling him the chief planner of the UIC legislation and the one who prepared the model from which costs were projected.

Computers installed in Belleville had not been tested or compared with existing manual methods, said Mr. Ellis.

"Amidst all this confusion the new system was introduced and put into effect, but Mr. Cousineau was nowhere to be seen as he had slipped out of the department and became a senior official in the treasury department."

Mr. Cousineau is now chairman "and the problem that was terrible and improving to bad is on its way to becoming terrible again," said Mr. Ellis.

Mr. Ellis also took a swing at the Industrial Development Bank. It does as much to encourage the sale of Canadian industry to rich United States as any combination of other factors, he said.

Mr. Ellis said the IDB acts with a suspicious, typically civil service approach. As a result, a Belleville pre-stressed concrete industry (Wilson Concrete Ltd.) "is now a fully owned subsidiary of a U.S. giant."

He charged that the bank's loan criteria was "nothing short of usurious and it demands too much security."

The IDB's philosophy had met and exceeded every criteria set out by the bank, but the IDB took 236 days to approve funds that were short by two-thirds of being sufficient to do the job.

"A quick reply, even an unequivocal no would be better than the hand-wringing indecision and slow pace of the hierarchy," Mr. Ellis suggested.

Dan Nielsen: Untapped Power

Farmers' Voice Could Be Loud

PICTON — Prince Edward County farmer Dan Nielsen yesterday told Picton Rotarians that if agricultural groups organized they would boast unmatched power. He said 40 per cent of the county's labor force is employed in agriculture.

A native of Denmark, Mr. Nielsen came to Canada in 1952 and settled in Prince Edward in 1958. He noted that during his 15 years in the county the approach to small farms in his neighborhood provide the cost of living educations for several young persons. He felt this contradicted the once popular concept of "get big or get out" which was thrust at farmers several years ago.

Mr. Nielsen touched on the world scene in agriculture and mentioned the jump recorded in the Chicago grain market last summer. It was the highest in 20 years.

The farmer referred to "surplus" and said there is "never any longer," although many persons are unaware of the fact. He suggested the approximate over-all surplus in the Canadian west might be 500 million bushels of wheat today.

World food prices and wages differ sharply in many countries of the world. Food basket with enough provisions for three or four days would cost $30.79 in Stockholm, $29.07 in Toronto and $10.55 in Buenos Aires.

Wages constrast throughout the world. A construction worker can earn $324 week in Washington, $238 a week in Toronto and roughly $8 a week in Delhi. Mr. Nielsen referred to farm subsidies and commented that consumers benefit indirectly, because they result in lower prices.

He discussed farming as the occupation of the optimist and "pessimist," who can't organize agriculture since that fellow upstairs has something to do with it."

Mr. Nielsen predicted that each farmer has a favorite spot at the back of his farm. He said he enjoys watching some quiet time thinking. This rural peace comprehends the uncertainty of the farm-er success from year to year.

Habs Head All-Stars

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens, the team which led the East Division of the National Hockey League through most of the first half of the current schedule, Tuesday had six players selected to take part in the league's 20th annual all-star game at New York, Jan. 30.

Members of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association in each of the eight East Division cities took part in the voting to determine the 13 players who will form the nucleus of the East team when it meets the all-stars from the West Division.

Only three other clubs figured in the 12-man selection with New York Rangers, Boston Bruins and Buffalo Sabres each placing two men on the squad.

Voting was based on five points for a first-place choice, three for a second and one for a third.

Following are the voting results for the 12 players named, with second-half totals in brackets:

FRANK MAHOVLICH

Billy Reay of Chicago Black Hawks, who coached his club to its divisional title last season, will coach the West all-stars. The 12 players picked by PHWA members in the eight West Division cities will be announced Thursday.

Orr, who missed 14 games in the first half of this season as a result of earlier knee surgery, will be playing in his sixth all-star game. He was the only unanimous choice among the 12 players selected. Orr polled his perfect 128 points on 24 first-place choices.

Dryden was also close to being a unanimous choice, polling 114 points.

Closest balloting was at defence where the fourth man—Savard—edged out Brad Gassing of the Rangers by two points. Robert won the second right-wing position by four points over Seiling's team-mate Rod Gilbert.

Two players, Lapointe and Robert, will be making their first all-star appearances, while Mahovlich's selection will be his 14th, second only to former Detroit Red Wing great Gordie Howe, who appeared at right wing in 22 of the first 23 all-star games.

At the moment, Mahovlich ranks with Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Jean Beliveau of Montreal, Alex Delvecchio of Detroit, Doug Harvey of Montreal, NY Rangers and St. Louis Blues, and goaltender Glenn Hall of Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis, as runners-up to Howe in games played—each with 13.

Mahovlich is the only active player of the group.

He is tied for second place in all-star scoring with Ted Lindsay, former Detroit and Chicago left winger, and Bobby Hull, Chicago left winger before joining Winnipeg of the World Hockey Association. Each has 16 points, but Howe remains the leader with 18 goals, eight assists and 18 points—all records.

Soon thereafter he hurt his back.

AJAX CLEANS RANGERS

GLASGOW (Reuter) — Ajax of Amsterdam, the world club champions, played sparkling soccer to beat Rangers 3-1 Tuesday night in a match to celebrate the Scottish club's centenary. Striker Johan Cruyff was the star of the Ajax team before 60,000 fans. He scored the second Ajax goal and helped out in the other two.

Crusaders Count Early

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Crusaders made their first two shots count against Bernie Parent then held on for a 4-3 win Tuesday night over Philadelphia Blazers to move into a first-place tie in the World Hockey Association East Division.

The early goals on Parent, by Ron Ward and Doug Brindley less than a minute apart, didn't hold up as the Blazers managed to tie the score late in the middle-period march of the middle period on goals by Dan Herniman and John McKenzie.

Paul Andrea put Cleveland ahead again with a short-handed goal, only to have Philadelphia get the equalizer by Andre Lacroix before the period ended.

The Crusaders finally put the game away with Dick Paddock's clincher with less than three minutes remaining to move Cleveland atop the Eastern standings with New England Whalers.

In other WHA action, Winnipeg Jets stretched their West Division lead to nine points over Minnesota by beating the Fighting Saints 3-1 at Winnipeg while Alberta Oilers downed Los Angeles Sharks 6-5 in overtime and Quebec Les Nordiques edged Ottawa Nationals 5-4 also in overtime.

The Crusaders and Whalers now are tied in tonight's early game; Cleveland visiting Houston Aeros and New England at Chicago Cougars.

Penguin's game-winning goal before a Philadelphia crowd of 2,926 came with five seconds left in a holding penalty to Blazers' Pat Sporer.

The Jets nipped three goals past Minnesota goalie Jack McCartan in a span of just over three minutes to nail down their 27th win of the season.

Bobby Hull wiped out a 1-0 Minnesota lead at 11 :2 of the third period. Danny Johnson scored the winner at 13:46 and John Beamish at 14:09 insured the win for the Hull-coached Jets.

Wayne Connelly broke a scoreless tie at 5:07 of the first period to put the Saints in front before 1,229 fans.

Reynald Lecler's second goal of the game off a penalty shot in the third period tied the score at Quebec City and Michel Harvey notched his first of the season 48 seconds into sudden-death overtime to feature Les Nordiques comeback.

The Nats, playing in front of 1,931 spectators, had previous leads of 3-1 and 4-3.

Wayne Carleton, Rich Cunningham, Ken Stephenson and Guy Trottier beat rookie Denis Brodeur to give Ottawa the ad-vantage heading into the final minutes.

Francois Lacombe and Oscar Gaudreault cut Ottawa's Gilles Gratton earlier in the chippy game in which referee Bernie Gauthier called 26 minor penalties. A misconduct to Quebec captain J. C. Tremblay and a game misconduct to Nordiques' Jean-Guy Gendron.

Leclerc, back in the Quebec lineup after an injury, set up the scoring at 8:17 of the third period when he was pulled down by Ottawa defenseman Brian Glennie and Gaudreault pumped in the rebound.

At Edmonton, the Oilers registered their third win over Los Angeles in four meetings since last Friday when defenceman Bob Falkenberg notched only his second goal of the year at 1:06 of overtime, beating Sharks' goalie George Gardner with a 25 footer.

The Sharks held period leads of 2-0 and 3-1 before the Alberta club, playing before 3,039 home fans, took a 5-4 lead into the final two minutes when Mike Byers surprised Jack Norris with a short shot. Dave Dunn, 1

Al Hamilton, Val Fonteyne, Bob Wall, Rusty Patenaude and B an Carlin shared the other Alberta goals. Joe Szura was the big shooter of the night with two goals and two assists for Los Angeles.

Sanderson Settles for Million

BOSTON (AP) — Controversial Derek Sanderson and Philadelphia Blazers of the World Hockey Association have reached agreement on a $1-million settlement of Sanderson's contract with the Blazers, The Associated Press learned Tuesday.

The settlement, which will erase a 10-year, $2.4-million contract Sanderson signed with Philadelphia last August, is expected to be signed in Philadelphia later this week.

The tentative settlement was reported to have been reached Tuesday between the Blazers and Sanderson's agent, Boston attorney Bob Woolf.

Woolf declined to comment on any settlement, but said several professional hockey stars on both the WHA and the National Hockey League had expressed interest in the 26-year-old Sanderson.

In Philadelphia, Blazers' owner Bernard Brown denied that any settlement had been agreed upon.

"I don't know of any agreement, and if there was one, I certainly think I'd know it," said Brown.

"We just keep him handy in case the ice melts!"

Woolf was scheduled to leave Boston Tuesday night on a flight to Philadelphia.

Sanderson injured his back only a few games into the current hockey season, and has not played in more than two months.

He had reported that he was ready to play for the Blazers, but the Blazers have withheld him from action, apparently because they wished to unburden themselves from the lengthy, expensive contract.

The contract Sanderson and Woolf negotiated with the Blazers called for annual salaries of more than $300,000 for each of the 10 years covered. It also gave Sanderson various fringe benefits and included a contract for his father to be a scout for the Blazers.

Sanderson, a centre for Boston Bruins of the NHL for the last five years, delivered his best performance of the present season in the eighth game when he scored a goal and three assists against Cleveland.

Snowmobile Clinic At Ben Bleecker

Safety Message Comes Across Clearly

By AL ZARAS
Staff Sportswriter

Though the sound system at Ben Bleecker auditorium did not function as well as might have been expected, the message at this year's Snowmobile Safety Clinic came over loud and clear.

Basically, that message clicked stands with regard to the law.

OPP constable Brian Turner of the Belleville detachment, spoke to the 80 member audience in regards to the snowmobilers responsibilities before the law.

Constable Turner quoted the Canada Safety Council's snowmobile accidents statistics report which states that there were 126 fatalities in Canada during last year's snow machine season.

The location of 67 (or 65.7 per cent)of last year's 102 accidents occurred on public roads. As Constable Turner emphasized in his talk and also in slides he presented "if it (the snowmobile) was meant for highway use, it would have wheels and tires."

The question of what constitutes a highway "causes the most confusion" according to the constable. "It is any strip of land provided for passage of public vehicles and it extends to either fence line" along such a strip.

Though there are many regulations governing the highway use of motor vehicles for which the Motorized Snow Vehicles Act should be consulted, Constable Turner said that "in the proper context, meaning off the highways, there are few laws governing their operation."

Certain sections of the Criminal Code, however, apply to the snowmobiler wherever he might ride. Charges for Criminal Code 238, subsection one states "the court, judge, justice or magistrate . . . may . . . make an order prohibiting him (an accused) from driving a motor vehicle on the highway in Canada." This section, according to Constable Turner, applies to drunken riders and can prevent the accused, if convicted, from "driving a car anywhere in Canada, so if you're a truck driver by trade . . ."

Not only is the snowmobiler subject to federal and provincial statutes but also municipal bylaws. Belleville city police officer, Sergeant Bob Hall was present at the Ontario

Not only is the snowmobiler subject to federal and provincial statutes but also municipal bylaws. Belleville city police officer, Sergeant Bob Hall was present at the Ontario Snowmobile Distributors Association sponsored clinic to explain the snow machine use bylaws in the city.

Riders may use Zwick's Centennial Park, Riverside Park, and East Bayshore Park without time or day restrictions imposed but bylaw number 5295 should be consulted for the proper periods of use in the city's other parks and thoroughfares.

"As long as existing laws are obeyed," said Sergeant Hall, "there snowmobilers should be able to enjoy them, but they could be taken away by legislation" if there is abuse.

Bill Vaughan, whose Vaughan Automotive and Appliances Ltd. Mercury dealership in conjunction with Molson Breweries, sponsored the Ben Bleecker clinic, dealt with the preventive maintenance required for the full enjoyment that a snow machine can give. Vaughan advised the use of a buddy system while riding, as well as provision for extra fuel and spark plugs, in case of emergencies.

Jack Sproule, divisional officer of the Belleville chapter of St. John Ambulance, spoke on the protective, and in case of injury, emergency measures that snowmobile riders should follow.

Sproule perhaps gave the best explanation for the injuries incurred by the rider. "After long study, they have discovered that injuries the most accidents," said Sproule "it's the nut holding the steering mechanism."

Picton Clinic Held Tonight

OPP constable Brian Turner will be speaking at the Snowmobile Safety Clinic which will be held tonight at Prince Edward Collegiate in Picton.

The 8:00 p.m. clinic will feature the constable's talk on snowmobiles and the law.

Hall Looks at Snowy Sportsters

Sergeant Bob Hall of the Belleville City Police Department looks at the Mercury snowmobiles on display at this year's Snowmobile Safety Clinic which he attended to present the city's point of view regarding the law and the snowmobiler. Sergeant Hall, who spoke at Ben Bleecker Auditorium on the municipal bylaw pertaining to use in the city, is an ardent snowbiler from back in '64 when he bought his first machine.

Harrison Saves Unbeaten String

Wilson Concrete's Ron Gauvin and Bruce Stickle probably could not appreciate the goaltending of Jim's Pizzeria's Bob Harrison as he was the cause of their failure to score tie breaking goals, one at six and the other at two seconds short of the final two in Tuesday night's Gas House hockey action.

The pizzamen's goalie stopped two last minute shots by the fourth-place Wilson Concrete players to hold on to a 4-4 final and maintain Jim's unbeaten record for the season.

Though the concrete workers started the game off badly, allowing Carl Boomhower two goals and Ralph Boomhower alone with Brian Smith single tallies within the first 12 minutes of play. The Wilson team played catch up hockey and almost upset the first place pizzamen over the remainder of the route.

Perry Soule, who played his second game of the season with the concretemen last night, beat Harrison for three goals thus adding to the single tally he earned in last week's contest against Constellation. Soule, who signed with Wilson for the season, has had a bad knee since the opener and was forced to sit out until last week's game according to Wilson's coach Orest Thompson.

Thompson was satisfied with his team's performance giving "special credit" to Charlie Rowbotham and Bruce Stickle who, he said, played heads up hockey throughout the game. "The whole team played excellent hockey," said the coach, "and we nearly pulled the victory off."

Pete Enright scored Wilson's other tally.

Moira Girls Spike Wins

The Moira girls junior and senior volleyball teams both came out of Tuesday night's Bay of Quinte League action with the better part of rubber matches against BCI and Bayside Collegiate teams.

Moira juniors defeated Bayside 15-7 and 15-9 while BCI fell to the eastern school in regular league action 15-10 and 17-15. BCI, however, defeated the Bayside girls 15-4 and 15-3.

In senior action, Moira lost their first contest against BCI 15-5 but came back with 15-10 and 15-13 finals to take the best of three games. Bayside failed to defeat the Moira seniors as 15-7 and 15-10 scores ended the two matches with a

Ante Raised

Carl Coons, who won the Senior "A" Quintes' 50-50 Pot-O-Gold Draw at the Belleville team's Sunday's game against Kingston Aces, received $29 instead of the $14.50 previously reported.

In the only other Gas House League game Tuesday, Scots McLaren potted three goals and assisted on two others as sixth place Rollins defeated Stewart Warner 7-4.

Jerry Lucas with two goals followed by Brian Skinner and Dave Demilio with single tallies scored the lumbermen's other markers. Bill Lynch, Bob Hunter, Bob Young and Wayne Cassidy man who notched their sticks once for last place Stewart Warner.

Moira Advantage

Bayside also lost their two games against BCI 15-2 and 15-8.

Manager Finds Reason for Loss

Manager Jack McBride had little trouble in pinpointing the reason for McIlroy-Maines' 4-3 OMHA hockey loss to Peterborough Tuesday.

"We scored less goals than the other team," quipped the Belleville bantam minors' manager.

McBride obviously wasn't disappointed over the exhibition loss. "There was no one embarrassed over it. We had the pressure on but we just couldn't get the tying goal."

Carl Crawford potted two goals for the losers with Jeff Gow picking up the third McIlroy tally. Terry Thompson played a strong game in the Belleville nets, despite the loss.

BELLEVILLE QUINTES

Quintes' Fate Rides With Booster Club

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Editor

Can the "Carry On Quintes' show achieve success?

Only time will tell, but according to Lionel Boldy of the Belleville Senior A hockey team, "at this moment, we are carrying on as if we're going to carry on."

The Quintes have been in difficult financial straits of late and there has been talk of folding the team before the season finishes. With Oakville already dropping out of the league, the loss of Belleville would prove to be a serious blow to senior hockey in Ontario.

"It pretty well hinges on selling out the 200 Club," said Boldy to the question of whether or not the Quintes could continue.

Team executive Bill Thompson reports that 123 fans have agreed to pay the $5 monthly fee that enables them membership into the booster club. "We don't have the money from everyone yet, but the names have been fairly easy to get," acknowledged Thompson of the membership drive. "I imagine the next 75 will be the toughest."

The $5 monthly membership fee will enable participants to take part in a monthly cash draw. There will be 10 draws for $200, one for $1,000, and a grand draw of $2,000 in the next year if the full quota of members is reached. The scheme would put out $3,000 total prize money, while netting another $7,000 for the hockey team.

"We're trying to get a hall so that 200 Club members can meet after the games with the players and their wives. They do the same thing in Oak and it's worked out pretty well," informed Thompson.

Membership tickets to the booster club are available at Joyce Realty, from any hockey executive member or from Bill Thompson at 962-7256.

On the assumption that the Quintes and finish the season, Boldy was able to get a better idea of their playoff chances from an OHA meeting Monday in Toronto.

At the meeting it was decided that all teams having games scheduled with Oakville will be given four points, with the exception of Kingston Aces who have played more games and the defense to try than other teams.

To straighten scheduling it was decided that the January 24th meeting between Belleville and Kingston would give the Aces four points should they win the home ice contest. The Quintes, on the other hand, would collect only two points for a victory.

"It's not a happy situation," said Lionel of the unusual Kingston arrangement. "But it's the only way we could do it without disrupting the schedule."

He also felt that the playoff race wasn't strictly confined to Belleville and Kingston, even though these two teams are currently tied for the sixth and final spot.

"Queen Sound has a tough schedule for the remainder of the season and we could beat them," noted Boldy, "we play Cobourg tonight and Queen Sound in a home-and-home series before the Kingston game. The fate of the Quintes playoff wins could be decided by the end of February."

Of Belleville's playoff chances he observed that, "It all boils down, when you analyze it, to the fact that the Quintes have to help themselves. A win against Kingston last Sunday was very possible and we didn't do it. That means we'll have to reach into the impossible category a few times. We've put the pressure on ourselves."

Tonight's game with Galt will get under way at 8:30 p.m. in the Memorial Arena.

Cranston, Karen Cut Best Figures

VANCOUVER (CP) — Toller Cranston of Toronto, the world's best free skater in 1972, today opens defence of his Canadian title while Karen Magnussen attempts to extend her lead in the women's section of the figure skating championships.

Cranston, a 23-year-old professional artist, is a heavy favorite to repeat his 1972 win. Today's competition calls for the three compulsory figures in men's action and most experts feel Cranston can take the lead in that event.

He was ninth in the world championship last year after compulsory figures and first in free skating, finishing fifth overall.

Meanwhile, Miss Magnussen, a 20-year-old from North Vancouver, will skate in the compulsory free skating, a new wrinkle introduced this year.

Figures now count for 40 per cent of a skater's marks, compulsory free skating for 20 per cent and free skating for 40.

Previously, compulsory figures and free skating counted for 50 per cent each.

Miss Magnussen, the 1972 Canadian champion and second-place finisher in the world and Olympic competitions, took a commanding lead after Tuesday's compulsory figures.

She was given first place by all seven judges for seven ordinals and 103.5 points.

She said she was disappointed by her marks, but a Canadian Figure Skating Association official said the only way Miss Magnussen could be caught by her opposition was if she didn't show up for the rest of the championships.

In second place was Cathy Lee Irwin, 20, of Toronto while Kim Hutchinson of Vancouver was third. Miss Hutchinson led Miss Irwin, a stunning blonde, after two figures, but the Toronto skater caught up on the last figure.

The Vancouver girl has been runner-up to Miss Magnussen for the last two years and fledgling behind Miss Irwin in figures was a surprise.

"Ruth skated as well as she has before, but I've just improved my figures," said Miss Irwin.

Additionally, s·· had gained confidence by finishing first in the Moscow Skate, in Russia last month.

Looking ahead to free skating, she said she prefers to skate an artistic rather than an athletic program.

"I don't like a lot of jumps like the East or West Germans. I prefer line and form, like Toller Cranston."

The addition of compulsory figures to the number of compulsory figures to three from six "helped me concentrate more."

"But it seemed I was getting weaker and weaker as the figures went on. Now, I can get myself up for figures."

JUDE DROUIN

Taking Note

VANCOUVER (CP) — A top Russian figure skating coach, Stanislav Zhuk, will attend a training session for Canadians to be held under an interchange program between the two countries, it was announced Tuesday.

John McKay of Chatham, Ont. president of the Canadian Figure Skating Association, told a news conference the program was arranged with Russian officials in Moscow last month.

He said the training session will be held in Toronto, "probably in June."

The interchange program calls for top Canadian skaters, coaches and trainers to visit Russia. The Russians had asked that Eileen Burka go to their country to train women's singles skaters who hadn't done well in world competition.

Miss Burka is the coach of Toller Cranston of Toronto, among others, who was the top-rated free skater in last year's world championships. Cranston finished fifth also largely to a mediocre performance in compulsory figures.

Islanders Lose 12th Straight

By IAN MacLAREN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Before the National Hockey League season began, Phil Goyette claimed there was no pressure on him to win.

After all, what can you expect for $11 million, a yet-to-be tested coach and a new franchise divided by seven years of deficiency at the rival World Hockey Association.

Now Goyette, the untested coach, has to be wondering what his New York Islanders have to do to win a game.

The slump-ridden New Yorkers suffered their 12th straight defeat Tuesday night, 1-0 to Minnesota North Stars, despite holding a territorial advantage through most of the game.

It marked the 27th loss against just four wins in 43 games for the fledgling Islanders who are fast closing on the record for most defeats (38) set by Los Angeles Kings in 1970-71.

In the only other NHL game, Andres Boudrias' three goals helped Vancouver Canucks overcome a four-goal deficit to defeat Toronto Maple Leafs 6-4.

Tonight's action has program in Oakland against California Golden Seals, New York Rangers visit Los Angeles, Montreal Canadiens entertaining Pittsburgh Penguins, Chicago Black Hawks at Detroit Red Wings and Atlanta Flames, winless expansion club holding down third in the West, at St. Louis Blues.

The Islanders, who have picked up only 12 points to 32 for seventh-place Vancouver in the East, outshot Minnesota 31-4 and 11-5 in the first and second periods respectively at New York.

They tailed off in the third, testing Gilles Gilbert only three times as the Minnesota goaltender held his second shutout of the season while turning aside 29 shots.

"It was my day," said Gilbert. "I was lucky. Some shots have been goals."

Minnesota coach Jack Gordon also was impressed by the Islanders.

"That wasn't the same hockey club we beat 8-1 Saturday night," he said.

Goyette said the Islander performance was his team's best in some time.

"This can't keep up," he said. "Nothing goes in. Something's got to change sooner or later."

The only goal was by centre Jude Drouin, his 10th of the year, at 13:33 of the first period when his shot trickled off tte stick of Islanders' goaltender Billy Smith into the goal.

Goyette, meanwhile, is going through a frustrating period. The one-time Montreal and Rangers centre has been named the expansion periods before—at St. Louis and Buffalo, but as a player without the organizational problems.

He admitted he didn't expect miracles. Neither did he expect so many of his early season chokes to slip off to the WHA-Sort Crashley to Los Angeles Sharks, Gary Peters and Norm Ferguson to New York Raiders, Ted Hampson to Minnesota Fighting Saints, John Schella and Ted Taylor to Houston Aeros and Larry Hornung to Winnipeg Jets.

He did have to forego the summer of injuries that would disassemble the Islanders' already depleted roster.

The likable, soft-spoken Goyette admits there are a lot of things wrong with the Islanders and he took steps Tuesday night to improve the situation when he traded away defenceman Ken Murray and winger Brian Lavender to Detroit for minor leaguers Bob Cook and Ralph Stewart.

Cook is a rugged winger with Virginia Wings of the American League and Stewart, at Fort Worth, leads the Central League scoring race with 20 goals and 36 assists.

The Minnesota victory moved the club into second place in the West, one point ahead of the surprising Flames and just three points behind Chicago.

Pros Henderson, Rick Kehoe, Norm Ullman and Ron Ellis beat the Leafs away to their early lead at Maple Gardens but the Canucks weren't ready to concede any hope after passing shots at Toronto's veteran goalie Jacques Plante.

Power-play goals by Dale Tallon and Boudrias made it 4-3 before the second period ended.

Boudrias scored again early in the third period before Bobby Schmautz tallied twice, the tying and winning goals, less than two minutes apart to move Vancouver to within four points of Toronto.

The scores gave the scrappy little winger 25 for the season, more than doubling his previous best—12 with Vancouver last year.

The Canucks, held even in shots by Toronto in the first period, took command of the game after Ellis' score 25 seconds into the second on a power-play passmelled Plante with 46 shots.

Consecutive penalties to Leafs' Larry McIntyre and Garry Monahan, when Toronto played two men short for 56 seconds, opened the floodgate for Vancouver.

Leafs survived the two-man disadvantage, but five seconds after McIntyre returned and before Toronto could get the extra man in play Tallon had scored his seventh of the season.

PAUL HENDERSON

FILLS IN FOR HOWE

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series have signed defenceman Dennis Owchar to replace Marty Howe who has been sidelined at least 10 days by mononucleosis. Owchar played the first half of the season with St. Catharines Black Hawks but was not put on the Hawks roster list submitted to the OHA and became a free agent.

'Grow Wheat' Says Whelan

OTTAWA (CP) — A dream has come true for Canadian grain farmers, Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan triumphantly told the Commons Tuesday.

They now should grow all the grain, including wheat, they can. Markets are good. Prices are acceptable.

The speech, Mr. Whelan's first in the Commons since he assumed his portfolio in late November, marks an about-face for the Liberal government.

Two years ago it paid farmers to keep wheatland out of production to reduce a billion bushel surplus.

Jack Horner, Conservative grain critic and MP for the Alberta riding of Crowfoot, pointedly reminded the government of its production-curbing program just before the agriculture minister spoke.

"What did the . . . program cost the farmers?" Mr. Horner asked. "Because of the restrictions placed upon them they grew 200 million bushels less wheat than previously. The price of wheat today is a little over $2 a bushel, so any Grade 3 student can calculate the loss. . . . It was $600 million."

Mr. Whelan said he urged farmers to "produce grain to beat the band this year, all types of grains."

"I am purposely asking western grain producers to produce all the wheat they can produce, conscious of all this implies, and at the same time to make sure they produce even larger quantities of seed grains."

The agriculture minister, anticipating critics, said these will be those who suggest the country may lose sales "because our grain supplies have been reduced to manageable proportions."

"Those clairvoyants did not usefully forecast, for anyone, the drop in grain production in various countries around the world, or the disastrous weather conditions in the USSR and India, or the calamities that took place in other nations last year."

Separate Municipal Delegates Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford said the Commons Tuesday he has suggested that the provinces include municipal representatives on their delegations for the federal-provincial conference on housing Jan. 22-23.

He said the municipal delegates would be part of the provincial delegations and that he had not invited the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

Eldon Woolliams (PC - Calgary North) wanted assurance that municipalities, which often had projects dumped on them by senior governments, would be represented in a "meaningful manner," not simply "as observers."

In Whitby, Ont., Mayor Des Newman, head of the mayors' federation, said Tuesday he sent a cable to Mr. Trudeau Monday requesting the presence of a national municipal delegation at the conference.

In Sault Ste. Marie, Premier William Davis said he will invite two representatives from municipal governments to join Ontario's delegation at the conference.

Richardson Wants Arms Built in West Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister James Richardson says he would have difficulty awarding a major contract for defence equipment to a supplier who did not guarantee to produce some of the product in Western Canada.

The minister made the statement to reporters after telling the Commons there must be more government spending in the West to strengthen the area's industrial capability.

The government must shortly decide on a replacement for the aging Argus surveillance aircraft. The contract is expected to be in the neighborhood of $600 million.

The MP from Winnipeg South, asked what would happen if an aircraft company said it could not build part of a plane for the armed forces in the West, replied that the company would not get the contract.

But at the same time he acknowledged that a replacement for an armed forces tank now being looked at may have little Canadian content.

Subsidies Are Urged To Move Erie Cottages

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government should consider subsidizing cottage - owners — many of them Americans — near Long Point, Ont., to help them move their cottages away from Lake Erie flood waters, the Commons was told Tuesday night.

William Knowles (PC—Norfolk-Haldimand) said there are about 600 cottages worth $12,000 each in the area and 50 "are in imminent danger."

The Day They Stopped Advertising

HAMILTON (CP) — The picture put forth was a social tragedy—soaring food costs, daily newspapers at $2 a copy, hundreds of people out of work and no television.

But it was all just a hypothetical situation envisioned by John S. Straiton, president and creative head of Ogilvy and Mather (Canada) Ltd. advertising agency.

The theme of Mr. Straiton's speech Tuesday to the Men's Canadian Club of Hamilton was The Day They Stopped Advertising.

The advertising executive made his point—a country without newspaper advertisements, television and radio commercials and billboards almost would certainly breed chaos.

Television stations, some of which account for 90 per cent of their income from commercials, would have to slice their budgets, leaving countless people without work.

Actors and actresses "would be missing out on pin money from commercials, reduced in consuming free products they had taken home for years."

Major newspapers would increase their prices because advertising, which covers up to 75 per cent of their publishing costs, would no longer exist.

"The world without advertising is Russia," he concluded.

Riot by Montreals' British May Have Altered History

MONTREAL (CP) — The Governor-General of Canada is pelted with stones and rotten eggs by Montrealers.

Infuriated citizens attack the Parliament Building, which goes up in flames.

A fictional scenario of coming violence? No. That happened in Montreal more than 100 years ago. Supposedly volatile French-Canadians are a rampage, perhaps Mais non, supposedly phlegmatic English-Canadians having a go.

Historian Michel Brunet says that but for the 1849 destruction of the Parliament Building this city might well be the capital of Canada still and Canada's evolution much different. Parliament stood on Place d'Youville in Old Montreal.

Agonizing incidents of pre-Confederation history were recalled by the recent visit here of the 11th Earl of Elgin, great-grandson of the governor-general of the Province of Canada—now Ontario and Quebec—in 1847-1854.

Some historians say that though the general outline of events may be known to every schoolboy, the full story of motives and sufferings is only dimly perceived. They say the English period as a part of watershed in political affairs, but they also recall that it opened with an episode of staggering human misery.

In "Black '47"—the year of the Irish Famine—a procession of "coffin ships" came up the St. Lawrence from the Emerald Isle carrying many thousands of refugees hounded by hunger and ravaged by typhus.

"There never was an exodus like it," writes Montreal's T. P. Slattery, Irish-Canadian historian. "No such mass transport of human cargoes from continent to continent had ever occurred before, and it was undertaken with no restrictions for safety and little concern for health."

Many Montrealers fled the city where the immigrants died at the rate of 50 to 60 a day in improvised hospital sheds despite heroic efforts by doctors and French-Canadian nursing sisters.

The Governor-General, the 8th Earl of Elgin, visited the sheds. And the deposited visits of John Neilson, editor of Montreal which was then majority English-speaking, resulted in his death. Official figures show that some 5,500 Irish men, women and children died in Montreal in 1847 alone, thousands of others elsewhere.

On the political level, Dr. Brunet says Lord Elgin, descendant of Scotland's King Robert the Bruce, as a realistic statesman, much more far-sighted than his antagonists of the day.

"Elgin was a Machiavelli with a smile, like all good statesmen," said Dr. Brunet in an interview. "He understood the mellowing influence of power. He knew that the French coming into power would not be the same as the French outside power."

Feelings were still raw from the 1837-1838 rebellion led by Louis-Joseph Papineau and violence flared when Lord Elgin gave royal assent to the Reform government's Rebellion Losses bill. There had been loss dissatisfaction by English-speaking Montreal merchants and the impression of favors on other matters.

"The British in Montreal did burn parliament and today they have to foot the bill," said historian Brunet.

Considering he is only dead in hypothesis and "fit," Dr. Brunet said Montreal might have fulfilled a role as capital of a bilingual country in a way impossible for Ottawa, subsequently picked when Confederation was born.

"Even in three faroff days the cry went up that the French were running the country," said Dr. Brunet. "Elgin gave figures for contracts awarded by the government and he was able to demand scornfully:

"This is domination?"

The present Lord Elgin was a roaring social success as guest of honor at a December ball of St. Andrew's Society of Montreal, which had deposed his ancestor at Inverness patron and erected his name from membership.

But the Governor-General was apparently not a man to hold a grudge, anyway. Edgar Andrew Collard, veteran editorial writer here, writes that Elgin paused when—in his farewell address to Montrealers—he came to the words, "I shall forget . . ." Mr. Collard quotes an eyewitness:

"There was a deeply excited murmur as the close of the address, but when he came to say, 'I shall forget,' the throng broke his manuscript and almost in tears exclaimed, 'But, no, what I might have had to forget is already forgotten, and, therefore, I cannot tell you what I shall forget.'"

Earl Visits

The fifth Earl of Elgin, great-grandson of the governor-general of the Province of Canada — now Ontario and Quebec — in 1847-1854, dances the eightsome reel with Mrs. Thomas Price during recent visit to Montreal. The visit by Lord Elgin brought back memories of demonstrations in 1849 against the governor-general and attack on Parliament Buildings then in Montreal. (CP Photo)

Survival Unit Brings Aid to Beached Whales

LONDON (CP) — Reg Bloom is a man who wants to save whales, so to that end he has announced establishment of a survival unit for whales that beach themselves on Britain's shores.

It all started two years ago when he stood by a remote Scottish loch and watched nearly 30 pilot whales in their death throes. By the time he had organized a rescue party all but two of the whales had died.

He recalled that he promised himself then that such a thing would not happen again if he could help it.

He found that one of the main reasons for the death of beached whales was delay in reporting strandings. With Bloom's plan the fatal time gap can be eradicated by drawing on co-operation of coast guards stationed around the British coast.

Once a stranded whale or dolphin has been spotted by the coast guard, it will be reported to Bloom at Walton-on-Naze on the east coast. Calls will then go out to subaqua clubs.

"At the scene, sub-aqua personnel will wrap heavily reinforced canvas and steel slings around the whales and once secured will tow them out to sea by small craft," Bloom said. "Stranded cetaceans are not inclined to struggle violently in this type of situation but we think it will be hard work."

Success or failure will depend mainly on the speed with which the stranding is reported and Bloom emphasized the importance of the coast guards in the operation.

"Speed is the essence because once beached, a whale will have a maximum life expectancy of only about 36 hours, depending on the weather. If the weather is hot, it will die quickly."

Bloom admitted that the first rescue attempts may be largely agmixture of trial and error—but his team will consist of experts and not well-meaning amateurs.

A member of the team, David Taylor, veterinary surgeon and an executive member of the International Association of Aquatic Animal Medicine, commented:

"In the past there has been the depressing sight of whales being unwieldy mutilated. You can imagine how difficult it is to handle a 45-foot-long whale covered in blubber. There have also been instances of people hacking at dead or dying whales.

"At least, we can painlessly dispatch any dying animals we find."

Besides saving the whales by towing them back to sea, the team hopes to collate sufficient scientific data to discover exactly why mass strandings occur. Among current theories: that whales come inshore looking for fish and are stranded; the school follows a sick leader with a damaged navigation system; that the whales have been frightened by unusual circumstances.

The team now is organized and waiting to deal with the first stranding. The members' commitment includes a willingness to bear their own expenses and a strong belief in conservation.

Bloom, 50, became an animal collector in East Africa at the end of the Second World War.

Bloom has been associated in different capacities with some of Britain's leading zoos, including Chester, where he was curator, Windsor safari park, Flamingo Park zoo, Yorkshire, and Twycross in Leicestershire. He now has a dolphinarium at Clacton-on-Sea, eastern England.

His fascination with whales and dolphins began when he was director of the Flamingo Park zoo which housed Europe's first dolphinarium and the first killer whale.

"I am not a crank and I am not running Canada. I am just interested in making this rescue unit work. People should realize that whales are more than mere hunks of blubber."

Lost Appetites

LONDON (CP) — During 1972 less beef and lamb was eaten in Britain than during post-war rationing, the agriculture ministry said. The government attributes the decline to a world shortage of supplies, but meat traders blame soaring prices which have risen 30 per cent since 1971. "The publicity has killed the trade stone dead," one trader said. "We are all apprehensive about the new year."

Alberta Farms Decrease As Operating Costs Soar

EDMONTON (CP) — The continual increase in the amount of money needed to start farming has resulted in a substantial decrease in the number of farms in Alberta, says C. E. Sterling, an agriculture department statistician.

While the amount of land being farmed has not decreased, the number of census farms has dropped to 62,702 compared with 84,315 about 20 years ago. Census farms are those of one acre or more with annual sale of at least $50 in agricultural products.

Mr. Sterling said this represents a decrease of about 1,000 farms a year and the average capital investment for each farm has grown to an estimated $80,000 compared with $27,000 in 1961 and $12,000 in 1951.

"With investment requirements of this magnitude, many people who would like to start farming are unable to do so and farms that come up for sale are often divided among the highest bidders," Mr. Sterling said.

In addition, he said the average age of farmers in Alberta now is 48 years compared with 46 in 1961 and 45 in 1951.

Another "almost unnoticed" trend is the increasing number of census farms registered as having non-resident operators.

In 1951 just under 10 per cent of the census farms in Alberta were in this category and the percentage has risen to more than 12 per cent.

"The conveniences associated with urban living and the trend away from typical mixed farming enable a farmer to run his operations from an urban

Water-filled Mattress Helped Cure Bed Sores

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — A $37 air mattress, filled with water, has proved to be a valuable medical aid in treating and preventing bedsores, doctors say.

At Bridgeport Hospital and the Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center, more than 600 patients have slept on the mattresses, and not one has developed decubiti (bedsores), says Dr. Thomas F. Coyle, medical director of the centre.

Those who have come in with decubiti have begun to heal up to three times faster, he said.

He said the experience with the inexpensive mattress had received attention in the Journal of the American Medical Association and had brought inquiries from around the world.

A patient with a bedsore stays in the hospital longer, is in danger of infection and might have to undergo a surgical closure, he said.

The air mattress filled with 250 pounds of 98 degree water distributes the body's pressure, as does any waterbed. The air mattress is placed on top of a regular mattress.

Dr. Coyle said a patient with a fracture or arthritis is much more comfortable on the water mattress than on a normal bed.

In addition, the patient can remain in a single position for up to four hours without the skin breaking down, reducing the need for constant nursing attention, he said.

Disposal Of DDT Near End

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence research board is approaching the end of a program of destroying almost all the DDT stocks in Canada.

The longer-than-expected program was announced in 1971 but staff and other problems have slowed the process.

The board said this week that about 65 per cent of the 107,000 gallons of liquid DDT held by the armed forces in 1971 now has been destroyed in its facility at Suffield, Alta.

The environment department said most of the liquid DDT in the country now is at Suffield, near Medicine Hat. Most of this had been held by the armed forces which used it to control biting flies at northern bases.

There still is a small quantity at Frobisher Bay, N.W.T., awaiting the opening of the shipping season.

DDT was virtually banned in Canada in late 1969. It now can be used only in specific cases, such as the control of some worms and bats, and only under controlled conditions.

Deadly

WASHINGTON (AP) — A chemist reported Tuesday that heptachlor, a widely - used agricultural pesticide, changes in sunlight to a stable substance that is 22 times more toxic than the original compound.

Dr. Charles Hammer of Georgetown University reported finding the first proof of this in housefly, mice and other animal tests.

He said the newly uncovered substance is "considerably more toxic than DDT," which has already been banned from the market in the United States as a potentially hazardous to man and animals.

Use DDT

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — John Ostrovics, a Burford, Ont., tobacco farmer, was fined $300 Tuesday for using DDT on his crop May 12.

Back Teachers

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Two hundred students at Brock University occupied the office of President James Gibson Tuesday in protest over the dismissal of 16 faculty members as a result of budget cuts.

A student spokesman said he did not know how long the occupation of the 13th-floor office would continue.

Protect Species

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Rogers Morton proposed Tuesday to designate eight United States animals and 50 foreign animals—including Australia's national symbol, the kangaroo—as endangered species.

Such a listing would prohibit the killing or capturing of native species and the importing of endangered foreign species.

The Australian government last week banned the export of kangaroo hides and meat, effective next April.

Year Added

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Edwin J. Woods, 26, serving a life sentence in prison near here for non-capital murder, was sentenced Tuesday to a one-year consecutive term for stealing a truck used in an unsuccessful escape bid.

Woods was one of 14 prisoners who escaped July 31 from Millhaven maximum security prison, about 15 miles west of here. He was the first recaptured.

May Raise Fees

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario government is considering charging university and college students receiving government aid another $200 beginning next fall, the chief spokesman of the Ontario Professors' Association said Monday.

The increase would come as a rise in the loan portion of the government's combined loan and grant aid program, said Dr. F. W. Bennett of the University of Waterloo, executive vice-chairman of the Ontario Federation of Faculty Associations.

Visits Princess

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Princess Christina's name was linked Tuesday with a young French-Canadian music student whom she brought over to Holland for the Christmas holidays and introduced to her family.

De Telegraaf, Holland's biggest daily, identifies the young man as Emile Bourree, 22, studying music at the Institute Vincent Dindy in Montreal.

WARREN ALLMAND

Plan Tax Cut

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government, bolstered by an increase in revenues, announced Tuesday a plan to reduce property taxes "to offset the impact of inflation."

The plan also would make education less dependent on property taxes and change the formula for grants to municipalities.

Four Life Terms

MONTREAL (CP) — Thomas Ouslansky, 21, was sentenced Tuesday to four concurrent life imprisonment terms after pleading guilty to the murder of four men in a Montreal delicatessen last June.

Mr. Justice Jacques Ducros of Quebec Superior Court, pronounced sentence after Ouslansky pleaded guilty to shooting delicatessen manager Sander Nimcowicz, 60, dishwashers Spiros Moyrelias, 18, and Errol Segal, 18, and waiter Antonios Alefragis, 22.

Want Subsidy

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec intends to seek $200 million from the federal government, representing money the province would have collected since 1966 if the RCMP had been the provincial police force.

Justice Minister Jerome Choquette disclosed the intention Tuesday in an address to the Quebec police commission.

He said the federal government must contribute to police costs in provinces which do not employ the RCMP as the provincial force.

Boy Kills Self

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A high school pupil shot himself in the head Tuesday while in conference with his principal, police said.

He died later in hospital.

Recognition

LONDON (AP) — A 63-year-old Bedfordshire grandmother got official recognition as a fire-woman. Vera Tear lives across the street from the firehouse in the village of Pattos, and for 15 years she voluntarily took down the addresses of fire alarms and rushed the station house doors for the fire engines.

Bad Luck to Stop

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Serbian wedding processions used to gallop along preplanned routes because no one knew what jokers waited behind the trees. Now they speed in motorcades along the city streets, but the superstition persists that stopping a procession brings bad luck. So traffic cops are reluctant to lift a hand.

Smugglers Arrested

IBADAN, Nigeria (AP) — Officials announced the arrest of 11 persons in a new crackdown on those who smuggle valuable cocoa across Nigeria's border.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We are motoring to Florida soon and wish to visit Disney World near Orlando, Florida. Will it be difficult to get accommodations nearby and what do they charge for the major attractions?

ANSWER: Disney World has one major problem. It is too successful. In its first year of operation, which ended last October, it attracted over 10 million people. It is twice the size of Manhattan and occupies 27,500 acres, so it is tiresome trying to cover it all on foot in a few days. The attraction for children and adults is sheer wonder. When Disney World does anything, it does it well and that ranges from a haunted house to an address by President Lincoln. The Magic Kingdom is the major segment open to the public now and it's still only a fraction of Disney World. There are line-ups at every major attraction nearby all the time, but they are kept in constant motion. The monorail train at the entrance deposits you at Main Street, U.S.A. from here the street forms an approach to a castle, which is the centrepiece around which are Adventureland, Frontierland, Liberty Square, Fantasyland and Tomorrowland. You can buy individual tickets for these attractions but you save money by buying books of tickets at the entrance. The tickets in the $4.95 book would cost $7.90 to buy individually, those in the $5.85 book would cost $10.85, so the saving is substantial. A guided 3 hour packaged tour includes a selection of tickets and costs $6.75. All E xtractions are excellent and none should be missed. You could leave Disney World after seeing those alone and know you had seen the best of everything, and more, including the superb Pirates of the Caribbean, which are being readied for future opening.

Top rating goes to 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea. You board the nautilus submarine — straight out of Jules Verne — and gaze out through the plexiglass window at an underwater world strewn by wrecks, fish, divers and sea serpents. The Haunted Mansion has ghastlike figures that appear out of thin air. You travel through it all, passing mirrors, where you see your own reflection with spooks sitting in your lap and peering over your shoulder. Many of the attractions use figures which are startlingly human in appearance.

The Hall of Presidents is a serious show in which animated figures of all 36 U.S. Presidents appear to come to life as Abraham Lincoln delivers a speech.

On the Jungle Cruise you go aboard an explorer's launch which wends its way along a river with animated elephants, crocodiles and other jungle creatures along the way.

A not - to - be - missed E xtraction is the Country Bear Jamboree, in which Disney World characters put on a concert.

Overnight visitors can stay in Disney World at two hotels, which have 1,500 rooms or at a 200-site campground and there are 6,000 motel rooms in this area. You can also drive in from other areas, such as Cocoa Beach, Daytona Beach and New Smyrna Beach. These are on the Atlantic ocean with beautiful sandy beaches and within 70 miles of Disney World.

If you wish to stay at Disney World, Orlando, or close by, advance bookings are essential. Simply write Disney World at Orlando or Orlando Area Chamber of Commerce, Box 1913, Orlando, Florida, zip 32802, or phone 305-824-8000 for reservations. Double occupancy rates at both Disney World hotels range from $25 to $44 a night, with up to three children admitted free with parents.

Trevino Favored

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Lee Trevino got back into action this week as the top attraction and pre-tourney favorite in the $160,000 Tucson open golf tournament.

The British Open champion has been considerably less than a ball of fire in the early going this season and hasn't won a dime going into this third tournament of the campaign. But he's a solid choice as the man to beat for the $30,000 top prize in the event that gets under way Thursday.

Trevino, winner of more than $200,000 in each of his last two seasons, failed to make the cut in the first 1973 tournament and decided to skip last week's Phoenix Open.

He scored consecutive Phoenix Open victories in 1970-71. Not only does he play the cut-tus-studded Tucson National course very well, his rate of his vortie is further enhanced by the absence of Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player.

The 144-man starting lineup includes 11 of 17 men who won $100,000 or more last year. A total of 23 tournament winners in 1972 and both of this year's winners, Australian Bruce Crampton and Rod Funseth.

Among the chief challengers are defending champion Miller Barber, 1972 double winners Grier Jones, Jerry Heard and Australian Bruce Devlin, and big George Archer, winner of two tournaments last season and a loser to Barber in a playoff.

In 7,200 yards, the par-72 Tucson National is one of the longest courses the touring pros play all season. It's almost 1,000 yards longer than last week's Arizona Country Club course. It features nine acres of water, huge greens averaging almost 11,000 square feet and lots of sand traps.

Fairways and greens have been dyed for the benefit of weekend television coverag.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Thursday, Jan. 18

Aries (March 21-April 19): Temper or temperament may somehow disrupt activities of constant work. Expect a critical eye from all friends.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Much accumulated energy keeps you and the challenge is to retain and channel its impact constructively.

Gemini (May 21-Jun 20): Healthy self-interest the order of the day. Be sure you're all set that is yours. Two-faced subjects come to turning point.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Concentrate on the constructive activities at hand despite efforts to awaken old differences. Avoid needless delays.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Present a calm face to the world as you seek inner guidance, consult your psyche in whatever manner works best for you.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Impulsive corrections of minor discrepancies add to the problem rather than help. Remember that machines do not care.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Much is said, little is done, and it's just as well. Today's disturbed thoughts are to be quietly checked, perhaps never verbalized.

Scorpio (Oct 23-Nov. 22): Everybody seems headed in the same direction, so no start early, select a route that skips the crowded spots.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): Be ready and willing to apply all the means—group and personal—resources aren't immediately available.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Probe the subtle nuances of the synthetic—rest is needed. If what you planned is difficult, postpone it, skip it.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Review your working methods, see if traditional approaches will do as well. Technical consultations are a good investment.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Compromise offered to keep the peace complicates matters. A firm foot to keep yourself out of the activity is best.

Meetings Will Investigate Help for Learning Handicapped

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Counselling services for troubled children and their families may become a reality in the Trenton area, depending on the outcome of a two-day series of interviews and a public meeting to be held next week.

Under the auspices of the Quinte Chapter of the Ontario Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, and with the co-operation of the Hastings County Board of Education, sessions with representatives of agencies involved in providing services for children and young adults in Trenton, have been arranged for Monday and Tuesday.

Dr. David L. Randall, regional ministry of health coordinator attached to the Children's Services Branch, Mental Health Division, will conduct individual and small group interviews at Marmora Senior School on Marmora Street. As well, Dr. Randall will be on hand for a public meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 22 in the school auditorium.

During a telephone interview, Dr. Randall said his purpose in meeting concerned citizens here next week "is for all of us to put our heads together and determine the best approach to take according to the expressed needs of the people in your community."

Several local agencies as well as service clubs provided assistance for disturbed children and adolescents. But a major importance is filtering the right kind of help through these various bodies.

Various forms of psychology are considered important, as is the co-ordination of the various preventive and rehabilitative services offered through health agencies, school systems, welfare agencies, the courts, correctional services, as well as private voluntary associations.

Unfortunately, families and children in need of assistance until recently had to travel to Belleville or Kingston for therapy. While beneficial and highly qualified, the more distant psychiatric and psychological services are hindered by long waiting lists, the cost involved and the time necessary for the numerous trips.

Just over a year ago, a Trenton agency was established. Mrs. Breg de Groot, a Trenton social worker, began volunteer efforts to help local children. She had the encouragement of two Trenton doctors, as well as a host of qualifications, including those of teacher, principal and social worker.

A basement playroom in the medical building at the corner of Dundas and Catherine Streets was made available, with furnishings, toys and equipment donated by private contributors.

Play therapy is an important part of the therapist's work. A child at play can be watched and observed, in this way offering a chance for the observer to note various characteristics that may not appear during general therapy.

Mrs. de Groot feels strongly about providing local services. For the 44 families she has been able to help with counselling, she has found preventive mental health at early life will stand a child in good stead as he or she reaches adulthood. In addition to providing direct services to children and teenagers, she acts as liaison on behalf of patients in dealings with family, schools and doctors.

But as a volunteer effort, the centre has its limitations. Mrs. de Groot believes that to become more effective, such a centre must become permanent. As each month progresses, she reports an increasing caseload that requires the services of more than one person.

She feels at least two social workers should be hired to provide adequate services for Trenton. One of these would provide family therapy and marriage counselling services; a second, a psychiatrist or child psychologist, would handle child and youth problems.

Some fear may arise that this proposed service or agency would overlap existing ones. Not so, says Mrs. de Groot, who has in recent months conducted surveys into family needs and services available. The various organizations agree.

Considered a major report, the CFLDIC report entitled One Million Children, released in 1970, contains a clause that outlines the importance of providing home community assistance for children and the families of children with emotional or learning disorders. The report says this should be done "through a co-ordinated network of services, with a minimum disruption of the child's integration in normal family and community life."

Dr. Randall has invited the regional administrator for Community and Social Services, and the representative of the Regional Children's Centre in Kingston, to attend the discussions at Marmora School Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Grant Possible For Commission

The Belleville Transit Commission could receive up to 75 per cent provincial grant for construction of a possible new garage.

That the capital grant was available to the city transit commission as well as operational grant, was made known to city council Monday through a letter from Gordon Carton, minister of transportation and communications.

The provincial bus operation subsidy is based on 50 per cent of the operating deficit, while the capital grant of 75 per cent is subject to a maximum defined by population based on a limit of $2 per person.

The letter from the provincial department was referred to the city transit commission.

The transit commission has an amount of $135,000 in its 1973 capital works budget for the construction of a new garage.

Guilty Plea To Fraud

A Belleville woman pleaded guilty in provincial court Tuesday to 25 charges involving fraud.

Mrs. Eileen Marie Graham, 17 and the mother of a six-month old child, will be sentenced Feb. 6. She was remanded in custody by Judge J. L. Clendenning while a presentence report is prepared.

Mrs. Graham, whose address is the City Hotel, wrote false cheques and used a stolen credit card to obtain more than $900 in goods and cash during the first three weeks of December.

On eight occasions, her victim was A and P Supermarket. She also hit 15 other stores in Belleville and Trenton.

During the campaign, Mrs. Graham forged cheques in the names of two Belleville women, both of whom later reported their identification stolen.

She was arrested Dec. 19 by Trenton police while attempting to pick up a guitar and amplifier she had ordered from Simpsons-Sears while using a stolen credit card.

Among the goods she obtained were clothes, paint, cookware, skates, a tape recorder, a watch, bracelets and a ring. None of the frauds involved more than $140.

Police are still attempting to recover several of the items.

Two other persons arrested at the same time, William Sweet and Larry Carr, both 18, and from Belleville, will appear in court later.

Will Honor Judge

This special banquet is being held in honor of his 25 years of service to the board.

Flat Rats Live Alone On Island

NORTH ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — They live alone as it is long perfectly flat island, decades of all but a few struggling trees, mining minnows in the summer and trapping muskrat in the fall and winter.

Bob and Bernet! a Beaney are the last of the "flat rats "and for 39 years they have made an isolated living in this tiny island in Lake St. Clair, 25 miles southeast of Detroit.

They know when the pickerel and perch are running and the hundreds of tiny bays in which they are hiding.

"I like to hunt and fish and trap and so we stay here," said Beaney, a small wiry man whose appearance belies his 67 years.

With no telephone on the state-owned island they lease, and a small aluminum boat or a snowmobile as the only means of getting back and forth, the Beaneys rely on a citizens' band radio to keep in touch with the mainland.

Beaney traps an average of 1,000 muskrats a year and sells the most to restaurants. The pelts go to fur dealers for $2 each.

"A lot of people won't eat muskrat," says Mrs. Beaney. "You know they think it's dirty or something. But it's a lot cleaner than a chicken.

"A muskrat will peel a root before he eats it and wash even an apple core before he puts it in his mouth."

When he's not trapping muskrat, Beaney collects minnows for bait dealers and leads his fishermen to the best fishing spots in the flats.

But living on an isolated island only three-quarters of a mile long and two-tenths of a mile wide can be rugged. The Beaneys have been icebound and snowbound numerous times, and they live in constant fear of storms which could push lake waters through their small house.

"There was one time when we were right down to eating oatmeal mush and pancakes and jelly," Beaney recalled of one icebound winter.

"We didn't have cigarettes or coffee or anything."

Racial Relations Improved

HALIFAX (CP) — Steps to improve racial harmony in Antigonish County appear to have brought home the meaning of human rights.

George F. McCurdy, director of the Nova Scotia Human Rights Commission, said improvements in the tense racial situation in the area best showed the work of his organization.

Since reports of racial conflict last June, he said, the commission has worked with municipal, community and black organizations to promote harmony among groups.

Among the major achievements was a human rights conference in October when representatives of the black community presented a study of conditions in Antigonish, Tracadie, Guysborough and Lincolnville.

The report called for "affirmative action programs" in employment, education and other fields affecting minority groups.

Meanwhile, the commission is working with various black organizations in producing video-tape programs on education, and a pictorial on black history primarily for use in education.

Mr. McCurdy said the commission is also working to improve conditions for the province's native peoples.

Working with the Union of Nova Scotia Indians, a six-part lecture series on native tribes of Canada was held in connection with a museum exhibition.

Commission initiatives have also been directed to the field of women's rights.

The passing of an amendment to the province's Human Rights Act dealing with sex discrimination made the act "among the most comprehensive and best on the continent," he said.

In 1973, the commission was looking for more fair play in housing practices.

No Benefits if Fired

No Aid To Be Given To Those Who Quit

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower Minister Robert Andras brought down legislation Wednesday to cut off unemployment insurance benefits to those who quit or are fired from their jobs.

The legislation, given first reading in the Commons, also withdraws all benefits from persons who refuse to take an available job when they are out of work.

Mr. Andras said the restrictions will save the government more than $100 million a year and wipe out one of the major unemployment - insurance abuses.

In the past, he said, any person who stopped work voluntarily or was fired could qualify for benefits with only a three-week penalty period beyond the normal two-week waiting period.

If the legislation is approved by Parliament, they will be cut off from benefits until they have obtained a new job and have worked for the required minimum of eight weeks.

Appeal procedures will be set up, however, to exclude employees who leave work or refuse another job "with just cause," he said.

The intention is not to deprive anyone of benefits rightfully deserved but to crack down on abuse. "We want to be damn sure . . . there is no rip-off."

Mr. Andras said the legislation makes some drastic changes but is probably not as tough as many might have expected.

"I'm very nervous about over-reacting in this situation," he said. Although abuses must be eliminated, nothing should be done to make it harder for those unemployment insurance is designed to benefit.

Mr. Andras also introduced a second bill Wednesday which, in effect, removes the ceiling on government contributions to the unemployment insurance fund.

The ceiling was set by legislation at $800 million for 1972 and, with unemployment running high, the government has found itself in the awkward situation of having to spend more than technically authorized by the law.

Continental Oil Policy Still Out

OTTAWA (CP) — The warning U.S. hoarding of shortages has opened the door for what amounts to full-capacity exports of Western Canada supplies.

But the Canadian policy remains unchanged as far as remaining aloof from a so-called continental policy, federal spokesmen said today.

They said Deputy Minister Jack Austin of the federal energy department was misinterpreted Wednesday in being quoted as saying that some progress has been made on sharing oil supplies in an emergency.

The spokesmen said that applies solely to the talks that have been proceeding privately and quietly for two years or more on another kind of emergency—how Eastern Canada would get its imported oil in the event of any situation threatening supplies now coming from Venezuela, the Middle East and elsewhere.

It has been the U.S. fear that if Eastern Canada oil reserves were cut off, its imports from Western Canada also would dry up as the Canadian tap was turned to Eastern Canada.

The current situation is another kind of emergency that has not bearing on existing discussions, they said.

President Nixon Wednesday announced what amounts to temporary full-capacity access for Western Canada oil east of the Rockies, with more oil also found for the West Coast, which has not been subject to the formula to bearing on existing dismal quota system.

But the official Canadian position on oil-sharing remains as spelled out last week by Energy Minister Donald Macdonald, a spokesman said.

Tightens Rules

Manpower Minister Robert Andras brought down legislation Wednesday to make unemployment insurance regulations more stringent.

Taxpayer's Wallet Is up for Sharing

OTTAWA (CP) — The taxpayer's wallet goes on the table today, with federal and provincial finance ministers deciding how to share the contents.

Results are expected to appear within weeks in a budget being prepared now by Finance Minister John Turner.

The ministers will get down to the main issue of revenue sharing and taxation after pulling views on the economic and fiscal situations and immediate future prospects and a look at the effectiveness of some federal moves to combat unemployment.

Nixon Envoy Returning With Peace Very Near

SAIGON (AP) — United States envoy Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. left Saigon today after two days of talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu on the new peace agreement draft worked out last week by Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho.

Before returning to Washington, Haig was visiting Phnom Penh, Vientiane and Bangkok to brief the governments of Cambodia, Laos and Thailand on the status of the peace negotiations.

Thieu was reported to still have reservations about the protocols or technical instruments to bring the peace agreement into being, and some political matters also appeared still unresolved. Despite this, Thieu's foreign minister Tran Van Lam, said in an interview published Wednesday that "peace is very near."

Lam's comment seemed to indicate that the remaining issues could be resolved quickly.

Haig's conferences with Thieu appeared to clear the way for another round of meetings in Paris next week between Kissinger and Tho, possibly followed by the initialling of the peace agreement.

From Saigon, Haig flew first to Phnom Penh and met with President Lon Nol.

In Bangkok, U.S. Ambassador Leonard Unger told the American Chamber of Commerce that U.S. military strength in Thailand will be scaled down when the Vietnam war ends, but sufficient strength will be maintained to prevent violations of the peace agreement. There now are 49,000 U.S. troops stationed in Thailand, carrying on the air war in Vietnam.

The draft agreement calls for a withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam within 60 days of signing, but there is no prohibition against U.S. forces in Thailand or against U.S. naval forces in the area.

Also in Bangkok, Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, the prime minister of Thailand, ordered his armed forces to go on full alert along the borders with Cambodia and Laos in the event of a ceasefire in Vietnam.

South Vietnamese sources said among the technical protocols that in their view need clarification is the one on release of prisoners of war.

Another issue to be resolved by technical experts, these sources said, is the machinery of the international force to supervise the ceasefire.

Strike Ends Here

Some Knots Unravel In Postal Snarls

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Postal workers in Belleville and Vancouver were back on the job today but mail service remains at a standstill in Toronto.

Members of Belleville Local 44, Letter Carriers Union of Canada, took down their picket line shortly after 5 p.m. Wednesday, permitting clerks to enter the building and begin sorting mail. The carriers made their regular deliveries today although they could walk out again soon unless an agreement is reached in their dispute with post office management.

In Vancouver, operations returned to normal Wednesday night after an interruption during the day.

But in Toronto, service remains at a standstill as letter sorters and carriers refuse to cross picket lines around the downtown delivery building and the main post office. They, like the Vancouver workers, are protesting the halt in contract talks.

Meanwhile, Postmaster General Andre Ouellet said Wednesday in the Commons that the government is ready to accept all clauses of the conciliation report on contract negotiations with postal workers and hopes to sign a contract soon.

Belleville's letter carriers withdrew their pickets after informing negotiators in Ottawa that a decision was expected sometime before Monday.

Charles Goulet, executive secretary district director of postal operations, asked us in good faith to return to work so he could come up with a decision without strike pressure," said Jim Campbell, president of Local 44, this morning.

Mr. Goulet will discuss the Belleville situation with Dominic Cardillo, business agent for the LCUC's eastern Ontario district. Mr. Delle Palme has scheduled a meeting with Local 45 representatives in Kingston Friday night to review the matter.

The letter carriers are protesting a management plan to use taxis after Feb. 19 to transport the men to their routes. They say they're not against taxis but would also like them used to return the men to the post office, as is done, they maintain, in other Canadian cities.

Mr. Campbell said the 33 carriers met in the post office's coffee shop before heading out to work today. He reported no incidents took place along the picket lines.

Postmaster Roy Wainwright said all mail held up by Wednesday's shutdown had been processed and there is no backlog.

Sub-stations around the city were open as usual Wednesday. Trucks picking up mail from letter boxes were also on duty, although bags could not be unloaded until after 5 p.m.

All but two inside workers showed up for the 5 p.m. shift Wednesday. They honored the picket line but went inside as soon as it was taken down.

Mr. Wainwright said the only problem now is with mail destined for Toronto. Delivery trucks into the city were cancelled and mail on board trains is not being processed.

Couple Jailed

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — Lucien Giroux, 59, of nearby Dunnville, was sentenced Wednesday to one year in jail and his wife, Gertrude, 58, eight months indeterminate for obtaining $2,231 in welfare benefits by fraud. The couple received the benefits between June, 1971, and July, 1972, while Mr. Giroux held several part-time jobs, provincial court was told.

TORONTO (CP) — Barbara Irene Kimberley Wilson, 17, was remanded one week when she appeared in court Wednesday charged with capital murder by being an accessory in the shooting death of Metropolitan policeman James Lothian. A spectator outside the courtroom attempted to talk with her and a small scuffle with police resulted. The constable was shot last Thursday after stopping a wanted car.

Rape Victim Identifies Cop-killer

TORONTO (CP) — David Brian (Duke) Holmes, 22, the man who police say shot Constable James Lothian last week, has been identified by a Toronto woman as the man who raped and stabbed her last September.

Police said Wednesday the 25-year-old woman identified Holmes from newspaper photographs and later by a police photograph.

The woman was stabbed seven times and was taken to hospital in critical condition. She has since recovered.

Pickering Airport Plan Said Doomed

TORONTO (CP) — Radio station CFRB reports the federal government apparently has decided not to proceed with a planned international airport in Pickering Township east of Metropolitan Toronto.

CFRB's parliamentary correspondent Don Lawrence says informed sources indicate the government, which initiated the project, will likely make an official announcement Feb. 1.

The second Toronto-area airport has been strongly opposed by environmentalists and township residents and Mr. Lawrence says Ottawa is seeking a face-saving method to say it won't proceed with the airport scheme.

Co-operation On Hijacking Ruled Out

MONTREAL (CP) — The International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) has ruled out the possibility of concrete action against countries that do not co-operate in world pacts covering hijacks and other violence against civil aviation.

ICAO's legal committee, representing 38 countries, voted Wednesday to allow recommendations against such nations but barred provision for investigation of complaints against offenders or for any co-ordinated action against them.

Insane Better Judges Than Psychiatrists

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Who's sane? Who's insane?

The psychiatrists and staffs of mental hospitals cannot be trusted to tell the difference, says Prof. David L. Rosenhan, a Stanford University psychologist.

Rosenhan says he and seven other sane investigators arranged as a test to be admitted as schizophrene patients in 12 different mental hospitals, yet none of the eight was found to be sane by hospital professionals.

But Rosenhan says it was "quite common" for actual psychiatric patients to identify correctly the "pseudo-patient" imposters.

"The fact that patients often recognized normality when staff did not, raised important questions," Rosenhan observes.

Rosenhan said he and his seven colleagues eventually were released as "schizophrenics in remission," despite their best efforts to convince the hospital staff of their sanity.

"We now know that we cannot distinguish insanity from sanity," Rosenhan said.

"We continue to label patients 'schizophrenic,' 'manic-depressive,' and 'insane' as if in those words we had captured the essence of understanding," he wrote.

"The facts of the matter are that we have known for a long time that our diagnoses often are not useful or reliable, but we have nevertheless continued to use them."

Rosenhan said he and the other pseudo-patients were shocked and horrified by their experiences.

But, he said, they did not blame the hospital staffs.

"By and large, they were well-intentioned people, and in no way do we want to malign them," he said.

Deputy Reeves' Future Is Uncertain

Although elected to a two-year term of office on their local municipal council, the deputy reeves attending the week's inaugural session of Hastings County council are uncertain as to the time they will be members of the county body.

The reason is that the county has a private bill before the Ontario Legislature to reduce council membership to a maximum of 47 members.

Provisions of the bill would not come into effect until the beginning of 1974.

But several members of council on Wednesday sought to assure the new deputy reeves would continue in county council to the end of their two-year terms.

A motion in this effect was introduced by Madoc reeve, T. C. Barton, but after considerable discussion, was turned down in favor of an amendment to lay the matter over until after Feb. 14, following a special meeting at which the Conservationist regional government proposal will be discussed.

If the new regional government proposal gets approval, nine Northumberland municipalities would be added to Hastings bringing council membership to 64.

With the council chambers at present already crowded to capacity by the 13 additional deputy reeves this year, Hungerford Reeve William S. McCrea wondered if another 17 members could be accommodated.

Reeve Jack McKenzie of Faraday observed that the Ontario government proposals had a record of being carried through and suggested if another 17 members came to Hastings council "we would have to knock out the walls somewhere."

Reeve Georgs Lyons of Descronto and Reeve Kenneth Smith of Elzevir urged that the matter of the 4 deputy reeves' terms be set over until the February session when possibly some directive might be received from the province.

But Reeve Frank Peever of Herschel said five deputy reeves were elected for a two-year term and should continue, regardless of whether the county's private bill was approved.

Reeve Barton noted it was really the possible addition of Northumberland members at which his motion was directed.

"To reduce the number of our own group would be playing right into their (the provincial government's) hands," he maintained.

Council carried an amendment introduced Reeve S. Carr of Monteagle calling for the matter to be laid over until the February session.

Eyesore Demolished

In the spring of 1972, retired Trenton police sergeant Douglas Bradshaw died in a fire that destroyed much of his Front Street variety store. This week, wreckers completed demolishing Bradshaw's Variety, a two-storey frame building. Here, Sidney Township resident Gerald Hill removes store sign.

Money for Roads Tight

Hastings county council is unlikely to get any special consideration from the province for additional money to maintain its roads system.

This was made quite clear at Wednesday's session of the body when Vernon Snell, district highways engineer from Kingston was in attendance to answer questions.

Clarke T. Rollins, Hastings MPP, attended the session with the highways engineer.

Warden Horace Casey noted that the main concern was a lack of money to carry out necessary road work.

Mr. Snell said over - all highway subsidy allotments would be much the same as for last year.

There is not much the district office can do to increase these amounts," he said.

He said the punch in subsidy money meant that either less work could be done, resulting in a lower road maintenance standards, or else road projects would have to be set.

He assured that Hastings was not alone in receiving limited road funds as all counties were affected.

And Rawdon Reeve Ray Shortt said that labor and materials costs were going up with the result that municipalities just didn't have enough money to keep roads up to the standard expected.

Mr. Snell said over - all highway subsidy allotments would be much the same as for last year.

He said the punch in subsidy money meant that either less work could be done, resulting in a lower road maintenance standards, or else road projects would have to be set.

He assured that Hastings was not alone in receiving limited road funds as all counties were affected.

One way he suggested that money might be saved was in a restricted road sanding program. Mr. Snell did not suggest eliminating sanding but said this was one way which economies could be effected.

Another suggestion the district highways engineer tossed out was that local municipalities might look to private enterprise for assistance in certain road maintenance.

He said the highways department had a policy where township roads were used for gravel hauling on larger highway construction projects that assured the roads would be maintained or restored to their original condition.

Mr. Snell said local townships were possibly losing out by not approaching the principals of large construction projects for road maintenance assistance.

Such private projects as paving shopping plaza parking lots took a lot of gravel, which usually is hauled over local roads, he said.

Mayor Asks Help Solving Shortage

Mayor Robin Jeffrey, last night, said she sympathized with builders who were feeling the squeeze due to the acute shortage in the city of land available for development.

"I'm certainly aware of the many problems facing the construction industry," she said, while speaking to the Quinte Homebuilders' Association.

"I'm aware of the pace of home building and the shortage of land in the city, and yet people want to buy homes at a price they can afford," she said.

The mayor said the answer was to make more land available in adjoining townships.

Both the area service board and Belleville's Public Utilities Commission are looking at Thurlow township for additional land which already serves on both committees.

The mayor explained the problem now was how to do it?

In servicing the townships with water, "we have to protect the citizens of Belleville who have paid for water treatment facilities through their tax dollar."

The mayor commented that members of this association must have some ideas, and would like the association to work co-operatively in planning the Quinte area together.

County Council Continues To Oppose Regionalization

Hastings county council continues its stand against the possible introduction of regional government in this area.

This is the view of county elected solicitor Harry Mercer Casey of Trenton yesterday when in his Hastings address Tuesday urged council members to exhibit a firm determination to serve their respective municipalities and the county, in their days are capable of the job to which they were elected and to demonstrate to the higher levels of administration that there is no need for regional government in Hastings.

Only by demonstrating interest in municipal affairs could the county survive the threat of regional government he said.

The new warden had no predictions for county goals during the coming year but said that with all members working with each other and with the administration staff, 1973 would be a successful year.

He said, however, that planning was high on the county's priority list.

Planning, he said, is serious business and difficult at times to administer but with forethought, patience and courage he was confident the county could plan wisely for the future.

(A report on the progress of the county's official plan will be heard in council today from consultants Sims and Bshickt.)

Only new warden was elected over Democrats Reeve George Lemon at a caucus session at the opening of the inaugural session.

Lemon was escorted to his chair by two past wardens — reeves Kenneth Smith of Elzevir and Grimsthorpe and Colvin White of Dungannon — the only two former wardens still on county council.

The oath of office was given by provincial Judge J. L. Chevrier while the chain of office was presented by Reeve Lyon, succession was by Rev. Jack Morrison.

It was standing room only in the gallery section of the council chambers for the inaugural session.

Present for the ceremonies were Lemon and the new warden's family. Thirteen council members and staff members and no less than 13 former wardens no longer in public life.

Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey offered her congratulations to Warden Casey and extended the hope of continued co-operation between the county and the city.

"I am looking forward to planning together for the future of the city and the county," she said.

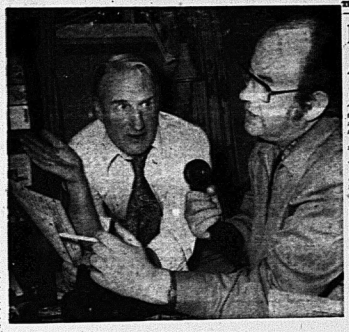
Hastings MPP Clarke T. Rollins made it known that he would continue to encourage to see Hastings county council remain as a governing body as long as possible.

He said he would not concede that Hastings was not in a favorable position not to carry on as a county government, and said that county co-operation with the city in past years bore this out.

Referring to rumor that with the advent of regional government, Hastings would be divided north and south, Mr. Rollins assured this never would be done with his approval.

Hastings county has operated in a successful manner over the years and has a record of which to be proud, he said.

Then, apparently conceding that regional government was inevitable for some time in the future, Mr. Rollins said he did not expect this to come about "until after 1976."



The Problem Process

Bert Gerling (right) and Bill Hockley check pros and cons of a private citizen's problem to see how best it can be processed toward solution. Their citizens' help bureau is amalgamated under the United Community Services scheme funded by federal Local Initiatives Program grant.

City Citizens' Bureau Is Little Man's Guide

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

If you're looking, there's no problem finding problems.

But that doesn't total what Bert Gerling and Bill Hockley have in mind with their pilot Citizens Bureau.

If their bunch pans out, they may be able to prove to local service clubs and others in search of a good idea to cover American books in drab covers before putting them in our libraries.

"I'm a great admirer of George Washington. I'm beginning to think he's being crammed down my throat," went on Mr. Granville.

Rev. Louis Casacciotti of Maynooth made a point that "a little more direction be given our principals in their choice of books if there is so much Americanization in our libraries."

Mr. Paquet had his own disaster story to tell on the pursuit of Canadian books.

One of the reasons why the separate school system had reserved title to buy Canadian books last year and ordered them from a Canadian wholesaler on Sept. 22, 1972. On Dec. 18 the company cancelled the entire order. Mr. Paquet and the teacher travelled to Toronto before Christmas to buy what they could. If the money were not spent before Jan. 1, 1973, it would be lost to the school forever.

"In the day we spent with the company, we were only able to find enough titles to spend $500 of the $1,000 allocated for books," said Mr. Paquet.

Paper's Proposal Accepted by Board

A proposal by The Intelligencer for promotion of "more intelligent reading of the daily newspaper" has been accepted by the separate school board.

The program is free to schools.

Trenton trustee Austin Rose was opposed to the program.

"This is just another method of advertising by the paper to promote sale of their paper," he said. "We are granting a captive audience for their product; we are leaving gimmicks open to a private enterprise to promote 32 product in our schools."

This boils down to the problem: is this going to help our pupils read the daily newspaper more intelligently?" said Paul Fischer, director of Belleville.

The proposal, supported in a memorandum by supervisor Lorne Brisbin, is a new Canadian version of a program marketed by Visual Education Consultants Inc. of Madison, Wisconsin. Brisbin says that the program requires no lesson preparation time by teachers.

For 20 weeks, 10 weeks in the spring and 10 weeks in the fall, Intelligencer editors provide study guides and a film strip each week. The guides and film strips are geared to several different academic levels. Each study has three lessons and four questions. The guides give daily assignments to the students and then "go directly to the newspaper for their answers."

Mr. Neville Ashton, the Intelligencer representative who is handling the program, said the newspaper goes into many homes in the city.

The superintendent said that each will be compiled and at the end of each 20-week period, determine the program's benefits in increasing critical thinking among students.

Previously, The Intelligencer has sponsored the Newspaper in the Classroom project of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers' Association.

Under this project, teachers, fortified by a seminar conducted yearly, prepared their own lessons based on information in the daily newspaper. Free copies of the newspaper were provided daily to each student in classes using the program. The time by teachers was encouraged to teach math, English, history and geography, and was being promoted in recent years as an aid to exceptional special education students.

American Books in Schools Receive Annual Criticism

What price nationalism?

It costs about 38 per cent more than Americanization separate school trustees learned Tuesday.

The subject was school library books and two trustees had a lot to say about American propaganda on the shelves of separate school libraries.

They were asked to approve a chartered flight by about 25 school principals and administrative staff members to Somerville, N.J. to buy library books from the Baker and Taylor firm there.

They gave their annual consent, but made their annual comments on Canadian nationalism during the debate.

The separate school board sends 18 school principals or their representatives to the Baker and Taylor warehouse every year to spend the $25,-000 allocated for library books.

Business administrator E. J. Paquet gave his annual explanation for the flight: by buying from the American company the board saves 38 per cent of the cost of books.

But, he added, the board doesn't thereby get an additional sum to spend somewhere else. By buying American, it gets about $7,-500 worth more books than it would if it spent the same amount of money in Canada.

Cost of the New Jersey junket, said Mr. Paquet is $2,000, since the principals and teachers pay part of the cost from their own pockets.

It would be impossible, he indicated, to buy that quantity of books from the two Canadian wholesalers still in business. Only 2.6 per cent of all books published annually in North America have Canadian content.

He warned that the book question would be raised at the next board meeting. trustee Zdenek Kvarda came forearmed. A consistant critic of American books in Belleville separate schools, he had another list for his broadside, provided by one of his children.

He flourished three books brought home by his child from school. One entitled The Human Body, he declared unbalanced. The others were "Washington's America and Our 50 States."

"Old Glory waves on the front in beautiful colors", he said of one book, "and the eagle is spread in full color on the back. Are they burying by colors?" he asked of the principal-delegates on the chartered flight.

Mr. Kvarda said he had examined the shelves of the school his child attends and found "American books are numerous".

"Our libraries should be weighed more in favor of Canada", he claimed.

John Granville jumped into the debate. A history teacher at Picton Collegiate and a self-styled weekly examiner of book stores, he said there are "4 here often asked my children" why did you pick that book? for none have replied , 'it looks good' ", he said.

"American books are bright and colorful," said Mr. Granville. "Canadian books are drab and printed on cheap paper. It might be a good idea to cover American books in drab covers before putting them in our libraries."

"I'm a great admirer of George Washington. I'm beginning to think he's being crammed down my throat," went on Mr. Granville.

Rev. Louis Casacciotti of Maynooth made a point that "a little more direction be given our principals in their choice of books if there is so much Americanization in our libraries."

Mailmen Back

So the post office is back to normal. The mailmen have returned to work — for the time being at least — but was their walkout really necessary?

If this had been the first work stoppage involving the post office we might have felt better disposed toward it, but it is not and once again it was the public and the business life of the city that were inconvenienced.

On previous occasion moreover companies were able to collect their own mail from the post office — but not this time when trucks were prevented from doing so by picket lines.

In our view there was little justification for the stoppage. The strikers had indicated their displeasure over a new work schedule involving additional time outdoors. How much was not stated, but we question if it would amount to much. If indeed substantial overtime duties were the case however, then the men should be compensated accordingly, either by time off or by extra pay. But a strike . . . well that is something else. We have had enough experience of postal stoppages in recent years not to have regarded this latest one with anything else but disapproval.

We urge the negotiators to settle this dispute as swiftly as possible, lest we face the threat of another walkout. Goodwill, common sense — and the public interest — must prevail.

Resources Picture

Power . . . energy . . . fuel . . . its availability or, as we are today in the United States, its lack . . . and again, the pollution factor and efforts to control auto exhaust fumes only to find if the cure is worse than consumption of gas is higher and therefore more costly.

How important are all these aspects of the resources picture, as well as the constant search for more areas of supply can be appreciated from a reading of a recent issue of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) publication Span. Echoing a view prevalent in discussion of the U.S. energy crisis, board chairman John Swearingen points out in a foreword that not only will cars meeting federal requirements be more expensive to make, the increased consumption of fuel will necessitate an increase in th country's oil imports of an estimated 200 million barrels a year by 1976.

He claims that a "realistic relaxation in the standards will enable the elimination of all but a minor percentage of automotive emissions, at a tolerable cost . . ."

Meanwhile oil exploration goes on and there is an interesting article on an operation described as the company's first major gas development in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon.

According to the Span article, a 25-year contract covers 2.4 trillion cubic feet of gas reserves in two fields. Significant too, aside from the technical development involved — and it is extensive — is the concern for protection of the environment and preservation of native skills. The company has helped archaeologists studying ancient camp sites on the shore of Fisherman Lake near Dodo Mountain. Here, in a remote area of the Territories, where one of the company's gas processing plants is located, there is evidence also of the fascinating background of the Indian people far back in the mists of time. The evidence is that people emigrating from Asia as long ago as 15,000 years ago often stopped there. The route they took has flown in the archaeologists and their supplies for the past five years. And a nimble looking Indian by the name of Johnny Klondike, who belies his 75 years, is pictured working on a spruce-bark canoe, part of a project by Dr. James Millar, of the University of Saskatchewan, to preserve handicrafts.

Thus the pursuit of modern and necessary material goals goes hand in hand with interest and concern for a great heritage.

We are reminded that in Isle Royale International Park on Lake Superior on the U.S. side of Lake Superior (although, paradoxically, it is closer to and visible from the Ontario shore at Thunder Bay) there are the remains of copper mines worked by the Indians a mere 5,000 years ago. Such knowledge not only expands our horizons, it invites awe of the incredible scene of man's history and his role here on earth.

Faulkner Accentuates The Positive

State Secretary Will Boost Controversial Programs

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Those millions of Canadians who voted against the Trudeau government and perhaps were gratified when the election - rebuked administration removed Gerard Pelletier as State Secretary might do well to wait and watch before throwing their hats in the air.

Mr. Pelletier ran the controversial department responsible for the government's bilingual programs, the Opportunities for Youth scheme, the Company of Young Canadians, that strange special division which used what it called "social activators" to stir up public and active pressure - group protests, and a score of other equally contentious projects, all of them costing hundreds of millions of dollars.

To be precise the exact price tag on the State Secretary's lingual, cultural and social programs this year is a hefty $977,950,000.

Mr. Pelletier is highly educated and intensely cultured French Canadian, while all after five years . in the Trudeau Cabinet, are on the small "c" conservative side of the liberal party if anywhere.

Mr. Faulkner was the appointment for Youth, the Company of Young Canadians, the "social activation programs and the Information functions of the CBC and the National Film Board frequently stirred to trouble him.

While he seldom visibly did anything to defuse the often explosively contentious content of some of his department's projects, he at least did not appear eternally happy about them.

His replacement as State Secretary, Hugh Faulkner, 31, a bilingual French Canadian educated and reared in Peterborough, Ontario, is his Liberal colleagues tell you, going to be the life of centre of his party.

He is an activist.

He is an enthusiast for those of his colleagues who, in part as a consumer "make-work" program to fill students who can't be trusted at voters' expense and carry on those intensive studies in the "humanities" and "social sciences" but, as Mr. Faulkner has explained it, as a "social development instrument".

He is unmarried, likes jazz and and, in the bilingual program, regarding it as the "great social fact" of the nation despite the clear "lesson" of the election that millions of voters rejected it as a divider.

He is a nationalist, a member of the Committee for an Independent Canada, committed to the proposition that despite all the economic benefits to Canadians, the United States, with its industrial and commercial might, its power and control, is excessive pervasive and overwhelming.

He is a centralist, disturbed by the decentralization of the provinces for more autonomy meaning to run their own regional show.

He believes that many of the country's most pressing social problems arise from what he has described as "a lack of a strong sense of national identity."

And it is here that he is bothered by the mounting insistence of Premier William Davis of Ontario, Robert Bourassa of Quebec, and Peter Lougheed of Alberta, for a more decentralized federal system to increase provincial powers.

Hugh Faulkner, committed to the continuation of a strong central government, fears that provincial ambitions would "make the concept of Canada as a country less viable," as he has put it.

What is the time when there is going to have to be firm central authority exercised by the laws, he has said, and he's warned that letting matters go to the provinces, the federal government simply regionalize it.

His idea is to have the federal government disappear in vast - apparatus around the country, with still firmer grasping its levers of power.

It is not clear whether he would wind down the big central headquarters operation in the National Capital or simply proliferate the public service and all its concomitant costly administration all across the land.

He has not been around Ottawa long enough — a mere seven years — to know that under the Trudeau regime in Ottawa where public service employment is to establish a way of life which means big government of the day may be counted to disturb.

Hugh Faulkner seems to believe the thumping the government took in the election was partially due to its failure to properly acquaint the voting public with all these wonderful — if controversial — programs.

So as State Secretary he will be busy trying to teach us all about the virtues of these government policies on which so many millions of voters turned their backs.

Mrs. Meir's Paris Visit Seen As Snub To Pompidou

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomsen News Service

Israel's Premier Golda Meir's visits to France for a meeting of the Socialist International and to the Vatican for an unprecedented meeting with the Pope, mark spectacular beginnings for Israel's 25th anniversary year as a nation.

Both in their own way, indicate both the prestige of tiny Israel among the nations, as well as the continued centre-of-interest which surrounds almost every public activity of the Israeli State.

Mrs. Meir's acceptance of an invitation to attend the world meeting of the Socialist International in France, was clearly a snub on his own soil to France's President Pompidou.

He is facing a crucial election in March in which Francois Mitterand the French socialist has organized a new socialist coalition to try and unseat nearly 15 years of Gaullism.

Canadians will understand the implications of Mrs. Meir's visit when they remember General Charles de Gaulle's personal intrusion into Canadian federal politics in 1967 and his support for a separatist Quebec.

Mrs. Meir obviously had her reasons for accepting, even against the best judgement of Abba Eban, her Foreign Minister. The Vatican visit to discuss the future of Jerusalem was a result of an invitation from Pope Paul VI since the Holy See would like to have an international city arrangement for Jerusalem.

Almost all Israeli leaders, including Premier Meir, have said Jerusalem is not negotiable and in any case all the holy places of Islam and Christianity, as well as Judaism are open and accessible to all.

This clearly wouldn't be good enough for divert citizens of Arab nations barred from Israel, but who would like to see the sacred site from which Mohammed the Prophet is believed to have risen into Paradise.

Jerusalem, "re-unified" if that's the word, under a negotiation rule after Israel' control to try and unseat nearly 15 years of Gaullism.

Canadians will understand the implications of Mrs. Meir's visit when they remember General Charles de Gaulle's personal intrusion into Canadian federal politics in 1967 and his support for a separatist Quebec.

Mrs. Meir obviously had her reasons for accepting, even against the best judgement of Abba Eban, her Foreign Minister. The Vatican visit to discuss the future of Jerusalem was a result of an invitation from Pope Paul VI since the Holy See would like to have an international city arrangement for Jerusalem.

Almost all Israeli leaders, including Premier Meir, have said Jerusalem is not negotiable and in any case all the holy places of Islam and Christianity, as well as Judaism are open and accessible to all.

This clearly wouldn't be good enough for divert citizens of Arab nations barred from Israel, but who would like to see the sacred site from which Mohammed the Prophet is believed to have risen into Paradise.

Jerusalem, "re-unified" if that's the word, under a negotiation rule after Israel' enmity which has seen three wars between the two since 1949.

The unbroken—and it would appear at times unbreakable—hostility between the two Middle Eastern groups, goes back to the events of 25 years ago when both sides called the struggle at Israel's birth their "War of Liberation."

For the Arabs, it would be to liberate Palestine from the religious determinism of Zionism, that a Jewish Homeland was destined to be formed in the Holy Land.

For the Israelis, it would liberate world Jewry from centuries of hate and bitter discrimination; giving any Jew who wished a new home.

These concepts of each side's "War of Liberation" still permeate events in the Middle East of the early 1970s.

LIP Program Query Sparks Sharp Answers

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

As a self-described "avid reader" of The Intelligencer, "Area Citizen" appears to assimilate little of what he reads in its columns.

Flirting dangerously with the laws of libel the writer, with his despicable allegations by way of sly innuendo imputes improprieties in the matter of the current LIP grant of $24,000 to the United Community Services.

Your cowardly chronicler, like so many of his kind, from behind a pseudonym, has the temerity to ask for a clarification from "some responsible source".

I suggest if the person who penned the offensive letter wants an explanation, he attends the office of the UCS in person, or acts in a responsible manner by writing a letter he has the courage to sign. He could, equally as well, protect his desired anonymity by reading The Intelligencer intelligently and find the answers to most of the questions he asks.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Reference the letter by "Area Citizen" in which your correspondent subtly made allegations of impropriety in the matter of an agency headed by Mr. Bill Sterling.

I feel that this person is not only attacking my husband's honesty, and through him, my own good name, but also casting grave aspersions on this Federal Government-sponsored Local Initiative Program. In view of previous publicity given to this program, I am most surprised that there was no editorial comment at the end of the letter written by "Area Citizen."

Furthermore, I suggest your correspondent makes use of the sources of information outlined in his or her own letter to again answer his—her own questions.

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The coward who penned the letter 'Purpose of Grant Questioned' will have to prove his allegations of corruption re: Mr. Hockley, myself and others. 'Libel can be perpetrated' by the publication of a clearcut, injurious falsehood as well as by innuendo.

Editor's Note: The letter sought infomation on the Local Initiatives Program, its workings, and its principals, and on the background to award of the grant. No mention was made of "corruption" nor do we believe it was implied. A report on the program appears on page 3 of today's issue.

Pablo Picasso's Confession

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Paul Palmer says in the January issue of Reader's Digest, "People sometimes forget that a rat race can be won only by a rat." Pablo Picasso, as quoted by The War Cry confesses "I am only a public clown . . . mountebank, I have understood my time and have exploited the imbecility, the vanity, the greed of my contemporaries; it is a bitter confession, but at least and at last it does have the merit of being honest."

By his own voluntary admission, Picasso has fed the critics and others what they wanted, since the advent of cubism in order to make money or to "succeed in the art rat-race"! The only redeeming feature is that he decided "to confess" before passing on to the great beyond. . . unfortunately a false influence remains, paralleled also in other arts, namely literature and poetry. As far as our own country is concerned, going as it does European and American art and literature, the harm has long since been done and is "begging" down our National Art Gallery with derivative Picasso works and likewise the poetry.

Congratulations! Pablo Picasso (and all the other commending critics, teachers and writers on having won the rat-race!) A medal! Picasso, for having the guts and conscience to own up at long last to the deception!

At the first meeting of the Belleville Utilities Commission for 1953, P. C. McGuire was chosen chairman. In taking the chair, Mr. McGuire welcomed to the commission, Harry Rollins. He pointed out that many electrical users were enquiring about whether the electrical rates in Belleville were likely to increase as was happening in many other Hydro municipalities. Chairman McGuire said that while the 1952 financial statement was not completed, it would appear that an increase in electric rates would not be necessary.

Consumer Index Up

Higher food prices led the way in December as the consumer price index rose to 143.3 from 142.3 in November, Statistics Canada reported today. The index is based on 1961 prices equalling 100. The index was 136.3 in December 1971. The increase in food prices followed an October-to-November slight drop in food prices. (CP Newsmap)

Davis Can't Get Cheap Gas

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier William Davis of Ontario, Wednesday learned his province will have to grin and bear Alberta's demands for increased natural gas prices.

Premier Davis and Premier Peter Lougheed met for more than two hours behind closed doors with top aides and it was believed the Ontario premier reiterated "concern" over the Alberta government's demand for a major gas price increase this year.

The two premiers told a news conference they held a "useful meeting" discussing all energy matters, gas, oil and projected nuclear energy.

They agreed to keep in contact and hold cabinet level meetings from time to time.

Mr. Davis said he did not travel to Alberta to settle specifics but to get first-hand background on how Alberta's energy policy was being developed.

Asked whether he feels Ontario is paying too much for natural gas, he said it is natural for consumers to believe they are paying top dollar for any energy but suggested that any increase would have to be accepted.

Premier Lougheed said the demand for no less than a 16-cent-a-thousand cubic feet increase over the current 16 cents—the government would prefer 30 cents—will go ahead.

"There will be no changes," he said.

Mr. Davis said he hoped the forthcoming federal energy policy will recognize national need and recognize provincial responsibilities at the same time.

Mr. Davis, accompanied by his special aide on energy, former Ontario treasurer Darcy McKeough, arrived by private jet late Tuesday night and was to return to Toronto immediately after the meeting.

Premier Lougheed said he and Mr. Davis had discussed the potential of the Athabasca oil sands and the Alberta position that development there will assure Canadian supply and export needs in conjunction with conventional oil.

Doctor Loses Licence Over False Accounts

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto doctor has lost his licence to practise medicine for six months for billing the Ontario Health Insurance Plan for treatment he did not perform, the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons announced Wednesday.

The college said Dr. Albert R. Deep, a specialist in internal medicine, submitted bills for payment of office visits in the cases of four patients, when in fact no such visits had been made on the date mentioned in the accounting.

In addition, the college said, Dr. Deep provided care that was not needed by a patient "in the doctor's financial advantage."

He billed the Ontario Health Insurance Plan for services to three patients he had not in fact performed."

Dr. Deep declined to say if he will appeal the ruling of the College, the self-disciplinary body of the medical profession.

He said the report was confidential and it gave only one aspect of the case.

The college also found Dr. Thomas Grimson of Gananoque guilty of professional misconduct after he was convicted of impaired driving and being drunk in a public place.

However the college said since he was obtaining medical treatment, the penalty would be limited to a reprimand and paying the costs of the hearing.

New London Flu Bug Not Yet Active Here

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Feeling rotten?

No wonder—the annual feud with the flu bug is on again. But this year the Hong Kong flu has a British ally. A bug called A-London-42-72 has brought coughs, high fever, aches and pains to a number of Canadians.

The new strain of flu, identified a year ago in London, is attacking 70,000 people a day in Moscow but cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows the British bug to be involved in only minor skirmishes in this country so far.

Thirty-one cases of the London flu have been identified in Ontario, the provincial ministry of health reports. Counterparts in Quebec and Nova Scotia fear they may have a guerilla war on their hands as the bug has not yet been identified but appears to be showing itself in isolated cases.

Hong Kong flu has not reached epidemic proportions across Canada but has driven up to 10 per cent of students and workers to their beds in some areas.

The west-central Manitoba town of Swan River received the hardest flu bite. Its junior high school closed Jan. 12 when half the 400 students caught the flu. The school reopened Monday but officials say 165 students are still battling the bug.

The situation across the country:

Ontario: Reports from 20 of 42 health units show school absenteeism across the province due to "influenza-like" circumstances to be eight per cent and industrial absenteeism to be three per cent. John Rammell of the communications branch of the ministry of health says the spread of flu "is fairly mild at the moment."

Throne Speech Debate Closes

OTTAWA (CP) — The minority Liberal government came through its third confidence test in less than a week Wednesday as the Commons approved a motion to accept the speech from the throne.

The motion, concluding an eight-day debate on the throne speech, read when Parliament opened Jan. 4, was opposed only by Conservatives.

Standings in the 264-seat House are Liberal 109, Conservative 107, NDP 31, Social Credit 15 and Independent two.

The vote was taken in a half-filled Commons with only one party leader present—Opposition Leader Stanfield. Prime Minister Trudeau was absent because of the death of his mother Tuesday in Montreal and both NDP Leader David Lewis and Social Credit Leader Real Caouette were occupied by outside meetings.

The House begins work today on supplementary spending estimates which the government must have passed to carry on federal business.

This shifts the government into another grey area where NDP support is not guaranteed except on straightforward confidence motions.

Mr. Lewis said when the House opened that the NDP would vote with the government "for the time being" on confidence motions but would decide everything else on the basis of merit.

Mr. Caouette has taken a similar stance.

Last Note on Michelin Despatched Last Summer

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Alastair Gillespie said Wednesday that the last note from the government to Washington on the Michelin tire duty case was sent last summer.

He told the Commons that representations have been made since then and another formal note will be sent shortly.

The minister was clarifying earlier government statements on the case in response to questions from Ed Broadbent (NDP—Oshawa-Whitby).

The U.S. has imposed special tariffs on products of the Nova Scotia-based company because it received federal and provincial incentive grants.

DES-fed Beef Imports From U.S. Are Feared

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan acknowledged Wednesday that Canadian cattle producers will be at a disadvantage later this year if cattle that have been treated with diethylstilbestrol (DES) are imported from the United States.

He was responding in the Commons to questions from Bert Hargrave (PC—Medicine Hat) about DES, used to help fatten cattle. It is banned in Canada and it's use is suspended in the U.S. pending study of suspected cancer-producing qualities.

He asked if Mr. Whelan was aware that after May 1 it will be possible for U.S.-fed cattle treated with DES to enter Canada for slaughter despite the Canadian ban. He added what the department is prepared to do about it.

U.S. producers would have an advantage because Canadians would suffer a 10 to 15-per-cent "feeding efficiency loss" as a result of the ban on DES.

Mr. Whelan said that until he has a report from officials studying deaths being conducted on DES in the U.S. he is not in a position to make any decision. He hoped the report would be ready early next month.

Police Said Avoiding Arrests Because of Speedy Releases

OTTAWA (CP) — A Progressive Conservative member of Parliament said Wednesday that police in some cities are so frustrated they are not doing their jobs.

Erik Nielsen of the Yukon said outside the Commons that some policemen are so upset about people they arrest rapidly getting back on the street they are not bothering to make arrests.

He said this applies to several major cities, particularly Toronto and Vancouver.

He was expanding on questions he asked in the Commons about the Bail Reform Act, which gives judges more discretion in allowing people to remain free pending a court appearance.

Mr. Nielsen, who is responsible for such matters in the Conservative caucus, asked Justice Minister Otto Lang if the government is contemplating any revision of the Bail Reform Act.

Mr. Lang replied that authorities are just beginning to get experience with the new law and how to make it effective. He reiterated past statements that there is a need for police and Crown prosecutors to present to the courts statements on the need to keep certain persons in jail pending trial.

He said the government does not contemplate a return to the days when the poor were incarcerated but the rich were freed pending trial.

Mr. Nielsen said he shares that sentiment. Outside the House he added that under legal-aid agreements signed by five provinces and the federal government, even poor people seeking bail can get legal assistance.

He said police are saying, "We get [unreadable]," and are examined in their patrol cars.

The Yukon member, who confacts a criminal law practice, said law enforcement agencies are also concerned about such things as the leaves granted penitentiary prisoners.

He mentioned a case in Wallaceburg, Ont., where the convicted slayer of a five-year-old girl was allowed to leave the Collins Bay institution at Kingston to participate in a play. The man escaped and now is charged with the murder of a farmer.

In other matters, Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) told Solicitor-General Warren Allmand that 18 persons convicted of killing police officers had their sentences changed to life imprisonment from hanging. He asked if the government will continue to commute all sentences.

Mr. Allmand replied that four sentences for the killing of police officers have been commuted since the partial ban on capital punishment came into effect in 1968.

When deciding whether to commute capital sentences each case was determined on its own merits.

Pressed by Mr. Woolliams, he said there have been no hangings since the partial ban started. The ban eliminated hanging except for the murder of police officers and prison guards.

The House shortly will start debate on a government proposal that the ban be extended another five years.

Stuart Leggatt (NDP—New Westminster) asked Mr. Lang whether, in view of the fact that rifles have been used more often in slayings, the government is considering a further restraint on the sale of firearms.

Mr. Lang said government will address itself to that subject.

PM Suggests Parley Dates

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau has proposed that the next federal-provincial conference of prime ministers be held May 23-25 in Ottawa, Jolting a crowded four months of federal-provincial ministerial conferences.

He has also suggested July 15 to 20 as the best period for the promised conference on western economic opportunities, described in the throne speech as unprecedented.

The proposals are contained in letters from Mr. Trudeau to provincial premiers dated Jan. 13 and presented to the Commons Wednesday.

During the campaign for the Oct. 30 election opposition parties criticized the federal government for allegedly failing to consult the provinces sufficiently.

Following this week's meeting of finance and health ministers, the tentative schedule for federal-provincial conferences is:

Jan. 22-23: Conference on housing to discuss federal plans for a new program of aiding home rehabilitation and development of satellite cities.

Feb. 26: A conference on education requested by provincial education ministers.

Late March or early April: Second meeting of health and finance ministers, who could also discuss fiscal transfers for post-secondary education and health services.

Late April: A conference of welfare ministers.

Mr. Trudeau noted that other federal-provincial discussions about a variety of matters will also take place.

He also said that the May premiers' conference will discuss "subjects such as foreign and provincial representatives abroad" as well as following up the ministerial conferences.

He-Men

LONDON (CP) — Life high in the mountains may be tough, but fathers who take their families on camping holidays sometimes have harder times than the toughest mountaineers. Speaking at a camping conference, veteran Everest climber Chris Bonington said he had just returned from a tenting vacation with his three children. "It was infinitely rougher and more nerve-racking than tackling Everest," he told delegates.

Make Sure Machinery In Your House Is Safe

TORONTO (CP) — In these days when everyone has a home full of machinery, it may be hard to keep track of all the things that should be done to ensure they are safe to operate.

The Industrial Accident Prevention Association has a suggested check list.

It begins by suggesting you date and file instruction, guarantees and any other useful paper that comes with an appliance.

Be sure you know the capacity of your home wiring circuits. You should not connect more than 1,800 watts on a general-purpose circuit unless you know its capacity is adequate to handle it.

If cord insulation is worn, cracked or crumbled, replace the entire cord. Do not run cords over hot pipes or radiators or other sources of heat.

Be sure each appliance has an electric cord of the proper size for safe operation. Don't switch cords among different appliances.

If a fuse blows after you have plugged an appliance in, unplug the appliance and replace the fuse. If it blows a second time, there is probably something wrong with the appliance or with the wiring. They should be inspected and repaired.

Always disconnect electrical appliances before you oil or clean them.

Examine appliances from time to time to be sure they are working properly. If you notice blinking lights or erratic on-off periods, the appliance should be checked and repaired or replaced.

There are signs showing if a circuit is overloaded. They include dimming of lights or slowing in the heating of an oven. Also, breakers start or when other appliances are turned on.

Be sure fuses are the correct size.

Proper placement is necessary for appliances. They should be on firm, level surfaces so they won't tip. Heating appliances should have plenty of surrounding room to prevent scorching or burning furniture or cupboards or walls.

Be sure laundry appliances are correctly grounded. Both clothes washer and dryer should have three-pronged plugs and be connected to a three-wire (grounded) system.

Find out whether your motor-driven appliances are labelled for life. Those that aren't need regular oiling and servicing, even though they are not in daily use. But remember that too much oil may be bad for motors. Your owner's manual should give you exact directions.

Thank you letters for Christmas baskets were received from a number of parishioners.

Message on Northwest Highlights Meeting

One of the highlights of the recent meeting of the River Valley Women's Institute was a message given by Mrs. Percy MacMullen, public relations officer.

Topic of her speech was "The work of the Federated Institutes of Canada in the North West territories and the Yukon."

The first institute in the North was organized by Mrs. William Hough, Stratford at Haines Junction in the Yukon in 1956. She saw a need for a recreational centre where the people could gather and enjoy common interests. It was a success and other institutes were founded.

Presently there are nine active branch institutes in the North West territories and four in the Yukon. Tourists visit the areas which offer golfing at midnight, bathing in the hot springs, dog team racing and many other interesting events.

Farewell Party

A farewell party was recently given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Watt, who sold their farm of sixty years and moved to Belleville.

Mrs. Harold Buscard on behalf of the Ladies Guild made a presentation of a gift to the pair, mentioning their leadership and loyalty.

Mrs. Dorothy MacLean presented a gift to Mrs. Grace Lyons and daughter Samantha, who also have moved from the area.

A luncheon was enjoyed.

'Comeback' For Dresses

ROME (AP) — Practical and sophisticated clothes are what Italian designers have in mind for the spring and summer of 1973.

This year is also witnessing a comeback of dresses, a little on the quiet side for morning wear, bouncy and airy for the afternoon and cocktails. Some succeed in both.

In many cases, designers presented a pleated skirt and belted overblouse to form a dress effect.

Concerned with being practical were the American designers of La Mendola, whose silk jersey and georgette dresses, sometimes with a pleated skirt and stiff Renaissance collar, are crease-resistant and need no ironing. Their long evening gowns with draped sarongs or mariboo boleros carry all the glamor one could want.

Italian couturier Capucci much an artist in handling colors as in cutting fabrics, showed fancy beehive dresses in a criss-cross of tiny or medium-sized pleats. He used the same technique for short jackets and open coats worn over a shirtwaist dress in different pink panels.

Morning dresses, simple with a turtle neck and no sleeves, contrasted with the vagueness line the designer gave his evening dresses.

Pino Lancetti also went in for the silk skirt and short or over blouse that look like dresses.

He often hip-pleated skirts except in suits, which were mostly w r a p-a round. Seven — eighth coats in sand yellow, lilac, pale blue and green, let the printed silk of his shirtwaist dresses appear.

To keep the sun out of your eyes, Lancetti designed b r o a d brimmed hats.

For afternoon wear, brims widened and dresses got sexier, with frills and ruffles along the shawl neckline and round the sleeves. Lancetti also offered tiered dresses and draw-string accented backs for pale blue Georgette or lilac evening dresses embroidered w i t h silk around the sleeves and bodice frost.

Successful Living

Woman Nearly Ninety—Zest for Life and People

By DORIS CLARK

She was 88. Full of pep, and not looking a day over 70 — unless you count a few laugh wrinkles here and there.

It was a few years ago when hats were still being worn. I will never forget her comment during one shopping spree: "That's an old lady's hat. It doesn't do anything for me!"

Her daughter tells me she and her exercises every morning of her life until the time they last illness. She was peppy, interested, never lost her own belief in this world. Her philosophy of life and importance of her own personality.

Somehow she managed to communicate this spirit with her everlasting good cheer, to the people around her. And it she was about the size of a minute.

Dear Doris: My six - year-old girl has trouble with coordination; her eyes turn out; and colors are hard for her. The teacher suggested I have her name colors in a magazine, and cut out pictures. Building blocks with her would also help co-ordination of hand and eye.

The doctors say that if they don't straighten soon, the cords of the eyes will have to be cut.

When her father speaks real gruff to her she goes and gets under her bed. The other boy is o.k. I asked the social worker if it would help if I took the children and left for a couple of months. She said she thought that was not the answer.

Most of the time my husband is a real gruff person. His talk is terrible. — Worried Friend.

Dear Friend: So you are writing to another social worker to find out what the answer is?

To me it sounds like a combination of things: More people understanding from her father; physical treatment for the eyes; and patient, considerable and cheerful work with your girl, to help her overcome her gap in learning.

When the atmosphere in a home is jarring, the nervous system of a sensitive child reacts beyond all reason, and she gets even more disorganized. Her father needs help in finding out what he does to his little one.

He is impatient with her; probably wants his own flesh and blood to be perfect and is going the wrong way about it. So you need a couple of miracles — and they can be accomplished through counselling and doctoring, believe it or not!

Dear Doris: My husband and I have been dreaming of a semi-retirement project of serving home-cooked meals to a select clientele — perhaps 25—by reservation on,y three evenings a week. We want to explore as many avenues as possible.

We would need information on built laying, food and health regulations, selection of equipment, commercial kitchen laws, — what else? We wondered about the possibility of "apprenticing" for a few days — working free in order to learn a few of the "do's and don'ts".

Part of the "dream" is to have a project which would give us something to do, bring in some income, and let us meet people. I might say we are in our mid-ties: and a move is not possible for three years until our son is finished high school. — Starting Point.

Dear Starting: Every good thing starts out as a dream. Yours will need serious application and possibly years of hard work. My first and strongest advice is to start small!

I like the "approaches" idea — but I'd say your labor, even learning, is worth being paid for. Summer resorts are forever on the lookout for cooks, kitchen help, waitresses.

Your library, your Chamber of Commerce, your nearest community college — all are top-notch sources of help. We could do with more homey food places where personality and a flair for cooking make taking the family out to dinner a party.

(Doris has studied human behavior and can a he lp you on your dilemma. Write to her, in care of this newspaper — enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CROWELL

Can a woman love a man she fears?

NOT if she is afraid the soul might actually harm her. Love could not exist under such a real physical threat. Usually, however, when a woman in love says she fears the man, she is really afraid that the man might reject her. She isn't ready to see if she can win admission of love from the man. Once she is sure of her love, though, the woman will realize it wasn't the man she was afraid of at all; she was afraid only of herself.

Are smart teeners usually confident?

YES, if they have always been confident; no, if the teenagers have been tortured with self-doubt as persons. An adolescent with a high IQ who has problems adjusting to his environment and to contemporaries may have designs of being a lost bright teener. The fearful "smarts" may believe it is his exceptional scholastic ability that is keeping him from being accepted by other teenagers.

Is money the root of all anxiety?

PERHAPS not all the time; it is nothing quite like money when it comes to producing anxiety. Indeed, money is also unique in that it seems to have a "multiple whammy" effect: A person who has too much money or spends it too fast can worry just as much as someone who doesn't have any at all or can't accumulate it fast enough. On top of all that, a given amount of money today will buy just as much or more anxiety as it did in the past.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: These days when you hear so much about cheating husbands, wives slipping around to motel rooms in the middle of the day, divorces among close friends, (people you have had a couple of wedding parties for), it might be a relief to get a letter from a woman who is happily married to a wonderful man—and it's been going on 30 years.

My guy has changed diapers, stayed up nights with sick kids, shopped and cooked, cleaned the house, done the marketing and the dishes. He took a part-time job when things were rough and never once have I had to worry about where he was or what he was doing.

We've had our disagreements, of course, but we've never gone to bed mad. I can't imagine life with anyone but this man. I feel like the luckiest woman in the world.—Big G—Little O

Dear Big G.: Beautiful. Just beautiful. How sweet that you found yourself a lucky girl. I assure you, though, that more than luck is involved. The marriage is as good as yours. It takes patience, maturity, self-discipline, love and caring. Give my love to that lucky man.

Dear Ann Landers: I am just a mess woman. I believe in stating the facts and sticking to reality. I was appalled by your reckless exaggeration in a recent column. You said you had travelled at least 2 million passenger miles and that on occasion you sat on a plane with 2,000 letters in your lap.

Two million of anything is a lot—either dollars or miles. It is highly unlikely that you have travelled one million miles. I made two, and they were holding 2,000 letters in your lap, your lap would not stand up. Also, I doubt that you were a very large woman, which you are not.

It's been a little more re spect for the facts, ma'am. Keep it realistic. Just sign me — Thanks A Million

Dear Thanks: After sitting down with my date book and totalling the number of miles I travelled in 1972 I multiplied it by 18, and came to the conclusion that I have travelled more than 2 million miles in my lifetime. As for 2,000 letters in my lap, I should have been more explicit. Frequently when I travel I carry 2,500 letters with me. When I read, most of the letters are in my lap, and the balance is often in my briefcase or on the seat next to me.

Thanks—a hundred.

Dear Ann Landers: That airline stewardess who is having a rough go of it at 35,000 ft. should try her hand at being a telephone directory assistance operator if she wants a lesson in patience.

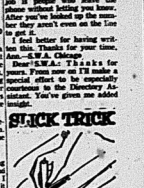
To begin with we are not supposed to hang up on people no matter what they say. We must be courteous even if they shout obscenities, call us stupid and incompetent.

We are supposed to handle 100 calls an hour and are timed by computers. True, some people are nice, but a great many are rude. When we ask them how to spell a name, or for an address, they get mad.

The most irritating part of the job is people who leave the phone without letting you know. After you've hooked up the number they aren't even on the line to get it.

I feel better for having written this. Thanks for your time. — Ann—of St. Charles

Dear Ann: Thanks for yours. From now on I'll remember special effort to be especially courteous to the Directory Assistant. You've given me added insight.



Wax a leaky zipper with it to restore smooth operation. Close the zipper and rub the candle over it lightly on both sides.

Airport Expansion

VANCOUVER (CP) — A new 11,000-foot-long runway to be completed by 1977 is just part of the expansion plans for Vancouver International Airport. Pub May Help Cure Psychiatric Patients

TORONTO (CP) — Squeezed into a corner of the Lakeshore Psychiatric Hospital in Toronto is a pub complete with bar-maids and piano.

Here patients can drink and mix with friends, relatives and other patients.

It's called pub sociotherapy and it is being watched with scientific interest by administrators in other psychiatric hospitals.

The pub was started last September after nurses there read about a pub in the Nova Scotia Hospital's geriatric unit at Dartmouth.

It is usually for older people who have often lost the art of mixing sociably, who sit unwillingly and silent.

One nurse doubles as a barmaid, another plays piano, a third lights cigarettes.

Another nurse encourages patients to sing. She told a visitor: "That man sang today and for months he has never opened his mouth, never spoken to anyone."

Rye and rum cost 25 cents, Canadian sherry is 15 cents and scotch and beer are 30 cents. Patients are allowed two drinks at each of the twice weekly sessions.

Most patients chose soft drinks. They cost 15 cents and give a three-cent profit which goes into a fund to take patients on outings.

Patients who have money and can handle change pay for their drinks. Nurse Ellen Lee said some patients cannot be given money because they would swallow it. She deducts the cost of their drinks from an account.

The patient or a relative has to sign a release appointing nurses as agents to buy the beverages and acknowledging the rules and purpose of the pub.

Some relatives refuse to sign, Sylvia Cummings, nursing clinical co-ordinator, said she assumes they misunderstand the purpose of the pub.

Lakeshore is the only psychiatric hospital in Toronto to have a pub.

But the Queen Street Mental Health Centre expects to have one soon.

Administrator Dr. Arnold Swanson said the hospital hopes to do a comparative study of three groups. One will be served alcoholic beverages, another non-alcoholic punch and the third will be those who stay on the wards.

Everybody connected with the Lakeshore pub sociotherapy said the stress is not on the actual drinking of liquor, but on the atmosphere of casualness, friendliness, singing and non-institutionalization.

CP News Roundup

Kidnappers Kill Three

GRANTEN, Mo. (AP) — The president of the Bank of Granden, his wife and their 16-year-old daughter were found shot to death Wednesday, an hour after a kidnap and extortion plot was revealed, authorities said.

Missouri highway patrol spokesmen said the bodies of Robert R. Kitterman, 43; his wife, Bernice, and daughter, Roberta, were found tied to trees at a remote area about five miles from this small southeastern Missouri community.

Each had been shot several times. Charges of dynamite attached to the bodies had not exploded.

Dogs Vicious

MOOSONEE, Ont. (CP) — More and more people in this James Bay community are carrying sticks when they walk the streets.

Fresh in their minds is the case of Jane Marks who was attacked by a pack of dogs Dec. 29 and still is in hospital recovering from more than 200 stitches needed to close wounds in her arms, legs and face.

Indoctrinated

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians "are in peril of being indoctrinated" by United States and other foreign-based news reports because domestic media, including the CBC and The Canadian Press, do not send enough reporters abroad, MP Peter Reilly said Wednesday.

Mr. Reilly, a former broadcaster and the newly-elected Conservative MP for Ottawa West, said Canadian newspapers and broadcasting stations must set up more bureaus in other countries "to build up our own independent sources of information."

Concerned

TORONTO (CP) — Environment Minister James Auld said Wednesday that Canada will express its concern to the United States that a 1975 deadline for cleaning up the Great Lakes will not be met.

Mr. Auld said in an interview: "I have expressed our concern to Jack Davis (federal environment minister) who in turn is passing it along to the U.S. government."

Drought Hits

NEW DELHI (AP) — India has been hit by its worst drought in a decade and has contracted to import about two million tons of food grains from Canada, the United States and Argentina.

Wine Poisonous

ROME (AP) — Police launched a mammoth search of Rome's stores Wednesday to find thousands of bottles of wine which may be harmful to health.

Police acted after special brigades discovered that hundreds of thousands of litres of wine produced for domestic consumption had been treated with sodium nitrate by ill wine-growers of the renowned Roman Castles on the Albian Hills to prevent quick fermentation.

Authorities said the substance might cause cancers, high blood pressure, anemia and other serious diseases.

Healthy Sales

COLCHESTER, England (CP) — Water sounds like the last drink most pub-goers would order but publican Syd Farr regards it as a best seller. He bottles the cool, clear water from a nearby spring in Essex and sells it at 10 new pence a pint. Farr also exports the water, which he claims has healing powers, to North America. However, he usually takes his with a drop of whisky.

Vietnamese Families Split in Allegiance

MONTREAL (CP) — The young Vietnamese self-exile says with emotion his mission now is to tell Canadians how urgent is the need for reconciliation in his war-ravaged country.

"In my family—and I'm sure in every family—there are three components," he told a reporter Wednesday.

In a typical case, the mother was neutral, the father fighting on the Viet Cong side and a son fighting on the side of the Saigon government.

"The fighting has been going on so long that the father joined the resistance when the son was a child. Lately the son was forced to join the Saigon army.

"Countless instances of this kind show how urgent it is to end the war if we are ever going to bring about a reconciliation in my country. This is the reality of the situation."

The 26-year-old Saigon native—estimated there are some 1,500 like-minded Vietnamese, mostly students, in Canada. The number was growing as an indirect result of President Nixon's "Vietnamization" program. He declined use of his name to protect his family.

Some South Vietnam soldiers sent to the U.S. for training were bolting their military camps and slipping across the Canadian border. The Vietnamese were concentrated mostly in Montreal, Quebec City, Toronto, Ottawa and Vancouver.

Other sources say the Asian deserters, if caught and deported to South Vietnam, could be shot or at best sentenced to 18 years in prison.

The trilingual informant said he came to Canada in 1964, studied chemical engineering at Queen's University in Kingston, Ont., won his degree and now helps put out a fortnightly paper, Vietnam News and Reports. He is appealing a deportation order.

"I have written to my family in Saigon but there is no reply," he said, adding that he comes from a middle-class background.

It was important that Vietnamese feelings be understood in Canada because of this country's role in the International Control Commission and also because the Vietnamese are grateful for Canadian sympathy for their plight. He hopes Canada would take a "very active position" in any peace arrangements.

Abductors 'Very Hospitable' But Mrs. Lastman Fearful

TORONTO (CP) — Marilyn Lastman, in her first interview since being kidnapped Monday, said "I felt my life was in danger every minute" of the 10-hr ordeal.

The blonde wife of multi-millionaire North York mayor Mel Lastman, said "I didn't want to antagonize them in the least."

"Every single second I kept my head."

Mrs. Lastman said "At no time did they show me or mishandled her abductors as "very hospitable."

She said they gave her a cup of coffee and half a cheese sandwich when she said she was hungry.

"I feared for my life all the time I was with them," she said. "The waiting wasn't pleasant, I wasn't thinking they were going to do anything nice."

Mrs. Lastman said she knew she was safe when she stepped onto a street four miles from her home, 25 minutes after the kidnappers had driven her there and told her to wait 25 minutes before moving.

Earlier Wednesday, Mrs. Lastman gave police a description of the two men who kidnapped her and a partial description of a third man the two met in a house "somewhere in the country."

She described the driver of the car who drove her around for hours as an "outdoor type" with a European accent. She said he was five feet, five inches tall, weighed 170 pounds and was 40 to 45 years of age. He had medium brown hair and a stocky build.

A second man, who got into the car later, acrried a rusty automatic pistol with a silencer and smelled of gasoline. He was 30 to 35 years of age, six feet tall, 175 pounds with a medium build.

Mrs. Lastman said she was driven blindfolded over country roads and finally walked across a field to a house where the third man was waiting.

She said he talked with the driver in a foreign language.

Still blindfolded and chained by one wrist to a bed post, she bargained for her freedom.

Police said Mrs. Lastman gave the men four rings—one valued at $80,000 and promised a large sum of money later.

The kidnappers said they would call Thursday, but did not.

One ring was 14-carat gold with a 12-carat diamond, about the size of a 10-cent coin. Her wedding and engagement rings were valued at $12,500. They were platinum with diamonds. The fourth ring was yellow gold with a portrait and was valued at a "few hundred dollars."

Mrs. Lastman was carrying the rings in her purse because her house was ransacked in December and property and cash worth $6,000 was taken.

Electric Razors Hard on Pacemaker

CHICAGO (CP) — Everyone who has used an electric shaver knows it affects reception from a nearby radio. Now it seems authority has come up with a warning that for persons wearing external pacemakers to regulate heart beat, the shaver might be d a n g e r o u s, even deadly.

The implanted pacemaker, placed by surgery under the skin of the chest and powered by built-in long-acting batteries, offers little if any danger. But the danger from the external pacemaker, powered by batteries carried outside the body with tiny wires leading to the heart, may be substantially greater, says Dr. Seymour Furman of Montefiore Hospital Medical Center. The Bronx, N.Y., writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The problem comes in the electrical activity of the shaver which may interfere with the operation of the pacemaker. This is especially true if the shaver is not properly m a i n t a i n e d and does not run smoothly.

An even greater danger is that the insulation on the wires leading from the battery should wear thin. Leakage from a defective shaver possibly could introduce a 120-volt current directly into the heart.

"Such an event is likely to be lethal," said Dr. Furman.

Dr. Robert L. Elder of the bureau of radiological health of the food and drug administration, Rockville, Md., noted that both types of pacemakers have filters that decrease exposure to outside electrical interference.

"If the shaver is in good electrical condition, the signal it emits will be fairly uniform, then the filters most probably will be adequate," says Dr. Elder.

"If the razor is electrically 'noisy,' the transmitted signal is stronger and no longer uniform, and may pass through the filters, causing pacemaker dysfunction."

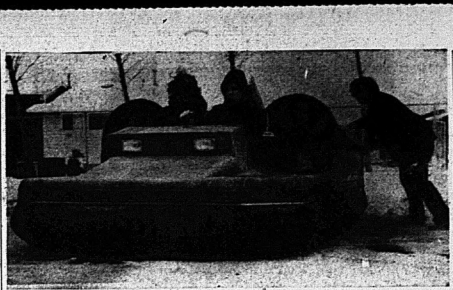
Dr. Elder said that electrical interferences are rare, and serious consequences are even more rare. He suggested that the patient seek a new pacemaker try out his electric shaver before leaving the hospital.

Large Trees Transplanted

GALT, Ont. (CP) — The Grand River Conservation Authority here has been making 20-year-old trees appear in a single day. Its new 130 000 tree specimen was planted 500 trees since it went into operation last fall.

The machine is a huge spade, capable of lifting a 36-foot-tall tree and a ton of dirt in one scoop. A flat-bed truck is used to transport the tree to its new location.

The tree-planter, one of 10 of its kind in Canada, allows the authority to transplant both evergreens and hardwoods up to four inches in diameter, thereby saving many trees from flood ing or construction areas.



Hovercraft Trials

Hovercraft Constructed By Students at Sudbury

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Students at a high school in this Northern Ontario city have built themselves an ungainly but efficient alternative to the ubiquitous snowmobile—a hovercraft.

The glass fibre, two-seater craft, built at a cost of about $1,200, is capable of skimming over snow at up to 35 miles an hour.

More than 80 students at Nickel district collegiate and vocational school, aided by the technical staff, were involved in the project.

Work began in September, 1971, under the direction of George Oldenburg, a teacher. He and the students drew their own plans for the 12-by seven-foot craft and had them approved by a hovercraft firm in Toronto.

It is powered by two engines, one of 23 horsepower, the other a small two-cylinder motor to create the necessary liftoff air cushion.

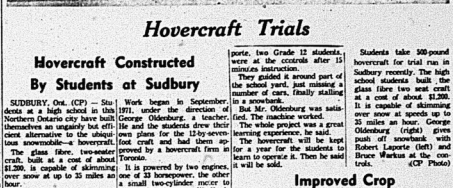
The 500-pound craft made its trial run in early December. Bruce Warkus and Robert La-porte, two Grade 12 students, were at the controls after 15 minutes instruction.

They guided it around part of the school yard, just missing a number of cars, finally stalling in a snowbank.

But Mr. Oldenburg was satisfied. The machine worked.

The whole project was a great learning experience, he said.

The hovercraft will be kept for a year for the students to learn to operate it. Then he said it will be sold.



Students take 500-pound hovercraft for trial run in Sudbury recently. The high school students built the glass fibre two seat craft as a cost of about $1,200. It is capable of skimming over snow at speeds up to 35 miles an hour. George Oldenburg (right) gives push off snowbank with Robert Laporte (left) and Bruce Warkus at the controls. (CP Photo)

Taking the Safe Road

Coach Roy Goostrey discusses questions with his Prince Edward Collegiate safety team following victory over Trenton High School. PECI won quiz 230-110 to capture Belleville-Trenton section of the Ontario Secondary School Safety Association's province-wide competition for secondary schools. Water Problem May Jeopardize Big New Industry for Trenton

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Further negotiations between the town and developers of a new $1.5 million industry in the southwest end will be necessary before the plant can be established here. Public Utilities Commission acting chairman Charles Hilton revealed today.

The snag that must be straightened out rests with daily water requirements of Fisher Brothers Inc. of Montreal.

Original demands as stated in a letter to the PUC, totalled for 1.1 million gallons of water on a peak demand day, and necessary by 1975 when the plant would reach an $8-million annual production level, according to PUC general manager, Douglas Manlow, provision of this amount of water would cost the town in the neighborhood of $600,000.

"The capital cost to supply the original demands includes improving the capacity of the filter plant, delivering this additional water to the system in the Victoria Street water gallery ($65,000 alone for installation of a pipeline from the filter plant across the Trent River to the water galleries), and delivery of water from the corner of Dundas and Glover Road to the plant through a 24-inch pipe 2,100 feet long," Mr. Manlow said this morning.

The utilities commission held a meeting last week, but adjourned it to a closed session with town council. Public release of information was protested against until final arrangements were made with Fisher officials. It was felt that public discussion "... at an infancy stage of the private business of the new company," Mr. Hilton said.

At Tuesday's council meeting, part of which is now public knowledge, several alternatives to the problem were presented. They ranged from the $1.1 million gallon requirement to two recycling and reprocessing systems calling for half that amount of a quarter of a million gallons peak demand, at varying unreleased costs to the town.

Town officials are concerned with the cost of supplying water to the new plant and the issuing of necessary debentures.

"The PUC will have no problem supplying all the water that is required, providing someone other than the ratepayers come up with the money to lay the pipe system that is going to be required," Mr. Hilton said.

"Rates will not be raised to subsidize industry or commercial enterprises."

Another area of concern is the source of water. The acting PUC chairman said even the third alternative, calling for $24,000 gallons peak water supply, will require hooking the east side into the Trent River for water, while ground waters are diverted to the new filter plant on Quaker Oats.

"This the commission will not agree to," said Mr. Hilton.

At the special council meeting this week, several council members agreed in a new delegation to pipe water into this area from Dundas Street. Mr. Manlow today said such an alternative would cause the water supply problem for Fisher.

Rates would have been tripled and delivery of water by the pipeline would have only been to the boundaries of the town," he said.

"The problem we are endeavoring to solve is an internal distribution problem . . . not a supply problem."

At this time the PUC manager said, the town is not sure of which water source it will look to for the new plant. A meeting between the PUC, representatives of council and Fisher Brothers is to be called within the next two weeks.

Original announcement of Fisher's planned location here, that will generate at least 75 jobs and provide a market for local apple growers, was made Dec. 4, 1973, by then industrial commissioner and councillor Paul Tripp. Water supply problems at that time were not resolved.

The new 700,000-acre plant, to be located on former CN Rail property on Dufferin Street near the Quaker Oats plant, had been scheduled for completion this July. The date may change as a result of present negotiations.

Mr. Manlow and Mr. Tripp announced the Ontario Municipal Board had approved annexation of 28 acres of land in Murray Township for the plant.

Mr. Manlow says it is unfortunate Fisher Brothers required so much land, thereby making it difficult to select a site in the town's small industrial park. He says the PUC could have provided all necessary water service there for approximately $50,000.

A bright side to the $600,000 expenditure called for in the preliminary, would be provision of adequate water services, eventually, needed for industrial and residential expansion in the region of the Fisher Brothers plant.

PECI on Championship Trail

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Prince Edward County has its own secret weapon.

But few persons besides the students know about its heroics.

The exceptional institution is Prince Edward Collegiate of Picton.

During the past three years, PECI has twice won the Ontario - wide safety awareness competition sponsored by the Industrial Accident Prevention Association. The year it didn't win, 1971, the school finished as runner-up.

Now the defending champs are charting their course to the top once more — but with a new helmsman.

Roy Goostrey, a mechanical drafting teacher, has the unenviable task of keeping up PECI's first place reputation. He replaces three-year coach Herb Piwinskies.

"We all realize the pressure is on," said the unmistakable Englishman. "Like anything we take on here, we're attempting to immerse ourselves wholly in it."

PECI developed its top reputation by instilling safety consciousness in a large portion of the student body and maintaining the knowledge through plain hard work. All 650 students in technical courses wrote a preliminary IAPA test when the school year began and the five who remain on the team devote five hours a week at school to studying, not to mention hours spent drilling at home.

The results paid off Wednesday. PECI crushed Trenton High School 230-110 to win the IAPA Belleville - Trenton section and qualify to meet the Kingston - Gananoque winner in a televised contest Jan. 22.

As usual, the four - member team — it has one alternate— by knowing most of the answers, and by hitting the response buttons first, in the rapid - quiz section.

"How do we get so fast? Practice and regurgitation," said coach Goostrey. "Since we're given most of the material in October, it's mostly a course of memorization."

PECI competed against six other schools in its home section, first stage on the road to the March championship showdown in Toronto. This year 2,700 students were eligible, indicating the Picton school had one-quarter of the population available in this area.

Mr. Goostrey credits PECI's technical director, Doug Baker, with much of the school's success. An associate committee of the IAPA for 10 years, Mr. Baker has infected his technical staff with safety awareness, an attitude that can't help but filter down to the students.

"Many of our tech students are grade nines with no shop experience," said Mr. Baker. "But despite this, we went seven years in a row without an accident, quite an accomplishment."

A new question topic this year is pollution. Students are asked how to determine whether water is safe for drinking, what constitutes contamination of the air, a variety of questions concerning domestic, agricultural and industrial waste.

Veteran team - member Mark Vincent says the knowledge accumulated from his safety studies can be used every day.

"Last week, we were putting up a conduit in the shop and had to use a ladder. We learned that for every four feet of vertical height, the ladder should be one foot back from the wall. It sure gives you a safer feeling when you're standing at the top."

The 18 - year - old grade 12 student — who carries an 87 per cent average despite his extra - curricular activities — is the only competitor back from last year's team. Newcomers are Dennis Cooley, John Wemekamp and George Wadlass.

In modest fashion, Mark discounts his own experience and says PECI will have an uphill struggle to retain the crown.

"But," he adds, "we'll sure try hard. We have to. We have a reputation to keep up."

UIC Cheques May Be Late

Unemployment Insurance Officials are heaving a sigh of relief today with the announcement that Belleville's letter carriers are back at work.

The regional office on Dundas Street East — which handles claims for most of Ontario — was forced to remove 24,000 cheques and declaimant forms Wednesday morning after picket lines sealed the city's post office.

Chris Patterson, regional manager of the office's pay centre, said last night UIC had received no official information concerning the status of the postal workers and that the office was until advised from Ottawa.

But with the resumption of work this morning, the mail was returned to the post office for regular processing.

If the mailmen walk out again in the picket line sealed, UIC may be forced to adopt a standby procedure. Under the system, trucks are brought in to transport the cheques. Officers there and claimants come in to pick up cheques and forms.

Mr. Patterson said a few pieces of incoming mail had been delivered to the post office Wednesday. With the return to work last night, he was able to collect its mail and process it overnight.

As a result of the delays, some cheques may be slightly later than usual.

UIC Payments Encourage People Not to Work, Builder Says

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The Unemployment Insurance Commission came under full attack last night with tongue-in-cheek asides directed at Canada's welfare and job placement system.

When Belleville's city council and mayor attended the Quinte Homebuilders' Association meeting, they were told pogey was much more appealing than earning a living by association president Mike Dorland.

"Am I to understand the construction trades have lots of available jobs but people would rather draw UIC and welfare benefits?" asked fledgling alderman Stu Marks, bewildered by the president's remark.

"You've got it," retorted Mr. DeMark, whose candor aroused the comment from another member, "it's all socialized medicine," referring to the government dole. Alderman Reeks also had no following comment.

Describing Belleville as a "busy, busy place for construction," Mr. DeMark claimed it was almost impossible to get people to work in the cold winter months.

I have to wait till spring. I can't do it now in the attitude being forced on him and other Quinte region builders because of, "such good benefits handed out by the UIC."

"When there was no UIC, unemployment figures were down, down, down because everyone got out and found a job to get bread on the table," said Mr. DeMark, who was brought up in the construction business by his father, and now is credited as a certified carpenter and builder.

"Ads in the paper, outlining job openings are a farce," said the 27 - year - old president. "I got application on the phone who turn down $2.50 an hr. to start. Excuse me, I'm sorry, I get better than that with UIC."

Mr. DeMark described the setup saying, a bricklayer can make more dollars an hour, working 48 to 60 hours a week for the months of April to November.

"They're not going to work in the winter and could get on the scaffolding," he said. "When a couple of rainy, UIC days keep them home, they consider themselves laid off and apply to UIC and that's it until next spring. And they get premium UIC rates."

Mr. DeMark scoffs at employees coming from Canada Manpower rolls, recounting the week he hired six such people who stayed an average of eight hours before quitting.

One laughingly said they were saying he wouldn't do that," said Mr. DeMark. The men were working on cleaning a house when they discovered paper and gathering debris into a garbage pile. Pay was $2.50 an hour.

"I would have to say the people they sent me don't want to work," he said. Of the 20 people he received from Manpower last year, only four stayed on the job.

"I've never fired anyone and never worked anyone hard enough to make them quit. They just don't want to work.

He's really had. It's got to be bad when HUDAC (Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada) gets in," he said.

HUDAC is a approached homebuilders' associations the length and breadth of Canada to submit employment possibilities in their areas through a local canvass, "to apply pressure on the UIC and welfare and welfare departments," on a federal level.

Association president Doug Collins, last night, was elected chairman of the various committees, report to HUDAC Montreal.

HUDAC in turn will ask federal departments to heighten the drive to retrain people to enter into the construction trades.

Mr. DeMark feels the labor trades should be flooded, reducing labor costs and equalizing the cost of housing in the area, and the cost escalate each year.

Barn Razed

NORTH MARYSBURGH — Fire in North Marysburgh township last night leveled a barn owned by George Rose of RR4, and destroyed a quantity of farm machinery.

Damage was estimated today at $8,000 by a spokesman for the Picton Fire Department. Cause of the blaze, which broke out about 6:30 p.m. is unknown.

The spokesman said quantities of hay and straw were lost in the fire as well as a combine and a bailer. A flock of sheep stabled in the barn were herded to safety, except for one lamb and a ewe which died in the flames. The fire loss was covered with insurance.

Deer Decline To Be Studied

Hastings county council will appoint a four-man committee to gather information relative to the causes for the declining deer population.

The motion for appointment of the committee was introduced by Reeve Frank Robbins of Limerick township, who said that deer no longer could be spotted along the roadways as was the case a few years ago.

Reeve Barbara Allen of Tweed, who admitted to having been a deer hunter some years ago, seconded the motion, but did so only on condition that the much maligned wolves were left out of the question.

She quoted department officials at Tweed as saying the main reason for the declining deer populations was the lack of summer and winter forage.

Other reasons put forth by other councillors ranged from the fact that beaver dams were flooding out forage areas used by the deer to the fact that there were now many more hunters than in previous years.

Carnival Capers

New chairman of the Belleville Winter Carnival, Glenn Wardell, gets a chilly welcome with the help of Wally Streit, representative of the Chamber of Commerce Mr. Wardell stepped up to the post Wednesday when former chairman Ed McClure announced business pressures had forced him to resign.

Works Projects Chosen by County

Beautification of county buildings and property is a local initiatives project proposed by Hastings County council.

The proposal calls for an expenditure of $20,000 on the program which would include painting, planting of trees and shrubs and also flowers.

The county also has an allotment of about $48,600 from the provincial-municipal incentive program and has made application for approval of winter works ranging from thinning and pruning of the county forest north of Bancroft, cutting brush and cleaning up roadsides and drilling and blasting of rock cuts for the county road system.

Improvements to a parkette at Hastings Memorial Manor at Bancroft and site improvement and fence removal at Hastings Manor at Belleville is also included in the program.

Council was told this week that approvals for the programs had not yet been received, but in anticipation that this would be forthcoming, two brushing crews had already been put to work.

Separate Schools Swim Program OK

Separate school children in Belleville will get into the act in this year.

Hastings - Prince Edward Separate school board agreed Tuesday to accept an offer to use the Black Hawk Motel swimming pool, leased and operated this year by Quinte Kiwanis Club.

Trustees were asked to approve instructional and recreational swimming for pupils of grades 5,6,7,8 and 9 for a 10 week period, starting in February. Cost of $4-an-hour rental and bus transportation would be about $5,000.

The board finally approved the program, provided the excursions and special needs requesting the program meet the expenses out of funds allocated to the schools for trips, excursions and special needs.

Superintendent E. J. Neville cautioned the board that the cost estimate was a maximum one — based on 25 hours a week of pool use. The time allocated to separate schools, after the public school board decides on its schedule, is likely to be closer to eight to 10 hours a week.

The board was first asked to make the swimming program cost an extra item in the budget. Walter Hamilton of Picton asked that an equal amount of money, not a per pupil basis, be made available to Belleville schools in the system for recreation. Board vice-chairman Paul Bryant of Belleville, an accountant, made a quick calculation that would provide $13,000 for the $13,000.

Before this proposal was put to a vote, Mr. Neville came up with the information that the necessary money came from principals' allocations.

Schools interested in the swimming program are George Vanier, Bd. Michael A., Our Lady of Fatima, Holy Rosary, St. Joseph's, Nicholson Catholic College and St. Peter's in Belleville. The schools will be responsible for their own swimming instructors and life guards.

Y, Labor Council Closer Together

There was a measure of mutual understanding last night between officials of the Belleville Family YMCA and Belleville District Labor Council leaders to dinner.

YMCA President Douglas Horne remarked the Y had been a "whipping boy" and said his association was trying to counteract this feeling in the community.

After his explanation of the YMCA's activities the meeting was opened up to frank questioning by the labor representatives aimed primarily at the issue of funding.

Reg Loader, vice-president of the DLC, said that within the labor movement there was a feeling that if the YMCA was going to get funds through public support it should not get more through the taxpayer.

In answer to a question on staffing, Treasurer Frank Ferris said more employees were needed. "We can do a certain amount with volunteers, but only so much," he said. "We do need professional staff."

QDLC's Jerry Cunningham said he does not see the YMCA had a reputation as the "East Hill community country club" thought there should be a return to informal "pick up games" and less in the way of organized activities.

Ken Samandale, YMCA General Secretary, told the meeting the Y had submitted a Local Initiatives Program application to Ottawa to carry out programs of recreation and crafts outside the Y in three different areas of the city. He referred to the proposals as "grass roots" programs.

The meeting agreed that much of the YMCA's problem had stemmed from a communication lack and, in thanking YMCA officials for the info-Sword, QDLC President said the drive to retrain people to enter into the construction trades.

Mr. DeMark feels the labor trades should be flooded, reducing labor costs and equalizing the cost of housing in the area, and the cost escalate each year.

It's Work--As Usual

Postal clerks Carl Kelly, left, and Earl Baker sort mail Wednesday night as service resumes at Belleville post office. All but one clerk and one part-time worker came in for duty after letter carriers announced they were removing their picket line shortly after 5 p.m. The carriers hope to resolve their dispute with post office management within 48 hours.

Quintes Carry Winning Colors

By AL ZARAS
Staff Sports-writer

The Belleville Quintes played the Belleville Quintes, or at least it would have appeared this way to any casual observer at Memorial Arena Wednesday night.

Half of the players on the ice warming up for the Senior "A" scheduled game between Belleville and Galt were wearing the Quintes white home uniforms while the other half sported the red away jerseys.

However, appearances can be deceiving, as the visiting Hornets were forced to borrow the Quintes' red sweaters as they discovered midway in Belleville that their jerseys had been left behind in Galt.

Though Hornet coach Cecil Hoskins said after the game that he did not believe the change in jerseys jinxed his second place team, he was troubled by the 5-2 loss the Hornets suffered.

"This is not too good," said the Galt coach. "we can't keep dropping games like this. It was a tight game; there were lots of chances, but they (Quintes) hustled and worked hard. The only way we'd be different is if we work harder."

The Hornets' coach said that there "may be a little shake up" as there are internal problems in the club with some of the players. Though Hoskins said the changes would be "nothing drastic," he would not elaborate upon them to this reporter.

Quinte coach Wayne Brown was more jubilant as he said that he "feels like a million dollars".

"It was one of the best games we've played all year. We don't play well unless everyone is playing well, and tonight everyone was."

Defenseman Bob Edmunds who shared the backliner duties with Lorne O'Donnell in last night's victory played a solid game for the Quintes who move into sixth place in the standings with a two point edge over Kingston Aces.

Edmunds not only scored the winning goal for the Quintes at 10:55 of the third period, but kept Hornets' centre John Beechey and left winger Mark Westgate from capitalizing on several two - on - one situations.

Edmunds go - ahead goal came as he accepted a John McConnell pass from the corner and shot the puck over Galt goalie Brent Pennington's extended leg after stickhandling in the top of the slot.

The defenseman's effort gave the Quintes their third win over the Hornets, in four games this season.

Belleville's other two goals both came in the second period as Ken Knapton scored the Quintes' first on a power play while Ray Johnston, who played on the wing usually occupied by O'Donnell alongside centre George Godson and right winger Al Ferguson, hit the Galt netting at 8:58 to give the home team a 2-1 lead.

Hornets first period marker came from left winger Steve Degurse, while the third period tie-up was scored by centre Vance Miller.

The Quintes, according to coach Brown, had one other advantage that "helped us." The Memorial Arena ice was slow for last night's game, due perhaps to the prolonged cold spell, with the result that "the puck was hard to get difficult to control. This helped us because man for man they're (Galt) faster than we are."

Left winger Ralph Plane, who played one of his better games of the last two months due to an improvement in a knee injury, added another comment as to the aid the Quintes received.

After the game Plane commented that "this was the most enthusiastic crowd I've seen for its size. It just gives you a lift like you wouldn't believe."

Quintes Sting Pennington

Belleville Quintes' Bob Taylor and John McConnell can't raise their sticks high enough as teammate defenseman Bob Edmunds scored the winning third period goal against Galt Hornet goalie Brent Pennington in Senior "A" hockey Wednesday night. Edmunds' shot beat the Galt goaltender as well as Hornet defenseman Mike Doerrum for the Quintes' final tally and a 3-2 victory over the second place Hornets. Belleville's third win over Galt gives the Quintes a two point edge in their playoff battle with the Kingston Aces.

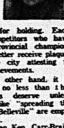
Right Emphasis At Awards Night

by

Eric Emerson

Sports Editor



Belleville mayor Robin Jeffrey received polite applause as she opened the 1972 honors and awards banquet Wednesday night. Price Morris received a spontaneous standing ovation when introduced to the same audience.

Things were as they should be. The greatest amount of attention was focused on the athletes themselves and the bulk of that was centred upon the local athletes who made the greatest single achievement of 1972 — Price Morris. The Apollo Barbell Club weightlifter represented the city of Belleville in Munich's Summer Olympics.

The many times affairs of this sort are unnecessarily cluttered with politicians, parents, 1 e a g u e executives, agents, advertising men and sportswriters, all of them efflowing for a place in the spotlight — a place that rightfully belongs to the athletes who "make the most succeed party", as Casey Stengel would put it.

It was indeed a "necessary" event and one which the city of Belleville should be commended for holding. Each year competitors who have won a provincial championship or better receive plaques from the city attesting to their achievements.

On the other hand, it is certainly no less than it deserves to receive unless phrases like "spreading the fame of Belleville" are empty platitudes.

Chairman Ken Carr-Brainst and his committee should be permitted one brief bow for keeping the event in its proper perspective. In many sports and sport ceremonies, the real stars of the show are forced into the background by ec e t a n e o u s officials of one sort or another.

The program wasn't laced with long - winded speeches, semi-funny after dinner jokes or proud parents extolling the virtues of "my boy". Ken Brainst, as chairman, gave a brief history of the various champions coupled with a plea for the proposed Yardmen's Sports Complex to provide more of the same.

The attention focused on national champions like Morris, fellow weightlifter Gary Walt and archer Carol Armour — each individual and team made their particular contribution t o Belleville Sports in 1972.

There was the rag tag Hovard and Robert Printing team, who weren't good enough to win their league title, who often had to scramble to field nine players, but who gave Belleville's first intermediate softball crown since 1955. And there was the Lions Club peewee lacrosse squad, who won a provincial title in their first attempt. And the Mead Johnson squirt softballers who beat out the Legion and Toronto to attain their Ontario championship; to say nothing of the Belleville Archery Club and the Apollo weightlifting group; who have been the stand-bys in years past when champions were sometimes few and far between.

It was a night for all of them to receive due recognition. They deserved it. They got it. Congratulations, champs.

A total of 61 athletes were presented with plaques at the Belleville Honors and Awards Banquet Tuesday night. The affair, which honored provincial and national sports champions in the city was held at the Oddfellows Hall. Among the athletes honored were (left to right): Doug Rainboth, minor baseball; Salvano Palusca, minor softball; Rod Ridley, intermediate softball; David Carr-Brainst, weightlifting and Donna Armstrong, archery.

61 Athletes Honored

Full House at Awards Banquet

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Editor

What a difference a year makes.

The 1971 version of the Belleville Honors and Awards Athletic banquet was more along the lines of an exclusive dinner party. A total of nine athletes — seven weightlifters and two archers — attended that affair.

Tuesday night there were 61 athletes, coaches and managers feted at a full scale banquet in the Oddfellows Hall. Athletes honored at the affair must have won provincial honors or better, or have represented Canada in an international sporting event.

The banquet reflected 1972 as a year of athletic firsts for Belleville.

The Lions Club peewee lacrosse team gave the city its first provincial title in that sport by capturing the "D" championship of Ontario.

Howard and Robert Intermediate "AA" softball champions were the first adult team to be honored in five-year history of the event. Previous senior - age titlists have either competed in individual sporting events or in four-man teams like lawn bowling or curling.

The Mead Johnson squirts added a second Ontario softball championship for 1972, the first time since 1957 that a Belleville team has captured provincial softball laurels.

The archers and one weightlifter received plaques for their initial province-wide titles. Donna and Tony Armstrong captured Ontario Indoor archery championships, while Bruce Thompson won outdoor archery honors. David Carr-Brainst earned his invitation by winning an Ontario teen-age weightlifting crown.

The "veterans" present at the affair were archer Carol Armstrong and weightlifters Ron Hayes, Price Morris and Gary Walt. Each of them has attended the banquet all five-years that it has been held. Also eligible for a plaque was wheelchair athlete Paul Barrett who won his fourth Ontario title.

Honors and Awards chairman Ken Carr-Brainst, whose committee consisted of secretary Adam Stalker, CJBQ's Jack Devine, Maurice Switzer of The Intelligencer, and or Russell Scott and alderman Art Keegan, congratulated the champions in a brief speech, while at the same time pressing for completion of a proposed sports complex in Belleville.

"A sports centre is a real must," he said, "not only hockey and swimming would benefit, but also ball teams and all sports, which could achieve conditioning under modern conditions.

"Conditioning is something that is sorely overlooked in Canada and as a national Olympic coach, I'm appalled at how little conditioning our sports groups actually do. It is a case where we must have facilities first, considering second and then the actual competition."

Athletes honored at the affair were:

Mead Johnson Squirt Softball team — Darrell Coltman, Ron Begley, Allan Brooks, Steven Gilbey, Bob Hedge, John Henry, Silvano Palusca, Andy Rosati, Paul Soule, Tim Soule, Donald Turner, David Urch, coaches Herb Coltman and Larry Hedge and manager Floyd Soule.

Howard and Robert Printing Intermediate "AA" softball team: Larry Potter, Rod Ridley, Bob Fisher, Bob Swan, John Campbe. Gary Goyer, Gerald "Rusty" Garvin, Ken Genereaux, Dwight Rathwell, Pat Assistance, Moe Hunter, Everett "Pug" Keller, coaches Doug Murray and Don Dolan and managers Bob Cummings and Howard Sowden.

Will Success Spoil Low Scoring Houle?

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Will success deter Rejean Houle?

Reported recently to be in coach Scotty Bowman's doghouse and headed for the rich spoils of the Montreal Hockey Association stardom in Quebec City for the past eight years, the slight 23-year-old forward may have answered thoughts about Houle's future.

Houle scored three times to spearhead Canadiens' 6-4 win over Pittsburgh Saturday to move Montreal five points atop the National Hockey League's East Division standings.

Houle had been a rare commodity for the native of Rouyn, Que., in his three seasons as a winger with Montreal and his reported rifts with Bowman weren't geared to improve the situation.

Used sparingly in recent weeks, Houle got a full shift with the high-flying Montrealers when Yvan Cournoyer was sidelined, leaving a spot open on the club's top-scoring unit with Jacques Lemaire and Chuck Lefley.

And Houle capitalized on the opportunity, lifting his season's goal production to eight—just three back of his career high 11 tallied in 77 games a year ago.

Elsewhere the scores were: Chicago Black Hawks 6, Detroit Red Wings 4; Atlanta Flames 2, St. Louis Blues 2; Toronto Maple Leafs 3, California Golden Seals 2; New York Rangers 4, Los Angeles Kings 3.

The Canadiens and Penguins renew their rivalry back in Pittsburgh tonight while Boston Bruins are at home to New York Islanders, Chicago visits Buffalo Sabres and Minnesota North Stars are at Philadelphia Flyers.

Except for Houle, a 5-foot-11 165-pounder, Montreal Penguins might have stolen the game with brilliant rookie goaltender Wayne Thomas with two of their five shots in the first period.

ODDS FAVOR FRAZIER

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Joe Frazier, world heavyweight boxing champion, is a 9-to-1 favorite to retain his title Jan. 22 when he meets challenger George Foreman in Kingston, Jamaica, according to Las Vegas bookmakers.

Nightgale Steals Show

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lynn Nightingale of Ottawa stole the show from champion Karen Magnussen of North Vancouver in the Canadian figure-skating championships Wednesday night.

The 16-year-old, in her first year in the senior women's competition, finished first in the compulsory free skating, ahead of Miss Magnussen, who was second.

However, Miss Magnussen retained first place overall, thanks to her first-place finish Tuesday in the compulsory figures. The final part of the program will be held tonight when the girls skate a four - minute program.

Kathy Lee Irwin remained second over - all and Ruth Hutchinson of Vancouver third.

Miss Nightingale moved to sixth from eighth, Julie Black of London, Ont., moved to fourth from fifth and Daria Prychun of Toronto slipped, to fifth from fourth.

Miss Nightingale drew a standing ovation for her superb performance, the applause drowning out the announcer as he gave her scores.

One judge gave the shy youngster a 5.9 score—the first she has ever had—out of a maximum six.

A professional coach described her program as beautiful.

He said her jumps were high, her footwork excellent and her presentation magnificent.

Miss Nightingale, who was the Canadian junior champion last year, asked if she thought she could win the championship from Miss Magnussen this year, said she didn't think so.

Braves Best Ottawa Rangers

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Brockville Braves packed a record crowd Wednesday to play a Central Junior Hockey League game postponed from October. They beat Ottawa Rangers 5-3.

The game was postponed from a period when there was no ice in the local arena.

And Wednesday, the Rangers were struck hard by the flu with four regulars out of action, at least three more gone at half speed and their ranks filled by junior Bs promoted in the crisis.

In fact, the tottering Rangers set the early pace in the game, leading 1-0 and 2-1 after the first and second period before the Braves surged ahead in the third.

Dave Dizie, Steve Keech, Doug MacLean, Dave Wilson and Bob Mulcahy scored for Brockville, which outshot Ottawa 44-31.

Bill Lee, a junior B brought up from Gloucester Astros, scored twice for Ottawa and Marc Aubry once.

Playing before only about 150 fans, the teams shared nine minor penalties.

Regular schedule games tonight have Hull Festivals at Pembroke against the league-leading Lumber Kings and Smiths Falls Bears in Ottawa.

Canadiens Dominate Both All-Star Teams

MONTREAL (CP) — This year's National Hockey League All-Star game, to be played Jan. 30 in New York's Madison Square Garden, may resemble a Montreal Canadiens' family gathering.

Not only will six Canadiens be representing the East team, three former members of the current East Division leaders will be facing off for the West.

And both coaches, the East's Tom Johnson of Boston Bruins and the West's Billy Reay of Chicago Black Hawks, are also former Canadiens.

Rogatien Vachon and Terry Harper of Los Angeles Kings, as well as Chicago's Tony Esposito, were three former Montreal players named to the list of 12 West team starters announced today.

Chicago, with five players selected, dominates the team while Los Angeles follows with three selections. Philadelphia Flyers and Minnesota North Stars, each with two players, round out the team.

Following are the voting results for the 12 players named, with vote totals in brackets:

Goal—Tony Esposito, Chicago (100); Rogatien Vachon, Los Angeles (38). Defence—Bill White, Chicago (114); Barry Gibbs, Minnesota (44); Gilles Marotte, Los Angeles (38); Terry Harper, Los Angeles (38). Centre—Stan Mikita, Chicago (82); Bobby Clarke, Philadelphia (77). Right wing—Jim Pappin, Chicago (87); Gary Dornhoefer, Philadelphia (43). Left wing—Dennis Hull, Chicago (80); Jean-Paul Parise, Minnesota (58).

Dupere Leaves Leafs

Hockey writer Rex MacLeod says in today's edition of the morning newspaper that Dupere left for the Oakland airport several hours before the Leafs were to meet California Golden Seals without telling general manager Jim Gregory or coach John McLellan.

The newspaper says Gregory followed Dupere on the plane in an effort to have the player rejoin his team-mates. "But he said it was a personal matter," the Toronto general manager is quoted as saying.

The Globe and Mail says Gregory was undecided what action to take against Dupere and further quotes him as saying:

"I really don't know what we will do in a situation like this. Certainly if he wants help, we'll do all we can to accommodate him. But I don't know what's bothering him other than what's bothering all of us—losing hockey games."

Dupere was in the Toronto lineup Tuesday night when the Leafs blew a four-goal lead and subsequently lost a 6-4 game to the Canucks in Vancouver.

There have been reported differences between Toronto players that they were not getting enough ice time, but Dupere has been playing regularly on a line with Daryl Sittler and Rick Kehoe.

Best Considers Future

TORONTO (CP) — British soccer star George Best arrived Wednesday in Manchester, England, and announced that he would be leaving today for Los Angeles where he will take a holiday and consider the future of his stormy career.

The playboy athlete was met by about two dozen reporters and photographers when he arrived at Toronto International Airport. Regulations of a local indoor soccer league who have offered Best $1,000 a game to play in the league also were on hand.

But the 26-year-old Irishman denied that he signed or that he was about to sign any agreement to play in the indoor league.

"I've made no decisions as yet," Best told a brief news conference at the airport. "I'm just here for negotiations."

Best said he would talk to Joe Martin, president of the indoor league, but probably would not make any decision on whether to play here immediately.

"I'm leaving tomorrow for Los Angeles for a short holiday and I'll probably think about it while I'm there."

Earlier, Martin had said that Best had made a verbal agreement to join one of five proposed indoor league teams for its 12-game schedule which is scheduled to start play Jan. 29.

Martin also said Best would make a practice appearance today and would hold another news conference Friday concerning his expected signing.

Thus Best's announcement that he was leaving almost immediately for Los Angeles threw Martin and his associates into confusion and they immediately called a halt to the airport news conference before reporters had a chance to ask more than a halfdozen questions.

Best is well-known in Britain for his soccer prowess and his love of night life and for the fact the most often-asked question before he emerged from airport customs was: "Does anybody know what he looks like?"

The bearded soccer star had left England Wednesday amid reports that he intended to stay in North America, but when questioned about this, he again replied: "I've made no decisions."

He admitted he also had received an offer to play with New York Cosmos of the North American Soccer League and might discuss terms of a deal with the Cosmos while in North America.

Best also confirmed reports that he had become disillusioned with British soccer and had no particular interest in returning to play in England, but he was whisked away by Martin's party before he had a chance to explain fully his disenchantment.

Best was suspended by Manchester United of the English First Division Dec. 19 after a series of scrapes with club management over his penchant for going absent without leave.

Manchester United has since put Best up for transfer.

There was still some doubt here as to whether Martin's indoor league would be able to get started. The league has been refused sanction by the Ontario Soccer Association, the provincial governing body for the sport.

The possibility remained that players participating in the indoor league might be suspended if they played in an unsanctioned event. Martin said he has appealed the OSA's refusal to the Canadian Soccer Association, but in the meantime, about 80 players had indicated an interest in playing despite the possibility of suspensions.

Asked about his reaction to the possibility of being suspended by the International Soccer Federation (FIFA), Best said:

"I don't know much about it. That's what I came here for--to find out about this league and to find out where I stand."

The future of the indoor league was further clouded by Martin's conviction Tuesday on charges involving obscene movies and books.

Martin was sentenced to three months in jail and fines totaling $5,250. He was released on bail pending an appeal of the sentence.

Eagles Name New Coach

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mike McCormack, a protege of Paul Brown, the late Vince Lombardi and George Allen, took over Wednesday as head coach of the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles.

The six-foot-four McCormack signed a three-year contract to try to lead the Eagles out of the football wilderness. Philadelphia finished last in its division in 1972 with a 3-11-1 record and hasn't had a winning season since 1966.

McCormack said he had full authority over the football operation, including the draft selections, handle trades and coach.

The 265-pound McCormack agreed to terms with Tom Tuesday night after obtaining his release from Washington Redskins, where he has been an assistant seven years. McCormack succeeds Ed Khayat who was fired by the Eagles at the end of last season.

CFL Revisions Under Discussion

WINNIPEG (CP) — Constitutional changes and the possibility of allowing clubs to play one "free bonus game" a year among items discussed by Canadian Football League general managers Wednesday.

Representatives from the nine clubs met for about three hours and Bill Clarke of Regina, CFL president, said that "many matters were discussed, all in areas of conjecture and possibilities."

Asked about discussion on allowing clubs to play one bonus game and keep all revenues from it, Clarke said no, "positive resolutions or requests were presented . . . But, he said, "something like that may come up at the league meeting in three weeks."

He did not elaborate. The CFL meeting is set for Feb. 8 in Toronto.

The meeting heard a report of the meeting last month between Clarke, league commissioner Jake Gaudaur and federal Health Minister Marc Lalonde and discussed "informally" the constitutional committee meeting held in Chicago last week.

Clarke said that "one of the people today expressed the view that the growth of Canadian football has been, really, almost meteoric."

"It's been most significant as an increasing situation in five years, since the current Constitution was adopted."

The president said the constitutional rules are not a "straitjacket" to the league's progress, but added:

"I equally don't mean because things have gone well for five years we shouldn't change something; because if things are going well maybe they could go better."

EX-EXPO AXED

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies asked for waivers Wednesday on catcher John Bateman for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release. The club will go to spring training with rookie Bob Boone and veterans Tom Haller and Mike Ryan as catchers.

Bateman, 30, came to the Phillies in June, 1972, in a trade with Montreal Expos for catcher Tim McCarver.

Park Embarassed By All-Star Nomination

NEW YORK (CP) — Brad Park, New York Rangers' star defenceman, is a reluctant all-star.

Park, who has helped turn the Rangers into consistent winners since joining the club in 1968, was voted to the second team of the East Division for the National Hockey League's All-Star game here Jan. 30.

What upsets Park is that he got the honor despite missing 20 of the Rangers' first 39 games because of a knee injury. Voting by members of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association was supposed to be based on play during the first half of the season.

Park got the news of his selection here while the Rangers were preparing to fly to Los Angeles for a Wednesday night engagement with the Kings. He said he was troubled because fellow-defencemen Rod Seiling and Dale Rolfe had played superbly during his absence but were passed over in the voting.

"I'm embarrassed," Park said. "I didn't deserve to be picked.

"I had hoped they wouldn't pick me just on my reputation and overlook the two defencemen on our team who really deserved to make it."

Park obviously was selected for his reputation rather than for his performance, but said he thinks he would have made the team if he hadn't been injured.

"I wanted to make it that way, not this way. I certainly don't feel good making it now, especially at the expense of two guys on my own team who did a lot more than I did during the first half of the season. I missed too many games and I think they hadn't voted for me."

Other Rangers also were annoyed that Seiling and Rolfe were neglected and the two defencemen themselves indicated they were unhappy.

Sanderson Has 'A Lot To Prove'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "Derek Sanderson has some proving to do," says the lawyer who got the controversial hockey player a contract settlement with the World Hockey Association's Philadelphia Blazers worth a reported $1 million.

The lawyer, Bob Woolf, agreed that Sanderson emerged from the bizarre, unprecedented Blazers' negotiations Wednesday with somewhat of a tarnished image. The hockey team bought up Sanderson's 10-year $2.4 million contract and gave him his unconditional release.

Woolf declined to disclose what the settlement was worth, but did say "it was awfully high."

"In some respects," said Woolf at a news conference, at which Sanderson's cash settlement was announced, "he (Sanderson) didn't act the way he should have and I was somewhat disappointed in him."

"In reflection, he (Sanderson) doesn't think he acted properly. He perhaps didn't do some things he should have done. His attitude was, in fact, it should have been. Derek has some proving to do and I think he feels that way too."

Woolf hinted to note that he wasn't downgrading his client, that Sanderson was a standout hockey player with a personality that would help some team. He said Sanderson was in Jamaica and would be back in two weeks to start looking for another hockey job.

The lawyer said he would give the WHA first chance if Sanderson, and indicated that the player might be just the fellow the New York Raiders in their battle for survival against the National Hockey League's Rangers and Islanders. He also said there were eight NHL clubs interested in Sanderson, including Philadelphia Flyers.

Brian O'Neill, executive director of the National Hockey League, said after hearing of Sanderson's settlement that he presumed Woolf would continue to negotiate for the 26-year-old centre who remains on the reserve list of Boston Bruins, the he jumped to join the WHA Blazers last August.

Considered one of the NHL's finest penalty killers, Sanderson logged most of his time checking top lines on opposing clubs but still averaged 34 goals for each of his five seasons with Boston.

In addition to the gate appeal that didn't develop, the Blazers counted upon Sanderson to help the team win in the WHA's Eastern Division. He was injured early in the season and entered hospital with a back injury.

The team slipped quickly into the cellar and has been beset by season-long. Attendance averaged under 2,500 a game.

When Sanderson came out of the hospital, Blazers' owner Bernie Brown ordered him sidelined until the club could either trade or settle his expensive contract. Brown became the latest owner after a policy spat with partner James Cooper, who had signed Sanderson to the plush contract.

Kilmer Gets Chance

DALLAS (AP) — No player has more incentive in Sunday's Pro Bowl than maligned Washington Redskin quarterback Billy Kilmer, who has been something of a public dart board because of his three intercepted passes in Super Bowl VII, a 14-7 loss to Miami Dolphins.

Kilmer was the butt of joke after joke Wednesday at a press luncheon, entertaining the National Conference and American Conference all-stars who meet in Texas Stadium.

"Kilmer, coach Tom Landry has given you your assignment for Sunday—you get to break up the wedge," said emcee Frank Gliebe.

Alex Hawkins, former player for Pittsburgh Steelers and Baltimore Colts, said: "Billy throws a ball that's easy to catch. You have the option of catching it on either end."

Even Joe Kapp, the Miami safety who intercepted two Kilmer passes to win the Most Valuable Player Award and an automobile, said: "Billy sent an extra set of keys to the car."

Kilmer tried a verbal comeback, saying: "I saw Landry's playbook and noticed the crackback is still in there."

The "crackback" block used by Dallas during the regular season stirred resentment among Washington players after linebacker Jack Pardee was injured.

Kilmer said that he is trying to shake off the burden of being a Super Bowl goat.

"I have a lot of football to play yet," he said. "I will think about it, but I won't worry about it. If it continues to linger with me, I won't be much of a football player.

He said of the loss to Miami that for some reason Washington was emotionally flat.

"It always seems the Super Bowl is anti-climatic after you win the league title," Kilmer said. "I don't think there's really been a good Super Bowl played.

"Emotionally, both teams seemed to be out of it. This one didn't seem to feel like a regular season or playoff game, either."

Kilmer said Washington had excellent practices "but between Friday and Sunday, something was lost . . . that old spark we had."

Whalers 'Do Their Thing' in WHA

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New England Whalers and Cleveland Crusaders did what they do best Wednesday night as each demolished its first place in the World Hockey Association's Eastern Division.

The Whalers threw up a near satisfied defence in front of goalie Al Smith en route to a 4-2 win over Chicago Cougars while Cleveland got flawless goaltending from Gerry Cheevers to post a 5-0 win over Houston Aeros.

They were the only WHA games scheduled Wednesday.

Tonight Houston is at Chicago, Minnesota Fighting Saints at Ottawa Nationals and New York Raiders at Quebec Les Nordiques.

The Whalers, although blessed with several high-scoring forwards, have the most experienced defence in the league led by captain Ted Green, Jim Dorey, Rick Ley and Brad Selwood.

Chicago shooters, playing in front of 2,900 home fans, were only able to get 19 shots on Smith in a relatively quiet game in which only four minor penalties were called—two to each team.

Tim Sheehy, Larry Pleau, John Danby and Kevin Ahearn tallied for the Whalers who led 1-0 and 2-1 before the final period. Rick Morris and Bob Sicinski scored for Chicago.

Jim Wiste's two goals gave ample support to Cheever's fifth shutout of the year as Cleveland, in winning its eighth in 10 games, ended Houston's four-game unbeaten string.

Paul Andrea drew assists on the first three Cleveland scores by Wiste, Rick Pumple and Wayne Muloin. Doug Brindley added to the Crusader total in the third period before Wiste closed out the scoring against Wayne Rutledge in front of 2,328 home fans.

New England and Cleveland have 53 points, seven ahead of New York.

Some Sore Arm Rick!

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rick Barry came up with a sore shooting arm Wednesday night but still scored 31 points as Golden State Warriors defeated Houston Rockets 123-117 in National Basketball Association play.

Barry tallied 34 points in the first half for the Warriors, but his right arm stiffened during the intermission and he had a cold third quarter.

It also was Barry's highest points total since returning to the NBA after playing the last four seasons in the American Basketball Association.

In other games, Seattle SuperSonics edged Detroit Pistons 106-105, Phoenix Suns whipped Portland Trail Blazers 117-99 and Atlanta Hawks thumped Philadelphia 76ers 122-105.

Seattle's John Brisker and Spencer Haywood had a happy Detroit homecoming, but it was no picnic for Piston coach Ray Scott.

Brisker sank a pair of free throws with six seconds left as Seattle nipped Detroit.

Haywood, who played at the University of Detroit, scored 18 points.

Scott drew a technical foul in the third quarter and was so angry with game officials Lenny Wirtz and Jerry Loeber, he threatened to protest the game.

"I'm not trying to make trouble but I'm a young coach. But I've got to protect my team," Scott declared later.

Dave Cowens tossed in 35 points and grabbed 20 rebounds in the Celtics extended their winning streak to seven games.

Hawks trailed 97-91 going at the start of the fourth quarter, but Atlanta then reeled off nine straight points and were not in trouble again.

Pete Maravich scored 25 points, Lou Hudson 22 and Walt Bellamy 18 for Atlanta. John Block tallied 36 for Philadelphia, which suffered its seventh loss in a row and 40th defeat in 49 games.

Derby County To Face Spurs

LONDON (Reuter) — Derby County, English Soccer League champions and European Cup quarter-finalists, will be at home to Tottenham Hotspur, the UEFA Cup holders, in the outstanding match in the fourth round of the English FA Cup on February 3.

Derby, who have gone 15 games without defeat on their own ground, will be hoping to repeat their 2-1 league victory over Tottenham in September.

Derby manager Brian Clough, commenting on the draw, said: "You can't get better than that for skill, can you 1? couldn't have chosen a better draw if I had picked it myself."

Another exciting fourth round game should be between Liverpool and 1969 F.A. Cup winners Manchester City.

Leeds became the new Cup favorites after the draw. If they win their replay with Norwich, Jan. 30, they will have a fourth round home match against Third Division Plymouth Argyle.

Newcastle is paired with Second Division Notts Town, former club of their free - scoring Englund forward Malcolm Denald.

West Ham will be hoping that Fourth Division Stockport is beaten in a third round replay with Second Division Hull. The London club was beaten 2-1 by Stockport in the third round of the league Cup this season.

It was a good draw for two Midland First Division sides, Coventry should have little trouble with either Preston or Grimsby, while Wolverhampton on homeground own win against either Portsmouth or Bristol City.

Odds quoted by a leading London bookmaker following the draw: 6-1 Leeds; 10-1 Arsenal, Derby, Chelsea, Liverpool; 12-1 Coventry, Newcastle; 14-1 Wolves; 16-1 Everton, Tottenham; 20-1 Ipswich, Manchester City, West Ham; 25-1 Leicester.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Friday, Jan. 29

Aries (March 21-April 19): Your imagination leads you to creative achievement, particularly if you are trying something you didn't before.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Come on bright to wind up the week. Yesterday's questions find ready provisional answers with your open-minded approach.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Be willing to express your need to communicate. Surprises are likely, things that others know and assume that you do also.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Press forward with energy and determination. Try a new idea, a fresh starting point. Avocations turn out more profitable.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Open your heart and your doors to your real friends, share with them what is readily available without stress.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Now is the time to gather your resources, to think of more coherent applications for what you want. Consult with friends.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Today may be long remembered as a foundation stone if you take the appropriate steps. Declare yourself and your principles.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Things tend to come your way, particularly if you are not overly anxious, play it calm and keep at it.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Stop procrastinating; get busy and collect whatever is due you. Retrieve scattered possessions, worrying less and.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Take a moment now and then to look around, see what the other fellow is doing, think what you can do better.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Much as you may not like it, this is the day to get down to hard work, redeem the promises you've made and implied.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Progress seems possible only at the expense of neglect or distress in some direction other than the one you take.

Surgery Is Best For Varicose Veins

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What's the proper procedure for people with superficial varicose veins? I wear support hose, and am very busy.

I have been to two doctors and two specialists—I have pain in the back of both legs where the veins bulge.

What I want to know is whether I should have them surgically removed—dried or stripped? If I have them stripped, what will the reaction be? Will I still have to wear support hose? And how long would I have to stay in the hospital?—Mrs. R.L.P.

You've been to four doctors? What do they advise you to do? After all, their advice, after examining you, would be quite valid than mine since I have not.

In general, only relatively minor varicose veins are treated by injection—I interpret that as your meaning of "dried." A sclerosing solution is injected to "dry up" or close off the veins; through which colorless fluid is sent. The solution is so sluggish as to be doing more harm than good.

When the veins are in such condition that pain in the legs becomes a problem, the only more usual to remove them by stripping. This means a small incision at top and bottom of a section of varicose vein, and the vein is drawn out lengthwise, so the remaining scars are very small.

It has another advantage over sclerosing: the injected or sicerosed veins may leave dark streaks on the legs; and in some cases the veins may gradually open again later.

With any method, the hospital stay is brief—a day or two. After that you are advised to be mildly active and to walk about, to encourage circulation in the other veins which take over the work of those that failed. Mild household chores, therefore, would be approved. Your doctor has been given more specific instructions about how much activity will be helpful for you.

After you will have to continue to use support hose after the bulky veins have been removed will depend very considerably on the condition of the remaining veins in your legs.

Such hose does not correct varicose veins, but it can help them; it can to some degree retard the progress of varicose, by: it is primarily a matter of comfort. If your legs are less painful or tire less easily when you wear such hose, that's your answer. Wear it. If you do not require support for comfort, then you can get along without support hose. Best advice I can give about that is to wait and see.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My sister-in-law's baby is six months old. It's a normal baby and all, but as tongue is always sticking out. It's as though its tongue was too big for its mouth.

It is not sickly or anything, but it is always being out and she sucks on it every so often. Is this something that should be paid attention to or should we ignore it?—Mrs. J.M.K.

The like has probably just disappeared her hand and is manouvring it as part of the sucking instinct.

While I doubt there is any problem here. I would advise you to call it to the doctor's attention at the next visit so you can be reassured.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I understand a bladder stricture can be caused by V.D. Does this mean that anyone who has a stricture had V.D. at one time or another?—R.P.L.

Of course not. The stricture can have resulted from an infection of some entirely different type.

Opening lead—seven of hearts.

If you play against opponents who never make a mistake, this article is not for you and you should turn elsewhere for salvation. But, it as is more likely, your opponents are human and occasionally err, these words will not be in vain.

Let's say you're South and West leads the seven of hearts. Right away you get a sinking feeling about what's going to happen. When you take the queen with the ace and return a trump, you know East will win it, cash the king of hearts, and play a heart for West to ruff. In the fullness of time you will also lose a club trick and go down one.

But your spirit naturally rebels at the specter of defeat hovering above you. Since you just can't sit there whistling Dixie, your imagination starts to churn until, after a while, you concoct a scheme that you hope will turn the tide.

When East puts up the queen of hearts, you don't take it with the ace, but play the jack on it! When East returns a low heart, you win it in dummy with the ten and cash the ace of diamonds, discarding the ace of hearts on it!

That East cannot be defeated and you make four spades in this scintillating fashion.

The fly in the ointment is that East would suspect your applecart by playing the king of hearts at trick two, not a low heart. A low heart return by East is an error, all right, but one he will almost surely make.

So if, as we said before, East is a player who never makes a mistake, he will return the king of hearts and your magnificent play will go right down the drain.

But it's still worth a try.

Signposts of Economic Growth Pointing to Prosperous Year

Following is one in a series of sketches prepared for The Canada-Europe Report by experts in many of Canadian society, outlining developments expected during 1973. This one is by Carl E. Beigie, executive-director of the Private Planning Association of Canada, looks at the economy.

Written for
The Canadian Press
By CARL E. BEIGIE

MONTREAL (CP) — Measured by the broad aggregates of economic growth—gross national product, retail sales, employment, personal income and so forth—1973 promises to be a generally good year for Canada. Despite short-term early fluctuations, the Canadian economy has been following a strong upward trend since about 1970. At least it has been strong by historical standards, with the real output of goods and services rising by more than five per cent at an annual rate.

The third quarter of 1972 was one of those short-term troughs of the current growth process in which the economy went through a mini-recession. Most observers were surprised at the degree of weakness in that quarter, with real output actually declining modestly, but this was partly the result of special factors such as strikes in strategic sectors and poor weather. There was a marked rebound in economic activity during the fourth quarter of 1972, so we are entering 1973 on an upswing.

Economic performance in 1973 will be more balanced than that of the last two years. Residential construction and consumers' expenditures on durable goods, two of the most robust sectors stimulating recent growth, will continue to show gains in dollar terms, but at more modest rates. Business investment in plant, equipment and inventories, which has been somewhat sluggish as a characteristic of the early stages of an economic recovery—will enter a greater contribution to growth in 1973 and take up some of the slack in other sectors.

The external sector, composed of trade in goods and services, will change from a net drag of $1.4 billion-worth in 1971 and 1972 to a neutral or even a modestly positive factor in the outlook for 1973 as a result of increased strength in Canada's main export markets, mainly the United States.

There is one basic force that will continue to create conditions conducive to a good growth performance in Canada in 1973 and several years into the future. The rapid growth of Canada's labor force is symptomatic of very great pressure of demand for goods and services from the consumer sector.

In 1973 the Canadian economy is expected to grow by somewhere in the range of six real terms—after adjustments for the impact of inflation. This rate of growth will probably be enough to generate sufficient new jobs to accommodate the increase in people seeking work in 1973, but it will make only a modest dent in the current unemployment problem.

Unless the over-all rate of growth can be boosted beyond that now anticipated, the only way that job prospects for the unemployed will be improved is through lower-than-average gains in productivity, a result that would have negative implications for future price performance.

Canada cannot accept as satisfactory an outlook in which unemployment remains above the six-per-cent level, as it has for more than two years. Regardless of how generous our treatment of the unemployed under the arrangements under the UIC program provide an inadequate substitutor—transfer payments are expensive in dollars and, more basically, at last output that transfer recipients could be contributing to sufficient demand were being generated in the economy.

Too many Canadians are entering 1973 engaged in a sterile debate: How much employment is full employment? There is certainly reason to question whether full employment corresponds to 3.5-, 4- or 4.5-per-cent unemployment—it cannot be zero as we compute the numbers—but there can be no doubt that it is below the 6.5-per-cent average unemployment rate we have experienced since 1970.

Inflation could become an excuse for government policy-makers not to pursue the kind of expansionary policies to get unemployment down to at least 3.5 per cent by the end of 1973. This would be unacceptable to both the unemployed and the taxpayer who must share the burden of having an unemployment rate less than its potential.

The inflation problem is a legitimate concern in 1972. The primary basis for this concern, however, lies not in the decision to allow the growth of Canada's money supply to reach inflationary levels during 1971 and part of 1972 for the purpose of holding down the value of the Canadian dollar. Another cause of the recent spurt in inflation lies in special, and unpredictable, factors such as have affected food prices.

We may be talking ourselves into a situation where wage and price controls will appear desirable for Canada in 1973. After all, our neighbors to the south have taken the plunge and seem to have profited from it. But the economic case for controls is, at present, very tenuous, and their primary purpose now would be as a psychological balm.

The rate of inflation should not rise appreciably in 1973. More importantly, there is absolutely no convincing evidence that inflation would be greater at an unemployment rate of 5.5 rather than 6.5 per cent at the end of 1973.

Therefore, as we begin 1973 we should expect government to take the lead in bringing down unemployment by reducing personal income taxes. Tax cuts would, I believe, tend to restrain wage demands from workers trying to keep pace with inflation, and thereby help to moderate inflation.

Mr. Turner (Finance Minister John Turner) has proposed tax incentives to business and expressed faith in businessmen's willingness to invest. Countries are also now jobs and a lower rate of price increase. He should place the same faith in labor's willingness to trade gains in income from tax cuts in their demands at the bargaining table.

Union Leaders Like Coaches They Have to Satisfy Fans

VANCOUVER (CP) — What do union leaders and management leaders have in common with football coaches

"Unless they satisfy the fans, they're out looking for a job," says mediator Clive McKee. "They must look good —their livelihood depends on it. If it's made too damn easy, you don't satisfy the equation."

In bargaining talks Mr. McKee is able to be scrupulously neutral. Observers say he has an excellent capacity for grasping not only the problems, but often the unexpressed feelings in these problems. As a result, both labor and management are unanimous in the opinion that Mr. McKee is unsurpassed as a mediator.

He is distressed at "the absurdity of role-playing at labor negotiations today."

"The time has come to get rid of all the role-playing on the part of both management and labor and to throw out the bargaining table confrontation-type mentality," he said.

"That's what labor relations are today. . . . A good negotiator carries a performer's card; for negotiations must not only be done, they must seem to be done."

Mr. McKee recently emerged from 56-hour marathon talks between Pacific Press Ltd., publishers of Vancouver's two daily newspapers, and six unions. From these negotiations, a formula emerged for easing the disruptive effects of automation.

The formula allows Pacific Press to introduce technological changes and reduce the work force by attrition. But once the size of any of the separate union jurisdictions is reduced by five per cent, the formula is over. It requires Pacific Press to pay the affected union the current basic wage rate of the displaced worker or workers. Pacific Press would bank the money for the union to draw and use as it sees fit.

Mr. McKee was born and educated in England. He came to Canada with his wife, Grace, after the war, joined the CBC as an engineer and later became an executive. He moved to Vancouver four years ago.

He said he believes that labor-management relations in British Columbia have "no where to go but up."

The poor working relationship in B.C. is because of the history of companies and personalities, he said.

"I've been shocked at the personality wars that creep into certain negotiations here.

"In the rest of the country, back east and in the States, a kind of amorphous, corporate-bloc relationship exists where the man represents the corporation and the union doesn't hate him quite so vice versa.

Mr. McKee said negotiations are too often unprepared for, and must be handled by specialists day after day, but the key is to build a relationship, "and this doesn't happen just when you're about to sit down at the bargaining table. It's got to be worked on all year round."

Building big pension plans or things of this nature is not the answer, he said, for this form of development "can hold a man to a detested job and become a form of real industrial servitude."

"You are never going to make the work force happy," Mr. McKee said. "Never. But you can do a great deal to bring both sides better harmony. It all comes down to human relations.

"If I were to consider myself as anything it would be as a human-relations expert . . . an employee-employer consultant."

Mr. McKee might succeed in this aim. Now that the provincial mediation commission no longer exists, he has gone into private practice as an employee-employer consultant.

Mirrors Help Train Teachers

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — Twenty-eight youngsters in Grades 2 and 4 recently completed a month of classes at Lakehead University's faculty of education.

The pupils were taught in customary fashion by their teacher, Loretta Margetti, but the class was observed behind special one-way mirrors by student teachers.

The campus classroom, a former student lounge, was furnished with child-size tables, cupboards, sinks and equipment like that available in an average school room.

Large one-way mirrors span one wall, hiding student teachers, parents and faculty members seated in a small gallery on the other side. A one-way audio system allows observers to tune in on class activities.

"It's kind of freaky when the kids come up to the window and look right in the eye," said faculty student Jim Lazan. They've become so used to the mirror effect, they forget we're watching them."

Another student, Renata Rizzo, said the pupils "aren't putting on a show" for the hidden observers. She said it is better training than "practice teaching," where new teachers are often placed in "a false classroom—atmosphere" in which children take advantage of the novices.

Other elementary classes will be held in the experimental classroom during the winter.

Danes Are Converted To Soviet Automobile

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Ruth Klausen commutes 70 miles a day to her book-keeping job, driving a roomy four-door sedan that is changing traditional Danish thinkin, about Soviet cars.

"We used to have French and German cars, but this one beats them all," Mrs. Klausen said after operating the Soviet-built car for a year. "It was very cheap, we have no repairs, it never lets me down even on cold mornings and the whole family can crowd in over weekends."

She was talking about the Shigali Vaz 2104, better known as the Lada or the Russian Fiat. The Lada is made by the Soviets under a licensing arrangement allowing them to utilize Italian know-how from the Fiat company. It is the first Soviet-built car to be truly competitive with Western European products.

Part of its success is due to its un-Russian looks which reflect its Italian heritage, and because it sells for about $3,500, half of that being sales taxes and customs duties. Its delivered price is about $700 cheaper than a comparable Western make.

The Lada does not sell nearly as well as the Volkswagen, Volvo, Opel or Morris, but it is outselling U.S.-built cars 2 to 1 in Denmark. In fact, it is one of the few Soviet-made items that outsells American products in Western Europe. Danes consider U.S.-made cars too big and expensive.

The Lada accounts for about 10 per cent of the 30,000 Soviet-built cars sold in Denmark in 1972. The sales are double those in 1971.

The Soviets have been selling cars in Denmark for more than 20 years—without much luck until the Lada came in. The Volvo is sold almost exclusively for taxicab use.

Danish experts who tested the Lada generally gave it good marks. But they say that the Lada lacks disc brakes on the rear, its ventilation is unsatisfactory and its steering is somewhat heavy.

A Lada can be fixed at most repair shops in Denmark, and Italian Fiat parts are used to some extent. But the Soviets appear to keep importers and dealers well stocked with spare parts.

Propaganda Everywhere In Army-ruled Brazil

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Subtle government propaganda is everywhere—on movie screens, radio and TV and billboards—in Latin America's biggest country.

Professionally prepared messages emphasize progress Brazil has made since the armed forces took over the government nearly nine years ago. They do not specifically praise President Emilio G. Medici, an ex-army general, or any of his civilian or military assistants.

Brazilians unknowingly find themselves humming catchy government tunes urging patriotism, the work ethic, cleanliness and other national goals.

The whole campaign is run by a not-so-secret agency called AERP.

The initials in Portuguese for special bureau of public relations. The head of it is an army colonel, Otavio Costa, who almost never makes public appearances.

"You mad Brazil," large color posters proclaim in bus stations and airports. "There isn't a people on earth that won't collaborate with a well-intentioned, government," a radio and TV spot says.

Punjabi Border Row Leaves Many Paupers

PASRUR, Pakistan (AP) — Ghulam Nabi, grey at 55, believes he has lost everything except what he can carry on his back, and probably he is right.

He once had a farm in the border area just evacuated after last year's occupation by the Indian army.

Before departing the Indians devastated the area almost as thoroughly as the Pakistan army ripped through East Pakistan in 1971. Military tactics left a harsh legacy for Nabi, a landless farm laborer, and nearly 300,000 other Pakistanis fled from the area when war erupted in December, 1971.

He now has one of an estimated 1.2 million Pakistanis in the badly battered border provinces affected by the war and needing—according to Pakistani government appeal—$90 million for relief and rehabilitation.

The day the Indians left according to agreement, Nabi headed for home to see the damage. Police and the army already had been there and more than 100,000 land mines planted by both sides in 3,000 square miles of territory.

A portion of a classroom in a relief camp has been home for him, his wife, mother and three sons and two daughters for a year.

Nabi's family lives here with 4,000 other families representing 600 of the poorest Punjabis. Each adult gets one pound of flour a day, each child half that.

He and fellow refugees complain bitterly that government functionaries steal their rations and give them other troubles.

Once he gets home—to whatever is left of his house —Nabi will remain on the dole. Farmers will return too late to plant a food crop. The next planting will be in September, so they will live on handouts until the May, 1974, harvest.

Transportation is no scarce of facial sneak of getting 20 trucks from the army to haul refugees numbering hundreds of thousands. The Pakistan government, material, the United Nations Children's Fund has hired 50 camels.

Despite bleak prospects, officials here expect a real rush once the mines are cleared and areas reopened for settlement about mid-January.

Nabi's reasons for returning even when no home may exist, are uncomplicated: "It is my home place. I have no other place to go. Besides, they will not let us stay here."

Not all feel that way, although most do. A Pakistani Roman Catholic priest working in the area quotes a pharmacist friend who lived in Shakargarh town as saying: "This is the third time it has happened. First in 1948, then 1965, and then 1971. Why go back? How do we know it won't happen again?"

QUEBEC (CP) — Construction of a $10-million marine school within the Quebec port limits has been delayed. The school, when completed, would be able to accommodate about 1,000 students.

Advice Flows Freely

Turner Provides Hint Budget To Cut Taxes

Joanne MacKenzie

OTTAWA (CP) — If advice was worth a penny a word, Finance Minister John Turner could wipe out the national debt.

He had it poured to him from 10 directions Thursday as his provincial counterparts suggested ways to keep the economy healthy. They ranged from $1 billion tax cuts to price and wage freezes.

While saying his real reaction will be known only on federal budget night, due late this month or early in February, Mr. Turner left the definite impression that some tax cuts and expansion are "in" while the restrictive anti-inflation moves of the Liberal government in the late 1950s are "out."

With a minority, and with both the Conservatives and New Democrats demanding tax cuts as a stimulant to job creation, it is considered certain that Mr. Turner's budget will move in this direction.

But he still will have to sort out the welter of advice he was given Thursday before his new budget is announced in the next few weeks. Often, it was conflicting, although a few threads of unanimity ran through the discussions.

Every province wants more money, either through direct federal payments or by having the central government reduce its tax levies in certain fields to create more tax room for the provinces.

And the provinces all agreed that something must be done to reduce levels of unemployment, which ranged between six and seven per cent of the labor force through 1972.

Richer provinces renewed demands for Ottawa to turn over present shared-cost programs such as health and medical services to complete provincial control, giving tax abatements or direct grants instead and paying half the cost of such programs as it now does.

Others were worried that this kind of pull-out would kill any national standards in such programs and result in a patchwork situation from province to province.

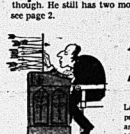
John Cavanagh, 18, is the lucky winner of The Intelligencer's trip for two to London, England. But the Sidney Township youth has a problem: he doesn't know who to take. He's not worried though. He still has two months to make up his mind. For story, see page 2.



Ontario Presentation

Ontario's formal presentation, released outside the closed conference, included some face-reddening quotes, in retrospect, from previous federal budgets.

Like these, from Mr. Turner's first budget last May 8:

"We expect unemployment will fall on the average in the course of this year. . . .

"We do not expect that food prices will rise at a fast this year as last. . . .

Both these predictions went down the drain as unemployment exceeded 1971 levels and prices, led by food, also marched upward.

John White, appointed Ontario treasurer Monday, proposed personal income taxes be cut by a fat $1 billion.

Four years of federal attempts to stabilize the economy had left the country "worse off than before," he said, and only an immediate tax cut could reduce unemployment, reinforce economic expansion and leave some scope for the provinces to raise the additional revenues they need to meet their growing responsibilities.

He suggested a nine-per-cent reduction in personal income taxes by reinstating a three-per-cent reduction allowed to expire Jan. 1 and by trimming another six per cent as well.

Five per cent of the cut would go to taxpayers and the provinces could increase their tax take by four per cent, Mr. White said.

Poison Injection Feared

Marilyn Lastman Finds Rings She Thought Gone

TORONTO (CP) — Marilyn Lastman, wife of multi-millionaire Mel Lastman, says she will take a lie detector test as soon as possible, probably in Toronto, to prove to skeptics that she was kidnapped Monday by at least two men.

Other developments Thursday in the bizarre case:

—A news conference at the Lastman home was told that Mrs. Lastman had found in a bedroom dresser drawer the three rings, valued at a total of $22,000, which she originally said the abductors had taken from her purse.

—It was disclosed a ransom had been set at $900,000.

—Mr. Lastman, mayor of the Borough of North York, said his wife had lived in terror for 48 hours, believing she would die from something the kidnappers had injected into her wrist. They said she would die without an antidote, but the deadline passed without incident.

—Police continued to insist there really had been a kidnapping.

Mr. Lastman said the kidnappers injected something into his wife's wrist while she was being held at "a house somewhere in the country." It was done before they agreed to release her and they said she would die in 48 hours without an antidote.

They told her that doctors didn't have the formula or the antidote. And if the ransom wasn't paid, she wouldn't get the antidote.

Of the injection, a police spokesman said: "She must feel she got it but I'm satisfied she didn't. She did feel a prick on the wrist. I saw a mark on her arm but they just went through the motions with some sort of thing. . . . I saw the hospital reports and now I feel they just pretended they did . . . but it was all an act."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The record-breaking January thaw came to an end in the most northerly regions of Ontario overnight but will lecontinue in southern sections today.

The cold air will continue its southward march today and reach the lower lakes tonight. The entire province will be colder Saturday with day-time temperatures ranging from the mid 20s to low 30s in the south to a few degrees above zero in the north.

The mayor said his wife's arms were black and blue from having blood samples taken as doctors tried unsuccessfully to find foreign substances in her blood stream.

"It sounds like something out of a Russian movie," he said.

Five Children Among Victims

Seven Slain in Black Muslim House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police are searching for a motive for the execution-type slayings of seven persons, including five children, in an expensive home that is headquarters for a Muslim religious sect.

Milwaukee Bucks basketball star Kareem Abdul Jabbar, who bought the house and donated it to the Hanafi Muslims, said of the crime: "I can think of only crazy people, lunatics who would do it." Jabbar was known as Lew Alcindor when he starred at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Jabbar, a member of the sect, was in Milwaukee when the slayings occurred about 4 p.m. EST Thursday in an area where many of Washington's wealthiest black families live in fine-looking brick and ranged in age from infancy to 36 years, police said.

Police said they were looking for four black men seen by witnesses running from the rear door of the home, and police intelligence sources indicated as many as eight men may have participated in the killings.

A police spokesman said it was "definitely an execution."

Police said they were having trouble identifying the victims. Two women who were found shot in the head, but alive, inside the house were identified as Bibi Khaalis and Almina Khaalis, both about 20.

Bibi Khaalis was reported in critical condition and Almina Khaalis in fair condition at Carolina civil-rights leader Dr. Reginald Hawkins, a Democratic candidate for governor in 1954 and 1968, was quoted as saying Bibi Khaalis was his daughter and that the three children originally reported found in a bathtub were hers.

Police said they could not confirm these identifications.

Police said some of the victims had been shot and others drowned. Police said it appeared that some of the victims had tried to flee their attackers and were gunned down as they fled.

Police used dogs in an attempt to trace the escape route of the attackers. Weapons found near the house included a .38 calibre revolver and a sawed-off shotgun, and police said that, while they believe the arms are related to the slaying, only ballistic tests could say for sure.

Police Lieut. Joseph O'Brien said the killings were discovered about 4:30 p.m. when an occupant of the home arrived from a shopping tour. When he got no answer at the front of the house he went around to the back and saw four black men running through the back yard, he told police.

Upon entering the house, the man, who was not identified, discovered the bodies.

Marchand Says Decision On Airport Not Yet Made

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Jean Marchand said Thursday the federal cabinet will decide next week whether to go ahead with the new Toronto international airport in Pickering Township.

He denied reports that the government already has decided against proceeding with the airport at the Pickering site.

Mr. Marchand said in an interview that he will discuss the matter with the Ontario government and possibly some Toronto-area MPs from all parties. He said last month that he was considering talks with other political parties on the issue.

The government received a report Jan. 4 on expropriation hearings held in December.

The report, submitted by hearing officer J. W. Swackhamer, does not contain any recommendations. It summarizes objections to the airport voiced at the hearings.

Health Pot Sweetened

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Marc Lalonde put forward today essentially the same proposal for federal-provincial health financial arrangements as former minister John Munro did 14 months ago.

But, he sweetened the pot with a number of changes in the formula that would mean considerably more money for the provinces if they approve the proposal.

The formula continues to tie rising health costs to growth in the gross national product (GNP) but advances the base year to 1972-73, a move that would increase the basic federal contributions considerably.

Picket Line Ignored

TORONTO (CP) — More than 100 postal employees, some led by John Potts, president of the Toronto local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, went through jeering, name-calling line of pickets today at the downtown main post office and postal terminal building. "Those who wish to work should be given the right," said Mr. Potts. But groups of 20 to 40 men refused to cross the street and pass through the picket line.

Jobless Insurance Terms Must Be Defined Before Changes

OTTAWA (CP) — The meaning of terms proposed in new unemployment insurance laws will be thrashed out by MPs and members of other interest groups, including labor and business, Unemployment Insurance Commission (UIC) officials said Thursday.

Guy Cousineau, UIC chairman, said in an interview that definitions of such terms as "just cause," "misconduct," and "good cause" included in a new bill will have to be worked out before it becomes law.

The bill, given first reading in the Commons Wednesday would deny benefits to persons who quit jobs without just cause or who are fired for "misconduct."

Also cut off would be people who without good cause turn down jobs available and considered suitable for them.

All persons in these categories who want to receive benefits would subsequently have to work at least eight weeks before again becoming eligible for payments.

Appeal procedures for those cut off from benefits by the proposed law will allow second chances. Manpower Minister Robert Andras estimated that about 10 per cent of present recipients would be cut off by the suggested amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act.

In the meantime, definitions of those ineligible could lead to controversy.

But Mr. Cousineau said that definitions proposed during committee study of the bill might be used for guidance.

In a Commons committee Thursday, Peter Reilly (PC—Ottawa West) said the problem of definition might be impossible without third party arbitration.

In reports Wednesday, The Canadian Press indicated erroneously that anyone who quit a job or was fired would be denied benefits.

Mr. Cousineau gave examples of people who clearly might fit some of the definitions.

"A person might be fired for misconduct if he was drunk on the job," he said.

Others who left their jobs could cite just cause if they had to work in filthy conditions, in deteriorated premises, or who have wages reduced by the amount paid in pension funds.

Mr. Andras also introduced an amendment Wednesday that would eliminate the $200 million ceiling on money the government could advance to the unemployment insurance fund.

In the Commons miscellaneous estimates committee Thursday opposition critics claimed the government knew the unemployment insurance fund was insufficient before the special sitting of Parliament in late August.

Yet the government did nothing to advise Parliament of the problems or to raise the ceiling then, James McGrath (PC—St. John's East) said.

"There was no attempt then to make Parliament aware of the situation. I suggest they did nothing for political reasons," he said.

The cost of unemployment payments was a major election issue.

Mr. Cousineau told the committee he had to assume Parliament was going to meet again on Sept. 28 as originally scheduled. But Prime Minister Trudeau called the Oct. 30 election at the end of the special session.

By mid-August, he said, it became evident the fund might run out before the end of the year. But he added that he had to wait until August unemployment figures were available (in mid-September) before he could make a reliable forecast of how much money was needed.

On Oct. 5, a governor-general's warrant was issued for $234 million which enabled payments to the end of December. Another warrant for $220 million was issued to supply funds until Feb. 7, 1973.

Without these funds, Mr. Andras told the committee, payments to the unemployed would have to be cut off.

Mr. Andras said total benefit cost of the unemployment insurance program for 1972 would be $1.870 million, nearly twice as much as the originally-projected $960 million.

Injunction Will Halt Job

TRENTON — Gerald Weaver, in a last ditch attempt to prevent construction of the town's municipal office - parking complex, has filed an injunction preventing contractors from setting foot on his land.

The injunction filed by the Weaver-run Quinte Realty Limited, was served on the town yesterday.

It prohibits Miron-Wiggers from trespassing on property adjacent to the former federal building - post office in the downtown core.

And according to John Heinen, Miron - Wiggers project planner on the site, it's "next to impossible to work there.

"We may be able to work there for a week or so, but then we'll have to stop," he said this morning.

The problem lies with the two - foot stretch of ground running the length of the project. Mr. Heinen says in order to excavate, he must have to set up equipment on land owned by Weaver.

At the Jan. 8 town council meeting, the former town solicitor and engineer, who has battled for five years to halt development of the site, advised the town through his solicitor that construction on his property during construction would be permitted in any way.

He demanded a bylaw be passed in order that he be compensated for any damage to his 77 Dundas Street West property. Once passed, he would permit workmen on his land.

His letter stated: "I have assured the contractor that if compensation is given that this bylaw is passed at the next regular council meeting, that we will permit necessary use of our property."

Frank Miron, present at the council session, says he favors such a bylaw. He also said without Weaver's sanction, there will "be a delay in completion of the excavation work".

Council decided to seek legal opinion and discuss the matter at its next regular meeting, this coming Monday.

Without the required elbow room, Mr. Heinen says work will come to a standstill. "Holding up construction always costs money, but dollars and cents — it's hard to say."

Yesterday, a letter was sent to town public utilities crew, removing three utility poles plus overhead wires to accommodate the building were pulled off the job. Douglas Manlow, UC manager, said the commission falls under the general terms of reference of town agenda procedure, setting foot on the Weaver property.

If the terms of the injunction had not been met by the town, Weaver could have possibly sued for damages or could have charged the town or contractor with trespassing.

Alphie's Last Lunch Was Back in the Bag

A brown paper bag brought Alphie Berrigan full circle on the job yesterday.

As a youngster of 16, reporting for his first day's work at Canadian National Atlas in St. Malo near his native Quebec City, he toted his lunch along in a paper bag.

Later on, he would afford the lunch pail status symbol.

But yesterday he was retiring after nearly 50 years railroading — one of the longest-service veterans at Belleville's CN yards. And to mark the event he brought his lunch along in a paper bag, just for old time's sake.

He joined the railroad in 1924 and worked his way up to become sub-foreman of the Belleville stores' yards.

Biggest changes he recalls during his years of service was the sudden uprooting from his hometown to Belleville in 1940, when wartime production demanded the expansion of the Quebec - area shops. There was diesel replacing steam in the late 50's.

In the meantime, Alphie and his wife Fernande — they live at 332 Charles St. — raised a son, John, a daughter, Maureen and seven elders in all grandchildren.

In retirement, Alphie says he plans to step-up a pursuit he's never been fully able to enjoy while working full time —even with a railroad: Travel.

He's On His Way To London Town

You'd think winning a two-week holiday in London, England, would be all roses.

Not so for John Cavanagh. The 18-year-old winner of The Intelligencer's Holiday Trip for two can't decide who to take.

"I'll probably go with some guy and I can fool around London with," said the wonder struck youth after receiving the news.

The list of candidates is large and stretches from Toronto, where John lived until six years ago, to his present Sidney Township's fourth concession.

Asked about female companionship, he said there were several girls who might be available but "not one I would go to London with."

Unemployed since the beginning of the month, the announcement of the trip got him couldn't have come as a greater shock to John. He sent in "10 or 15" applications at the Red Barn in Belleville but since his father also a contest enthusiast; is constantly coming home with forms, he wasn't sure which prize he had won.

"At first I didn't know whether to tell anybody," he recalled. "I couldn't believe it myself. Now, lots of people know."

John says he's fortunate in that so far, he hasn't been pestered by people looking for a free holiday.

The farthest east he's ever been is Saint John,. N.B. In fact, when asked what he knew about his English destination, his reply was, "Well, they've got Big Ben."

John and his lucky companion will have plenty to do.

After flying on BOAC or Air Canada from Toronto in March, the pair will stay in a first class hotel for 13 nights with full English breakfast every morning.

Also included in the package are a dozen theatre tickets, membership in a London casino, a rental car for the first two days and $100 spending money.

John's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cavanagh, indicated they were interested in the holiday.

Mr. Loewen, who owns the heating and air conditioning business at 640 Dundas St. East, told city police the drill and cord were stolen. The trucks were situated in the shop's parking lot.

Co-operation Key To Sills Bequest

Two Boston companies, a bank and a legal firm were today credited by Belleville solicitor Thomas Hamilton with bringing a $3 million bequest to Belleville's cultural center than expected.

As a result of the co-operation of the First National Bank of Boston and the legal firms of Bingham, Dana and Gold of Boston, the Charlotte Ellis bequest is now in the hands of Belleville General Hospital, said Mr. Templeman, the hospital's solicitor.

Mrs. Sills, who died in 1961, was a native of Belleville and left the money she inherited from her husband to several American and Canadian charities.

"Over the 12 years since Mrs. Sills' death, these firms worked endlessly with the hospital's solicitor and their Boston counsel to settle all matters but in particular on two extremely important legal procedures," said Mr. Templeman.

One was a tax fight to prove that the hospital was a charity and the other was an application for earlier distribution of most of the estate.

United States government tax authorities were determined that the hospital be disallowed as a charitable institution, Mr. Templeman said. Mr. Templeman. The tax would have amounted to $1 million.

Y and UCS To Meet Tomorrow

United Community Services and the Belleville Family YMCA will meet in closed workshop at the Four Seasons Hotel tomorrow.

Members of both boards — about 35 persons — will spend from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. discussing a five itemf agenda that hopefully will lead to an ironing-out of difficulties between the two bodies.

On the agenda are such topics as identifying changes in the community, their affect on programming areas to which the Y can address itself, priority items and methods of facilitating action.

"We want to know where we are," said Y secretary Di Diamandies this morning.

A news conference will follow the meeting.

Thieves Hit Heating Firm

Thieves broke into a truck outside Randy Loewen Heating Ltd. Dundas St. and stole an electric drill and 300-foot extension cord. They also stole 10 gallons of gas from another truck.

The tax battle continued through many courts, all resulting in a decision that the hospital was a charitable institution. The American government abandoned the issue in 1971.

Mrs. Sills' will stipulated that five relatives were to receive life-long annuities, with the remainder to the charitable institutions were not to be paid until the death of the five.

"In an early stage it became apparent that the capital in this huge estate was multiplying at such a rate that it greatly exceeded the amount necessary to protect these life annuitants," said Mr. Templeman.

The estate, originally worth $8 million, has now increased to about $11 million under the administration of the executors, The First National Bank of Boston.

In 1963, Mr. Templeman, on behalf of Belleville with Boston counsel, initiated proceedings to get an Ontario court order authorizing earlier distribution of the estate.

Because the annuities could be paid to the three surviving relatives from the income of the estate, the bank, as executor, decided to apply to the Ontario court order distributing $15 million to the hospital and retaining the $3-million to BGH.

The Ontario court's order was finally obtained in December.

Also in this procedure the First National Bank of Boston also was to file with the hospital's lawyer to achieve this, even though it would mean a further reduction in the very fund the bank was administering as trustee. The bank did not complain.

Belleville has benefitted from both the original charity of Mrs. Charlotte Ellis Sills, and the co-operation of her executor, who worked with Belleville and the Courts to assist the Canadian institutions.

Isolated Homes Robbed

BRIGHTON — Provincial police at the detachment here are becoming increasingly concerned following discovery of two break-ins at summer homes in Cramahe Township.

A spokesman for the detachment says the incidents in relation of both homes and the goods stolen, point to use of somebody for the thefts.

On Thursday, an RR 1, Castleton resident checking on the home of Joseph Harley of Toronto, reported a break-in. Police plan to meet tomorrow with Mr. Harley, who has been building up the residence as a retirement home. A freezer full of meat was cleared out by thieves, but a complete inventory is not known at this time.

The break-in occurred sometime after Sunday.

The first break-in, at a nearby house, was reported this past weekend by Dr. Robert Leckey, also a Toronto resident. Sometime since Dec. 31, thieves broke in to his summer house and made off with property valued at $2,-000.

Items missing include a chain saw, mini bike, 2 pair of binoculars, dishes, silverware, an electric fry pan, toaster, television set and bedding.

An OPP spokesman said we don't really get that many home break-ins in that area. It's very rural and an isolated area."

Constables Robert Creighton and Bruce Hunt are conducting investigations.

Millhaven Inmates Try Self-analysis

Two Loyalist College teachers have been involved since last September in taking a college credit course to about 15 inmates at Millhaven maximum security prison near Bath.

The course, called Individual and Society is equivalent to the introduction to behavioral science courses offered on the Belleville campus. But, when offered at Millhaven, the course has a more subtle purpose — the search for the reason the prisoners are in the institution and what keeps sending them back after discharge.

"They want to know how to stay out of prison without changing their value system," says Loyalist College instructor Rick Williams. With Eric Caulfield, a sociology teacher at the college, he spends about three hours — a week team-teaching at Millhaven.

The inmates requested the course and the college responded by sending the two instructors to Millhaven. Most of the members of the group have been sentenced to more than 10 years in prison, and most are repeaters.

"Prisons are fundamentally debilitating, and discharged inmates are continually being re-admitted — the revolving door concept," says Mr. Caulfield. "This group of prisoners is trying to break the pattern, and it is considered one of the most unusual groups in Canada."

Among the topics covered by the teachers are personality development, the structure of society, defence mechanisms and role playing. The discussions are kept at an academic level.

"We are not conducting group therapy or running an encounter group," the teachers say.

"The inmates want to find out what is in their personality that put them in prison," says Mr. Caulfield.

Most prisoners, says Mr. Williams, believe the "square johns" on the outside are so different from inmates in their desire to commit crimes. But those outside prison haven't the courage to act on their desires. The former believes the Western way of life is unfair, unjust, and discriminatory toward the poor and the disadvantaged.

"The mechanisms of society are basically inhumane," says Mr. Williams. "We are trying to show the prisoners ways of hooking on to their feelings about it, but acting them out in acceptable political and social ways.

"We're showing them how to be more selective in what they act out and giving them the skills for doing it safely." says Mr. Caulfield.

It's too soon yet to tell whether or not the course will be effective in achieving its desired goal. Already some members of the Millhaven group are being victimized by prison society for their apparent willingness to adopt the square ways of outsiders. But the two teachers are seeing friendships develop among members of the group and human relationships improve.

Refugees Settling In Well

All Ugandan Asian refugees in the Quinte area are now housed in apartments and duplexes in Belleville and Trenton.

Immigration division counsellor James Staveley, who is responsible for settling the displaced Ugandans coming to the Quinte district, said yesterday the job situation also was progressing "very favorably".

With all 16 school-age children in schools and wage or salary earners in most families, Mr. Staveley feels the major difficulties have been overcome.

"There are a lot of incidentals to iron out," he said. "In any refugee program you always run into some employment problems, such as the parity assessment of overseas qualifications.

The next problem Mr. Staveley foresees will arise when refugees already placed make application to sponsor the entry of relatives so that families will be reunited.

Belleville area Ugandans have relatives scattered through Italy, old Royal Air Force stations in Great Britain, in Tanzania, Kenya, Pakistan and Austria.

Thirty-year-old Madatali Hajani has been working for nine weeks in a Belleville grocery business and said he intends to set up his own. He will then sponsor the entry of his elder brother, his brother's wife and their two children. They are now living in Edinburgh, Scotland, after 12 months in British refugee camps.

Mr. Hajani's younger brother, Abdul, is married, his wife and two children to Belleville from Malawi two weeks ago. He too, intends to establish his own grocery business.

Mr. Staveley said the most recent refugee to arrive came to Belleville from Ottawa last Monday, Jan. 15, to rejoin other members of his family.

Mr. Staveley did not know if more would be coming into the area, or what the policy would be in processing applications to sponsor further entries.

Face Fascination

The subject is people as YMCA members discuss impressions around the world before a college of paper faces. Dave McLaughlin, left, an international Y member, and members of the Belleville Y's Men's club last night that Canada's image in the Caribbean is somewhat tarnished. With him is Y's Man Dave Hahn.

We're 'Ugly Canadians' In the Caribbean Area

Many Canadians have the wrong impression of the Caribbean, says a YMCA official recently returned from Trinidad.

Dave McLaughlin, assistant director of the Canadian World-Y Development Committee, says the picture painted by tourist agencies of a lush holiday region does not include the whole scene.

"We are only just coming to realize how complicated and serious the problems are," he told a Y's Men meeting at the east end recreation centre Thursday.

Prior to answering questions, the Y-sponsored traveller presented a multiple-image slide show clearly outlining difficulties Y workers must cope with in the Caribbean. Hungry mouths, rising population and economic disparity were just a few of the difficulties featured.

Mr. McLaughlin says the Canadian performance — so far — has been desultory.

"Canadians are the Americans of the Car'bean," he said. "It's about the only place where we have such a reputation."

In Trinidad, about 95 per cent of the banking is done by Canadians. Yet when the Y approached one bank to solicit funds for a swimming pool, the donation was only $100.

"They couldn't get away with something that small in Canada," commented Mr. McLaughlin.

Looking at the future in that area of the world, the Y official remains dubious.

"People are saying that if Canadian businesses would change their policies in the Caribbean, it would solve many problems," he said. "Maybe in the Y, we can get some to change."

One questioner asked Mr. McLaughlin why the Canadian World Y movement was so preoccupied in the West Indies, where partnership projects have been undertaken in Antigua, Barbados, Jamaica, Guyana, the Dominican Republic and Mexico, besides Trinidad.

"It's easier to get Canadians and Caribbeans together," he explained, adding it's cheaper to fly south than to Vancouver.

The Trinidad project, typical of many around the world, involved the YMCAs of Toronto and Port-of-Spain working together to revive a public pool that had been abandoned because of lack of staff and funds. Launched by three Canadians, including Mr. McLaughlin, between 1968 and 1971, the entire program is now manned solely by Trinidadians, helped only by a small Canadian subsidy.

Other projects are under way in New Guinea, Thailand, Uganda and Nigeria. Exchanges of youngsters and staff are also conducted by Canadian regional associations with similar bodies in Sweden, England, the Netherlands, Germany, Lebanon, Russia and Japan.

Mr. McLaughlin is one of the Y's six full-time employees in national World Y. Another works in Canada while the five remaining four are overseas, although the assistant director predicts the number will increase during the next few years.

He suggested Belleville members work with the other six Y's in its eastern Ontario district if it seriously wants to get into the international development scene.

Garneau, Quebec finance minister, called for an end to such federal shared-cost programs health and hospital services and post-secondary education. They suggested Ottawa turn over tax points to compensate the provinces for running such programs on their own.

Marc Lalonde, new federal health minister, goes before the conference today to present a revised health program, widely expected to give the provinces more autonomy in the 5-year federal money in this field.

While virtually every province was on the tax-cut bandwagon, some divergences cropped up on such things as price and wage controls.

Ed Schreyer, New Democratic premier and finance minister of Manitoba, called for an immediate freeze on food prices, which he said have been subject to "alarming recent increases."

Dave Barrett, NDP premier of British Columbia, was ready to go even further if he were prime minister, he told reporters, he would immediately impose "wage, price, profit and interest rate" controls.

Mr. Getty rejected the whole price control idea, saying the Conservative Alberta government feels the best way to reduce inflation is through better fiscal management.

Aims to Retain Provincial Office

Hockey's Alan Eagleson Retains Interest in Politics

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

There could be some fun at next month's annual meeting of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

Alan Eagleson, Hockey, who is president of the association is going to run for office again.

And the man will tried to take on the Moscow police force won't get a free ride.

Nobody, as yet, has publicly come out as an opponent to Eagleson. But almost certainly there will be one.

For there are a good many people in the party who don't want the man who put the Canada-Russia hockey series together to lead them.

And this could include some strong men close to Premier Davis, and perhaps the premier himself.

This is largely because they feel Eagleson wants to do too much—or perhaps be too big.

In terms of stature the party presidency has been an up and down job with the PC's.

Sometimes it has been potent, as during the Front day when A. D. MacKenzie was p. ident and also chief organizer, and ran the party.

At other times it has been much less important. As during the Roberts' days when Elmer Bell, though he did valuable grass-roots work, didn't figure very prominently in the active direction of the party. Roberts' henchmen did that.

Eagleson ran for office and beat it in 1969 because he looked up. A former member, he had been defeated in the '67 election and thought the provincial machine was much to blame.

He vowed he would reorganize the party. And he started off with a great bustle.

By the time of last year's election, however, the Davis machine was in. And it didn't listen to party presidents. Publicly Eagleson was out in front. But behind the scenes he didn't really figure.

Even though he may now have bold spots where feathers should be, because some have been plucked by enemies, he still looks to power.

So he will be in there fighting. Which for the meeting is just as well. For if PC annual meetings (they now are held every two years) are to have a fight over officers you wouldn't even be able to tell they were PC.

Wild Blue Yonder

What a fascinating experience lies before the more than 300 Hastings county students who are off to the Mediterranean for an educational cruise with British students who will include a number from exclusive Eton College and Slough school for girls.

Reporter Lenny Williamson's interesting report on the trip mentions the "cultural shock" aspect and this raises some potentially controversial points. It is surely arguable that English students, who will comprise the majority of passengers, are "socially unsophisticated" compared with Canadians, especially when the article itself points to the extensive travels of English students by the time they have graduated. Besides, there is the proximity of Europe which tends to give British students who travel that continent a breadth of view not found elsewhere.

One might be led to believe that the "permissiveness" of the school system here —as viewed by the British — along with the co-educational concept that standards in Canadian schools, would inspire an easier sense of rapport among young people. Does it though? Are the smoke-filled coffee shops dens of scintillating conversation? The British, for their part, wax very technical when another ship appears and discussion rages around its finer points. At least this seems to have been the impression gained from previous trips.

Possibly the best judge of this issue would be a quite between representatives of the two countries. This would undoubtedly reveal several levels of that overworked quality "sophistication", and of knowledge and deportment.

Certainly it is difficult to regard as socially unsophisticated students from the land of the Beatles, Mary Quant (actually she is Welsh) not to mention Princess Anne and Jet. Mark Phillips. And London, after all, spawned the postwar cult of the swinger image.

Other straws in the wind of adophistry, or the lack of it, are the wearing of uniform by British — a practice which is rare because it is strictly not cricket. And if holding hands in school corridors is routine here, the "swinging Britain" legend stops short of that on board a school cruise ship. As reporter Williamson points out, the British find it "distressing," in public at any rate.

So there is this paradox in Britain of swingers on the one hand and discipline on the other. It can make for some puzzling if not comical confrontations. At times the sense of rapport may be as remote as if the two nationalities (aside from common heritage aside) spoke different languages. At best they may find themselves on different wave lengths as it were. Yet when all is said and done this is all to the good. As organizer Lloyd Jones, Centennial secondary's vice-principal, points out, there will be group discussions between the students.

Bon Voyage then — what these young people will be experiencing is among the very best type of education available to anyone.

Single Parents Helped

Education today is so much of a continuing process that it is difficult to keep up with fresh developments and concepts. One however which we believe to be of particular value and which shows imagination and concern in the conception was described on our Women's page recently.

The program is in Calgary and it is called Contemporary Women. It helps women and mothers who are on their own and often on welfare because they do not have the education to obtain jobs.

This is now changing. As an official connected with the program said, the program is aimed at breaking the cycle of poverty where a parent was raised on welfare and was relying on the same support for the children. One young mother of two deserted by her husband five years ago said her whole world was the house and she was depressed all the time. Now she is moving toward an upgraded education and a greater degree of self-sufficiency.

It is a program which could be well emulated in other communities.

"We can finally keep up with the Joneses — he was laid off today!"

Unemployment Insurance Is Not Charity

Editor,
The Intelligencer: »

Unemployment Insurance again. Will discussion never end?

A recent rumor comes forth that those receiving benefits may be required to show proof of at least three job contacts per week or fear disqualification. This thought seems to be misconstrued in principle because it puts the onus on the recipient where it should not be and also changes the concept of the Unemployment Insurance Act.

It is not the unemployed who have led the country into a position whereby more and more have been forced to join the ranks. They should not be held responsible. It is most regretful that the fund has been over extended to the point where public money must be used to allow it to carry on. Where lies the fault here? Were we not told by Mr. Bryce Mackasey that the present emergency would be of short duration? Were we not told by the same source that a deficiency had been foreseen? If this be true, could not at that time arrangements be made to use public money in the form of a loan to be repaid in the future rather than a grant which is lost? Does it not suggest that some very limited thinking has been introduced along the line?

We must not lose sight of the fact that the Act is still an Insurance Plan the same as when it began in the 1940 decade. Simply this, those who are employed pay a premium to the plan to guard against financial distress should unemployment strike. The Act has not degenerated to welfare despite the present use of public funds. It was organized in your paper a short time ago by some learned Q.C. in Belleville that such a thing had taken place.

The Act had been administered with a fair degree of efficiency until it was overtaken by the present emergency. If this has actually been forseen, could it not have been taken care of in a more professional manner?

The Unemployment Insurance Act must not be allowed to become a plaything with which politicians may tamper in an effort to pass the buck. The plan itself is a dignified one worthy of the association of any citizen.

Those who are happily employed and who resent their premiums going to the unfortunate seem prone to forget that it is conceivable that they could one day join the ranks and have to draw benefits. Keep a charitable attitude in your mind on this. It's no fun to be out of work.

I feel that I have to repeat to those who are ignorant of the workings of the plan. It is one where a person pays a premium to guard against the hazards of being financially flat should unemployment overtake him. It is as simple as that. Do not confuse it with welfare which is an entirely different thing.

Aussies on Radical Course

The Globe and Mail

The winds of change are gusting across the continent of Australia, and the squalls are likely to reach storm proportions before they subside. Within two weeks of the first coming to power of the country's first Labor Government in 23 years, Australia had shed its "whites-only" reputation as well as its slavish acquiescence in United States foreign policy.

Prime Minister Gough Whitlam, in a series of far-reaching decisions has attempted to reverse Australia's long-standing discrimination against its own Aborigines and colonized would-be immigrants, pulled his country out of alignment with the big Western powers and placed it squarely with the Third-World nations. He has lifted a seven-year ban on Australians traveling to North Vietnam, ordered home the token force of 140 Australian military advisers in South Vietnam and announced the end of all defence aid to Saigon.

Australia will now support moves in the United Nations to lighten sanctions against Rhodesia, condemn South African apartheid and back black militants against Cape Town. The Prime Minister has already banned racially selected sports teams from South Africa and ended wheat exports to Rhodesia that were formerly justified on humanitarian grounds. Coerced visitors from Commonwealth countries will henceforth receive the same treatment as whites from those countries.

But Mr. Whitlam's new policy is already running into rough weather at home. Australia has a federalist system, somewhat like Canada's. Three of its six states — including the largest, New South Wales — are under conservative Governments, and all are bending every effort to topple Mr. Whitlam and his new policies. Invoking states' rights, they are resisting what they regard as the Prime Minister's revolutionary interference. Unfortunately, the racial issues — particularly Mr. Whitlam's attempt to reverse the states' treatment of Aborigines — are expected to provide the states with their most widely supported weapon.

Especially in Queensland, Aborigines are socially and economically restricted. They cannot move about freely, or receive a full wage or welfare allowances on the reserves. Mr. Whitlam's promise to give them land rights and other easements is sure to run into strong opposition in a country where many white Australians still hold deep racial prejudices against the original black inhabitants.

Since Mr. Whitlam is intellectually and temperamentally opposed to all forms of racism, the resulting battle is bound to be a struggle of profound proportions and will have a serious effect on the development and future of the country.

50 YEARS AGO

January 19, 1923

Citizens in general may not know that a city by-law passed in 1903 reads in part as follows: "If snow or ice is allowed to form it cannot be removed without injury to the sidewalks or pavements, to straw or cause to be strewn upon such walks or pavements, sand, ashes or some other suitable substance so that the same may be rendered free as possible from danger for pedestrians." The walks and pavements are now a slippery state and this by-law should be fully observed.

Stewardesses Speak Up

Brockville Recorder and Times

Airline stewardesses, as we all know, smile unceasingly as they prance about scattering good deeds hither and yon. No matter what sort of things you say to them — even "I think I'm going to be sick" — they are cordial and sympathetic. And they all have such nice legs.

But discontent is often lurking on the other side of those smiles these days. Stewardesses are tired of being pinched by passengers, insulted by authors and treated like shoe dogs by the airlines.

This has, inevitably, led to the formation of a stewardess rights movement. The movement has not, up until now, done much good. This is evident from the crude "Fly me" advertising campaign and the continuing flow of books about the man - in - every - port sex life stewardesses lead.

But there is a militant new addition to the cause these days, the Stewardess Anti-Defamation Defence League.

It may offer some hope. Joanne Chaplin, a former stewardess and the group's founder, says she wants to combat the stereotype of stewardesses as "brainless, vivacious sexpots."

Now like Miss America contestants and "Playboy Playmates", stewardesses aren't the entirely innocent victims of the institutionalizing of girls that some of them are beginning to complain about. The average imagined glamor no doubt lures many women into the job. But stewardesses differ from the legendary - dressed sisters because they have a real and useful function to perform. They are, for the most part, skilled, mature people doing a necessary job under often trying conditions, yet they are treated like erstz mistress-mothers.

The stewardesses' complaints, of course, only one vivid example of the general complications of sex discrimination. Stewardesses are girls, are objects of lust, are on earth (and in the air) for man's gratification.

Had some specific steps can be taken to liberate the stewardesses' image. Airlines, for one thing, can stop advertising their planes as if they're homemembering that women fly, too. (Has anyone wondered why, now that there are a few male stewards, we don't see any "I'm Bruno; Fly me" ads? J. Publishers can show more responsibility by not putting out books that promote the nymphomaniac-with-wings image.

Busing

Cambridge Reporter

It is ironic that at a time of one of the USA's greatest triumphs, the safe landing of the 11th and 12th men on the moon, one of that country's biggest concerns should be with busing.

The growing dissatisfaction with busing as a means of integration came to a head in Buffalo, N.Y. with the knife slaying of a teenager on a school bus. Two youths were charged with first-degree manslaughter and, ironically, 15 pupils were referred to family court.

It is almost inconceivable that a city should have to put up with the disorder and violence that seems to attend busing. The average student has no doubt more to learn on the bus than in school and told he was going to be bused to Kitchener — not far to benefit, but to achieve an arbitrary mix of races.

Of course, it's easy for Canadians to be smug about the problems south of the border — and we often are.

But we have the same problems they do — or the history of their past will repeat against them.

For that we should be grateful — and determined that never, ever, will we compromise the principle of finding the slightest hint of racial prejudice in our country.

Only massive changes in education and social philosophy can help the U.S. now. For us, it's not too late.

Bylaw on Snowmobiles

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

City residents who were hoping that snowmobiles would be banned on city streets or more particularly, on sidewalks, must have been disappointed by the bylaw which city council passed on Monday night — although there may be some reference to this in the fact that the bylaw calls on drivers to operate machines with mufflers.

Snowmobiles with a number of city residents and in letters we have received, it is clear that the opposition stems against snowmobiles is the real factor. People who have worked all day and are trying to rest can get very angry when one of these machines roars back and forth in front of their home, the driver either deaf-ening or oblivious to the fact that he is disturbing others.

In general, the city's new bylaw simply repeats a number of regulations already covered by the Highway Traffic Act and Motorized Snow Vehicles Act. Lights are required by the machines and drivers have to wear helmets, skidpla must be rigidly attached if towing is towed, the vehicles must be registered and insured and so on.

But although it prevents the operation of the vehicles on sidewalks, there is no restriction on their use on roads and streets, even the busy feeder arteries or in residential areas.

Today In History

Wilhelm I of Prussia proclaimed himself emperor of Germany 102 years ago today—in 1871—at Versailles, after the brief Franco-Prussian War. The new Reich included Austria, but included four kingdoms, five grand duchies, 13 other duchies or principalities and three free cities. The empire lasted till Nov. 9, 1918, when Wilhelm II, the son of Wilhelm I, fled to Holland after the collapse of order in Berlin.

1898—Leon Blum, 38-year-old member of Parliament, became the youngest president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada.

1943—Moscow proclaimed the end of the siege of Leningrad.

1945—Premier U Saw of Burma was arrested by the British for conspiring with the Japanese.

Those amazing English have been in the news again because of all things, London police confiscated Peter Simon's shot and killed a bank bandit recently. It was probably England's first time battle between cops and bank robbers.

London police don't usually carry arms. None had shot and killed the bandit until Simon had a gun because he was on his way to guard an embassy when he happened on the hold-up. He opened fire, and was hailed for his courage. The resulting controversy was between those who said the robber got his deserts, and others who believed the thought of armed police shooting it out with criminals in the streets.

The Manchester Guardian said of Simon's critics that their more extreme statements almost suggested his action was "unfair to armed men who should be able to go about their task without such unexpected and unpleasant shocks."

But nobody proposed, that we have heard of, that the practice should be armed. The policemen in London, and indeed through the numbers of armed detectives carrying out despite the fact that two police were murdered by gunfire in 1971, and one in each of the two preceding years.

A stiff-necked lot, the English, and what they don't know they don't want; such as the main drama of the chase, with bandits exchanging fire from carbines with police armed with rifles.

Bonnie and Clyde would have found London a dull place.

Custodian Friendly

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Twenty-five students and former students of M. B. McEachern public school in nearby Lambeth Tuesday that school custodian Howard Frank Sampson, 48, put his arm around girls at the school, tickled their sides and "spanked" their bottoms.

The students, were all aged between 13 and 15. One said Sampson once had kissed her on the cheek in the boiler room of the school and two 14-year-olds said the man once had given them "whisker rubs" by rubbing his cheek against their faces.

The girls were testifying at Sampson's Ontario Supreme Court trial on a charge of indecent assault in the death of Rhonda Henthorn, 13, of Lambeth, a student at the school. Sampson pleaded not guilty.

Court was told earlier the girl disappeared last Aug. 27 after leaving her home to look for soft drink bottles. Her body was found Oct. 14 in a conservation area near Lambeth.

In cross-examination, the girls agreed with defence lawyer N. A. Peel that Sampson was friendly, kind and often "playful" and was never mean to them or hurt them.

Support Act

OTTAWA (CP) — Jeannette Lavell's fight to retain her Indian status will be supported by organizations representing Canada's 305,000 Treaty Indians.

The groups will join with the federal government in the Supreme Court of Canada in April in supporting the validity of a section of the Indian Act which says Indian women who marry white men automatically lose their Indian status.

Balmy Day

NEW YORK (AP) — Temperatures in Central Park peaked at a balmy 66 degrees Thursday, setting a record and sending office workers and shoppers into the streets in shirt sleeves. The 66-degree reading eclipsed the 1963 record for the date by eight degrees. On Wednesday, the temperature was 60. The warm weather didn't discourage a number of ice enthusiasts. "Skaters filled the rink at Rockefeller Plaza, which ski experts slid on artificial snow brought in for National Ski Week.

Bombs Explode

BELFAST (CP) — A Roman Catholic church and school in Londonderry were badly damaged by bombs Thursday night as British soldiers reinforced security measures on Northern Ireland's second city.

The controls were removed a month ago after a period of relative quiet following the army's seizure of Irish Republican Army "no-go" areas in the city last summer.

Outlook Dark

NEW YORK (CP) — Several prominent officials who were or still are responsible for shaping foreign economic policy have painted a sombre picture of problems facing the United States and its key trading partners.

One of them, outgoing Commerce Secretary Peter Peterson, called Thursday for new agreements with Western Europe, Canada and Japan to spell out mutual trade, economic and monetary goals.

Police Complain Drug Addicts Quickly Released

NEW YORK (CP) — A top police official says the New York fight against narcotics is being hampered by judges who release nearly all those arrested on serious drug charges.

Deputy Chief Inspector William Bonacum, head of the city's police narcotics division, says virtually all those arrested are returned to the streets without spending time in prison.

"We could arrest all the narcotics addicts in New York City within three years," Bonacum said in an interview.

"But what's the use? We arrest them over and over again and the system turns them back out over and over again."

Figures compiled by Bonacum's office show 26,799 persons were arrested in 1970 on serious drug charges. Of these, only 366, or one per cent, were convicted and sent to state prison. In 1971, the latest year for which figures are available, 20,762 persons were charged and 418, or two per cent, were imprisoned.

Almost all of those convicted were placed on probation, remanded to narcotic treatment centres for one or four months, or given the benefit of a lesser charge which meant spending less than a year in jail.

Bonacum's division spent about $10 million in 1972, including $500,000 to buy narcotics from pushers.

This "buying" money increased tenfold in the wake of criticism that his division was concentrating too much on small-time users and not enough on the major dealers. As a result, the number of felony arrests has dropped but the division says it is making "quality" arrests.

Bonacum now is sending men from his 686-man division into the courts to get a finding on each of the arrests made during 1972.

"And then I'm going to say: 'We spent $10 million to put 200 people into jail and I'm going to ask: 'Was it worth it?'"

Bonacum admits he is pessimistic about ending the growing narcotics trade in the city.

"How can I be otherwise when one per cent goes to prison and 99 per cent is turned out again?

"That means I've got to put my men on the street again, use my informants again, spend the city's money again, do 99 per cent of the work again and for what? To pump back another 99 percent into the system."

Despite his concern, Bonacum opposes legislation currently proposed by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller which recommends mandatory life sentences for drug pushers.

Calling it an "Archie Bunker law," he says it would be completely unworkable. "Most of the drug addicts in the city—estimated at up to 300,000—would qualify as pushers because they sell some narcotics to support their habits.

"If Rockefeller really feels so strongly about it, he should direct the parole commission to stop paroling them, he should build courts, he should build prisons."

Government Will Not Intervene in Bell Case

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has decided against intervening in the Bell Canada application for telephone rate increases now before the Canadian transport commission, Communications Minister Gerard Pelletier said Thursday.

But he told the Commons the government still has the power to change or reject a commission decision.

Outside the House, he told reporters the government would be in an awkward position if it appeared before the commission while holding the power to review the commission's ruling. It would then appear to be both judge and a party in the case.

Bell Canada is appearing before the commission on a request for rate boosts in 1973. An application for increases in 1974 will be heard later.

The commission was told Thursday that a successful Bell Canada campaign to install more telephone extensions may hasten rate increases in six Ontario and Quebec exchanges.

Additional phones in the Ontario exchanges of Smiths Falls, Thornhill, Stevensville, Rosedale and Dresden and the Quebec exchange of Crabtree have put those exchanges into more expensive monthly rate brackets.

The company, will probably apply to the Canadian transport commission at the end of April for permission to charge higher rates in those areas.

Bell Vice-President, L. S. Bailey testified in response to questioning by Quebec that the big company launched a campaign in November to install extension telephones in homes free of charge.

The campaign target was 36,000 new telephones in Quebec at ten but it actually netted 92,000 installations.

Bell sets a monthly flat rate based on the number of telephones in a given exchange and boosts the rate when the telephone population exceeds a fixed level.

Ontario Ministers Hear Northern Needs

DRYDEN, Ont. (CP) — Ontario' cabinet ministers—those who could beat the weather to reach this northern town of 6,000—heard complaints and predictions Thursday about the future of the area.

In the first of a series of sittings the ministers were asked, among other things, for better parks, air-pollution control, rail and road transportation and industry incentives.

Environment Minister James Auld, Labor Minister Fern Guindon, Agriculture Minister William Stewart and Claude Bennett, minister of industry and tourism, were warned of a possible 30-per-cent layoff at the Dryden Paper Co. Ltd. if concessions to the pulp and paper industry are not forthcoming; and told by an Indian spokesman that his people are being used as "specimens" in the mercury-poison experiment.

Two ministers, A. B. R. Lawrence, minister of resources development, and Gordon Carton, transporting, and communications, did not arrive as expected for the opening session.

Mr. Lawrence was reported stranded in Sault Ste. Marie because the airport in this town 150 miles northwest of Thunder Bay was closed down for 48 hours.

If the weather clears today, the ministers are to fly to the Sandy Lake Indian reserve.

Young Men Now IRA Leaders

LONDON (CP) — William Whitelaw, Britain's secretary for Northern Ireland, says leadership of the Irish Republican Army is passing to younger, more desperate and more irrational leaders as the increasing the risk of scattered outbursts of spectacular violence.

In an interview with The Canadian Press, the urbane minister ruled out the possibility of an international peacekeeping force in Ireland and said he will not talk again to the outlawed IRA.

The burly British troubleshooter, affable son of landed gentry, added that Canadians and Americans contributing to various Irish causes should realize that their money is sometimes re-directed to support the IRA.

He said a suggestion of 1975 as the date when British forces might be withdrawn from Northern Ireland is "a little optimistic." Whitelaw said the troops will remain until lives and property are safe in Ulster.

Split Jury Convicts Man of Murdering 25

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — The holdout juror who cast the final guilty vote says she still has doubts and thinks Juan Corona—convicted of murdering 25 men—deserves another trial. The jury foreman says the first ballot taken was 7 to 5 for acquittal.

Corona, a 36-year-old farm labor contractor, was found guilty Thursday of 25 counts of first-degree murder. The slayings of men and two women reached the verdict after 46 hours of deliberation during eight days.

Corona was accused of killing 25 transient farm workers whose hacked and stabbed bodies were discovered in 1971 makeshift graves 100 miles northeast of San Francisco.

It was the biggest mass murder charge in U.S. history. The trial lasted 14 weeks.

Corona's lawyer, Richard Hawk, immediately moved for a new trial, and a hearing on his motion was scheduled Jan. 20.

Judge Richard E. Patton declared sentencing could after the hearing. Under California law, Corona could receive a maximum sentence of 25 consecutive life terms.

But juror Naomi Underwood said in an interview at her home later that "I do feel Juan Corona deserves another trial."

"I have doubts yet," said Mrs. Underwood, a 41-year-old widow. "I don't think they had enough evidence. I still doubt I made the right decision."

Mrs. Underwood also said "the pressure was pretty great on her in jury deliberations. The jury stood at 11 to 1 for conviction for two days before Mrs. Underwood changed her vote Thursday morning.

PC Says Report Changed

OTTAWA (CP) — A Progressive Conservative critic took up the cudgels Thursday for postal workers seeking a new contract, charging the government with trying to alter proposals of a conciliation report that could form the basis for a working agreement.

James McGrath (PC—St. John's East), the Conservative labor critic, challenged the government in the Commons to table copies of a government memorandum to the union negotiator.

The memorandum includes changes from the original report to clauses dealing with a joint union-management manpower committee and with vacation leave.

Postmaster-General Andre Ouellet said later that the alterations were not basic to the report, but only put terms in contract language and made suggestions to make the manpower committee workable.

While the statements were being made, the national executive of the Council of Postal Unions (CPU) was meeting and awaiting clarification of a clause regarding job classification grievances.

Clarification of the clause was expected to come from Owen Shime of Toronto, chairman of the conciliation board which prepared the report. The union feels that the classification grievances should be subject to arbitration while the government disagrees with this view.

Mr. McGrath said that complaints from sectors have been added to the conciliation board report that put the union in an awkward position.

Mr. Ouellet replied that Mr. McGrath was playing with words and was being irresponsible.

"He want to sign a contract," he said. If some words are not satisfactory, the union negotiators should come back to the bargaining table.

The change to the manpower committee clause suggested by government negotiators says that where a consultation process is provided for in the collective agreement, it would take precedence over committee meetings unless it is agreed the matter should be referred directly to the joint committee.

There is no similar statement in the conciliation board report.

Purpose of the manpower committee would be to talk over technological and job classification and description, hours of work and other changes. Union leaders say they feel the government's proposed clause could delay discussions in the new committee.

The vacation leave changes would have time off calculated on the basis of a certain number of days off per month worked, rather than the given numbers of weeks per year as outlined in the conciliation report.

Man Seeks To Divorce Loved Wife

PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Steelworker Howard Thomas loves his dying wife of 32 years, but is suing her for divorce in an effort to regain lost welfare benefits.

"There is no other answer," Thomas said in an interview Thursday. "I'm going to get a divorce in order to help my wife. I love her but I'm at the end of my rope."

Thomas's ordeal began in November when the state division of family services, which administers the state's medical aid program in Florida, cut off the $117 a month he had been receiving to help his wife Ruth, 43, who, in the advanced stages of multiple sclerosis, is confined to a nursing home.

The couple have six children, two of whom still live at home.

Thomas said he was told by the state division that it made a mistake 17 months earlier in ruling him eligible for the program. He said he was told that his monthly income of $500 was above the maximum amount a person can make and still receive the medical benefits.

"They said they were sorry but there was nothing they could do," Thomas said.

Without the aid, Thomas said, he cannot afford the $500 a month it costs to keep his wife in the nursing home.

Thomas said the divorce, which becomes final in about 10 days, will allow his wife to qualify for benefits because she will then be without any means of support.

"I can't help but feel guilty about it, but there was nothing else I could do," he said. "I just thank God she won't have to know about it. She's nothing but a vegetable anymore. She can't talk and she can't understand. She's just dwindling away."

Royal Romance Rumor

THE HAGUE (Reuter) — Dutch officials confirmed Thursday that Princess Christina, youngest daughter of Queen Juliana, had introduced a 28-year-old Jaime de Marichalar y Sainz de Baranda, to her parents last Christmas.

Dutch newspapers gave pronounced Wednesday to rumors of a romance between the 21-year-old princess and Bourrec, a Montreal music student.

In Montreal, Bourrec denied any romantic involvement with the princess and said the only connection between them is that they have both been studying at the same music school in Montreal.

But officials in the Dutch government information service here said that Bourrec had spent the Christmas holiday at Soestdijk Palace, the home of the Dutch royal family, near Utrecht.

Princess Christina went to Canada in 1968 to begin a four-year course at the Ecole de Musique de Vincent d'Indy.

The romance report was published in the Amsterdam newspaper De Telegraaf under the headline: "In Canada they expect Christina and Bourrec."

The association between Christina and the French-Canadian music student is regarded in some circles as expected that, shortly, the youngest daughter of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard will get married."

The Rotterdam newspaper Algemeen Dagblad published the rumors under the heading "Love Came in Canada". It said it was not known whether there would be an engagement in the near future because the princess had said nothing so far.

Girls Join Cadet Police Leadership Merits Taught

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — A police force. It just that being associated with the police instructors perhaps aroused their interest in following a profession that serves the community."

Mrs. Lederman said she would like the girls' program expanded to include visits to extended care patients and senior citizens' homes. She also would like to organize a free emergency baby-sitting service.

There are three platoons in the girls' company. The 16- and 17-year-olds study first aid, those 12 and 13 mapping and orientation, and those 14 to 16 drill. For the second hour of their weekly meetings they have a choice of activities such as basketball, grooming or cooking. Several of the girls have joined the newly formed pipe and drum band.

Mrs. Lederman said one 98-pound girl wanted to take boxing and weight lifting.

"We told her it might just develop muscles in the wrong places."

Stricter Food Rules Introduced

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Strict new food labelling rules were announced by the U.S. government Wednesday to help people on diets and give the public more information about what is in the food it eats.

Any food for which a nutritional claim is made must carry a label giving the amount of calories, carbohydrates and proteins it contains.

Products normally sold as "enriched" or "fortified" will require full labelling.

Products containing cholesterol and fat must state the quantities of these substances for those concerned about heart disease.

Another rule is designed to make food labelling more consistent and easier for the consumer to understand. It standardized the details that must be included on the ingredients in various kinds of foods.

The rules are final but will be introduced gradually and will not be fully effective until the end of 1974, because of technical problems to food producers in implementing them.

Queen Faces Change in Rule

COPENHAGEN (AP) — One year after taking the throne, Denmark's Queen Margrethe is a monarch tied to the tradition set by her father and faced with prospects of change.

Margrethe wept openly when she was proclaimed queen Jan. 15, 1972, the day after the death of King Frederik IX.

Because the old sailor king loved the royal yacht, Margrethe spent much of the summer cruising and visiting the provinces with her French born husband, Prince Henrik, 38, and their two children, Crown Prince Frederik, 3, and Prince Joachim, 2.

Such tradition may have pleased the Danes, but there also was some disappointment that Margrethe did not broaden contacts between the palace and the people at a time when monarchy again is being debated.

Some reporters found the court less open than in King Frederik's 25-year-reign. A veteran reporter of a weekly magazine said he has "all but given up direct contact with the court."

At a news conference last November, the first held by a reigning Danish monarch, Margrethe indicated she did not intend to make such conferences a fixture of her reign.

Jens Otto Krag, former prime minister, said in a diary published recently, that while the old king had no knowledge of politics, Margrethe "has political insight."

The constitution gives no political powers to a monarch, but government sources said Margrethe makes certain she knows what is in any major legislation before she goes through the formality of signing it.

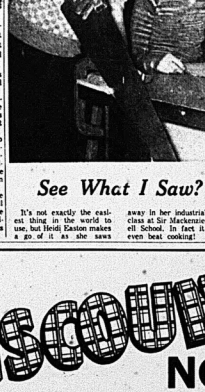
Readings Rendered

A variety of readings highlighted a recent January meeting of the Lonsdale Women's Institute.

Mrs. B. Walsh read a poem "The woman who wants to do something finds a way, the others find an excuse". Mrs. T. McGuiness gave a reading on the status of unemployment. A selection on "Visitors From Outer Space" was rendered by Mrs. F. Farrell. Mrs. B. Walsh read the story of the abducted boy from Colborne.

Roll call for the meeting, with Mrs. J. Stafford, presiding consisted of naming a Canadian Province, its premier or its flower.

Mrs. F. Farrell will attend the 4H leaders instruction course in Foxboro January 24 and 25.



See What I Saw?

It's not exactly the easiest thing in the world to use, but Heidi Easton makes a go of it as she saws away in her industrial arts class at Sir Mackenzie Bowell School. In fact it may even beat cooking!

There's A 'Switch-over' At Sir Mackenzie Bowell

By JOANNE MacKENZIE
Staff Reporter

School just isn't the same anymore!

Walk into a home economics class at Sir Mackenzie Bowell School, Belleville and you'll find boys sewing on buttons and testing their knowledge skills making French toast.

Meanwhile right across the hall in the industrial arts classroom, girls are sawing away, or using lathes, or wiring toasters.

It's quite a switch if you grew up with the notion of "that's only for girls or "this is a man's job."

But times are changing and Sir Mackenzie Bowell is moving right along with them.

Although the classes themselves consist mainly of grade eight students, are on an experimental basis, according to Mr. Lyle Sutherland, principal, he also says the students' enthusiasm is high and they seem to enjoy the program.

Back in the all-boy home-ec class with an aroma of burnt toast, boys are learning to sew buttons and will eventually be making ties and other projects on the sewing machines. Cooking basics are also learned.

Mrs. P. Lucas, home economics teacher remarks boys learn skills that will help them later as bachelors or husbands. She also says that the boys may be gaining an edge ahead and try things where as the girls are more hesitant.

What does Mr. K. McLeod have to say about his all girl industrial arts class? Apart from finding them a little giggish at times he says that the girls are conscientious and a very positive group. He teaches them things that may come in handy around their homes and tries to encorporate as many academic subjects as possible.

Two of his students Cheryl Herrington and Shelley Locklin, wish to continue in high school and Cheryl hopes to become a mechanic. Shelley is interested in carpentry adding that she "wants to be able to know what to do when the car breaks down."

What are some of the reasons for taking the classes?

Some of the students, looking a bit frustrated, say it's just the way their schedules turned out. The majority say that it's good experience, there are good projects that you can do, it helps you in the future.

Then of course there's the changing attitudes and the liberation of the sexes.

Leaving the classroom, it looks like it could just be lots of fun.

'Housing' Costs Her Two Children

OTTAWA (CP) — Lauretten Bastien has given up two of her five children in an effort to get into Ottawa's public housing.

Mrs. Bastien says she was told last June by the Ottawa housing authority that there were no four-bedroom units available for her in public housing.

After consultation with a social worker she gave up two of her children to the Children's Aid Society.

The family's only income is a monthly $265 provincial mother's allowance and $22 federal family allowance.

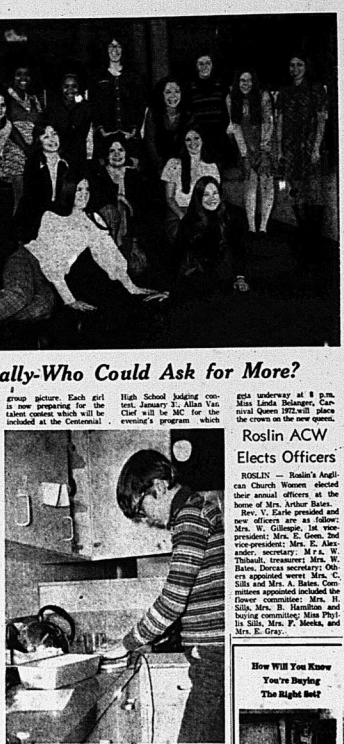
The housing authority has promised to help Mrs. Bastien "as soon as we are able," but as yet she has had no word.

There are 2,000 families on the waiting list for public housing.

The house in which the Bastien family now lives has been found to be substandard by the city's minimum standards office.

Now Really-Who Could Ask for More?

Though each Winter Carnival Queen concestant is a high school student, time was taken for a special group picture. Each girl is now preparing for the talent contest which will be included at the Centennial High School judging contest, January 31; Allan Van Clief will be MC for the evening's program which gets underway at 8 p.m. Miss Linda Belanger, Carnival Queen 1972 will place the crown on the new queen.



This Better Be Good!

Cooking wasn't supposed to be his forte. Who knows what tasty dish David Reed may come up with in his home-ec class at Sir Mackenzie Bowell. An added feature is that the students get to eat their cooking!

Man Celebrates Ninetieth Recalls 1893 Voyage

Mr. Sam Whiley came to Canada from Manchester, England in 1893.

He was one of a group of orphans being sent to the colonies. The voyage was made on a ship powered by steam and sail. The young misters' diet consisted of treacle, bread and tea. They were not allowed on deck, and Mr. Whiley remembers that when he managed to sneak out, he was nearly washed overboard by a wave.

After a train trip from Halifax to Belleville he recalls the walk from the train station to Rawdon where Norman St. He spent much of his youth on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. David Whitney, Ameliasburgh.

Among his reminiscences Mr. Whiley remembers the times he drove a team of horses and sleigh loaded with wood across the ice on the bay to avoid paying the toll on the Bay Bridge.

First Act for Old

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — The first official act of Guelph city council for 1973 was to put up a $7,500 grant to finance the Social Centre for Seniors, a centre for Guelph's elderly people. "Frankly I can't think of a better way of starting the New Year," said Mayor Norm Jary.

Roslin ACW Elects Officers

ROSLIN — Rosiin's Anglican Church Women elected their annual officers at the home of Mrs. Arthur Bates.

Ann Landers
Follow Natural Instincts Bite Person Back

Dear Ann Landers: A 13-year-old asked what to do about his four-year-old brother who bit people. He said his parents had tried withholding desserts, severe scoldings and so on. Nothing worked. He bit the cleaning lady, the TV repairman and even bit her expected visitors. You were the boy's last resort. You said: Try the same thing the daughter bit you when she was two years and bite him right back. Your final line was, "She never bit me or anyone else after that."

Please say you were joking. I can't believe Ann Landers would do such a thing.—Let Down

Dear L.D.: I wasn't Ann Landers when I bit my daughter, but it worked, and that's what counts. It may not have been according to "The Book" but there are times when a mother's instinct is better than any book.

Children's responses vary, no matter how severely you punish them. Some cry, they won't bat an eyelash.) Other youngsters disguise indignation with a look at them crossexed. A mother knows her kids better than any psychologist and I'm for doing what comes naturally.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I moved from our home town 5 years ago. My parents are in their 70s, and while there is ill will, we do not get close. They were born to arguing and made no attempt to socialize.

Yesterday I received a letter informing me that a cousin (my aunt's daughter) is coming from another country to visit in our home. I do not know this woman's age (it wasn't mentioned). I cannot speak her language and she cannot speak mine. I didn't know she existed until this letter arrived.

I phoned my mother and asked how this person got our address. She said, "I gave it to her. Be nice and put a roof over her head."

Successful Living
Identify Faults, Virtues For Lifetime Decision

By DORIS CLARK

Often courtship means to both parties, putting their best foot forward. Yet it is only after we get to know a person well enough to identify faults as well as virtues, and build a friendship and respect that transcends both, that the important lifetime decision should be made. We sometimes find that seeming high romance was not much more than physical attraction.

Just like those who have been some promising matches which have never come off because of the fears of one or both partners of committing themselves for life.

Most people want their marriage to last, and if they try hard enough, and if they each have what they most need in carrying on, most can make it.

Dear Doris: My parents fought often and I married at 19 more to get away from this unhappy home than because I was in love. I wasn't. I told my husband I didn't love him but he wanted me anyway, saying he couldn't live without me, that he would kill himself.

Anyway we had 4 relations and I thought it was my duty to marry him. We had a few months of happiness. But he never understood me or tried to. Never put his arm around me or even called me "Dear". I kept how I felt to myself.

• He lied to me about money and in many ways I lost confidence in him. My father thought I was too hard on him as I stuck. Besides, the children did not want us to break up.

Now I want out. I am near breakdown; have told his parents and mine something about it all but they show only surprise. No help. He tries harder to please me but changes moods so fast it gives me a headache.

Is it right to break up a home for what seems to be selfish reasons? — Rocky Marriage.

Dear Rocky: It sounds all bad. Can it be? There are times when home atmosphere is so freezing cold that it chills all who abides and it is far worse for children or adults than separation.

The first mistake was marrying someone without love. And his kind of love apparently terribly immature and un-giving. Yet, I cannot make your decision to quit. A consultation with a social worker whose job is family relations could sort things out and help you decide whether there might yet be hope.

Dear Doris: Please send me your leaflet of good nourishment and the list of products and their values. — S.A.H.

Dear SMA.H.: You cannot go far wrong if you go by Canada's Food Guide, and a copy is in the mail to you. This gives you plenty of scope while making sure you get things you simply must have for health.

Most Canadian diets have too much sugar in them, and the sugar is the refined white kind. Brown sugar is better, honey even better than that. We should replace the yummy desserts with more delicious fresh fruits.

We should not cringe at the taste of hoping and using fresh vegetables right through the winter. Prepared foods — in cans or frozen — provide convenience but caused help lacking in the minerals that have been processed out of them; vitamins go, too.

(Doris can help you with that puzzling decision. Write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Are insecurities people just fazzy?

NO. People who never seem to make a move to improve themselves may simply lack confidence rather than ambition. Actually, a person who constantly makes an effort to improve suggests that he is definitely has no ambitious might be more eager to make a name for himself than many go-getters. Yet the thought of failure or the fear of drawing attention to himself might be the only reason he tries to suppress his ambitions.

Can a child's fear be explained away?

NOT very often; but an adult's handling of the circumstances surrounding a child's fear might go a long way toward resolving the difficult problem. A clear, concise explanation of the object of a child's unconscious fear may at least give him a definite image of what he is afraid of, and may help the parent together to get a more concrete picture of the thing he fears, and perhaps eventually be able to cope with it.

Is love vital to a working wife?

OF COURSE. In fact, if her marriage is important to her and her husband, a wife with an outside job believes that love can be even more necessary to her. Many times she is the one to tell her wife knows that she and her husband have to make more adjustments because of her job. Time and factor alone requires more love and understanding. A wife, too, realizes that her job may cause her anxiety that is best solved by the security of her mutual love.

Making People Laugh Not for "Men Only"

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If all the successful Mack Sennett writers in television ever got together they could meet in a closet.

Nevertheless, the resistance of women comedy writers is beginning to crumble. In recent years a few women have established themselves in a field where the practitioners are referred to as "the boys" and the cigar smoke is so thick it's hard to see who's pitching a joke.

Such writers as Gail Prent, Susan Silver, Treva Silverman, Joanna Lee and Charlotte Brown have produced an impressive score of successes in variety shows, series and TV movies.

Miss Prent says she sometimes feels she's living a part in an old movie. One Hundred Men and a Girl. She says the token woman among the men who write for Sonny and Cher shows, but others are being hired for scripts.

"What kills me is that producers never say they wouldn't hire a black for fear of being called prejudiced," said Miss Prent, co-author of The Carol Burnett Show. "But the same producers don't hesitate to say they don't want to work with females."

Eight years ago she was on her a job on a network variety show and didn't get it. "The reason they gave me was the guys would feel uptight and emasculated with a woman," she said.

"It made sense to me then, but I wouldn't stand for it today."

Miss Silver, who in two years has become one of the most successful writers in the medium, says she sees an easing of the prejudice of the against women and notes that some producers now are actively seeking women writers.

Diane Kennedy, a drama writer who organized the Women's Group of the Writers Guild of America, West, said:

"There's been a definite change. In the new year there may be a woman boom, though I have doubts. Many producers now seem to want to work with women, and writers are getting jobs for that reason."

Miss Silver, a onetime secretary for the producers of Laugh-In, said her first script, two years ago to The Mary Tyler Moore Show, which she says led the way in opening the field to women writers.

"The hardest thing is being a new writer, not a woman," said Miss Silver. "As a new writer you don't get invited to meetings and screenings to see what a new show's about. When you can do a script and you have no previous work to show him."

Miss Parent said one reason for the lack of women comedy writers may be that they were not encouraged to be funny when they were young.

"You never saw a girl as the class clown," she said. "It was always a guy. I'd go out on a date looking for a laugh rather than romance. I was looking for a great exit line rather than a goodnight kiss."

Miss Parent, however, did marry one of her professors from New York University, Miss Silver is married to a stockbroker, but she said he encourages her work and helps her with story ideas.

One of the things that irritates women writers is that shows about men won't hire women because they don't believe they can represent that viewpoint.

"Then they make a film about a woman where you need an understanding of a material, and it goes to a man and the male viewpoint is adopted," said Miss Gould.

Miss Silver said, "The problems I now have are with concepts of my shows in terms of what a woman represents. The fellows at the network have reconceived notions or they're not sure that the audience is ready to see a female lead portrayed woman on television yet."

Milk Jugs Pose Health Hazard

OTTAWA (CP) — Returnable plastic milk jugs pose a serious health hazard and should be removed from the market, Dr. L. H. Douglas, city medical officer, said Tuesday.

The three-quart containers are being used by individuals to carry gasoline, oil and toxic chemicals, then returned to the dairies, he said. Although they are extensively washed and sterilized after gasoline and many other chemicals eat into the plastic and traces of chemicals may remain.

Dr. Douglas said a small trace of gasoline would not be harmful and could easily be detected but other, less obvious fluids might not be and could cause illness.

He singled out an incident about a year ago which resulted in a young boy being hospitalized for several weeks after drinking milk from a plastic container which previously had held a toxic liquid.

The jugs were introduced in Ontario about nine years ago, he said. Glass bottles were taken off the market gradually because they were less economical.

Dr. Douglas said the waxed boxes and plastic bags-are safer, but attract criticism from environmentalists because they

Outstanding Canadian Predicts Women's Future Rights

Following is one of a series of stories, written specially for The Canadian Press, by persons outstanding in their fields. This one was prepared, under her pen-name of Anne Francis, by Mrs. Florence Bird who was chairman of the royal commission on the status of women.

Written for
The Canadian Press
By-ANNE FRANCIS

The immediate future for Canadian women on is overcast with a few sunny periods. It is hoped the sunny periods may take over in the long term.

During the election, the leaders of the three major parties underplayed the needs of women. They did not rally behind a network of day-care centres or changes in the Canada Pension Plan to enable housewives to contribute on a voluntary basis. They did not support a federal human rights commission or a professional, independent Status of Women Council, free of government and political interference, to carry on the research and education started by the non-political royal commission on the status of women.

Under questioning by members of women's groups, interested in education for the vote, individual candidates, by and large, did not reveal enthusiasm for the cause of equal pay or equal rights for women.

All of which indicates a clouded sky in the near future.

On the other hand, there now are five women in the House of Commons, one of them in the cabinet. In 1964, there were six women in the House and one in the cabinet. However the climate of opinion about equal opportunities for women has changed greatly since then. In 1964 women's rights were not the living, kicking issue they are today. With the exception of Judy LaMarsh, the women in the House were not eager to be labelled as feminists and so self-pedalled women's rights.

The change in attitudes began in 1967 when the late prime minister Lester Pearson, at Miss LaMarsh's insistence as minister of national health and welfare, appointed the royal commission on the status of women. Its public hearings, in every province and both territories, brought home to many Canadians for were people that century-old prejudices and entrenched attitudes and much legislation discriminated against women, preventing them from realizing their full potential as human beings.

Understanding of the situation has been greatly widened by the report of the commission with 167 recommendations based on the hearings, research in depth and the considered opinions of expert consultants in law, education, sociology, taxation, welfare and labor.

Less objectively and more militantly the women's liberation movement has brought the needs, frustration and hopes of women to the forefront of the news. Women's action committees in many parts of the country have been formed to bring pressure to bear on governments to implement the recommendations of the report. The young now are raising their voices in unison with those of older women in the long-established organizations such as the National Council of Women, Business and Professional Women's Clubs and the Federation of University Women.

Women's rights were the principal political issue in the 1972 campaign but could become red hot in forthcoming elections if women's groups action now.

Action could begin to organize for political pressure. Liberal member for Ahuntsic, the new minister of science and technology, is on record as being opposed to discrimination in hiring. Let her obliged to raise her voice in cabinet. Monique Begin, Liberal member for Montreal-St. Michel, parliamentary secretary to the royal commission and one of its research directors, considered opinions of expert consultants in law, education, sociology, taxation, welfare and labor.

Writes on Rights

Former chairman of the royal commission on the status of women, Mrs. Florence Francis, pessimistically views the future of the Canadian woman due to general lack of interest by the political parties.

Full Nursing Integration Is Favored

TORONTO (CP) — The Registered Nurses Association of Ontario said Wednesday it favors full integration of schools of nursing with the province's community colleges instead of merely affiliating the two institutions.

Dr. Josephine Flaherty president of the association, said it is necessary for a short period of time allowed for implementation of the integration plan.

The ministries of health and colleges and universities jointly announced earlier that nursing education in Ontario will be transferred to community colleges as of Sept. 1.

Peter Wood, spokesman for the Ontario Nurses Association, said Tuesday that the ONA would like hospitals to allow nurses time off to attend colleges and thereby retain their schools' identities.

Dr. Flaherty disagreed, saying that the association, representing 13,000 nurses, "cannot agree that our province should support a parallel system of post-secondary education exclusively for nurses."

Barefoot Protest

WATFORD, England (CP) — Gary Davis staged a one-man demonstration outside a Hertfordshire store when the manager refused compensation for Gary's new pair of shoes which had fallen apart. Gary stood barefoot in the rain distributing a poster urging shoppers to bypass the store. The manager quickly relented and reimbursed his dissatisfied customer.

• When shower curtains are ready for discard, save them instead for stor'room slip-covers. Slide the sides of a curtain together to make an envelope to fit over summer furniture, or make cases for stored cushions.

Prosecutors Named

QUEBEC (CP) — Maurice Lagace has been appointed chief Crown prosecutor and Francois Tremblay, assistant Crown prosecutor in the Quebec City region, the Quebec justice department announced.

Women Voice Feelings On Vietnam Situation

SAIGON (AP) — "My first impression of this seedy war capital," wrote Joan Baez, "was, oh my, what am I letting myself in for?"

The first jolt came, she said, when she was handed at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport and taxied down the runway past rows of sandbagged and camouflaged planes, protected by steel and cement anti-rocket walls.

And she had mixed feelings, she said, about the drive down from the airport into Saigon, past scores of tin and cardboard shacks jutting out over a sewage canal, the barbed-wire pools stretching from sidewalks, the sandbag bunkers that are in downtown and street corners here as stop signs in North America.

Like most of the 148 American women who live in Vietnam, Miss Baez is a government employed husbands. 38-year-old Mrs. Marshall of New York found that after the initial shock, the privileges that go with her husband's job with the United States Agency for International Development make her living seem almost easy.

Because Vietnam has the potential of being a low money post—the U.S. State Department classifies it a "hardship area"—Mrs. Marshall can go out of their way to keep busy.

"It's a hardship post in the sense that you don't really know what's happening from night will mean," explained Mrs. Josiah W. Bennett, wife of an embassy political official.

However, the most pervasive disadvantage of life for American women in Vietnam is not the threat of sudden fiery death. It is a host of little difficulties that accompany every venture outside the U.S.—made shell.

The woman who leaves that shell must steel herself against hostilities that range from subdued dark glances to open attacks, against shopkeepers and cab drivers who consider it a right to bilk an American for as much as they can.

The Bennetts live in a large, two-storey villa surrounded by towering bushes and towering palm trees. The door to their living room opens onto a patio and one of the three swimming pools reserved for Saigon's official American community.

Mrs. Thomas Thorsen, whose husband works for the U.S. agency, has been in Vietnam for the last 13 months of the 14 years as a foreign service wife. She has no time, she said, to sit around brooding about the war.

Mrs. Thorsen said that like many of her acquaintances, she has days are scheduled between the American Red Cross meetings of the American Women's Association and Chinese brush painting lessons. She said she also does volunteer work at a Vietnamese and a hospital for burned children.

Unlike Mrs. Thorsen, however, some of the dozen women interviewed said they find work in the hospitals and refugee centres upsetting.

"I just don't do volunteer work," said one woman during a monthly tour of projects sponsored by American women. "I've been here two years, but I just can't bring myself to go out there. It gives me nightmares."

Said another woman: "I'm just not going to get involved. I play golf."

This Floor's A Roof

Workmen tear off tar roofing from the second floor of city's new provincial court building under construction at Victoria Ave. and Pinnacle St. The building was formerly a Dominion Stores supermarket but Rollins Construction added an upper storey, turning the old roof into a floor. Keeping busy are Cliff Hewton, left, and Reg Loney. The court house is expected to open, March 31 at a construction cost of $300,000.

North Front Rumors Collapse

Persistent rumor to the effect that a large hotel complex is imminent for Belleville's Golden Mile North Front Street apparently is just that.

The question of the rumored hotel was asked at Monday evening's city council meeting and although Mayor Dalton Jeffrey said she had heard the rumor, she said she had no knowledge of the matter.

The only comment, however, was that the rumor had to do with the possible 138-room Howard Johnson hotel proposal which had been announced for North Front Street late in November, just before the local municipal election.

The announcement at the time was that contractor Charles Murphy of Toronto, president of the Galway Group was "particularly keen" on negotiations with the Howard Johnson chain for construction of a hotel would between and $1.5 million.

Also announced in November was that Mr. Murphy's company would construct three large industrial projects in the city's northwest industrial park area west of Sidney Street and immediately south of Highway 401.

Projects then said to have been confirmed were an assembly and distribution plant for an unnamed Japanese firm, a plant for a beauty products industry and an industrial plaza.

Today, Industrial Commissioner Fred Bemis said he had been unable to confirm the secondary of the hotel complex on North Front Street.

He agreed that it was possibly just a rumor.

Mr. Bemis said that since the entire department of the three projects for the city's northwest industrial park he had endeavored to learn the timing of the investigation part of the project. So far, however, he said no reply had been received.

The rumor being circulated was that Murphy's choice for possible North Front Street hotel was that property from Bell Blvd. to Moira St. Tracey Street was in process of being assembled for the project.

This would take in the farm implement agency premises immediately south of Bell Blvd., as well as the property owned by Kelly's Sport Shop and as well a couple of smaller properties.

But Ronald Hadley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hadley who are currently holidaying in the south said today that there had been no property sale.

"Mother, as far as he was aware, was there any purchase option on the property.

"Rumor has had us sold out several times," he laughed.

And neither has the Kelly Sports Shop property been sold.

Mrs. Kelly said they had been approached last autumn but there had been no sale and as far as she knew, no option.

Mrs. Kelly said she understood Mr. Murphy owned vacant property in the rear of their land on the east side of North Front Street but the bulk was on North Front Street.

Local realtor Donald Whelan, who has property listings on the north side of North Front Street in the same general area, told The Intelligencer that he had had no sales to or for possible hotel purposes.

"I wish it was so," he said.

Provincial Court Building Expected Ready March 31

Belleville's new provincial court headquarters are expected to be open for business March 31.

Contractor Maurice H. Rollins said Tuesday construction of the two-storey building is proceeding on schedule. Cost of the project, paid by the province, is $300,000.

Work began last fall as crews set about tranforming the former Dominion Stores supermarket at Victoria Ave. and Pinnacle St. into court rooms and offices.

Housed under will be a long-needed provincial court on the first floor and a family court on the second. Seating for 150 spectators will be provided in the provincial court room.

Also contained in the air-conditioned building are offices for three judges, one for Crown Attorney John Pringle, consultation rooms, witness rooms, lawyers' chambers, a law library, police rooms and a large detention area in the basement. A three - storey vault, encased in concrete, is also being built to house records.

One factor that influenced the province in its decision to select the site was the availability of a municipal parking lot to the south of the building. Permanent spaces are being provided for the three judges.

Mr. Rollins said the exterior design of the building will be new to Belleville. The front, facing onto Victoria Ave., has blue-steel clay brick with a granite roof extending the part way down from the top.

The contractor said he hoped to tie the design in with an office building he plans to construct directly to the east. While giving few details on the latest project, he said Rollins Construction would be the developer and floor plans have already been drawn.

In addition to the structural aspect of the court house, Rollins is also fabricating the platforms and witness boxes for the new court rooms. Other furnishings will be purchased from outside sources.

Some 3,500 square feet of office space on the second floor remains to be leased, Mr. Rollins said this area had purposely not been rented pending discussions with government officials about future space requirements.

There is also a large portion of the basement not yet rented. The builder hopes to take advantage of the supermarket's deep foundations by incorporating large window units on the west side of the building to provide natural light and ventilation.

The new court house should improve cramped conditions in the Belleville Police Station on Campbell St.

Since the department took over the building in 1965, provincial court sessions — three per week — have been held in a noisy, poorly-ventilated room above the street. Moving over as well will be Wednesday sessions of traffic court.

The police force's investigation department is particularly confined and interviews can be conducted only when detectives have vacated their offices.

But with the extra space, the department can use the renovated and halls provided for lectures and films. Inspector Ralph Blatchford will also have a new office once work is completed.

The police department owns the court room furniture, including the judge's dias and witness stand, now being used. No decision has been made on what to do with the wooden structures once they are no longer needed.

Mail Volume Cut 40 Per Cent

Mail volume has declined by 40 per cent at Belleville's post office since postal workers went on strike in Toronto Wednesday.

Postmaster Roy Wainwright said between 6,000 and 7,000 pieces of mail destined for Toronto is being stored at the post office each day. That volume amounts to about half a bag and poses no space problems for the post office.

Of more serious concern is the one was doing anything about it. stored in the building. They were flown to CFB Trenton but cannot be moved until truck and train mail service into Toronto is restored.

Since about 40 per cent of this area's mail comes from Toronto, input is also down considerably.

As a result, clerks have been filling the slack time by labelling sorting cases and preparing telephone books for dispatch to outlying areas.

Officials here are aware of the outcome of discussions in Ottawa between Charles Gordon, eastern Ontario director of postal operations, and Dominic Della Paiera, business agent for the Letter Carriers Union of Canada.

The two men hope to produce a solution to the issue that resulted in Belleville's 33 letter carriers staging a 17-hour walkout Wednesday.

The carriers have been promised an answer before Monday.

World Y movement was so personnel overseas which is must be processed by Canada Customs in Toronto before it can be delivered.

Mr. Wainwright said 300 bags containing parcels are

Catholic Board Cancels Bulletin

The Mosiac, a publication reflecting the activities of the 17 separate schools in the Hastings - Prince - Edward system, is exhibiting a cracked facade.

A motion to spend $1,569 to continue the three-issues-each-year was defeated by the separate school board Tuesday night.

After swiftly killing Mosiac, trustees rushed through a motion to review the purpose of the newsletter and bring it out later under a new format.

The routine monetary motion brought objections from Rev. Louis Carartelli of Maynooth.

"Some schools are distrustful because they get no space: other got 1½ pages," he said. "The paper got off to a bad start on its first issue."

The Mosiac is a newsletter, designed to improve communication between the board and ratepayers.

D. S. O'Sullivan, assistant superintendent of the board who is charged with producing Mosiac, said it was the fault of the schools if material on their activities did not appear. The editorial board of the newsletter had solicited contributions from all 18 schools in the system.

"You had better improve the content before you spend money," advised Msgr. J. P. Sullivan, chairman. Mosiac is supposed to be a vehicle for the board to communicate to the people, not a school paper. No one is interested in poems written by students."

Equal payment for all school trustees in Hastings was approved last night by trustees of the Hastings-Prince Edward county separate school board.

At present, trustees receive a monthly sum based on the enrolment in the school system they serve. A separate school trustee here earns $100 a month. A trustee of the Hastings county board of education gets $20 a month.

Children's Aid Director Calls for Law Change

There should be some rethinking on how to deal with so - called "unmanageable" teenagers who come under the jurisdiction of the Children's Aid Societies.

This is the feeling of Bruce M. Kerr, director of the Hastings county CAS, who in his annual report this week to county council pointed out that at present societies do not have the authority to impose the required physical restraints to control such teenagers behavior.

As a result, he said, they are committed to training schools operated not by the ministry of education or ministry of social services but by the ministry of corrections.

"What this means is that if you cannot get along with your parents and you won't stay where the CAS puts you, you are dealt with as if you had robbed a bank or committed a murder."

Mr. Kerr suggested this was one instance where the penalty does not fit the crime and yet society officials, parents and the court have no other alternatives.

UIC Advisor Going North

In response to a suggestion from Canada Manpower, the Belleville Unemployment Insurance Commission Service Centre will be sending an information clerk with Manpower counsellors to Bancroft every second Wednesday beginning Jan. 24.

Manpower supervisor J. G. Fraser said counsellors serving the Northern Area of Hastings County had come across many inquiries about unemployment insurance they were not in a position to answer.

A. Wilkes, officer in-charge of the Belleville UIC Service Centre, said the move would give people in the north end of the county a little help with claims and information on technicalities and to save claimants the time and expense of making inquiries in Belleville.

"I would imagine volume will govern just how long this stays in operation," he said. "If the load drops off in the spring, we will have to take another look at it."

The service will be provided between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. at St. John's Parish Hall, Bancroft, every second Wednesday beginning Jan. 24.

County Plan This Year

The official plan for Hastings county, now under preparation by consultants Totten, Sims, and Hubicki, will be ready for presentation some time later this year.

This was the assurance of William Ferguson, chief planner for the consultant firm, during a progress report to council at its inaugural meeting this week.

A highlight of Mr. Ferguson's presentation to council was the showing of Multiply and Subdue the Earth, a full-color film on ecology and environment, showing the ill effects of uncontrolled industrial and residential development and how it can be avoided by proper planning.

Piles Going In

Waterfront Building Is Now Condominium

Shoring-up Shoreline

Work crew begins cutting through Belleville harbor ice before installing proposed seawall around site of new proposed condominium project yesterday. Development would be first major reconstruction in city's dilapidated inner-harbor sector . . . if rezoning is approved.

The first, full-scale proposal for rehabilitation of Belleville's waterfront has not yet received official sanction.

But yesterday, they began protecting the site from weather — just to be prepared.

Scene of the project is the South Front St. harbor sector where — rezoning authorities willing — work later this year will begin on a $2-million urbanization of a long-neglected city waterfront area.

The site as it now stands is in sharp contrast to that of the high-style condominium complex was expected to produce when announced it last year. At that time, city councillors offered a glamorous spruce up of a dilapadated sector.

The site is an old coal wharf, for years an area fuel distribution point until its recent acquisition as a choice urban development locale.

And because of its siting, the property's waterside rim is in need of protection — while the development group of Belleville businessmen awaits the crucial rezoning decision. Yesterday, work crews moored onto the site, cutting and boring through thick harbor ice along the wharf's shoreline.

Piles will be driven to hold a seawall, placed as protection against water and weather erosion.

Workers on the job weren't hazarding a guess how long it will take to girdle the four-acre site. Winter weather, varying ice thickness — more than four feet in spots — make deadlines difficult.

The current project has no bearing on whether the site is given the necessary zoning greenlight — but is merely a precaution by developers to protect their holding, says Jack Silla, city building supply firm owner and spokesman for the group.

But, if the needed rezoning comes through a public hearing is scheduled Feb. 7 — work will start immediately after, Mr. Silla said yesterday.

Since then, sometime last July, the project's contours have undergone readjustments in these major areas, Mr. Silla noted:

Finances — The original $1,750,000 cost estimate has now been scaled up closer to $2.1 million.

Design — Earlier projected as a three-block complex of 60 apartments, each rising six storeys, the project now is seen as a single nine-storey, circular building with 72 units and a marina.

Occupancy — The development now is projected as a condominium instead of an apartment building.

Rent Reduction For Quintes Recommended

Members of the city Recreation - Arena Committee have recommended a reduction in arena rental for the Belleville Quintes Senior A Hockey club as a measure to help relieve financial difficulties.

At a meeting with hockey club officials earlier in the week, the committee approved a motion recommending to city council that for the remainder of the 1972-73 season arena rental rates for one home game per week be $125 per game and $75 for a second home game in one week.

It was recommended that rental rates for playoff games remain the same.

Current arena rates for the senior hockey club are $150 for one home game per week, then including two hours practice time, and $145 for a second home game in the week.

Falling attendance has posed financial difficulties for the Quintes this winter and at Monday's city council meeting representation was made for a reduced rental rate for the arena.

Weather Inspires Plans for Syrup

It is still a bit early for maple syrup making but the break in the weather during the past few days has turned rural thoughts to the sugar bush.

And the annual meetings of district maple syrup producers' organizations are under way for another year.

The meeting for the Hastings district association was held this week and that for the Quinte district is scheduled for February 9 at Westminster Church in Sidney township.

W. A. Humphreys, of the Ontario ministry of food and agriculture, and an official of the Ontario Maple Syrup Producers' Association, is again attending all meetings slated at the Hastings meeting that although last year was a poor syrup year, operators who used the vacuum pump system on their trees did well.

The system creates a vacuum in the sap pipe lines and encourages the sap to run when the weather and temperatures are not quite right for normal production.

Ice Risky

The ministry of natural resources is advising outdoor enthusiasts to be cautious of extreme caution while travelling over frozen lakes because of deteriorating ice conditions, due to mild weather.

The freezing on larger lakes is thinning dangerously but, many smaller lakes can support the weight of a snowmobile.

The department says this is only a general indication and soft spots and thin areas can be found in any of the area's lakes and rivers.

Surface puddles and cracks are recorded on most lakes in the Quinte region along with air holes and slush covering.

Because of precarious conditions, the ministry suggests groups of hikers or snow machines to travel in single file, at speed. Walkers should carry a pole. In the event they break through the ice, the pole can be used to distribute weight across a broader area.

Crossing Signal County Concern

The Hastings County council roads and bridges committee will investigate installation of automatic signal protection for the CN railway crossing on county road 9 west of Springbrook.

The county road level-crossing just west of the Spring-brook village limits has been the scene of several serious accidents over the past year or so — one of them being fatal.

Bawdon Reeve Ray Shortt, at the inaugural session of county council, asked questions about the possibility of crossing protection and the matter was referred to the roads and bridges committee.

Tremblay Iron Man For Quebec

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec Nordiques counted even more than usual on J. C. Tremblay Thursday night and the veteran defenseman rose to the occasion.

A back injury to Francois Lacombe halfway through their World Hockey Association game with New Jersey Devils left Les Nordiques with only three defencemen.

As a result, the 33-year-old former National League all-star logged more than 35 minutes of ice time in a 4-4 tie, lengthened to 70 minutes by a scoreless overtime period.

The veteran not only survived the ordeal but contributed a goal and assist to his team's total.

In other WHA activity, Ottawa Nationals defeated Minnesot.. Fighting Saints 6-3 and Houston Aeros handed Chicago Cougars their seventh consecutive loss, 8-3.

New England Whalers visit Winnipeg Jets tonight in a clash of division leaders while Los Angeles Sharks entertain Cleveland Crusaders and the National's move into Philadelphia to take on the Blazers.

Six goals were scored in the first 15 minutes at Quebec before goaltenders Pete Donnelly of New York and Richard Brodeur of Les Nordiques began to assert their authority.

Tremblay gave Quebec a 4-3 lead three seconds after the start of a power play mid-way through the s e c o n d period. Brian Perry got the goal back for the Raiders just before the period ended, and the sharpshooters were through for the night.

Jean Payette accounted for two of the earlier Quebec goals and Michel Parizeau provided the third. League scoring leader Ron Ward, with his 37th of the year, Hal W i l l i s and Mike Laughlen were the other Raider goal-getters.

The Nationals took most of the first period to get untracked when Wayne Carleton's goal gave Minnesota the lead 38 seconds after the opening whistle. Then Mike Amodeo, Steve King and Jack Gibson scored in a span of barely three minutes and they never looked back.

Tom Martin, Tom Simpson and Guy Trottier padded the total as Ottawa rewarded 2,972 paying customers by breaking a three-game losing streak. The later Minnesota goals came from Bob MacMillan and Mike Antonich.

Larry Lund opened and closed the scoring for the Aeros as Chicago, getting credit for his second goal when Ted Taylor's long shot bounced off Cougar goaltender Jim McLeod onto Lund's chest and caromed into the net.

Gord Labossiere, Keke Morton, Murray Hall, Bryan McDonald, Brian Smith and Don Brierson shared in the Houston goal harvest while Jim Bernelcek, Jan Pojzel, and Bob Siciliani found it's range for the Cougars, who h.ve lost all six starts against the Aeros.

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — A power-play goal by Doug Gibson early in the third period led Peterborough Petes to a 6-4 win over London Knights in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game Thursday night.

The victory moved the Petes into a second-place tie with Ottawa 67s, both with 53 points, and 11 behind Toronto Marlboros. London is fourth with 40 points.

Other Peterborough scorers were Jim Johnston, Bob Neely and Jeff McIntosh. Reg Thomas scored twice for London and Steve Laughton and Lou Nistico added the others.

Islanders Fly with Westfall

By IAN MacLAREN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Boston Bruins were aware former team-mate Ed Westfall was flying, but were at a loss to explain how the rest of the New York Islanders got off the ground Thursday night.

"All of a sudden we caught the first-place, downfield Islanders" coach Phil Goyette following a 9-7 upset of the ragged Bruins at Boston Garden to end a 23-game National Hockey League losing streak.

"We got one, two, three goals and we just kept going," Goyette exclaimed in the visitors' dressing room after the game.

"We charged at them from the start . . . that's what they usually do."

Elsewhere the scores were: Montreal Canadiens 1, Pittsburgh Penguins 2; Buffalo Sabres 4, Chicago Black Hawks 1 and Philadelphia Flyers 6, Minnesota North Stars 1.

Atlanta Flames, enjoying a far more successful first year than the Islanders, host Detroit Red Wings tonight and a win or a tie could move them into second place in the West Division.

In other games, New York Rangers are at California Golden Seals and Los Angeles Kings visit Vancouver Canucks.

"This was not our best game," said Goyette after the Islanders won only their fifth game of the season and extended to 29 starts at the expense of the defending Stanley Cup champions.

"We've played some damn good games we should have won," he continued. "The big thing is that our players know they can score, that's something."

Westfall, who took out a pi- New York claimed from Boston in last June's expansion draft and named captain; Bill Harris, Islanders' No. 1 pick in the June draft, and Earl Ingarfield each connected for two goals.

The Islanders rallied to a 5-4 lead in the first period before Johnny Bucyk connected for the first of his four goals on the night.

Boston's Ted Green and Westfall, who took outa pi- ice's license to fly from his New Hampshire home to Long Island after the trade, called the outcome of the game "the biggest one for us all year."

"Boy, that will o a surprising league."

Lupenette Scores In Royals' Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sorel Black Hawks, who had beaten Laval Nationals 13-2 two weeks ago, were on the short end of an 8-7 decision to the Nationals Thursday night in Quebec Major Junior A Hockey League action.

In other games, Montreal Bleu, White and Blue downed Drummondville Rangers 8-3 while Cornwall Royals bounced Sherbrooke Beavers 5-1.

It took Lagal extra time to edge Sorel with Robert Perreault scoring the winner at 7:58 of overtime play.

Jean Trottier scored three times for the winners while Mike Harrison added a pair. Marcel Dumais and Denis Marcelle each scored once each while Michel Bergeron, with two, Pierre Mondoux, Jacques Cossette, Michel Deziel, Serge Gamelin and Pierre Larouche replied for Sorel.

Robert Sirois' two goals spearheaded the Montreal victory over the Drummondville Rangers. Jean-Luc Phaneuf, Gilles Lupien, Mario Tremblay, Jean St. Laurent, Michel Latreille and Daniel Begin also figured in the Red, White and Blue while Claude Larose, with two, and Firmin Boyer replied for Drummondville.

Blair McDonald, Dan Lupien, Bob Chase, Kevin Murphy and Al Sims, scored for the Royals as Gerry Cheevers had a first-place tie with Quebec.

Both teams have 43 points but Quebec has three games in hand.

Francois Rochon was the lone Sherbrooke scorer.

In tonight's action, Laval visits Montreal, Quebec plays host to Trois-Rivieres Ducs, Drummondville is at Sherbrooke and Cornwall travels to Shawinigan to meet the Bruins.

Legion Curling

Jesse On Trail on Fourth Tittle

By AL ZARAS
Staff Sportswriter

TRENTON — Sergeant-at-Arms Jesse Ives won the Royal Canadian Legion Ontario Provincial Curling Championship three years ago. Everybody around this weekend will attempt to start his rink on the road to a unprecedented fourth appearance and victory in that same competition.

Jesse who curls at the CFB Trenton curling club will be trying to win the right to represent district "F" — the area which extends from Bayridges through to Deseronto.

Skip Jesse along with lead Jack Curtis, second Dave Jones, vice Carl LaGroix, will have some tough competition to contend with according to Cams Livingston chairman of district "F" as well as of the Provincial bonspiel.

"There will be this stage," said Livingston of the district playdowns, "we start to separate the men from the boys. I think it will be a toss up between the two Trenton rinks, though it's hard to say."

Livingston mentioned the Ted Shea rink out of Bobcaygeon as being a risk that will provide some strong competition in the playdowns to be held at the CFB Trenton curling club January 28-31.

Jesse also said that "if we can curl up to capacity then we have a good chance. We'll see if we'll be lucky to get it (Provincial representation) for the fourth time.

"There is an element of luck," said Jesse, "and I don't know how well we'll make out. It depends on the competition. There are four or five teams that are fairly equal. One mistake or a slight break can win a game."

But Jesse said that "if you can out - strategize the opposing skip" it also "means a point or two, and we've managed so far to do it."

The Canadian Forces sergeant, however, said that there is too much emphasis on the skip and not enough on the other members of the rink. "There are four people in a rink," said Jesse, "and curling is the best team effort game that I've played."

According to Jesse, who skipped the CFB Trenton rink which won the Armed Forces Provincial Championship in Petawawa last week, a skip can strategize "all he wants" but if the other members of the rink are not curling well the skip's efforts will not earn the rink a victory. The same thing holds true in reverse.

Of Jesse's rink, vice Carl LaGroix is the only member who has curled with the sergeant in previous Provincial victories as he held down second in the first two years that CFB Trenton won the National championship competition. LaGroix's role changed last year due to a broken ankle.

Second Dave Jones and lead Jack Curtis are new members to the Jesse rink. Jones is also new to Trenton as he was recently transferred to here from the United States. Curtis joined the rink this summer.

Jesse, who has spent 20 years in the armed forces 18 of which he's curled, will be representing CFB Trenton against the other Legion rink out of Trenton skipped by Bruce Merklinger as well as teams from Lindsay, Peterborough, Hastings, Oshawa, Bowmanville, and Shirling.

Jesse Sets Sights

Skip Earl Jesse (left) will be heading a CFB Trenton rink composed of second Dave Jones, lead Jack Curtis, and vice Carl LaGroix in the district "F" Royal Canadian Legion playdowns this weekend. Jesse hopes to come out of the playdowns as the representative for this area in the Legion Provincials to be held at the Trenton base February 14-18. Rinks skipped by Jesse have been Provincial champions for the last three years.

Foster Answers For Quintes

Sports Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I am replying to the criticism in your sport page of Jan. 16 by an ex-steward of Belleville who has divorced himself of herself from the hockey team — and who could not even sign it by a name to the letter. You were right in telling this person it wasn't Kingston who beat Island's team.

True Tom Thurlby scored the winning goal, but he did not do it singlehanded. He played in return for Greg Marchen who was hurt in Kingston playing for Trenton against Russia. I was not at the Kingston game but listened to it on the radio, and they were the ones that used about six exports and got beaten badly.

In fact in my opinion, Tom Thurlby couldn't carry Greg Marchen's stick, I say that he is one of the best defencemen in the league. If not so, why did Kingston want him to play for them in the first place?

Now as for like remarks about the fifth and rats in the arena, they must be there for the rest of the season also, and suggestions like this should be brought to the attention of our athletic association chairman Jean Smith or vice-chairman Cy Bedwreck or Lorne Williams our recreation director or myself and I know something will be done about it.

We know that we need more good hockey players and would have them if we had the money to pay them. Our team is the lowest paid team in the league. I know with the new 200 club that is being formed we will be able to play the rest of the season.

I missed Sunday night's game due to an injury, but was at Saturday's game in Galt and I saw one of the best games of the season there.

Also while I was there I saw signs and heard the arena about fines of up to $25 for smoking; does this ex-season ticket holder want it to come to this in the Belleville arena.

The person also states the players play for a desire for a little extra pocket money. If this was the case and not the glory for playing our nation-al sport I know we wouldn't have a player playing for us. Who is going to get their head beat off and injured for the little money we give them? You know they all have a job to go to next day.

Our own Quintes' was the only team to beat Rosta outside of the Czechs in our recent International Rural Bank tournament.

Again thanks for everything you have done for the team.

Hotelmen Maintain Hot Streak

Belvedere Hotel led by the scoring and playmaking of Larry Marshall, Paul Macklam and Frank Pinder have been stretching their scoring legs over the past six games with a 4-1-1 won lost- record.

The hotelmen won their fourth straight victory in action Thursday night as they came on in the final two periods to score seven unanswered goals and soundly defeat Reid's Dairy 8-1.

Larry Marshall moved into fifth place in the individual scoring statistics as he scored five points with his three goals and two assists. Paul Macklam and Frank Pinder each beat the dairymen's goalie Allan Gjenter for two goals while Doug Hallam and Gary Reid tallied one apiece.

Belvedere's Bill Goodfellow assisted on five goals while Reid's Paul Goodfellow beat the hotelmen's goalie Claude Orr in the first period for the spoil the shutout attempt.

Belvedere's victory held down the league's top spot for most of this season have lost their last three games now hold down third place while the Teachers took over first place with their 7-6 win over the dairymen last week. The Teachers held on to top spot last night with a 7-0 victory over last place Central Taxi as Phil Meeks beat the cabbie's goalie Ken Genereux three goals. Doug Jodoin added another two while Al Mott and Bruce Racicot who also assisted on three, followed up with single goals.

Bobcats Healthy For Whitby Game

The Belleville Bobcats go into tonight's Metro Junior "B" hockey game against ninth place Whitby with a clean bill of health and all players present and accounted for.

"No one is injured," said "Cats coach Moe Hunter, "unless someone has slipped in the bath tub."

Both Mike Watt and centre Rick Meagher who had game misconduct last week out of their systems will be appearing at Memorial Arena.

Right winger Watt will take up his position beside centre Rob Foster while Wayne McGeachy will play the left wing on one Bobcats' offensive line.

Brian Cousins will make his regular weekend trip from Queen's University in Kingston to centre the line of Andy Ricketts on the right wing and Mark Coates on the left wing.

Despite Whitby's ninth place standing coach Hunter said that no game is without trouble, "but as long as we play our positions and play reasonably well we'll be alright."

The two teams have split their two meetings earlier this year as Belleville took their home game 6-5 while dropping an 8-5 score at the Whitby home rink.

Hunter said of the 'Cats away contest against tonight's opponents that they "plainly outskated us".

They will be no one called up from the juveniles according to the Bobcats' coach as the team is fully rostered, injury free and hopeful of a win to further secure their hold of the fourth spot in the ten team league.

Commercial Leagues May Meet

An inter - league hockey game or series of games between the Gas House and the Quinte Hockey Leagues have been proposed but as Frank Wiles, president of the Gas House League, said it's "still up in the air."

Al Kelleher, president of the Quinte league, has extended an invitation to the entire commercial hockey league in the city and would like his league's first place team, first or league champions "to play either a two - of - three or three - of - five series to determine the champion of the city hockey leagues".

"We'd be only too happy to play them," said Kelleher. "It would be good for both leagues."

According to Wiles, there is interest in his own league in possibly getting a team "up to the air's", as the Gas House finishes in second place later this does the Quinte League.

Wiles, however, said that he is "working on it to try and arrange the games, but I will know better in two weeks."

Ottawa Skater Caves in Roof

VANCOUVER (CP) — The roof fell in on Lynn Nightingale last November, and Thursday night she brought the house down.

The 16-year-old Ottawa skater finished third over-all in the Canadian senior women's figure skating championships and she managed it by knocking off Canadian champion Karen Magnussen at her forte—free skating.

In Thursday's four-minute free skating competition, Miss Nightingale received a thunderous, cheering, foot-stamping ovation for her performance, the second time in as many nights she has won the crowd.

The arena manager said, "the building shook. I've heard nothing like that in here for years."

Last November, Miss Nightingale was skating in England when part of the arena roof fell in.

Miss Magnussen skated well, but her reception was neither as warm nor as loud as Miss Nightingale's.

In Thursday night's performances the judges rated Miss Magnussen and Miss Nightingale dead even, three judges placing each first and the final one tying them.

Combined with Wednesday's compulsory program, which Miss Nightingale won, the Ottawa lassie edged out Miss Magnussen for the over-all free skating section.

In her first year of senior competition—she was Canadian junior champion last year—she moved to third the hard way by moving up from eighth after compulsory figures.

Miss Magnussen was displeased with the marks she received and she would ask one judge the reason for the marks she received.

As for Miss Nightingale, she attended a post-competition news conference and was all but speechless—mainly because she could hardly suppress her smiles and laughs.

Wednesday she said she didn't think there was any chance she'd beat Miss Magnussen in free skating because the North Vancouver girl was the defending champion and second-ranked in the world.

Miss Nightingale said she was "very scared," but she didn't know why.

However, she conceded it was "a little big frightening" beating Miss Magnussen in her first try.

Cranston Holds Lock

VANCOUVER (CP) — Toller Cranston received four perfect marks for his compulsory free skating performance Thursday and virtually locked up his third straight Canadian men's figure skating title.

Cranston, a 23-year-old professional artist from Toronto, put on a stunning performance that brought a capacity crowd of 2,200 to its feet, but later said he wasn't satisfied with his performance.

"I don't feel that was really a top A-1 performance. I was pleased with the marks, if a bit intimidated. . . I hope I'm able to relax a bit more (in the free skating)."

The judges didn't agree with his assessment, awarding him first place for his two-minute program that was without a mistake except for landing a triple salchow slightly off-balance.

Cranston received the four perfect marks—sixes—out of the 14 given. Three of the perfect marks were for artistic impression; the other for technical merit.

"With the performance, although everything went as I was supposed to go, I didn't feel that I skated with abandon, and I think with really great performances, the skater becomes like a reckless."

Cranston followed another outstanding compulsory routine, this one by Ron Shaver of Galt, Ont., who in second followed the compulsory figures.

Shaver's routine, although not as artistic as Cranston's, was highly polished and was awarded three 5.9 marks.

The compulsory free-skating program, a new addition to junior skating, requires skaters to incorporate six specific moves into their 120-second program.

Surprise Leader At Tucson Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Jack Montgomery, slump-ridden for two seasons and a struggler for most of his eight years on the pro tour, had a surprise one-stroke lead and some high hopes going into today's second round in the $150,000 Dean Martin Tucson Open golf tournament.

"I had a pretty good season in 1968," the 31-year-old Fort Worth, Tex., native said after firing a leading 67 Thursday. "It was the best year I've had. I was 36th on the money list.

"I just hope I'm ready to have another one."

He won only $14,000 in 1970-71—considerably less than expenses—and was playing so badly last year he left the tour for a while to go home and work on his game.

"When I came back out on the tour I had a better idea what I wanted to do."

He did it well enough to establish a one-stroke margin over defending champion Miller Barber and Bobby Greenwood, tied at 68.

Play was delayed about 40 minutes because of frost on the greens so that the field stacked up and Greenwood, one of the last off the tee, finished in darkness.

He was so late that all the gallery had gone and the scoreboard was closed down.

Three other players—Ron Reif, Jim Marshall and Ed Sneed—didn't manage to finish and were scheduled to complete their round this morning.

The group at 69 included Bobby Nichols, Bob Murphy, Frank Beard, George Hixon, Forrest Fezler and Rod Funseth, winner of the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open two weeks ago.

Lee Trevino, the British Open champ and pre-tourney favorite here, was in a big group at 70, three strokes off the pace.

Government Refuses to Give Additional Olympic Support

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government was pressed Thursday to provide financial assistance for the Montreal Olympic Games in 1976.

But Indian Affairs Minister Ron Basford replied in the Commons that the government's position is unchanged—no financial assistance other than aid available under existing federal programs.

Mr. Basford was asked by Roch LaSalle (Ind-Joliette) whether the government had changed its view so that Montreal taxpayers will not have to bear large tax increases to pay for the Olympics.

The urban affairs minister said the government had been asked for "non-financial assistance." This included permission to issue special coins and stamps for sale to the public.

J. Patrick Nowlan PC — Annapolis Valley-, suggested the government persuade the CBC and CTV Television networks to form a consortium to reduce the cost of providing broadcasting facilities for the Olympics.

State Secretary Hugh Faulkner said he has discussed the matter with the networks.

The CBC said recently it has not completed a study on the cost of supplying broadcasting facilities. The study is being carried out for the Olympic organizing committee.

The government is known to have been asked by the committee for permission to hold a national lottery and sell special coins and stamps to help raise funds for the Olympics.

These would require changes in federal legislation or regulations that now are being considered by the government, say official sources.

Outside the House, Barry Mather (NDP—Surrey—White Rock) issued a press release saying the CBC spent $1,228,000 for radio and TV coverage of the Munich Olympics, which ran from Aug. 26 to Sept. 10 last year.

Mr. Mather said he got the figures from R. C. Fraser, a CBC vice-president.

Of the total figure, $827,000 was for payment of broadcasting rights, rental of German facilities and rental of the communications satellite. The remaining $191,000 was for production and other operating costs, including travel and accomodation for the 46 staff sent to cover the games.

Dolphins Lose - - to Flu

DALLAS (AP) — Nick Buoniconti reaped into the telephone. "I didn't come to Dallas to spend a week in bed . . . I'm going to die I would at least like for it to happen on a beach in Florida."

The Miami Dolphin linebacker was so weak from the London flu that he had teammate Dick Anderson running errands for him Thursday.

"Man, I can barely get to the lobby for a magazine . . . I could just see myself feeding off a crackback block right now," Buoniconti added.

Buoniconti and Miami defensive end Bill Stanfill, here for Sunday's Pro Bowl against the National Conference, are both in bed with the flu which Buoniconti said they got in Los Angeles just before Super Bowl VII.

"I played the game with a sore throat and I've still got it, including the chills and 102-degree fever," Buoniconti said. He is under the care of Dallas Cowboy team physician Dr. James Evans.

The flu, coupled with the fact he had to miss the Miami celebration when the victorious Dolphins returned home, has made it a blue after-Super Bowl week for Buoniconti.

"A lot of our players would have liked to have been on that plane to Miami but the commissioner (Pete Rozelle) said we had to be here," Buoniconti said. "Some of the guys are upset, including me.

"I know it sounds corny but that was a once-in-a-lifetime deal. Any team that goes 17-0 you'd like to be there when you return home to greet the fans."

Buoniconti added:

"The main reason Pro Bowl players are required to come early is conditioning. Well, the Super Bowl contestants are in good shape—hell, they just played a game."

Buoniconti would have loved hearing the harrahs from the Miami fans because "when we lost to Dallas last year all I heard was how it was my fault because they influenced me on the cut back plays," he said.

"Washington tried the same thing but our defensive line made the difference and the Redskins couldn't contain them."

How to make your kitchen as beautiful as your meals.

It's Easy, It's New, It's Here

It's Unique

Nordia

The European Kitchen

You Can Design It Yourself

Nordia

All you have to do is remember five words: The Nordia Component Kitchen System.

We designed Nordia to be flexible. So you could plan your kitchen the way you want it. Without having to pay for a custom job.

Just mix and match a wide range of cabinets, shelves and accessories to create a kitchen of virtually any size and layout.

The color schemes were carefully selected to go with any decor you choose. The acid-hardened, baked enamel finish wipes clean with a damp cloth. And never needs painting.

Nordia kitchens arrive in sealed cartons, which can be easily stored until you're ready to build. When you are, just follow the simple instructions inside each carton and your kitchen practically snaps together.

There's a lot more to be said for Nordia kitchens.

We can't promise you beautiful meals. But we can give you a beautiful room to cook them in.

Introducing Nordia . . .
